The committee says: "In those portions of Ohio which have taken advantage of the statutes provided, 50 per cent increased value is not uncommon, and 25 per cent is the least estimate placed upon such difference of location. Moreover, the people of those sections would not be deprived of their good roads at any price; nor would they consent under any circumstances to go back to the old system or mud roads. They pay their road tax in cash cheerfully, and without any longing for the annual picnic, commonly catled working the roads,' which they formerly regarded as an inestimable right, and a glorious holiday, second only to at besides the horizontal kinks and bends | the Fourth of July and Christmas."

On this point it is scarcely werth while to discuss the engineering points involved. They are, for the main part, simple energy, though no one plan may be applicated to all portions of the State. When we speak of macadamizing the roads, we do not urge the construction of too many at one time. Fertain main roads, however, we believe should be seeignated for improvement first, and the worst parts of these to be undertaken first." Road and highway tax to be paid in cash.
