COLLEGE SONGS AT CARNEGIE HALL

The Princeton Glees Will Sing to Their Many Friends To-Night.

AN ELEGANT RECEPTION AT SEWICKLEY

The Redpath Concert Company closed the Pittsburg Star Course of entertainments last evening, at Old City Hall, with a brilliant entertainment. The hall was comfortably filled with an audience of culture and refinement that showed its appreciation of the performance and performers in rapturous amplause and continual encores.

John Francis Gilder opened the programme with a composition, "Transcendental Grand March," bearing his own name, and Gottschalk's "Tremelo" etude. Mr. Gilder as a pianist was quite a revelation to his audience, who listened, first surprised and then enthralled, with the exception, possibly, of a row of young people occupying front seats, who were more in-terested in each other and their conversation than in the pianist, until forceful and emphatic looks from Mr. Gilder compelled the attention the artistic performance failed

As an encore old "darkey" melodies were rendered in an entirely new and beautiful

E. K. Hood followed Mr. Gilder in a se-lection from Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," in which he gave proof of wonderful talent and versatility, and succeeded in keeping his listeners in paroxysms of lighter. An Irish anecdote satisfied the vigorous appliance given Mr. Hood.

Miss Clara A. Hunt, before she rendered a note of the "Grand Aria and Waltz," Vinzano, created a favorable impression by the grace of her petite figure, artistically draped in white, clinging material, and her bright, pretty face. Her singing was very accept-able and proved her the possessor of a clear and cultivated voice.

The whistling soloist, Miss Ella M.
Chamberlin, maintained by her performance
the reputation that preceded her appearance.
"O Luce de Quest' Anima," Donizetti, was her first number, and a pretty operatio selection served as an encore
The violinist, Miss Edith Christie, in the confident yet grace'ul manner with which she faced her audience, quickly adjusted her music rack and "tuned" her violin, aroused an expectation of skill in her per-formance which was thoroughly realized. Miss Christie understands her violin, as well as herself. She played "Souvenir de Mas-Wieniawski, with a more simple

In the second part of the programme the same pleasing effect was gained by each per-tormer, and the company, individually and collectively, scored a great success with the Pittsburg public.

A PROGRAMME OF MERIT

Prepared for the Thirty-Fourth Free Organ Recital To-Day.

The thirty-fourth free organ recital in Carnegie Hall, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, will be sure to suit the most varied tastes in music. Organist Wales will play a justpublished potpourri of "Poor Jonathan," the waltz from Delibe's ballet, "Nails," and, among other numbers, those favorites of a past generation, "Old Rosin the Bow" and "Away With Melancholy," both with elaborate variations. The usual quota of brilliant organ numbers, in addition to those enumerated, will be heard. The Mo-zart minuet from "Don Juan" and the sextet from 'Lucia di Lammermoor' are among those numbers repeated from former

The vocal numbers will be contributed b Mrs. Axel C. Hallbeck, a Swedish singer o note, who has not been heard before in America. She will sing two tamous Swedish "Folkesongs" and Abt's "Cucko Song," the latter in German. The attend ance at these recitals has slightly wane during the holidays, but is expected to it crease in the future.

NUMEROUS BEAUTIFUL BOOKS.

A Successful Literary Party Given by Miss Nannie Lindsay.

Library parties are all the rage, and the one given last evening by Miss Nannie Lindsay, at her lovely home on Ridge avenue, Allegheny, was a literary and social success. The popular literature of the day was represented by the young lady guests, who for some time, by cleverly devised masques, concealed their own identity under the title of the volume that was their nom de plume, and the young gentlemen were thereby rendered decidedly literary in tendencies and specially devoted to certain

The masques being removed, supper was served by Kennedy, and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing to Ger-nert's music. The guests of honor were Misses Howard and Pressley, who are visiting Miss Lindsay.

A TRIPLE SOCIETY EVENT.

Elegant Reception Given by Mrs. H. J. Murdoch at Sewickley.

Sewickley society was well represented last evening at the reception given at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Murdoch. The event served a triple purpose. It gave Mrs. S. F. Shannon, of Denver, Col., the eldest daughter of the house, an oppor-tunity of greeting her girlhood friends, prescuted Miss Annie, who is now Miss Mur-doch to society, and formally welcomed Mrs. Hugh J. Murdoch, Jr., nee Mattie McMillin, into the family.

The affair was one of great elegance and of unusual interest on account of the diversity of the objects for which it was given. The home was fragrant with flowers, melodious with soft music and thronged with richly attired guests.

A Delightful Little Party.

Miss Edith Rankin, of Lincoln avenue, with a delightful little party, last evening introduced her guest, Miss Weeks, of New Jersey, to her many triends, confident that the introduction was all that was necessary on her part to win for Miss Weeks the same allegiance she herself enjoys, as the grace and charm of the young lady would be irre-sistible, which proved the case. Dancing and an elaborate supper by Kennedy was the form of entertainment.

Woman's Club Election Next Tuesday. Next Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Woman's Club the annual election the Woman's Club the annual election of officers will take place. The list, as outlined for voting, includes for President Mrs. Charles I. Wade; First Vice President, Mrs. J. S. Collins. Second Vice President, Mrs. George H. Taylor; Secretary, Mrs. Dr. Ramsey; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Cars Reese; Treasurer, Mrs. W. J. Prentice; Executive Committee, Mrs. M. J. Beckler, Mrs. S. L. Fleishman, and Mrs. M. B. Schleuderberg.

Danced the Spanish German

The same crowd of merry young people that danced the Spanish german at Miss Mary Painter's party the other evening met again last night at the W. H. Singer residence, on Western avenue, Allegheny, where Marguerite Singer proved herself a charming hostess. Games and dancing, with a supper consisting of all the good things, rounded out an evening full of pleasure and enjoyment.

Social Chatter.

THE Miller-Horner wedding which was post poned on account of Mr. Miller's illness, is announced to take place January 12 at Christ M. E. Church. "At Home" cards accompany the invitations for Thursdays, February 5 and 12, at 28 Stockton avenue.

JAMES JOHNSON, chief engineer of the Pieasant Valley Electric Railroad, was the re-cipient of an elegant gold-headed cane on New Year's Day, presented by the employes of the nower house.

MR. STANTON, the engineer and explorer will give an illustrated lecture on the canyons of Colorado in Old City Hall, January 20. THE managers of the Woman's Industrial Exchange will hold a business meeting next Monday afternoon.

Miss Fisher, of Arch street, Allegheny, gave a progressive eucher party last evening.

The Alhambra Club danced and feasted last evening at the Monongahela House.

MAYOR WYMAN'S little daughter will enter tain her friends this evening.

MONEY-MAKING MAILS.

Big Increase in Business in the Pittsburg Postoffice During 1890.

Postmaster McKean yesterday submitted to the Department at Washington : financial statement of the Pittsburg office for the year just closed. It shows a big increase in receipts, and expenses too, but the former are far in excess of the latter. In the comparative table given below, which i. a cop; of the report, the item, postmaster's salary, shows only the average for the year, whereas the Postmaster since July last has been receiving at the rate of $5,000 per year, the revenues of the office having reached a point entitling him to that amo ing Mills.

Two of the fire companies of the Southside were called out early last night by an alarm from box 123, caused by the burning of the einder bank at the Clinton Rolling Mills. A large quantity of big einder shad been covered over with smaller cinders, the result being that the heat from the former caused the entire mass to ignite.

The engines threw water on the pile for fully an hour before the smouldering fire was conquered. A line of hose was left for the use of the employes of the mill in case the fire was to again break out. There was no loss, and the only danger was that the fire might work its way to the mil! In which of the most powerful, far reaching and grandest healing, invigorating and curative agents known to science. Administered in a scientific and judicious manner it is a powerful stimulant tonic. Sedative it produces natural, healthy restful sleep without any after unpleasant or ill effects. It improves digestion, increases the appetite, strengthens and develops the muscles, increases the weight of the body, improves the nutrition, increases the ability and inclination for mental and physical labor, restores lost vitality, vigor and strength; and by its use more can be accomplished than by medicine alone for this reason. In treating by electricity every cell, every part of the human system, is acted upon by the current; every nerve, muscle, bone, every gland and all the secretions of the body are reached and influenced by this potent agent of life.
