| Sending in Its Bid for the Use of the County's Surplus Cash.

ESTERDAY IN ALLEGHENT'S COURTS

The argument in the mandamus asked by lexander Gilfillan against Controller rier to restrain him from giving, to the entral Bank the funds of the county for posit, was heard by Judges Slagle and illier yesterday. This case grows out of e published advertisements for banks to t as depositories for the county funds. A stake was made in the advertisement of the reiheit Forund, making the last day for the ception of bids the 14th of January instead he 13th as legalized. The Union Bank puttin old on the 14th, but the bid was refused.

bid on the 14th, but the bid was refused.

John Bryant appeared for Mr. Gilfillan and act that a preliminary injunction be granted the case. Mr. Bryant argued that the act of seemily of March 2, 1872 made it the duty of a Controller to notify all solvent banks, inking houses and exchange brokers in the ty of Pitisburg. The notices were published, it were contradictory and misleading, and by ason of this but one bid was received. One little of lanuary the Union Bank submitted bid which was refused by the Controller, bese proceedings were not for the Union attonat Bank and it was not argued that they louid be chosen as the depository, but the sibite should be given a fair show and each sik an equal chance.

They argued that the mistake in the erman paper was not a mistake by the Con-oller or Treasurer, but by the paper itself, dd they could not be held responsible for it; at the Controller and Treasurer had no ower to reject the bid of the Central Bunk thout submitting the county to considerable ghest rate of interest paid in the county, he court took the papers.

NOW WITH THE JURY.

he Braddock Rioters' Trial for Murde Comes to a Close-Testimony Adduced on the Last Day-The Arguments and the Judge's Charge.

The trial of George Rusnok, Andy Todt nd Michael Sabol, charged with the murer of Michael Quinn at the riot January 1 the Edgar Thomson Steel Works, Bradck, was concluded yesterday before Judge towe in Criminal Court. It reached the jury the afternoon and court reconvened in the vening, waiting an hour for a verdict, but as till to-day.

George Rusnok, one of the defendants, was ne tirst witness called in the morning. He detend having participated in the riot; denied aring been at the works on New Year's Day, ad denied of knowing many of the witnesses he claimed to know him.

Michael Saber and Todt were placed on the sand. They admitted that they had been at works during the riot and were compelled you in the outbreak by the leaders. Both senied having taken part in the assault on Jaim.

He appealed to the jury in behalf the defendants on account of the prejudice aimst the foreigners, and of their almost actical helplessness in showing their own he properly by reason of their inability to eak the English language. District Attorney Johnston made his address om the evidence submitted. He read over a evidence and said no allbi was proven in a case of Rusnok, that he was active in the unit on Quinn as were the two others. He was for a verdict of nourder in the first de-Judge Stowe then delivered the charge to the mry. Considerable interest was evinced by he reading of the charge, as three men were natrial for their lives, being held responsible or the death of one man in a rict, participated by a hundred or more. After defining the saw relative to the degrees of murder the udge said: "If the jury are satisfied that the edgendants or any one of them were engaged a the rict that occurred January I, ISSI, at the digar Thomson Steel Works, actively participating in it, with the juryose and intent to rive out by violence and physical force uch workmen as might refuse to accede to heir demands, or resist their attempt to drive he workmen away from their work, and if ou also believe that Michael Quinn was killed by the violence of the detendants, either eparately or conjointly—that is, by blows run clubs or sticks or instruments of any kind sed upon the body of the deceased—by all of he defendants, whether they were together defendants, whether they were togethe in different places, and the blows re struck at different places and mes during the continuance of the riot, and as violence was committed in pursuance of a eased and others from their work then the re all equally guilty under the law of murde a the second degree."

A NOVEL DIVORCE CASE.

The Husband Did the Housework and the Wife Earned Money.

The divorce suit of Mrs. Laura B. Sawyer against E. A. Sawyer, is on trial before Judge Magee. The parties are residents of Allegheny, Mrs. Sawyer being a well-known music teacher. Cruel treatment is alleged as the cause for Gruel treatment is alleged as the cause for asking for a divorce. Mrs. Sawyer claims that her husband abused her and that though he lived with her and enjoyed the fruits of her labor, he has not for years contributed toward the support of the family.

During the cross-examination of the witnesses for Mrs. Sawyer, by the husband's attorney, it was developed that Mr. Sawyer frequently worked about the house. He made hous, washed dishes, etc., and was made generally merkin.

FEEDING ON SPARROWS.

Judge Fetterman Indorses the Methods o ills Pet Owls-Feeding on Fat Chippies -One Mistake the Legislature Made-

What It Cost. Though most people have despaired of ever getting rid of the English-sparrow pest, Judge Fetterman has discovered a possible way to diminish the plague if not wholly destroy the prolific nuisance. Last summer the sparrows were so thick on the Judge's farm as to threaten to take possession. Their favorite lodging place was in some evergreens. In the latter part of November a colony of screech owls located on the premises, and in a short time the Judge noted a great commotion every night among the thousands of swallows in the evergreens. He found that the owls were waging a war of extermination on the sparrows, or rather one for sustentiation. Night after night the depredation was repeated, until at present but a few dozen sparrows are left, while the owls are in spiendid condition and almost as tame as chickens. Judge Fetterman holds them in such high estimation that he had almost as lief, have one of his horses shot as an owl. He says he does not grudge them a chicken occasionally so long as they continue to decimate the sparrows. Since the latter are becoming scarce the screechers are turning their attention to the field mice, among which the good work of extermination is going on bravely.

Some years ago the Pennsylvania Legislature passed a law giving premiums for owl and hawk scalps, and thereby tickled both poultry raisers and sportismen. But the Legislature scarcely ever made a greater mistake, and after the State had lest many millions of doilars by the ravages of vermin the law was repealed. The digestion of birds is so rapid that it requires about all their spare time to supply the larder, and as the food of hawks and owls a mainly field mince, rats, etc. destructive to the farmer, the number consumed is incalculable. Scakes also live mainly on this kind of vermin, and under either a mistaken notion that it is a duty to kill them, or an inextinguishable hatred to the opinician, millions of of November a colony of screech owls ked for a verdict of murder in the first deee, as omeerned the three defendants.

Judge Stowe then delivered the charge to the
ry. Considerable interest was evinced by useful to him, are annually shaughtered. Field mice are increasing extraordinarily, as every farmer can testify, and if once the insectivorous birds, kirds of prey and snakes are exterminated, there will be famine in this country. Snakes being cold-blooded do not eat so much as birds, but the amount of saving they annually represent in the shape of cereals would more than pay interest on our national debt.

BETTER ROADS OR SIDEWALKS.

Farmers Insist Upon Some Way of Coming to the City.

If the Legislature fail to make a road law this winter that will give some sort of satisfaction there is likely to be a cry go up that road taxes be diverted to the making of sidewalks on the roads within half a dozen miles of the city. Oil producers manage to get over or through the roads in some kind of shape at all seasons, but farmers for more than half the year cannot haul produce to the city, and in all the territory between the P. & L. E. and P., C. St. L. railways, it is dangerous at present to attempt

MORE TAX TROUBLES

Assessors Will Make No Transfers of Property This Year.

Relieves the Board of the Right to Issue,

Any Exonerations.

The Board of Assessors yesterday decided not to transfer any property on the assessment books where the deed of sale is later than February 1, and at no time will it make any transfers on articles of agreement whereby property is sold on the installment plan and the deed is not delivered until the entire purchase money is paid. The taxes on any property sold within the present year will, therefore, have to be paid by the person whose name appears as the owner in the present assessment list.

This action is the result of the tighte lines that are being drawn on the Board of Assessors, and the authority for the action is taken from the Bruce ordinance passed in 1876, which prohibited transfers, although it was never enforced.

Besides this, no alterations are to be made in the assessment books after they have gone into the hands of the Treasurer. This matter was decided by Controller Morrow some time ago, and on January 26 he sent the following letter to the Board of Asses-Communication From the Controller.

"To the Board of Assessors:

"GENTLEMEN-Your attention is invited to the acts of Assembly and the ordinances re lating to assessments and alterations therein, After the levy is extended upon the duplicate and reported to the treasurer for collection. neither your board nor the treasurer have any authority to make any abatement in the amount of tax so extended, except as specially provided by law. "Hereafter I will not receive any report from

"Hereafter I will not receive any report from you of any deduction from the tax levy after it has gone to the treasurer.

"Yours respectfully,

"E. S. MORROW, Controller."

"We are perfectly satisfied," said Assessor Frank P. Case last night, "not to have to change the books after tilly are sent to the Treasurer for collection. Under this order the books cannot be changed, but the question that arises with us is how are we going to effect proper and necessary exonerations. It is this way. On new buildings we make a high assessment with a view to having the owner come in and make an affidavit to the real value. Notice of the assessment is sent to the new building and in many cases the notices are not received and the only intimation a man has of the amount of his assessment is when he is called on to pay taxes. The only redress he would have would be to take the matter into Councils, which would overcrowd that body with an unusually heavy amount of work, and probably shut out legislation which the city badly needs.

An Alternative That Could Happen. "On the other hand, the owner could let the matter rest until the taxes go into the hands of the Delinquent Tax Collector, and then the Board of Assessors could issue an exoneration but still the man would be burdened with the 5 per cent increase which goes to the delinquen

"Before this we have been in the habit of is "Before this we have been in the babit of issuing vouchers for the exonerations, which were handed to the Treasurer so that any changes made in the assessment were fully explained. Under this rule we can still issue vouchers, but the Treasurer is not in any may bound to respect them, but is bound as much by Mr. Morrow's order as we are.

"Under the old rule we kept a clerk in the Treasurer's office all the time for the purpose of making these changes. Now there will be no further use for him. The only thing we can do is to paste the constable's order on the wall and simply point to it when anyebe asks for

NOT ACTING AS THIEVES.

Judge Slagle Indulges in Some Peppery Talk About the Supreme Court-The City Gains a Point in the Haight's Ru

Sewer Cases. Judges Slagle and Collier heard argunents yesterday in the appeal of Alexander King's heirs from the assessment for the construction of the Haight's run sewer. The ap pellants claimed that while the property was damaged by the construction of the sewer they had been assessed for benefits. It was also claimed that as the assessment was made under the act of 1887 it should be stricken off.

City Attorney Moreland stated that the city was not at present in condition to do anything in the matter. There are cases now pending before the Supreme Court that would definitely fix the status of the city, and he asked that the appeals be set aside until the Supreme Court is heard from. The appeals were of long standing. and he could not understand why they should be brought up at this time. No special injury or injustice would be done anyhody if the cases were put off until the Supreme, Court is heard were put off until the Supreme, Court is heard from.

Judge; Slagle and Collier thought that nothing should be done until the Supreme Court is heard from, as the case now pending will settle all such matters.

Mr. Guthrie, attorney for the appellants, insisted that the appeals were an entirely different matter from the one before the Supreme Court. This was a private sewer entirely.

Judge Slagle said: "We will not assume, although the Supreme Court may, that these people (meaning the Board of Viewers) are acting as thieves and scoundrels, or from improper motives, I say again, we will not assume any such thing."

The papers in the case were taken and the judges promised to give a decision after the Supreme Court had been hoard from.
