NEW YORK, Jan. 17 .- The National League and the American Association met again to-day at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, "Alter several interviews with the Park people, we finally arranged for a lease up to January 1, 1889, at a monthly rental of $40, and secured also an option on the grounds of $40, and year 1891, we to have full use of the grounds at any and all times when not being used for a match game of baseball. We have until April 14 take up or decline this option, and as it is for $40 per month, I don't think we had better waste much time in signing the contract." After stating how a large number of gentle-men hare been convinced that the association was not to be conlined to football, and how the association had nade an excellent showing on the field, the President said: "We have, how-ever, but the game of football on such a footing that I can safely say for next fail that the foot-ball team will not only take care of itself finanand finished up the minor business left over after the settling of the Boston problem and the adoption of the new national agreement vesterday.
