BEAVER IS WORRIED

Over the Half Million Borrowed for Johnstown Sufferers.

A SPECIAL ACT TO BE PASSED

To Relieve Him Before His Successor Is lnaugurated.

LIVE NEWS FROM THE THREE STATES

"SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 5 .- The talk of passing apportionment legislation before the inauguration of Governor Pattison, because of an apprehension that he might veto it, has entirely disappeared, for the reason that it would be impossible to reconcile the differences which would arise as to how the several districts should be constituted in the time intervening between the opening of the session and the close of the present State administration. It is far more likely that the Legislature will pass an appropriation bill to cover the amount of money which Governor Beaver borrowed from a Philadelphian, supposed to be William H. Kemble, to abate the nuisance which followed the Johnstown flood. There is alleged to have been expended as a sanitary regulation, under the direction of the State Board of Health, about $400,000. Grave doubts have been expressed as to the constitutional right of the Governor to assume this great liability without legislative sametion, and a fear that Governor Pattison might take this view of the matter and veto the legislation looking to the liquidation of the indebodness has suggested the wisdom and propriety of enacting the necessary law during the term of the present Governor. There is no doubt that Governor Beaver would readily atach his signature to a hill that would indemach his signature to a bill that would inde only him, and it is equally certain that the in-coming Chief Magistrate would be glad to be releved of the duty of passing on the suggester

The Bill Could Easily Be Passed.

By the prompt introduction of such an appropriation bill, and its reference to special committee, its passage could easily be secured before Governor Patney General Kirkpatrick does not think the proposed scheme necessary, as he has no doubt the incoming Governor would recognize the good sense and justice of the course of his needecessor in making the loan to meet a great public emergency like that of the Johnstown disaster.

The calling of a special session of the Legislature to relieve the flood sufferers, the Attorney General says, would likely have resulted in wasteful extravagance. While Governor Beaver's plan involved an expenditure of only about $490,000 in his, the Attorney General's apinion, a special session of the Legislature would have entailed an expense on the State aggregating from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. Of the constitutional power of the Governor to secure the money needed in the way he adopted, the Attorney General had not the least doubt. He thought it would be a good idea for the Legislature to spake good the amount borrowed early in the session, but he could see no reason why action on the matter should be taken before the imauguration of the next Governor.

Kirkpatrick's Excellent Record. Kirkpatrick's Excellent Record.

Attorney General Kirkpatrick will leave his office with the satisfaction that more claims were collected during his administration than during any preceding one. Under the law he receives a salary aggregating $4,000, ($500 of which he gets for being a member of the Board which he gets for being a member of the Board of Pardons) and commussions not exceeding $7.000 a year. The exact amount he made as Attorney General during his term of four years is $44,000. Twenty-eight thousand dollars did not represent the entire amount of commissions that passed through his hands, as almost enough was turned into the State Treasury, in excess of the $7.000 allowed him, to pay the expenses of his office for the pastfour years.

The commissions are paid by corporations against which suits have been instituted in al-dition to the claims filed against them, so that all moneys paid into the State Treasury as commissions are a clear gain to it. The unprecedented record made by Attorney General Kirkpatrick is mainly due to the decision of the courts sustaining the constitutionality of the loan tax, which was resisted judicially for several years. In obtaining the full commissions allowed by law the present Attorney General was no luckier than his predecessors the past 16 years, all of whom managed to capture the maximum amount allowed, and graciously allowed the State a small surplus.

What Secretary Stone Has Done.

What Secretary Stone Has Done During his term of office Secretary Stone who is now in Congress, received from salaries and fees an amount about equal to that obtained by the Attorney General. His salary aggregates $5,100, and in addition he is allowed for every charter filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. He says the position is worth from $10,000 to $12,000 a year. position is worth from $10,000 to $12,000 a year, the amount depending on the number of charters issued. Mr. Stone is perfectly satisfied with the financial outcome of the office which he recently resigned to become a member of Congress, but Secretary Stenger is said to have Congress, but Secretary Stenger is said to have had even a better term.

The office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth is yearly becoming more profitable to the State, as well as those who preside over its destines. The receipts of the department in the shape of fees carned, received and paid mot the State Tressury more than pay all the salaries and expenses of the department of every kind. Last year the excess of receipts over expenditures was $15.835 75. In view of the gradually increasing work, the employment of gradually increasing work, the employment of additional clerical force will soon be necessary, and as Secretary Stone called attention to this and as Secretary Stone called attention to this fact in his last report to the Governor, the incoming Secretary of the Commonwealth will probably be authorized to employ more men in the office by the Legislature which will begin its sessions to-morrow.
