A Friday Evening Devoted to Concerts in All Parts of the City.

SUCCESS OF A PITTSBURG TENOR.

Pennsylvania College Students Entertain Their Friends.

THE OTHER SOCIAL MATTERS OF A DAY

Pittsburgers delight in honoring one of their number worthy of being honored, and they were given an opportunity last evening by the appearance of F. Milton Hunter, the tenor, in the Pierse-Blamphin concert given at Old City Hall.

alt was Mr. Hunter's first appearance in his native city since he returned from several years' study in Europe, and naturally his friends were imbued with considerable curiosity to hear him. His reception was of such a flattering nature that it would have placed even a sadly embarrassed man at his ease, let alone the polished, graceful gentleman that ascended and descended the unpuly stairs-the torment of all artists who appear in Old City Hall-with such perfect case and precision

Mr. Hunter's initial number was an aria from the opera "Carmen," by Bizet, and the ovation accorded his singing elicited a love ballade as an encore. The compliments of an ardent admirer were embodied in a mag-nificent basket of flowers that was presented at this point and gracefully acknowledged by the singer. Mr. Hunter appeared later on the programme with Miss Pierse, the soprano, in a duet, and also in a solo number, as well as in a quartet that concluded the programme. His ap-pearance was the signal, each time, for rapturous and persistent applause. Miss Hortense Pierse, the prima donna, was a pronounced favorite, and in her several numbers created any amount of enthusiasm and admiration, as she is a very lovely woman, as well as a charming singer.

James Blamphin, the renowned harpist, appeared to excellent advantage, and suc ceeded in obtaining round after round of ap-plause, as he cleverly manipulated the strings of his harp to reverberate strain after

Miss Baxter, the pianist, wasan enjoyable Just what selections were rendered by the artists it was difficult to determine, as the programmes were entirely unreliable, and bore the appearance of having been set up by compositors opposed to Italian musi-cians, who had indulged in "picing" the whole affair in the most facetious manner.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAMME

Rendered at Last Evening's Musicale at the Pennsylvania College.

Bright, cheery Dilworth Hall, the annex of Pennsylvania College, was comfortably filled last evening for the concert previously announced. The programme was opened with a piano duet by Rubinstein, played by Miss M. Jones and Prof. J. H. Gittings. When the applause that followed it had subsided, Miss Bradley, who won so many laurels at Old City Hall the other evening, sang "Protestation," by Norris, and in-creased her popularity as a singer considerskill, and Miss Mamie Reuck, the favorite violinist of the city, rendered Sarasate's "Spanish Dance," much to the delight of her audience. Miss M. Jones reappeared in a minus sale. "Konnesse." htt Jadassaha. in a piano solo, "Romance," by Jadassohn, and "Bouree," by Silas. Mrs. Caster was enthusiastically encored in her rendition of Tour's "Crucifix," and with a piano solo, "Ballade," by Reinecke, Miss Edenburn concluded the first part of the entertain-

"She Wears a Rose in Her Hair," by Osgood, was the second number selected by Miss Bradley, and a Chopin "Ballade" followed, played by Miss N. Richer in a charming manner. Miss Reack, in a "Valse Brilliant," by Kalluwoda preceded Liszt's "Spinnerlied," a piano solo by Miss Frew. Rossini's "Una Voce Poco Fa" was Mrs. Caster's second number, followed by a superb interpretation on the piano of "La Filense," by Raff, and "Polonaise, E major," Liszt, by Prof. Gittings. A "Ballade" by the Choral Class was the concluding

AN OVERWHELMING SUCCESS

Scored by the King Literary Society at Its

Last Evening's Performance. The Carnegie Literary Society of Curry University was as green with envy last evening as a well-established, well-organized, cultured society could be, on account of the overwhelming success of the entertainment given by the opposing King Literary Society. University Hall, in which the entertainment was given, was literally packed, people in the rear portion of the room resembling sardines in a box. Miss Etna Vogler, with a violin solo, "Fantasie le Barbier," by Rossini, was the first performer. L. Lewis Todd followed, with the opening address, in which he gracefully welcomed the audience, one and all. Miss Addun Milligan gave a pleasing recitation, and Miss Nannie Hammer, a young lady whose singing is always received with acknowledged pleasure, rendered "On the Heights," by Kunkel. Miss May Campbell read the society journal, a sparkling little paper bristling with good points. Master Louis Boomer, in "Rigoletto," on the violin, created a very favorable impression.

The comedy, "American Fascination," with which the entertainment concluded, was a laughable affair, regarding the career of a very charming young American girl fascinated by the national fascination—gold. The cast was: Edward Ralston, W. O. Amsler; Chauncey Oglethorpe, L. Lewis Todd; Lady Guinevere Llandpoore, Miss Cora A. Harris; Mrs. Ondego Johnes, Miss Gertrude Gibboney; Sierra Bengaline, Miss Nina Milligan The entertainment was under the management of Byron W. King, for whom the society was named.

LUSCIOUS CHURCH LUNCHES

That Were Extensively Patronized by Business Men Yesterday.

The caterers were inclined to be dreadfully pessimistic yesterday, for the church lunches deprived them of their regular noonday patrons. The one at St. Peter's Episcopal Church was much better attended than on the preceding day, as the fame of the yiands served became quite extonded, and the result was decidedly gratifying to the Ladies' League, under whose anspices it was given.

At Christ's M. E. Church the temptation to hold, poised between the plate and the mouth, a luscious oyster, and gaze with undisguised admiration at the pretty maidens who served the tables, was one not unfrequently succumbed to by the youthful gallants who flocked there by the score, and even staid, dignified business men were unable to turn away from the blandishment of the bewitching eyes turned full upon them, as the possessors gracefully passed the cold turkey and salads. The luncheon was given by the young ladies of the church, and the desire is that it may be repeated at an early day.

SPOTS ON THE SUN

Again Discussed by Prof. Young, of Princeton, at Carnegie Hall.

Prof. Young, of Princeton College, who ins made a close study of the sun at a distance of a few millions of miles, gave his second lecture at Carnegie Hall, Alleghery, last evening, under the auspices of the Academy of Art and Sciences. Spots and eruptions claimed his attention almost wholly, and his stereopticon views of things seen by him in his many years of work and research added to the interest of the lecture and the understanding of his audience.

There was quite a good audience present, and the greatest interest was manifested in the talk of the noted educator.

MR. HUNTER TO SING

At the Free Organ Recital in Carnegie Hall To-Day.

Those who attend the thirty-eighth free organ recital at Carnegie Hall to-day will have the pleasure of hearing the voice of Mr. F. Milton Hunter, whose Pittsburg debut was accomplished so brilliantly at Old City Hall last night, as a member of the Pierse-Blamphin Concert Company. Mr. Hunter promised to sing for City Or panist Wales several months since, and will be warmly greeted without doubt. An unusually brilliant programme of organ music will be given in connection with Mr. Hunter's selections. The programme is as fol-made the two loner boxes occupied by them at the Bijou exceedingly attractive pictures. The supper at the Schlosser, which followed the play, was a "green" affair, but most delightful in its verdancy, table covering, napkins, decorations and everything pertaining to the menu that could have a green tinge was so colored, and even the candelebra were shaded with the restful green. The guests were Mrs. John S. Hays, Miss Stella Hays, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Quincy, Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Ward, Mr. zin Mrs. John Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zimmerman, Joseph T. Speer, Mrs. Kate D. The Ehret Express Robbery Case at Chicago Brings It Out.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 .- Arguments on the proposition that the United States Express Company has a standing in court, made by defendant's attorney yesterday, was resumed before Judge Shepard in the Ehret express robbery case this morning.

A certificate from the Secretary of State of New York was produced, and it stated that "said association is not organized or doing business under the provisions of any general or special statute, but only under an agreement among its associates." The contention is that the company, not being incorporated, cannot appear as such, but only by its individual stockholders by name, only by its individual stockholders by name, and that, therefore, the indictment charging Ebret with stealing from the company falls to the ground. The court overruled a motion to instruct the jury to acquit the prisoner on this ground, and the defense, evidently relying upon an appeal, contented itself with citing authority and submitting the case without further evidence.

Six Pieces of Land Along the Monongahela

ROUTE LAID OUT FOR TO-DAY'S TRAVEL

River Viewed.

The city chiefs spent yesterday climbing over hills and tramping through mud in their examination of sites along the Monongahela river offered for the City Poor Farm. The party started out from City Hall at 8 clock in the morning, accompanied by real estate agents representing each piece of property offered in the Monongabela Valley. A train was taken at 8:15 at Try street and the first stop was made at the Kenney farm, in Mifflin township. It contains 350 acres, offered at $400 per acre; or, if 280 acres are taken the price will be $450. This property was offered at $600 last July. It is a beautiful property, and were it not so elevated would stand an excellent chance of coming the city's property.

Viewing the Large Farm The next stop was made at Blair station, in Jefferson township, where the S. P. Large tract, containing 347 acres, is located. The price is $93,500 for the whole tract. The location of this property is peculiar. Twenty acres of fine bottom land lies along the river front and the balance lies on the hill above, separated from the bottom land by a strir about 1,000 feet in width, which is owned by another party. The Large heirs have an easement, however, which permits their use of a 50-foot road through the strip and which will eventually become a street. The land in general is very good for farming pur-

After viewing the Large tract the visitors tramped to the William Giue farm, also in Jefferson township, containing 400 acres, at $500 an acre, or 25 acres will be sold at $600 per acre. This was offered as the Wylie farm last summer at $750. About 100 acres of it is very fine bottom land, and the balance is good upland in a fair state of cultivation. The visitors were well impressed with the tract and it will probably receive its share of consideration. its share of consideration.

A three-mile tramp brought the party to Elizabeth, where they crossed the river to West Elizabeth, and walked thence to the tract offered by Charles Somers, in Elizabeth, and walked the somers, in Elizabeth, and walked the some to the tract offered by Charles Somers, in Elizabeth, which is the some trace of the sound of the soun beth township. The tract contains 286 acres and is bid at $460 per acre. Not Suited for a Poor Farm,

While a very fair farm, the tract has only 700 feet of river frontage, and runs back in a narrow strip to the main farm on the hill. Chief Elliott expressed the sentiments of the visitors when he said it would never make a good Poor Farm site.

After satisfying themselves to this effect, the visitors turned back to Elizabeth borough, where, at the old log tavern, they enjoyed a good dinner and talked over what enjoyed a good dinner and talked over what they had seen. An hour's rest was taken after dinner, and the party took a train on the Bellevernon road to Buloa station, in Forward township, where is located the 340-acre tract offered by Sny-der, Silby & Co., at $150 per acre. The tract consists of three farms of 47, 146, and 147 acres respectively, and has a frontage of 1,000 feet on the river. It did not take long 147 acres respectively, and has a frontage of 1,000 feet on the river. It did not take long for the party to decide that this property was not adapted to the purpose of a Poor Farm, and they started for home, crossing over into the county of Washington and taking a Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston train for Pittsburg.

Six farms will be visited to-day, the party starting out at 8 a. M. and going out on the
