By that time the lamps will be nearly all lighted. I shall watch old Williams, and when he lights the right-hand lump of those two in the center I shall go. When he lights the left-hand lamp you will come, too. We might have a bet," he added with ghastly "iment, "which lamp he will light first."

There was a pause.
"Is that ugreed?" asked Helmsdorf.

took up my pistol and waited. He began rent, and I pointed this out to the Court with the right hand lamp!

There was a sort of buzzing in my ears as I idly watched. My hour was then post-poned a brief space. I saw him arrange the lamp. Hardly had the flame shone forth when I heard a sound like the slamming The singing in my ears of a distant door. grew louder. Old Williams descended dder, placed it against the opposite rest, and ascended to light the second lamp, that on the left. I placed the muzzle of my pistol between my teeth. But it never did light. After handling it or some time the old man lifted the lamp out of its socket; it was evidently out of repair. He took it down with him, shouldered his ladder, and went away, leaving one lamp graing only. Then there came upon me a sudden and violent reaction. I laid down ne pistol and sat trembling in every limb. But suddenly, like a lurid flash of lightning, came the thought of that awful room, so near, and what it held.
It may have been the sound of feet on the stairs, the murmur of many voices which recalled me.

They were coming toward my room. In an instant my mind was made up. I would never divulge to living soul what had passed between Helmsdorf and myself. I rapidly shut and replaced the pistol case. The door flew open; two officers with scared and white "Good God!" cried one to me. "Helms to live a nobler and a worthier life.

It has stirred me, as I have written this, more than I have ever been stirred since the aw'ul day itself, but it may be for my good. I look once more at the outward signs of honors and successes in life. I see the min-iatures of the little faces of my children's children, and every sign and symptom of a happy and honorable old age, but the pages I have just written, still wet with tears (for I have wept as I have written), remind me of what, but for God's mercy and goodness to me, might have been.

SUCCESSFUL EVANGELISTIC MOVE Churches Moving Against the Enemy All

Along the Line, SUBJECTS FOR SUNDAY SERVICES

There are in Pittsburg and Allegheny over 20 United Presbyterian Churches. This is the Jerusalem of this denomination, its strength being greater here than anywhere else in the land. In Allegheny there are a half dozen U. P. churches, averaging 600 in membership. It is one of the signs of the times that the churches of this denomination, which have been noted for their conservátism and old staid ways, are leading in revival movements. The Allegheny U. P. churches have, since the first of the year, under the leadership of Major Whittle, the noted evangelist, been holding a series of revival services which have been attended with marked success. One evening this week, 60 persons stood up for prayers, and it is now certain that the strong churches of this denominathat the strong churches of this denomination will be greatly strengthened as a result of these revival efforts. The East Eud U. P. Church will receive an accession of 100 as a result of special efforts conducted by their new pastor. Rev. R. M. Russell.

RULED OUT BY REED. THEY ARE THE PEOPLE.

The Hoosier Statesman Still on the Trail

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 .- In the House to-day Mr. Cooper, of Indiana, rising to a question of privilege, sent to the Clerk's desk and had read a resolution offered by him on September 4 last, making certain charges against the Commissioner of Pen Mr. Thomas Maybury, of 218 Thirty-ninth sions, and asking for a broadening of the investigation of that official. This resolution of September the chairman of that commit tee, Mr. Morrill, of Kansas, had been directed to report the resolution, but he had never peformed that duty. He (Mr. Cooper) therefore offered a reso lution directing the investigating committee to report the resolution.

Mr. McKinley raised the point of order that the question presented was not a privileged one. Cooper Ordered to Sit Down.

had been referred to the select committee

examining previous charges, and on the 11th

Mr. Cooper went on to address himself to the point of order, interspersing his remarks with certain reflections bearing on the merits of the resolution. Several times he was in-terrupted by Republicans, on the ground that he was not addressing himself to the point of order. The Speaker called Mr. Cooper to order on a few occasions, and finally directed the gentleman to resume his

Mr. Cooper-I have not transgressed the rules of the House.
The Chair called the gentleman to order and asked him to resume his seat, under the rules

Mr. Cooper, courteously, though with some hesitation, complied with this request; and the Speaker recognized Mr. Morrill, of Kansas. But Mr. Bland, of Missouri, was on his feet, demanding the reading of the rule under which the gentleman from Indiana was required to resume his seat. The rule having been read, Mr. Bland (acting under one of the paragraphs of the rule) moved that the gentleman from Indiana b permitted to proceed.

Breckinridge Defends Reed's Course. Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, suggested that the Speaker had the right to stop debate upon any point of order when he so de

The Speaker said that he had endeavored in every way to induce the gentleman from Indiana to address the Chair on the point of order. The Chair had not exercised the power of saying that he would hear no jurther discussion on that point, because the Chair was ready to hear anything said in order. But the gentleman from Indiana had proceeded out of order.
Mr. Bland's motion was lost. Yeas, 117;

navs. 143. The Speaker tren ruled that the resolution offered by Mr. Cooper was a privileged one, and overruled the point of order against it. Mr. Cooper then proceeded to advocate his resolution and to attack the administration of the Pension Burean; and he also criticised the action of Green B. Raum, Jr. son of the commissioner

Fate of the Resolution Mr. Morrill, of Kansas, said that he desired only to reply to the gentleman's re-flection upon him as Chairman of the Investigating Committee. The committee had unanimously decided that the resolution had been improperly referred to it, and within one hour he had returned the resolution to the Speaker's desk by a page. Six weeks ago the gentleman from Indiana had asked him what had been done with the resolution. He had informed the gentle-man, and had not given the subject a thought since. thought since.

but the resolution had never been put upon Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, in defense of the Commissioner of Pensions said that there had not been the smell of corruption on the skirts of Green B. Raum. Before the gentleman from Indiana had been old enough to know the difference between the American flag and the Confederate symbol, Green B. Raum has shed his blood in defense of his country. [Derisive laughter on the Democratic side.] The Matter Amicably Settled. Gentlemen might laugh. The time seemed to have come when it was not safe for a man, if he wished to be treated respectully, to refer to the American flag.

Mr. Henderson, Mr. Smith and Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, briefly defended the Comnissioner of Pensions. Mr. Cooper said that he had never learned that the American flag was a symbol to be used for the shielding of anybody from investigation. The matter was settled amicably by Mr. Morrill obtaining the original resolution from the files of the House, reporting it from his committee and having it referred to the Committee on Rules. The House then went into committee of the whole (Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, in the chair) on the naval appropriation bill. Without making any progress with the bill, the committee rose and the House adjourned.

AN AGED PEOPLE'S REST.

Proceeds of the Woman's U. P. Ass Fair Devoted to the Purpose. The reports submitted to the monthly meeting of the Woman's United Presbyterian Association, which met yesterday afternoon at the Tenth U. P. Church, under the Presidency of Mrs. H. C. Campbell, showed the financial condition of the organization to be good. There are 56 children in the Or-phans' Home and applications are pending for five more. The accounts of proceeds and expenditures in connection with the fair and bazaar o last December had not been prepared, bu last December had not been prepared, but the net receipts are estimated to exceed $1,970. Of this amount it was decided to appropriate $1,000 to the prospective Home for Aged People. The remainder will be divided between the hospital and Orphans' Home. It was decided that any property which should be selected for the Home should be within ten minutes' walk from a United Presbyterian Church. The next meeting will be held on the 8th of February in the Eighth U. P. Church,

NO REST FOR THE GAS MEN. The Dissolution of the Chicago Trust Will

Not Affect the Suits. CHICAGO, Jan. 23 .- In spite of the an councement that the Gas Trust is about to e dissolved, Mayor Cregier has instructed the corporation counsel to push the suits begun by the city against it and the companies composing it.

The city is endeavoring to force the companies to reduce the price of gas, both to the municipality and to individual consumers. The Mayor thinks the proposed dissolution of the trust is a ruse to secure the dropping of the prosecution. Planted a Tree in the City. How Can Anyone Doubt It When Thousands Are Testifying New Ones Being Added Each Week.

EVERYBODY KNOWS IT.

There is no longer any doubt in the public mind but that Drs. Concland & Blair are the most successful specialists in their line to-day. How has this been brought about? By the very word of the public themselves. Thousands of witnesses have testified to it and new ones are adding their evidence each week voluntarily through the medium of the public press. This week two esteemed and well-known gentlemen of this city each make a positive assertion.

street, a forger in the employ of the Carnegle Iron Works, says: "Ever since I recovered from an attack of typhoid fever, about 13 years ago, I have noticed more or less catarrhal trouble, but in the last year or so it became very much aggravated and I suffered almost constantly.

Mr. Thomas Maybu-y, No. 218 Thirty-ninth

"My head and nose would be stopped up. I had very severe headaches, not merely a dult ache, but sharp terrible pains through my temples and in the back of my head that would almost set me frantic. Buzzing and roaring noises in my ears continually. My hearing became very much impaired. I could feel the mucus dropping back into my throat, which kept me hawking and raising to clear it. Sharp pains would take me in the chest and region of the heart, shooting through under the shoulder blades. I had a severe cough, which annoyed me very much, raising quantities of mucus. Night sweats set in and literally pulled my strength from me. My appetite became affected. Nothing I could eat seemed to agree with me. No matter how carefully or sparingly I ate I would almost invariably suffer a miserable feeling of distress and nausea at my stomach, even the outside becoming sore and tender to the touch. My siesen was restless and bruken. I even the outside becoming sore and tender to the touch. My sleep was restless and broken. I would get up mornings actually more tired and worn out than the night before. My work was worn out than the night before. My work was a drag and my life a positive burden.
"I was in this condition when I first called on Drs. Copeland and Biair, after reading so much of their notable work. After examination, feeling that they thoroughly understood my case and finding their charges so very reasonable, I decided to place myself under their care. I don't believe I ever made a better resolution in my life," concludes Mr. Maybury: "I improved almost from the start under their treatment. My symptoms gradually disappeared, until now I am like a different person from what I was when I went to them. I am 100 per cent a better man than I have been for years."

My principal symptoms were a depressed, heavy feeling in chest with occasional sharp pains. Although my appetite was good, I suffered a misery and sick feeling at my stomach after eating. I slept soundly, but would get up in the morning all worn out. My greatest trouble, however, seemed to be with my heart. There was a tight, compressed feeling there. For a time my heart would beat rapidly and so hard I would think it would nearly burst. The palpiwould think it would nearly burst.
