Rev. Dr. J. G. Townsend Defends His Church From a Severe Attack

MADE ON IT BY MAJOR WHITTLE.

Rev. E. R. Donehoo Also Replies to Some Criticism of Himself.

OTHER PULPIT TOPICS OF TESTERDAY

"Conscience; Its Origin and Growth," was the subject of the sermon of Rev. J. G. Townsend, D. D., of the Unitarian Church, during the course of which Dr. Townsend said: "Conscience is not a distinct faculty. It does not come to us from mysterious sources. It has no supernatural origin, but grows as naturally as a flower.

"Of this we are sure-there is right and wrong. Right cannot become wrong, or wrong right. The waters of an infinite sea roll between those two shores. Right is obedience to the immutable order of nature. and man, having in large degree the capability of education, discovers the fine but immutable lines of moral order and beauty. They were not revealed; he discovered ethics just as he discovered science, art, music. Man's greatest discovery was the finding of the great moral laws. He is the Columbus of ethies. How did he discover these laws? By myrind experiences, by trial, by thought, by being a pupil in

"But as man discovered these laws one by his nature. As he became intelligent and saw the right, there grew the desire to do it. Out of this dim, feeble, often fickle denre, there blossomed in some minds the moral ought-what Kant called the categorical imperative. These men transmitted this feeling of the moral ought to their children. It came in time to be the heritage of humanity, the poblest gift that has came down from the past.

Conscience Not Always the Best Guide. "Conscience, then, is not a mysterious faculty; it is the mind acting morally. It is not infallible, for conscience has told men to commit the worst of crimes. The conscientious John burned Servetus. Conscience impels, but reason shows the way. In the relations of life, reason teaches us how to comfort ourselves. Conscience says go, but reason must find the path for us. moral ought in us is the basis not only of religion, but of literature and art. If we were to take the moral element out of Homer, Sophocles, Dante, Angelo, Shakespeare, Milton, we would draw out their roldenest thread. The moral ought should be our most sacred possession, because it corrects us through the education and expericomes sensitive, delicate, keen, by use. Not used, it would, like an unused hand, grow attenuated, shriveled, paralyzed. But when used, conscience, like a sensitive inger, seels its way along the fine lines of soner, purity and truth. Conscience then ecomer, indeed, the voice of God in the soul, the eye of God on the breast."

Considerable interest has been aroused by the anyouncement of Dr. Townsend's "topic" for the morning. It was "Major Whittle Dropping into the Second U. P. Church of Allegheny last Monday evening to hear Major Whittle, I was surprised to hear him make an attack on Unitarianism, and more surprised at some of his utterances. He aid that the Unitarian view of Jesus was 'very pretty, but entirely untrue.' This is simply a question of interpretation. We think the tender, loving Jesus of our faith was the Jesus who lived and taught in Jerusalem 1,900 years ago. We think that Jesus was human, like ourselves, but of larger spiritual genius. He was nature's illustrious success, the sweetest flower that ever bloomed in the garden of humanity. "But what surprised me most was the laration of Major Whittle, that 'to reject Christ was a greater sin than lying, stealing, murder, or any other crime." Dorothea Dix, do reject the theologic Christ, Are they, then, werse than the liar, the thie, the libertine? Is not such preaching ununging." Does it not milk Christianity of its real beauty and truth? Does it not cut occasion to reply to some attacks that had the study of their lives to constrain Scripdogmas of their church. At the outset of my ministry I used to ransack the Bible in carch of proof-texts to establish the doc-Every passage which seemed to squint in a mifferent direction from that indicated in Now I have grown so hardened as to whether they harmonize with the confession

ately formed opinious of the wise and good of past generations. The prima facia case is in their favor. By nature we are liable to moods of doubt and despondency. When the most thoroughly established opinions lose all their force and attractiveness, do not allow these passing impressions to sweep you away from your moorings upon an ceean of skepticism and despair."

THE ONLY FOUNDATION.

God's Spirit the Hope of Protestant Christimity in the World. The Congregational Church, Manhattan opening of the service, 18 young peoplenearly all men-asked to be received into the church. The text of Rev. S. N. Me-Corkie's sermon was "Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord. "This is a materialistic age," said the pastor, "and we are too much given to material thought to perform the work we are called on to perform for Christ, Wealth and power should not be despised, but we must remem-ber that in the spirit is the farce. This text finds exemplification in Christian work, in that when each of the disciples and the prophets were given the power of the spirit t was with the understanding that they were to disseminate the good, and the spirit was the only wearon given them. The cloak of Elijah fell on Elias with the understanding that he was to push on the work. Simi-creeds. That may have been true, but now the words of the text are bringing the breth-ren to extend the hand of fellowship over the congregational fence. The he Protestant Christianity is founded on the doctrine of this text. There is no water, no crucifix, no image as agents calling us to God for a recognition and conversion. With us it is not by might nor by power, but by the holy spirit. Among the results flowing to us from the acceptance of this text is a proper regeneration as a basis for the church. It is the death knell of all the ordinary excuses in which we take re uge from doing Christian work."

BANQUET OF THE SOUL

Dr. Woodburn Preaches an Interesting Ser mon in the Sandusky Street Church.

"The Banquet of the Soul" was the subject of Rev. Dr. Woodburn's sermon, last night, at the Sandusky Street Baptist Church, Allegheny. His text was "Be-hold, I stand at the door and knock, and if any man will open unto me I will come in and sup with him and he with me."

While this was a figure of speech, the minister argued that most of Christ's teach ings were in figures and that behind each figure was a deep meaning. God is always seeking and does not demand admission. Once He is admitted He aprends in the soul a banquet. The idea of cating together represents friendship and fellowship, and the feast Christ spreads satisfies a hunger nothing mortal can appease. He said Christ is ever knocking and that knock may be sickness, sorrow, an accident or some other agency by which at some time in life everyone is asked to let Christ enter.

AGAINST THE CONFESSION.

Sermon of Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald, of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald, of the Shady Avenue one, there came a corresponding change in | Cumberland Presbyterian Church, in his sermon yesterday showed that the organization of Cumberland Presbyterianism was purely a revolt from fatalism as contained in the Westminster confession. The difference, he says, is that: "First-His church holds that there are no eternal reprobates second, that Jesus died for all men in the same sense; third, that all dying in infancy are saved; tourth, that the Holy Spirit operates on the world on all for whom Christ died in such a manner as to render all men

In this connection the pastor quoted the recent utterance of Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, of New York who takes rather a dark view of the Westminster confession.

A SERMON IN FRENCH.

Rev. Mr. Launatz Preaches in the First Presbyterian Church Chapel. French Presbyterians had the pleasure of hearing a sermon in their own language in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, on Wood street, yesterday afterpoon. Rev. Mr. Launatz, pastor of a German church in the lower part of Allegheny, made the address, and it was listened to by 215 persons. Carl Retter was the pianist. These meetings are to be held regularly, once each month. This was the second meeting, and as the attendance was considerably larger than at the first, the promoters of the idea feel greatly encouraged.

SMITHFIELD STREET M. E. CHURCH. Rev. C. E. Locke Presched an Evangelistic

Sermon Last Night. At the Smithfield Street M. E. Church last night Rev. Charles Edward Locke preached an evangelistic sermon, taking for his subject the querry: "Is it out of date to be converted?" The church was crowded to the doors and listened with marked attention to the ministe.'s abic discourse, Services began somewhat earlier than usual and a special service of song was added. The meeting: will be continued during the week and perhaps longer.

FIRE IN THE FULTON FOUNDRY.

Firemen Get a Scare, but the Damage Is Not Very Large.

The old Fulton Brass Foundry, on First avenue, was damaged to the extent of $1,500 by fire yesterday morning. Shortly before 10 o'clock smoke issuing from the windows attracted the attention of a citizen who notified the firemen of No. 1 company.

The building extends from First to Second avenue, part of it being three and part twostories high. The fire originated on the second floor of the second story part and was in the pattern room in the middle of the building. The flames had gained considerable headway and were burning fiercely when the department got to work. The firemen of No. 1 company ran two lines up a stairway into the pattern room, and were getting the flames under control when a large number of heavy wooden patterns, which had been stored away up against the roof, fell down. The heavy patterns fell upon the firemen, who supposed the roof had fallen in and they made a rush for the street. Before they recovered from their surprise the flames bad gained on them to such an extent that a second alarm was sent in. The second district responded promptly but their services were not needed, the first district being successful in the second attempt.

The loss will not be over $1,500 and is covered by insurance. The company had men at work yesterday clearing up the wreck and getting things in shape to operate the works to-day.

None of the firemen were injured seriously, though several were somewhat bruised up by the patterns which fell upon them.

GEORGE F. SMITH'S LIFE.

A man may have no scruple about lending his name to the moral support of a man who wants license, but he may be sensitive to the criticisms of the temper ance element. Again, many people who wish to see plenty of saloons are not partial to them if they are located near their, the petition signers', residences. But the most trouble in getting the necessary signatures is in the business wards of the city, where comparatively few people have their domi-

as a rule, in getting bondsmen, as all that is necessary is that the bondsmen have the property qualification and reside in the ts sittings about St. Patrick's Day. They pegan on that day last year.

It is stated that there will not be nearly so many applications for wholesale licenses this year as last, as many have not only not made money, but have lost it, some as high as $1,000 each, but it is believed there will be a few more retail licenses granted this year than last. Those who profess to know do not assign their reason, but they say the present number will not be laugely increased.
