City Attorney of Pittsburg for years, and in that position necessarily became conversant with matters pertaining to street legislation, and, in fact, drafted much of it. A decision from him will have much weight."

Chief Bigelow felt relieved yesterday when he knew that the attorneys had deeided upon a definite course of action. He said: "We will get a decision from the Supreme Court in time to have a new street act passed at this session of the Legislature. It is likely that one of the bills already presented and on the calendar will fill all the requirements, but if not we will amend it to incet the views of the Supreme Court, and in that way we will lose no time. Just as soon as we get the decision and know just where we stand, we'll have a curative drafted and presented to the Legislature. By this means we will be enabled to settle up the street improvements just completed or still under way. I think the unount of contracts altected by Justice Williams' decision is not mear so large as many people imagine, and I think the city's loss on this work will be very small, if, indeed, she loses a dollar."

When a DISPATCH reporter chanced along When a DISPATCH reporter chanced along a colored man was trying to decipher a direction on a piece of paper. This ran as follows: "Satif Vscharfke, Butler street, Lucey fournaces, Pitesburck," in almost unintelligible writing. He was recommending the party to take a car to Allegheny, when the reporter interposed, The Poic, who knew some German, stated that they had arrived in the city that morning, from New York; that they had no money, and were depending on finding Mr. Vscharfke's address for a lodging and meal.

All the reporter could do further was to lead them to I'ean avenue and direct them to keep them to Penn avenue and direct them to keep on walking until they should strike Butler on walking until they should strike Butler street. There they could commence to inquire for their friend. And so toward Butler street, without money, knowledge of the language, or acquaintance outside of Mr.—this party of helpless strangers, with their strange bundles and parcels, started out, and the probability is that, unable to find Mr. Vscharfke, they will have to spend the night, hungry and penniess, in some doorway if an officer doesn't run them in as tramps. All Concerned.

Stories That Gained Circulation Testerday Denied by

George Westinghouse, Jr., returned from New York yesterday morning, but he posttively refused to see any reporters. However, he was interviewed through the medium of his colored clerk and Secretary Untergraff. "The Eastern parties will do their share." he said, in answer to questions submitted to him on a sheet of paper, "but look to Pittsburg for a substantial co-operation, and I feel that such co-operation will be accorded by those who are interested in maintaining this industry in Pittsburg. I would like to say that there were full reasons why the Advisory Board should return the checks for the subscriptions. It was obvious to them and to me that the sum of $500,000 was inadeonate without the aid of the stockholders and creditors, and on this latter point the committee had reasons to think that the aid that has now been largely offered would be withheld. My only objection to the action was as to the time."

Mr. Westinghouse further said he understood from Mr. Bannister that the local creditors were doing their best in the matter, and that everything is moving along swim-

Official Circular to the Stockholders.

An official circular signed by Mr. Westinghouse, was issued from the office of the Electric and Manufacturing Company, yesterday. It states that 20,500 shares have been subscribed and assurance given which will bring the amount to 25,000. The conditions are that at least 40,000 shares be taken, and the time has been extended to January 31.

The circular further declares that the placing of 40,000 shares will entirely relieve the company of its financial difficulties and place it in a position to push its business. In closing it says: "You can feel assured that the conditions upon which your subscriptions is asked make it entirely free from risk."

Secretary Uptergraff was asked regarding a statement published vesterday morning to tion of the famous artist and soldier. The | pany, Limited, of London, had decided to pay Mr. Westinghouse a salary of $30,000 a year and $240,000 for improvements, which was "a tidal wave of success from across the ocean." It was also said that the payment of the latter sum is to be made by the issuance of temporary loan bonds. A smile spread over the countenance of the Secretary as he replied:

> Tidal Waves That Travel Slow. "That would have been news several months ago, as that business was all attended to last July. Circulars may have arrived in the city yesterday, but none came to this office. However, a matter that occurred so long ago could have no bearing on the pres-

Other officials who were interrogated on the fill up on" in a pinch, as it could not in any way affect the present condition of the company.

Another story secured slight circulation yesgiven his personal attorney, William Scott, a trip proved unsuccessful. Everybody in a po-sition to know laughed at the idea, as Mr. westinghouse went to New York with the firm conviction that he would meet with abundant success. The attorney himself declared that there was no foundation for the story, and Mr. Westinghouse seemed to feel that this was the first occasion for levity since his troul les began. He denied the whole story, and declared that not an iota of truth could be sifted from the chaff.

Success of the Local Creditors' Committee The local creditors' committee reported yesterday that its success is first class and that all. The majority of the creditors see the mat-

all. The majority of the creditors see the matter in the favorable light and are subscribing for nearly the full amount of their claims.

"While I can't give any figures." said J. B. Haines, Jr., yesterday, "I can assure you that the most sanguine expectations of the committee are being realized. I have an appointment to see Mr. Bannister to-night, but am not ready to make any report to him."

Two gentlemen who came out of the office of the Electric and Manufacturing Company yesterday afternoon were holding an animated conversation. They had just had a personal interview with the officials and seemed to have gotten some inside information. One was heard to remark:

"Oh, everything is all right now, and there is

"Under present circumstances it is all right," replied the other gentleman, "but it certainly

That seemed to be the general feeling yester-day, and the talk in financial circles was certainly very favorable to the company. People were apparently very much pleased at Mr. Westinghouse's success.

LOOKING FOR NEW QUARTEES.

The Americus Club Considering a Proposition From the Freehold Bank.

That the creditors in the surrounding small cities are not gaining confidence very rapidly was evidenced yesterday by a suit filed against the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company by the Chicago and Eric Stove Com-Company by the Chicago and Erie Stove Company, of Erie. The amount claimed is $6,652 21, for goods furnished the defendants from October 1 to December 26 last.

Kistner continued his search, but without avail, until yesterday afternoon, when he determined to ask the assistance of Mayor Gouriey, whose name he had seen in the newspapers. He told his story in the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon.

"I cannot imagine where my wife has gone," said Kistner. "She had no bad habits that I know of, and I don't believe she knew the taste of liquor. She is only 18 years old and very pretty; at least, I think so, and I believe other people do, too. I have searched everywhere, but can find no trace of her. The only time we ever had any trouble was on Sunday, when I talked to her about staying out the night before. I would like to know if she has left or if she has met with some mistortune. FIGHT AGAINST THE FOREIGNERS.

Southern Oil Producer Talks About the Kentucky Field.

CORKWORKERS' SCALE NOT SETTLED

The quarterly meeting of D. A. 3, K. of L., wound up yesterday afternoon in a lively fight over the T. C. Jenkins difficulty, and the indications are that the Executive Board of the district will order a strike of the drivers at that establishment on next Tuesday, unless the discharged driver, George Birch, is reinstated.

The matter consumed nearly the whole of the afternoon session. There was a feeling among some of the delegates that Birch had been discharged on purely personal grounds and a committee was appointed to interview the stable boss, Mr. Johnston, on the matter. Johnston was seen, and he stated to the committee that if he would be given an opportunity he could prove to the committee's entire satisfaction why Birch had been discharged, but he would have to meet with the Teamster's Assembly to produce the evidence.

Referred to the Teamsters' Assembly. The matter was settled for the time being, by referring it back to the Teamster Assembly with instructions to call upon Mr Johnston for his proof of what he had asserted. A committee from the district and Mr. Johnston went to the meeting of the teamsters last night, where the stable boss made an unsucessful attempt to establish the position he had taken in the matter. Other members of the assembly said Birch had been discharged because he was known to be a leader in the Knights of Labor, and they insisted that he should be reinstated. The assembly, however, was not disposed to go out on a strike on its own responsibility and decided to refer the matter to the Executive Board of the district, After the board approves the action of the assembly, the firm will be asked to reinstate Birch, and should they retuse, there is no doubt that a strike will follow.

Another important matter considered was one relative to the employment of non-union men and aliens by Booth & Flinn. A committee was appointed to wait on the firm to insist upon the recognition of organized labor, it is claimed that while Booth & Flinn are friendly to the Knights, they sublet a good portion of their work to contractors who employ non-union men. ohnston for his proof of what he had asserted.

Accepted as a Challenge.

A resolution was passed instructing the various local assemblies to take up the case against a Smithfield street furnisher, and urging upon them the necessity of letting him alone as long as he antagonizes the district. alone as long as he antagonizes the district. He is credited with the statement that he would not employ Knights in his store, and the latter accept this as a challenge for a fight, and they propose to let him know what the patronage of the local knights amounts to.

The reports of the delegates from the various locals were received. They proved to be of an encouraging character, and indicated a healthy and progressive condition of the district throughout.

The election of court officers to hear and dispose of all disputes arising between assemblies or their members resulted as follows: Judges, George R. Dabney, James Slauson and John S. Miller; Judge Advocate, C. C. Groomes, and Clerk of Courts, I. N. Ross. The installation of officers followed, and the district adjourned the largest and most important meeting it has held for two years.

Master Workman Evans said last night he was highly pleased with the meeting. "It was master workman Evans said last night he was highly pleased with the meeting. "It was one of the most pleasant meetings we ever had," said he. "We had no wrangling or fighting among the delegates, and the meeting will result in a large amount of good to the district." I. N. Ross thinks the increase in membership this year will far exceed that of the past. If the American Federation takes up the fight for eight hours he is sure they will be de-feated, and that would create a division in the Federation ranks that would swell the dis-trict's numbers.

county, was met in the office of Marshall Keunedy & Co. yesterday, and he stated that they had struck lubricating oil in Lawrence county, Ky., at a depth of 300 feet. The production, of course, is not large, but the well makes some days as much as 15 barrels, on others much less, but an average of one barrel a day on a few wells would be equal to a mint. All the product so far has been contracted by a South Carolina Railway Company at 50 cents a gallon. As a lubricator it is preferred to lard oil. Mr. Bracken said that the main cost so far had been building rigs, and that the well in question, after the rig had been built, cost him $71 to drill.

Bracken & Vincent have leased 20,000 acres of land in the vicinity, and Mr. Bracken's mission to this city is to secure portable rigs for drilling shallow wells, and which will make the cost of operating very small. He is also distributing samples of the oil for testing purposes. Mr. Bracken has been engaged in the oil business for a long time. He operated at Pit Hole City, and had an interest in the Twin wells, near the pioneer United States well, which produced the Pit Hole fever. He finally purchased this famous well, after she was run down at the heel, from Sheakly for $5.

This is near the same neighborhood in which the Kentucky Southern Oil Company is located, in which several Pittsburgers are interested. R. W. Mothers Anxious to Dispose of Their Children-Two Figured in Police Circles Yesterday-Mrs. Parnan, of East Lib erty, Again Deserts Her Infant Child. Infant children seem to be growing unpopu lar in Pittsburg. Every few days some of the charitable institutions or societies are called on to find homes for foundlings. Yesterday only two cases were reported.

A young woman, who gave her name as Annie McGinley, called at the office of the Humane Society, with a 3-weeks-old babe in her arms, which she said she wanted to give away to some person. She did not care just who got the child, as she stated to Agent O'Brien that she wanted to get rid of it, so she would never see nor hear of it again. She stated that she had given birth to the child at Faliston, Beaver county, January I last. When she became sufficiently strong she brought the child to Pittsburg, with a view of getting it put away some place at once. For a time, she said, she stopped at any place she could get lodging. She finally landed in a convent, where she had the child taken care of until they sent her to the Humane Society yesterday. The child was taken charge of by the Humane Society after the proper papers were made out and signed by her. It was sent to the Troy Hill Orphan Asylum in Allegheny to be reared.

The infant child of Mrs. Mary Parnan, alias Kate Keenan. agin turned up in police arms, which she said she wanted to give away The infant child of Mrs. Mary Parnan, alias Kate Keenan, again surned up in police circles. Mrs. Parnan, it will be remembered, left her babe, when only a few days old, upon a doorstep in the East End several weeks ago. She was then arrested, but subsequently discharged upon her promise to take care of the child. The other day she visited a former friend, Mrs. Lizzie Clark, in the rear of No. 22

The Allegheny Committee on Teachers nd Salaries met last night in the Alle-ation of a petition from the teachers asking for the increase. None of the members of the committee were in a hurry to express an opinion. Finally Chairman Langfitt spoke as follows: The increase in the State appro-It was not increased to benefit the school

As to the question of experience, there was such a thing as too much experience. They all knew that when a teacher was elected it was a new one. He had heard it said that after teaching three years a teacher got worse, and when directors were getting new teacher they did not search for one of six years' experience. He thought the teachers were getting enough now, and the matter should be managed as a man would manage his own business. If they paid a teacher more than the position was worth, they made it simply a political position. They had enough material to choose from now. At a vacancy in his school there were 44 applicants for one position, and it was only known three days. He was opposed to the increase. The controllers were not

A Schedule of Salaries Proposed. Mr. Young, to bring the matter properly before the committee, moved that the followng schedules of salaries be paid the teachers: Teachers having in charge the class preparing for High School: of less than I year's experfor High School: of less than I year's experience, $450; over I year's experience, $500; 2 years, $550; 3 years' experience, $500; 4 years' experience, $500; 5 years or more, $700.

Grammar teachers and teachers of the first primary grade—Less than I year, $400; 1 year, $450; 2 years, $500; 3 years, $550; 4 years, $600; 5 years or more, $650.

Primary teachers—Less than I year, $400; 5 years or more, $650.

Primary teachers—Less than I year, $600; 5 years, $550; 5 years, $550; 3 years, $500; 4 years, $550; 5 years, $600.

Mr. McMullen, though not a member of the committee, was asked to express his views. He was opposed to the teachers teaching the High School class getting more than the other grammar teachers. He thought it an absurdity. Their work was not any harder than that of the others, and to say so and that they were entitled to more money was buncombe. He was in favor of an increase in salary after five years' experience to $650, as the work done entitled teachers to that salary. If the schedule was changed he favored giving the grammar and first primary teachers $650 after five years' experience and the intermediant teachers $600 after five years' experience and the intermediant teachers $600 after five years' experience and the intermediant teachers $600 after five years' experience and they work elsewhere, and they were paid by the year and only worked ten months.

Nearly All Have Five Years' Experience. Nearly All Have Five Years' Experience.

Dr. Langfitt remarked that they need not talk such about less than five years' experience, as early all had more than that. Mr. McMullen said that if they fixed a re ward for five years' service it would make the teachers ambitious. They would work hardened stay at it, and the schools would be bene Mr. Young differed with Mr. McMullen as to teachers of the High School class. They had to work harder and longer than the other grammar teachers, and failure at that point was a serious matter for the school. Dr. Langfitt asked in face of the hard money narket what reason could be brought for the ncrease in teachers' salaries. No one else had creased salaries of employes. The tendenc increased salaries of employes. The tendency was downward.

Mr. Young said he did not see why they should be taxed with the mistakes of the Democratic party. There was no real depression in finances; it was only a scare, and there had been no reduction in wages. The State gave the money to enable districts that could not afford it to pay better salaries and get better teachers. It might affect Pittsburg if Allegheny paid better salaries than she did by drawing her teachers to Allegheny, but that couldn't be helped.

"No danger," said Dr. Langfitt, "the teacher that has the backing will get elected."

Mr. Young took exceptions to this, saying that the Second ward board selected teachers for their worth. heir worth.

Mr. Cochrane favored paying the High School class teachers $75 a mouth.

Mr. Spang concurred with the amounts suggested by Mr. McMullen. Mr. Young's Schedule Approved. Mr. Balley favored paying according to experience. He moved that all the primary teachers be paid from $550 to $600 per year. This motion was lost by a vote of eight nays to three ayes. On a vote the schedule offered by Mr. Young was then approved by eight ayes to our nays.
Dr. Languitt then offered a resolution provid-four nays.

Dr. Langfitt then offered a resolution providing that hereafter no teacher of over four years' experience be allowed an increase of salary without the approval of a standing committee of the Board of Control, the Ciry Superintendent and the principal of the school in which the teacher was located.

Mr. Young thought that was taking away power from the Board of Controllers and Dr. Langfitt withdrew the resolution.

A recommendation was received from the High School Committee that the salaries of assistant teachers in the High School be fixed as follows: Less than one year's experience, 5000 per year; one year's experience, 5700; three years or more, 5750.

After some discussion Mr. Young moved that the salaries of all the assistant teachers he made 5700 per year, which was adopted. This change only affects three teachers who are each advanced 550 per year.

The total increase in the salaries under the schedule recommended by the committee is $13,510 per year. The salaries now paid aggregate $130,000 per year, exclusive of the salaries of principals.

The number of teachers in the schools is 26x. The number of teachers in the schools is 268.

The number of teachers in the schools is 268. The State appropriation for Allegheny heretofore has been $13,000 per year, while the Governor has recommended an additional $13,000. Under the situation in the Legislature there is a possibility of another $13,000, which would make the addition $26,000. How the Present Teachers Stand. How Harrison Managed to Be Elected-A Scheme to Throw Three States to Cleveland That Was Discovered in Time-Danger in the West.

"I suppose you never heard how Harri-on almost lost the Presidency," said Joseph

Eaton, an Ohio Republican who was passing through the Union depot last evening. "There was a scheme on foot among prominent Republicans foot among prominent Republicans in Obio, Michigan and Indiana to throw these three States for Cleveland, and only its prompt discovery early in the campaign by some of Quay's lieutenants, prevented its execution. Leading Republicans in these States had signed an agreement to this effect, and you would be surprised to know some of their names. Quay imagined New York was the great battleground, and he never dreamed there was any danger in the West. When he heard, therefore, of what was going on he was almost paralized, and, well, you know the rest, it is a matter of history. Indiana was flooded with money and orators, and the leaders of the revolt in the other two States were called off. It was about this time that Dudley and Michener appeared in Pittsburg one Sunday afternoon, and received a bag of gold from Pittsburg politicians at the Monongabeh. House to help to Saye Indiana. You see the facts I tell you tally with the history of that memorable campaign, if you remember.

of gold from Pittsburg politicians at the Monongabeh House to help to saye Indiana. You see the facts I tell you tally with the history of that memorable campaign, if you remember.
"It was a great game of political treachery, and sometimes I am sorry it did not work.
Harrison suspected that General Alger was in the deal, and he has been treated quite shabbily by the administration. To placate Alger and his forces, after the nomination of Harrison, the General was offered the Secretary of Warship, but he never got it. When Harrison heard of the plot to do him is was surprised and frightened. Whether Alger was opposed to Harrison or not he never got anything, and since then his name has been allowed to drop. About a year ago he attempted to revive interest in himself by making a tour of the country and delivering Grand Army speeches, but no greatfuss was made over him and the Republican leaders kept away from him. It is even claimed by the President's adherents that Alger was in hand and glove with the Old Roman when he made his famous tour of the Lake region, and was enthusiastically received wherever he went. But when Quay became acquainted with all the facts he was too much for the dissatisfied ones, and the great battle was fought in Indiana.

"Now a word as to Harrison. He is a very stubborn man and wants to do everything himself. He is enough of a Presbyterian to believe that he would have been elected anyhow, no matter whether hard work was done for him or not by Quay. Dudley and the others. The fact that a scheme originates with Blaine means sure death to it, and you are more certain to secure the President's favor if you are indorsed by some unknown preacher in Indiana than by the Secretary of State. I think Harrison has a monomania on the subject of his forcordination to hold his present high office. He is dead set on having the force bill passed, and he threatens to veto the free coinage mea ure to keep the recalcitrant Western Congressmen and Senators in line."

Two small boys, Herman Stiles and James Wallace, escaped death and were only slightly Wallace, escaped death and were only slightly injured yesterday by a jump of 20 feet from a railway trestle. They were walking along the trestle of the Pittsburg and Western Railroad and became frightened by the approach of a freight train. They jumped from the trestle to the ground to escape.

Stiles suffered a fracture of his left thigh; Wallace had his right arm broken below the elbow. Both boys live in the neighborhood of the place where they were hurt.
