MISS BEESLEY'S NEW YORK HIT.

A Pittsburg Tenor to Be Welcomed by His Friends This Week.

BUDGET OF INTERESTING GOSSIP

The concert of the Allegheny Musical Association at Carnegie Hall last Tuesday evening was, all things considered, the most successful occasion in the history of that still young, but progressive organization. The hall was filled with an assemblage of cultured people whose just appreciation of the entertainment was at all points expressed with no uncertain sound.

Conductor W. A. Lafferty deserves con gratulation on the continued improvement manifest in his chorus. The body of tone was never so full and so well-balanced as on this evening. The contraltos exhibited surprising strength for their numbers; the tenors, however, still need some augmenting. In the numbers for female voices only, there was some uncertainty in the middle voices, and there was a slight confusion in the first "Re-demption" chorus, where the words "Lovely appear,"etc., are taken up for the final repeition. Beyond this there is little matter for adverse criticism. The chorus singing, as a whole, was notably intelligent in phrasing, refixed in dynamic effect and full of appropriate spirit and feeling. The fact that these good qualities came out best in a programme of miscellaneous pieces and especially in such charming partsongs as Henry Smart's "Lullaby" "Stars of the Summer Night," approves the present policy of confining this chorus to work of that type. The ability to sing through a great oratorio, occupying the entire evening, with unabated power, precision and spirit, is not to be expected from a chorus that has not had long experience and does not have the very best word material to draw upon. The Ailegheny Musical Association is on the high road to this beatific state of choral development; but at present it is prudent, as well as artistically profitable, to delve into the treasure house of glees, part-songs and detached choruses. They already sing well without accompaniment; why not give some examples of the school of Palaestrina and his followers? The remainder of the performers must needs be dismissed in few words this morn-Miss Meud Powell, the violinist, made -and drew-her first bow before a local audience, and scored a genuine success. Genuine because founded on true musical not on gymnastic pyrotechnics. Miss Powell's execution is by no means so dazzling as that of several players that have excited us this season. She manifested, however, what is much better, a true artistic style and a rare amount of musical feeling and finesse. She will be most gladly heard again. Mr. Joseph Gittings, in his piane solos as also in the accompaniments, all of which he undertook on short notice in Mr. Bell's absence, did yeoman service; Miss Grace Miller sang in very pleasing fashion, as always, and the trio, in which Mrs. Kiefer and Mrs. Scott joined her, had its good points, even if the piano' did iail aiways to follow the pitch taken from time to time by the singers.

Welcome to a Pittsburger.

Mr. Frank Milton Hunter will doubtless receive a hearty welcome to his native city this week on his first appearance here since returning last summer from several years of vocal study under eminent masters in Florence and London. That would be insured by the standing of his family-two wellknown young attorneys are brothers of the tenor-and by the number of his personal friends. But the general public of Pitts. burg has also good ground to be interested in the local debut of a promising young tenor, who achieved sufficient success in London to be offered, it is stated, tempting engagements to sing leading roles with the Carl Rosa Opera Company (with Miss Zelie de Lussan) and with Miss Agnes Huntingtou's Company - engagements neither of which the state of his health at the time would allow him to accept.

Mrs. Hunter comes home now as a member of a successful concert troupe, which includes Miss Hortense Pierse, soprano, Mr. James Blamphin, narpist, and Miss Kate Vashti Baxter, pianist, Miss Pierse, by the way, is said to be an exceptionally handsome young woman; it so, the troupe must average well in looks, for Mr. Hun-ter's face and physique would tend to keep that average high. As to the more important artistic qualifications of the troupe, the following extracts from the review in last Wednesday's Cleveland Leader are in

The concert was excellent. Miss Pierse has a clear, bright, soprano voice, under a generous share of cultivation, and a pleasing presence. Mr. Blamphin, the harpist, is probably the finest and most finished performer on that beauinnest and most finished performer on that beautiful instrument ever heard here, and Mr. Milton Hunter has a tenor voice which is musical and pleasing, and sings with great inste. The planest and accompanist, Miss Baxter, was a good player. Altorether, they gave an entertanneent of high standing and merit. The andience was very large, nearly filling the great hall, and its constant applause and the numerons emoores it called for testified to the evident enjoyment it experienced.

An Old Organ Made New.

First Presbyterian Church has been brought quite abreast of its more modern rivals, if not, indeed, restored to the unquestioned supremacy of its kind in this vicinity, which it so long enjoyed. A feattion of a novel system of adjustable combination pedals, invented by Mr. James S. Jackson, the assistant of Mr. James S. tainers, for Wednesday evening next. He Drake, to whose trusty hands the work was committed. This organ is the first one to be equipped with the new system, which is un-usually simple and compact. By depress-ing any one of the six combination pedals, a short forward motion is communicated to a series of horizontal bars, one bar being just above each rauge of draw rods, and simulta-neously a backward motion is given to a parallel series of bars into below the draw parallel series of bars just below the drawrods. Along the top of each drawrod are three (for the pedal) stops, six rigid wires, made fast, longitudinally, to the draw-rods, but turning in journals so that by a quarter turn of the wire an upward loop will engage with the bar above, or a downward loop engage with the bar below, and thus move the draw-rod out or in. The ends of these wires project just below the drawrods. His style is inimitable, as all know, whiles he is undoubtedly one of the most popular poets in this country to-day. His poetry reads ends of these wires project just behind the readily turn them up or down, and thereby couple the stop so as to be moved out or in by any or all of the pedals.

There is the utmost facility for making all sorts of combinations interchangeably among the keyboards, and the organist can always see at a glance just how the stops are coupled without burdening his memory, and can change his combinations at will while play-One drawback is the weight needed to move the pedals when coupled to many stops, but this is, no doubt, largely due to the stiffness of new mechanism, and could be obviated, anyhow, by the aid of pneumatics, which could readily be applied.

A Pittsburg Singer Abroad.

Miss May Beesley, the soprano of the Third Presbyterian Church, seems to have cored a palpable hit on her appearance at the New York Liederkranz concert on Saturday evening, the 17th inst. When she had ended up her aria on the high D, the appliance was so strong and persistent that, after bowing her acknowledgements three times, she finally had to respond with an Michael, an inoffensive deaf mute. encore selection. Mr. Gudchus, the great Wagner tenor, who also sang that evening,

Came up to congratulate the Pittsburg soprano and to remind her of their former acquaint-suce in Dresden; the president of the society formally tendered her all the privileges of the Liederkrans whenever she comes to New York, and Mr. William Steinway, perhaps the most influential man in metropolitan musical circles, complimented her very highly add she oneth to be heard at very highly, said she ought to be heard at some of the great concerts and made an ap-pointment with her for the purpose of intro-ducing her to the proper parties to gain that designables hierd

The World, speaking of Miss Beesley's appearance, recalled an incident that had been narrated in its Dresden correspondence a year or more ago, when the young soprane had sung in Haydn's Imperial Mass at the Kreuz Church, producing such an impression that "hundreds of the congregation waited at the entrance to exich a nearer waited at the entrance to catch a nearer glimpse of the young Americam and greet her as she passed to her carriage." All of which went to make up a very pleasant ex-perience for Miss Beesley, such as is pleas-ant also for her Pittsburg friends and ad-

An Interesting Event.

Mrs. Kate Occleston-Lippa's pinno recital announced to be given at the Pittsburg Club Theater Tuesday evening, the 2d prox., is a happening of more than passing interest. For nearly a decade Mrs. Lippa has been generally among us as a teacher, church organist and occasional composer, possessing exceptional gifts, but so modest and retiring as to shun, rather than court; and published recognition even of these less public lines of work. Only in a limited circle was it known that, as Miss Kate Occieston, she had been a first prize winner at the Leipzig Conservatory and had achieved distinguished successes as a concert planist in England. Her English reputation was so well established that, years after her retirement, the name of Kate Occleston was included in some of the obituary notices of Dr. Louis Mass as one of the half dozen best pupils of that eminent master.

Following upon Mrs. Lippa's appearance as a pianist at the recent P. S. M. T. A. at Philadelphia, the recital now announced must be taken to indicate a resolve to come out and rejoin the rank of concert pianists among whom she once so successfully contested. Mrs. Lippa presents a choice programme, on which is noted a nocturne of her own composition and Chopin's E minor concerto, the latter enlisting Mr. Carl Retter at the second piano. Miss Agnes Vogel will sing Mrs. Lippa's ballad, "A Shadow," and Liszt's "Mignon."

Cards for the Art Society.

Among the musical features of Art Society's receptions for the remainder of this season it is expected to have two lectures by Mr. H. E. Krehbiel, the emineut critic of the New York Tribune, who stands in the front rank of the country's musical literateurs and lecturers; also an informal talk from Mr. Beveridge Webster. Each of these discourses is to be illustrated and relieved by piano and vocal music, and it is further planned to arrange one rather elaborate programme for performance, probably, in some larger hall toward the end of the the other lines of art society's activity. Eleven new members were elected by the directors at Friday evening's meeting. Altogether this old and respected society seems to be just now in a particularly flourishing, promising condition.

A Proposed Publication

It is proposed to publish through the house of James Pott, Astor Place, N. Y., a collection of hymn tunes by the Rev. Dr. J. S. B. Hodges, of Baltimore, in case there seems to be sufficient demand to warrant the step. Inquiry can be made of the pubtisher. Such a collection of the eminent Cantor's compositions would form a desirable companion to the volume of church music by his celebrated father, Dr. Edward Hodges, edited with loving care by the daughter and sister, Miss Faustina Hasse Hodges, herself a well-known song writer. This talented family is well known in Pittsburg's social and musical circles.

The first of Mr. Gittings' series of concerts at really popular prices-and with special rates to musical students-will be given next Tuesday evening, at Old City Hall, with the Mendelssohn Quintette Club, of Boston, as the attraction. Mendelssohn's Quintette in A, Op 18 and Beethoven's Quartette in G, Op 18 are programmed. If these are to be given in their entirety, it would seem that the club is now returning in its forty-first season to that artistic stand-ard in the choice of compositions which founded its early renown as the then best chamber-music organization of the country. Mr. Isadore Schnitzler, violinist, and Mr. Thomas Ryan, the veteran clarinettist, are prominent among the club's instrumental soloists. The singer is Miss Marie Barnard, who is to render airs by Mozart and Bellini.

Music for the East End. The Mendelssohn Club, of the East End, will give the first concert of its third season next Tuesday evening, at the new Masonic Hall, Collins avenue. Until the recent opening of this cozy little auditorium-on the ground floor seating about 350 personsthe club could secure no suitable hall in the East End this season; bence the tardy open-ing. The chorus of 50 voices, under Mr.

James McCollum's baton, will sing a num-ber of part-songs and miscellaneous choruses. The other performers will be Miss Jennie M. Evans, Miss Lizzie Reed, and By an exceptionally thorough overhauling and rebuilding the fine old organ of the First Presbyterian Church has been been determined in the control of the First Presbyterian Church has been been determined in the control of the con

James Whitcomb Riley and His Pretty Poems, on the Way. The Press Club has been singularly fortunate in securing the famous Hoosier to give one entertainment during his visit to the city.

In order to make this one of the most charming and enjoyable of its series of en-tertainments, the club has arranged with the music departments of the Pennsylvania Female College, the Pittsburg Female Coldoubtedly one of the most popular poets in this country to-day. His poetry reads charmingly, but it is far more charming when he reads it himself.

Already the inquiry for tickets is such that Old City Hall will be taxed to its full capacity. The distinguished delegates to the International Press Club Convention will be present.

BOUGHT A SALTED MINE.

The Purchasers Force Their Mexical

Swindlers to Compromise. SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Jan. 24.-Captain Charles P. Eagan returned yesterday from Mexico, where he has been engaged upon the famous Mulatto mining swindle of Sonoro, a representative of Hayward & Co., of San Francisco. He succeeded in com-promising the case, by which the Haywards will lose not more than $200,000.

The firm purchased the mine three years ago from three Mexican brothers for $2,000,- 000, paying one-tenth cash and the balance in notes. The mines had been badly salted in notes. The mines had been badly saited, but the fact was not discovered until after the money had been paid. Suit was entered, and a change of venue from Sonoro to the City of Mexico was fought by the swindlers, who had control of the Sonoro courts and expected a decision in their favor. But the change was granted, whereupon the swindlers sought a compromise.

POLYPOID TUMORS. THEY ARE FOUND EXCLUSIVELY IN THE MUCUS CAVITIES OF THE BODY, BUT MOST COMMONLY IN THE NOSE—TWO GENTLE MEN FROM WURTEMBURG, PA., TESTIFY

By far the most common variety of polypoid tumors is the gelatined. It is jelly-like in appearance and very much like an oyster, soft and spongy, occurring either singly or in clusters, and often completely fills both nostrila, expanding in wet weather and shrinking in dry weather. The only reliable treatment is of a surgical nature—extipation, and even then it is apt to return in time. I have come across quite a number of polypoid tumors during the past few years, and always find them associated with catarrh, or a hypertrophic condition of the nasal nucus membrane, and have often thought in the light of the recent advancement in the treatment of catarrhal troubles, if patients would follow these treatments up a few months after removal it would prevent their return.

TO DR. BYERS' SKILL IN REMOVING THE

During the last Exposition Mr. McFate, of Wurtemburg, Lawrence county, consulted me for masal obstruction, supposed to be due to catarrh, as he had the usual catarrhal symptoms. An examination revealed both nostrils filled with clusters of gelatinoid tumous. I advised extirpation, and inside of 30 minutes had both nostrils free with but very little pain and loss of blood. I had him visit the office next morning to note the result, when he said he hadn't spent such a comfortable night for a long time and couldn't find words to express his grattude.

A few weeks fro Mr. Porter, of the same long time and couldn't find words to express his gratitude.

A few weeks ago Mr. Porter, of the same town, was sent to me by Mr. McFate, as he was troubled the same way, excepting that his trouble was confined to nasal obstruction, his general health being good. I cleared both nostrils in the same manner with like results. Mr. Porter called next day and said his brother-in-law, with whom he spent the night, noticed he had lost his nasal twang as soon as he spoke to him. TREATMENT $5 A MONTH, MEDICINE
