its surplus, as alleged?" William Vankirk, when seen, said that his resignation as Vice President "had nothing to do with this 'kiting' business." Mr. Vankirk also said that he is not interested at all in the Western Maryland Railroad Company, and has no knowledge of any "kiting" paper other than that discovered by the directors of the bank, regarding which quick and effective action was taken.

Everything Will Be All Right. So far as the best information goes, there is really nothing in the hubbub which has been raised, except so tar as the irregularity of louning so much money out of the Tradesman's Bank to two or three individvals. The national banking law restricts one-tenth of the enpital to any single individual. It appears that three individuals horrowed in excess of this amount, So far as the actual loops are concerned it is quite probable they may eventually come out all right.

The Western Maryland Company has about $2,000,000 worth of anthracite coal property which is almost entirely paid for, and this alone ought to make it secure. The only bonds out are said to be from $750,000 to $1,000,000, which have been purchased in Pittsburg. The difficulty, it is said, originated with some people purchasing the bonds without being able to pay for them. They had to go into the bank and borrow the money to pay for them, and when their notes came due, the stringency of the money market prevented them from meeting the notes. In the case of Mr. Hostetter, who, of course, paid cash for his holdings, there has been no difficulty, nor will there be any of Baitimore, was at the Duquesne yesterday. Mr. Miller is heavily interested in the Maryland Central Railroad, and recently instituted a bill in equity in the Philadelphia courts against a Mr. Taylor, of Wilkesbarre, and Herbert Hos-Mr. Taylor, of Wilkesbarre, and Herbert Hostetter, of this city. Mr. Miller explained that he had come to Pittsburg to settle up the matter with Mr. Hostetter, and the suit had been amicaby adjusted. He said the bill was instituted to compel Taylor to perform his part of a contract and it was necessary to enjoin Mr. Hostetter's name to bring the suit to a successful issue. Mr. Hostetter and he had bought some coal lands from Mr. Taylor in connection with the Maryland Central road, which afterward was separated from the railroad property, and it was in this part of the transaction that Mr. Hostetter got mixed up in the dispute. The bill was in reality directed against Taylor. Mr. Miller said he had sold Maryland Central securities to Mr. Hostetter lost summer and also had borrowed money in return from Speaking of the "kiting" of checks on the Tradesman's Bank, Mr. Miller said he knew all about it, and it was ridiculous to make such a panic and almost died of starvation. His Bittle kitting on his own account, but for not the amount by far as published in the papers. The money had been paid back, and everything was satisfactory.

The neighborhood was for a time in a state of fright and terrorism, until the womar, frothing at the mouth, was captured and sent to the station bouse.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS

James Williams Meets His Younger Brother Frank, Whom He Had Long Ago Mourned as Dead.

A DISCOVERY MADE BY ACCIDENT.

Over a Friendly Glass Leads to the Recognition.

FRANK RAN AWAY AND BECAME RICH.

Dark Continent,

Two brothers who had not seen each other for 30 years met accidentally at the Union station yesterday afternoon.

They were James and Frank Williams. who spent their boyhood days on a farm near Harrisburg. Both were stalwart men and well dressed. They happened to be sitting together in the depot, when, as strangers, they commenced to talk about the weather, and finally James asked the other gentleman to accompany him across the street to take a drink. One thing led on to another, and as they learned more about each other's lives they discovered they were brothers.

Frank lived in Montrose, Col., where he had accumulated a fortune in silver mines, but his brother stayed with the old tolk till they died, and had inherited the small estate left.

Had Earned His Inheritance

He offered to share with his brother, but the Western man rejused, and said that as he had remained close to his father and mother during their old age he was entitled to it.

Both men cried over their wine, as they recalled many incidents of their boyhood days, and it was with much affection and tears that they parted at the Union depot last evening. Frank returned to the West, and while his brother was waiting for a train to go East he told this story:

"My brother ran away from home when he was 14 years old. As he was quiet in demeanor my father and the people of the town thought some accident had befallen him, and they dragged the creek and searched for him, but in vain. Several weeks afterward he turned up in Philadelphia, where he learned the machinist's gang of Socialists, and became an infidel.

Split on a Theological Rock. One day my father, who was a great churchman, paid him a visit in the Qunker City, when Frank advanced some of his anti-religious ideas. The old man was shocked, and tried to pull the boy back on the beaten track by force. The boy was proud and stubborn and tenscious of his rights. He felt that he had been wrongly treated, and he decided to go to sea with a companion.

It is guided by a rudder in the rear, and can be made to go in a circle, straight, or in any direction the inventor desires, It certainly works well, and Mr. Renard as certainly fully understands the forces he is compelled to overcome. He is a Frenchman, and is a member of the Aerial Navigation Society of Paris and the Areostat Academy, also of that city. he decided to go to sea with a companion.

The last I heard of him was 30 years ago, when he wrote me and said he was going away, and I would probably never see him again. He stopped in England and on the Continent for quite awhile, and while in London visited Westminster Abbey. To a friend he wrote that he had shed a tear over the grave of Shakespeare at Stratford-on-Avon. Then he set sail for Africa, as a ship machinist, and spent considerable time in the Dark Continent, where he had many adventures.

Meeting With Misfortune. companion worked his way to San Francisco and soon returned with money, but he didn't have enough to pay the passage of both to 'Frisco. He returned to the United States, and when he went back to Australia for my brother the latter had gone to New Zealand. He livedthere for 10 years, and made money as a trader. The natives of New Zealand are tall, powerful men, but very intelligent, and he became much attached to the country. One day, in a fit of homesickness, he decided to return to the United States, and he came back and settled in Colorado, where he made a fortune.

"In the meantime my parents had mourned him as dend, and they died about ten years ago. I moved away from the old homestead, and my brother, who had been looking for me, lost all trace. We met to-day by accident, and you don't know how glad I was to see that boy once more. He is my only brother, and I can scarcely retain my joy since I know he is still living."

FAULK HELD FOR MURDER.

False Prophet Knauff Turns Up, and the Jury Suggest That He Be Restrained. The inquest on the body of Mrs. Mary Aur Faulk, who was shot and killed on Friday by her busband, on the Wilson tarm, at Laurel, was concluded yesterday.

his heart was beating very irregularly. His mental condition, outside of extreme nervousness, appeared good.

George Knauff, the false prophet, to whose uterances Fank attributes all his misfortunes, was present, having been found at the County Home. In giving his testimony he said: "I am 65 years old. I have been married and had 12 children, but eight of them are now dead. In November I went to the Wilson farm, and used to read a German Bible to Mr. and Mrs. Faulk. Mr. Faulk could not read German, so I advised him to get an English Bible. Afterward he rebuked his wife for reading his Bible, and said it belonged to him alone. I never told him that the end of the world was at hand, nor did I tell him to kill his wife. She was the best woman I ever knew. I never said I was Christ or a prophet. I would sooner have him kill me than kill his woman," At this point Knauff broke down and wept bitterly. He was dismissed.

The other testimony taken was simply a repetition of the account of the murder published in Saturday's Disparten.

The jury returned a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Faulk came to ber deach from hemorrhage caused by gunshot wounds penetrating the lungs, and that the shots were fired by her husband, William J. Faulk, while temporarily insane from religion. The jury further recommended that George Knauff should he

rious Charge Against a Young Woman Police Say the Capture of Katie Moamara Is Important-Affection of Her New York Husband-Held for Court. Katie McNamara, alias Flossie Rockwood, alias Flossie Remington, was given a hear-ing before Alderman Gripp yesterday afternoon on the charge of forgery, and committed to jail in default of $500 bail for trial at the larch term of court. The charge was preferred against her by Louis Cella, Jr., formerly a clerk in the Pittsburg postoffice, on Septem-ber 2. It is alleged that the woman forged her ber 2. It is allered that the woman forged her mother's, Mrs. Annie McNamara's, signature to a mortgage and judgment bond amounting to 1300 on some property situated on California avenue, Allegheny, and owned by Mrs. Annie McNamara.

Cella says that an attorney went to the post-office one day and asked him to buy it, and, knowing the attorney, he purchased it. Last May Cella went to collect the interest on the mortgage, but could find no person to pay it, as Miss McNamara had left the city. Cella then looked up the mortgage in the county records, mortgage, but could find no person to pay it, as Miss McNamara had left the city. Cella then looked up the mortgage in the county records, and found, to his satisfaction, that everything was all right. He decided to have the house sold. A notice was tacked on the premises to that effect, and May 14 last was the day set for its sale. While people were on the premises bidding for the house an old woman, who said her name was Annie McNamara, happened along and claimed the property, it having been purchased with money which she received on a life insurance policy after the death of her husband a few months before. This stopped the sale for the time being. Cella produced the mortgage with Aunie McNamara's signature to it. Mrs. alcNamara said it was a forgery, because she could not write. On this information Cella based his charge of forgery against Miss Katie McNamara.

Lately the woman has been living in New York City with George Bryan, who is said to be an expert at civil engineering. About the middle of last week the couple came to Pittsburg and started to houselceping at a well-known resort on First avenue. On Saturday night Detective William Shore heard of the woman's arrival in town and on Sunday located her at the First avenue house. He went to the place and arrested her, in company with Bryan, who wanten to interfere. They were taken to Central station and locked in separate cells. Yesterday Bryan was given a hearing and disclainged.

For some reason the police officials tried to His Life Full of Strange Adventures in Europe and the terday Bryan was given a hearing and dis-charged.

For some reason the police officials tried to keep the matter quiet until the hearing was held yesterday afternoor, when the whole story was learned in regard to the case. Miss McNamara and Bryan seem to be much at-tached to each other. It is stated that they were married in New York City recently, but this is not definitely known. Bryan accom-panied his wife to the jail, and after she had passed through the cate she turned and kissed him, saying that everything would come out right in the end.

REDDY MAXTER CAPTURED.

The Allecheny Officers Catch Him After Several Months' Search.

John, alias "Reddy" Maxter, and John Ma larky were arrested in Allegheny yesterday as suspicious characters, but there seems to be nething behind the arrests. In Maxter's case the Allegheny officials are very reticent thing of the escape of Paddy Megraw from the enitentiary last November.

Maxter said he had been at the Hot Springs Allegheny police claims to have seen him on California avenue not far from the penitentiary only two days before Megraw broke out. He is known to be a pal of Megraw's, and at one time was a cellmate of his in the penitentiary on Ohio street. *When Warden Wright was spoken to of Maxter's probable complicity in Megraw's flight, he fell in with the rica at once, and believes he could give the officers some information in the matter if he so desired.

RATES TO BE ADVANCED.

An Increase of 4 Cents Will Be Put on Iron Articles Going West.

J. A. Hall, Commercial Agent of the Rock Island road, yesterday aunounced that, taking effect February 7, his line would advance rates from Chicago and Mississippi river points to Ogden, Salt Lake, Colorado Springs and Denver. The increase will be 5 cents per 100 pounds on higher classes and 4 cents on all from pounds on aigner classes and 4 cents on all fron articles, except wrought fron pine, which re-mains the same. The only reason given for the advance is that rates were recontly put up to St. Paul and Missouri river points, and it was a question of time until it was done from the Mississimi river. the Mississippi river.

Mr. Hall states that the business out of Pittsburg is good, and he is getting a number of glass shipments to Western points.

Pursuant to the request made by the Pittsburg Creditors' Committee in its report of last Thursday, the full text of which was published in THE DISPATCH, letters were sent to all the outside creditors, asking them to take preferred stock in payment for their claims. With these circulars was sent a copy of the report of the Creditors' Committee, signed by James B. Haines, Jr., Chairman; also personal letters from Mr. Westinghouse and Mr. Uptergraff. These letters set forth the advantages to be gained on both sides by the disposal of this preferred stock.

Preferred Stock Selling Rapidly. Results yesterday proved the brilliancy of the plan. Although the letters were only mailed on Saturday, none but favorable replies were received from all over the country. One man took 150 shares, another wanted 170 shares, and still another laid claim to 20 shares, and still another laid claim to 20 shares. Then came a host of smaller creditors and each took the amount of his claims. One of these creditors took as high as 50 shares, while the holder of a smaller claim subscribed for 20 shares.

As has been stated, Mr. Westingouse returned to New York Saturday, and therefore could not do anything until yesterday. But as the wires were all down not a line of information was received from him during the day.

Mr. Uptergraff thought yesterday matters were in much better shape than ever, and he wore a happy smile when he gave out the welcome information that yesterday alone subscriptions for 1,350 shares of stock had been received in Pittsburg. Said he:

"It is the brightest day we have had for a long time. The stock is bound to go up. We have here received subscriptions for 1,350 shares of preferred stock, outside of what has been done by Mr. Bannister. All the reports are coming in more favorable, and if this but continues for the remainder of the week we will be on solid ground, exclusive of what Mr. Westinghouse may do in New York. We have not heard anything from him to-day because all the wires are down."

Stock Taken Here and in the East. The 1,350 shares of preferred stock taken yeserday came in answer to an advertisement appearing in Sunday's DISPATCH, and has no connection whatever with that sold by the Creditors' Committee, who may have sold as nuch more. As stock was being taken in four ifferent directions vesterday, the results were much better than the above figures show. It was being purchased by local friends of the company, by local creditors, by outside creditors, and by the friends of Mr. Westinghouse in the East.

The turn affairs have taken has caused constants of a hills and the caused constants.

The turn affairs have taken has caused considerable of a joilification among those directly connected with the company, but hardly more than among other financial people who are anxious that this big concern should remain in Pittsburg, a giant among giant industries.

"Everything is looking well now," said Mr. Bannister, "and we are sure to come out all right. The friends and creditors of the company have come forward and nobly helped it out. And, of course, the company will not forget its friends when it again stands solidly on its feet, as prosperous as could be wished."

At the end of this week the full results of the work will be known, as Saturday will be the last day on which the preferred stock will be offered for sale. The workers in the interest of the company will certainly have earned a good share of the prosperity that is to come.

A suit was entered against the company vesterday, but it was only for a small amount, $1,583 ll. It was brought by the Keystone National Bank, of Erie.

J. H. Hughston, commercial agent for the Union Pacific, will be transferred this week to a similar position in the West. He will be succeeded by L. T. Fowler, who was the company's Philadelphia agent. The changes are the result of the president's agreement. The Quaker city office of the road has been abandoned for sometime, and the New York agent has been looking after the territory. Mr. Hughston has been in Pittsburg for several months. He formerly represented the road in Indiana and Michigan. He is an affable man and will be missed in local railroad circles.

GOING AFTER THE SCHEMERS.

Chief Brown Making It Lively for So-Called Co-Operative Benefit Societies. Chief Brown is very earnest in his war against those so-called co-operative societies exposed in yesterday's DISPATCH. In speaking of the subject last night, he said: "We do not allow anybody to rob our citizens if we know it. Inspector McAleese is looking after these schemes and their authors, and will make it very lively for them. The fact that they are chartered will not save them in the least. It is preposterous to assert that any legitimate concern can pay $100 for $30, as stated in the circulars issued by these people."

GOING BEFORE THE BOARD.

The Painters' Fight Will Be Referred to the General Executive Committee-No Cuban Ore Will Be Shipped Here for a Year

The rumpus among local painters has grown to such dimensions that the only tribunal before which it can now be settled is the Executive Board of the Brotherhood The trouble seems to have had its origin with the vote on the eight-hour movement, but those connected with it denythis. The vote taken on this question was divided—Pittsburg voting against making the move and Allegheny voting against making the move and Allegheny in favor of it. The difficulty subsequently developed into a fight over the election of a walking delegate.

The candidates are W. H. Jewell, the present incumbent: W. F. Davenport, C. W. Kirk, Benjamin Reed and John E. O'Shea. Mr. Jewell seems to have filled the office in a creditable and satisfactory manner, but his opponents have taken up a fight against the organization to which he belongs rather than against Mr. Jewell. Members of Union No. 15 learned that No. 10 had a committee out electioneering for eral street, Allegheny, last night. Representa-tives were present from all of the Pittsburg unions and the matter was thoroughly discussed. After the meeting, Secretary Carrick said: "There will certainly be charges pre-ferred against Mr. O'Shea for disturbing the harmony of our organization and we propose to see the matter as far as it will go. The matter will in all probability go before the Executive Committee of the Brotherhood."

GREAT DEMAND FOR MUCK IRON.

The Scarcity Not Felt So Severely for a Long Time.

The most important part played in the iron and steel center in this city is in muck iron. The demand and scarcity have perhaps not been any greater in the last four or five years than they are now, which is all on account of the low price. All the firms who are buying are trying to get all they can, and those firms here who have they can, and those firms here who have usually sold small lots, would rather stack up what they don't need. For some years, Chess, Cook & Co. have sold more muck iron than all the other firms here, but owing to a labor trouble their mill has been shut down for six weeks, by which the men lose about $7,000 a month, for that is what the firm paid for wages alone in the way the mill has been run in the last two years. It is not known when it will be started up.

Lindsay & McCutcheon are stacking up all their surplus muck iron, and Shoenberger & Co., who used to sell small lots, are using all that they turn out. The only Pittsburg firm making raw iron for the market is that of Hammond & Son, of the old Pennsylvania force, from 14 furnaces, a very irregular run. Now the output is not over 25 tons a day. Carnegie Brothers & Co. are having shipped to their mill at Thirty-third street about 15 carloads of muck bar every day. They are buying all they can get in every mill in the Ohio Valley and in this Street and M. Bree are buying all they can get in every mill in the Ohio Valley and in this State, and A. M. Byers & Co. are getting a great deal of muck iron from several firms in Wheeling.

ROOFERS IN THE CITY.

Delegates to the Convention Arrive and See the Sights.

About 20 representatives to the Master Roofers' convention were in the city vesterday, and a few arrived from the East last evening. The Western delegation, some of whom are here, will come in the morning.

Secretary Thomas said they were trying to make a representative body out of the convention, hereafter, but he did not believe they were well enough organized to have it accomplished. Pennsylvania may be divided into an eastern and western district, and instead of having members from the local exchanges attend the annual meetings they could send delegates and save money. This is what the roofers are anxious to see done. He added that the trade last fall was phenomenal, and they are looking for a good season's business, especially in Chicago on account of the World's Fair.

The delegates vesterday were entertained by

The delegates yesterday were entertained by the local exchange, and in the evening attended the Duquesne Theater. Some of the members went up on Mt. Washington to see the city and others inspected the Edgar Thomson at Braddock and other iron mills.

CUBAN ORES NOT COMING. No Danger of Competition With the Southern Product for a Year.

Regarding the probability of Cuban ores oming into competition with Lake Superior ores in markets now commanded by the latter, it is not likely that such a contingency will occur for at least a year. The two Cuban mine owners that tried to deal with the Carnegies some weeks ago failed in their endeavor to make a contract for their product, and it is said now that the only company mining and ship-ping ore in Cuba is sending its entire product to two steel companies east of the Allegheny Mountains, and will continue to confine its shipments to these works for some time to

On the part of the other companies owning properties in Cuba, it may be said that a vast amount of preparatory work is yet to be done so that it is improbable that any shipments will

HONORING THE SCOTTISH BARD.

Celebrating the 132d Anniversary of the Day of Ilis Birth.

TRIUMPHAL REVIVAL OF THE HAGGIS

The most pessimistic mortal in the world would have forgotten and discarded his beliefs, could he have been present last evening, at the Pittsburg celebration of the one hundred and thirty-second anniversary of the birth of Robbie Burns, the Scottish pard.

At 7 o'clock the parlors and corridors di the Hotel Schlosser, the scene of the festivity, were thronged with a representative assemblage, composed of prominent and renowned business and professional men, ecompanied by their wives and families. An informal reception, with a notable absence of all conventionality, occupied the time and gave the opportunity for warm sincere hand clasps until the Highland piper, Jamie Johnston, in the typical Highland costume, gave the signal or the banquet, and with the merry piper as a leader, the immense assemblage of 250 guests filed into the banqueting hall, where u enchanting scene was presented.

Four long tables, arrayed in snowy linen and decorated with a profusion of cut flowers, brilliant lights, and pink-tinted candelabra, were in readiness for the invasion. and were quickly taken possession of. Welltrained waiters lost no time in serving the banquet, and with each additional course. merriment, good cheer and enthusiasm increased, aided greatly by the stirring Scottish music furnished by Gernert's orchestra, with acceptable interpolations ot American

The Advent of the Haggis.

When the "haggis" was brought in, enthus the piper playing the salute to the national dish, and a commanding waiter bore the platter containing it upon his head. After an address containing it upon his head. After an address by Mr. Kirk, in which the "haggis" was invested with all commendable and desirable qualities, the banquet continued, and everyone had an opportunity of testing the merits of the dish. At 10 o' clock dessert and coffee were served, after which a recess of 30 minutes was enjoyed, during which time the banqueting hall was transformed into an assembly room, with an impromptu platform outlined with luxuriant paims and foinge plants. The piper again made heard his merry note, and without delay the company reassembled for the literary programme. President John Young made the opening ad-

President John Young made the opening address, after which an overture by the orchestra, "Bonnie Doon," then echoed through the hall, and was swelled by every voice within the room. D. M. Kirk sang the "March of the Cameron Men," and Miss McIntosh followed with "The Bloom of My Ain Native Heather."

Rev. William J. Reid, D. D., was next on the programme, and "My Nannie O" was rendered by D. S. Thompson. Miss Corey sang "Bonnie Jem o' Aberdeen," and Peter Dick gave a reading, "Im-hm." Miss Fraser, in "O, Lay Thy Loof in Mine" concluded part first.

An interlude by the orchestra was followed by an address by Rev. Alexander MacArthur, and D. S. Thompson, in melody, declared "A Man's a Man for a' That." Miss Corey, in "O, Charlie Is My Darling," preceded a story told by A. Leggate regarding "A Scot in America." Miss Fraser rendered "Dinna Forget." Rev. W. H. McMillan, D. D., made a short address, "The Scottish Biue Bells" was sung by Miss McIntoeh, and after a duet by the Misses Corey the programme, was concluded with "Auld Lang Syne," sung by the entire audience.

A PLAN FOR RELIEF.

Suggestion as to How Crowded Streets May

Be Made Safe—Package Cars Could Be Easily Run on the Rapid Transit Lines. Richard Bennett suggested a plan for relief from the vast number of passing horses and wagons on the streets in the lower part of the city which have made outdoor life a burden to the aged, and even dangerous to the young and sprightly. The old regulation which requires teams to keep 15 feet apart is no longer enforced, and pedestrians have no longer any rights that teamsters respect—that is, a large rights that teamsters respect—that is, a large number of teamsters at least.

Mr. Bennett's plan is to have freight cars run on the cable and electric roads for package deliver; and, in fact, for most kinds of goods. He says switches might be put in at intervals where freight depots were needed, and thus the services of thousands of horses dispensed with. These depots would not be far from the residence of any person living near the main thoroughfares, and goods could be delivered more cheaply than by the present method.

Sanitarians say the health of the city would be much better were there fewer horses in it, as the streets would be much cleaner than now. It may astonish some people to hear that while the city has doubled in size in ten years, there are no more horses used in it than there were in 1880. All manufacturing establishments of any note have railway switch connection, and this sayes the services of thousands of horses. The substitution of electric and cable cars has caused a decrease of 1,500, and soon nearly all the lines will dispense with horses, Were it otherwise it would be necessary in all territory below the Union Station to have either elevated or subterranean crossings.

There is no other city in the connerty that elevated or subterranean crossings.

There is no other city in the country that suffers from this kind of congestion as does Pittsburg, for no other of the same size has as suffers from this kind of congestion as does Pittsburg, for no other of the same size has as much freight to handle, and the entire wagon traffic converges into less than half a dozen streets, where it seers quiet to the North and Southsides. Were one-half of these teams taken off people might be able to dodge the re-mainder and the street cars with comparative
