For the Settlement of the Pig Iron Trouble Lies With the Railroads,

THESE MUST SURRENDER

Before There Can Be a Resumption of Work in the Two Valleys.

THE CAUSE OF THE SHUTDOWN

In the First Place Was Due Entirely to Over-Production.

THE SITUATION AROUND YOUNGSTOWN

Youngstown, Feb. 9 .- This thriving and wealthy little city is the metropolis of the Mahoning and Shenango valleys and the home of the Mahoning and Shenango Valley Iron Manufacturers' Association. It is also the receiving and distributing point for the numerous lines of railways that tap this fruitful region, and as such is the seat of war in the present conflict of the pig iron manufacturers against the railroads and the coke combine, a war as strange as it is uncommon, in being waged between two factors of combined millions. As a consequence a general paralyzation of the interests directly affected has taken place, and is spreading itself out at a rapid rate, and romises evil effects in case of continuance to business in general of both valleys.

The frequent visitor to these districts can not (ail to notice the inactivity that at present everywhere, in both valleys, pervades the mig iron industry, an industry upon the condition of which depends to a great de-gree the prosperity of the people and of eneral business within a radius of 25 miles of Youngstown. The cause of the general depression, as stated briefly in my former rs, is the cessation of operations among the blast furnaces, throwing thousands of workmen out of employment and stopping concerned. This deplorable condition of affairs pig iron manufacturers attribute to the poor demand and extremely low prices ruling for pig iron, though they assert that the condition would be one of activity were the railroads inclined to listen to reason. Over-Production the Prime Cause.

In conversation with several furuacemen as to the pronounced dullness in the market, a unit in attributing it to overpro-During the last six months of the duction. During the last six months of the year 1850 large quantities of Southern Iron were received in this market from furnaces in Alabama and Tennessee, which displaced an equal amount of valley iron. In the attempt to find a market for this surplus iron great competition resulted and prices were cut unmercifully, and in many cases attempts to dispose of it resulted in failure, and it had to be stored in furnace yards, where great quantities of it still lie.

Furnace men further claim that it is only through the assistance given Southern furnaces ough the assistance given Southern furnaces the Southern railroads that they are enabled ship their predect into this market. The broads virtually enter into partnership with furnace men. They agree to fix the raies on iron according to the selling price, and ther agree to protect the furnace men from a su contracts in case of the market declinstracts in case of the market declin g, by granting further reductions in freight, illustration of the great disadvantages ome producers are working under can be ined from a comparison of the rates of eight charged by Northern and Southern ilroads on like materials.

Southern roads haul pig iron from the Birmingham district in Alabama to both valleys, a distance of over 800 miles, for $4 10 per ton, while Northern roads charge $5 cents per ton for a haul from this city to Pittsburg, a distance of 48 miles. Again, the Southern roads haul coke from the Pocahontas field to Chattanooga, Tenn., a distance of 455 miles, for the same rate per ton that Northern roads charge for hauling from the Connellsville region to this city, a distance of 130 miles. Thus it can be seen how harmoniously the Southern interests pull together, and how mutually beneficial it is to them and how de-trimental to the prosperity of these districts.

In the Light of Facts. It does certainly seem, in the light of the above examples of freight charges, that there is no truth in the statements of Northern raliway officials that any further reductions in freight rates would wipe out the possibility of sarnings and dividends, or that something is radically wrong with the management, or o'clock. Mrs. Boyer had been confined to her earnings and dividends, or that something is radically wrong with the management, or organization. How is it possible for Southern radicants, running through scantly populated and undeveloped territory, to earn profits and declare dividends when Northern roads cannot do so under many more favorable conditions? The only conclusion that can be arrived at is this, that the feability of Northern roads to declare dividends on their capitalization is due to the fact that their stock is heavily watered, which is not the case with Southern roads. For instance, there is a feeder now operating not 100 miles from Pittsburg. The length of the line is only a few nulles, and there is no motor equipment except a few engines. The road is ement except a few engines. The road is alized at fully 100 per cent more than the est of construction and equipment. In order declare dividends on this capitalization they to declare dividends on this capitalization they must double the receipts, which are all from freight, by charging twice the rates. That would be necessary were the stock not watered. This is the history of all the roads in this ter-ritory, and explains why the Northern roads cannot compete with the compete with the Southern roads in the matter of freight rates Cause of the Shutdown.

Repeated attempts were made by the Manufacturers' Association before the shutdown was inaugurated to have the roads reduce the rates sufficient to enable the furnacemen to keep their furnaces in operation, but to no avail, and to shot down was the only afternative left product was not high enough to enable them to run their plants with profit. They did not close sown for the purpose of forcing the railroads to yield, owing to the lack of traffic, or the coke men to lower their prices, in order to keep their evens burning. It is simply because the cost of production is greater than the return, and this cest could be made less than the selling price and furnaces kept in blast were the requests asked for granted. their furnaces in operation, but to no avail, and ing price and furnaces kept in blast were the requests asked for granted.

As it is an open secret among all that the come mum are willing to accede to the demand, but are only walting for the railroad's decision, the power of resuming lies within the hands of the railroads. The full causes contributing to the shouldown are truthfully stated above, and the effects resulting are many and disastrous. The first and greatest is the loss of trade to the loss round merchants.

The number of stacks in the two districts is

The number of stacks in the two districts is 37, of which 22 are located in the Shenaugo Valley and 15 in the Maloning Valley. The production of the two valleys in 1893 was 1,225,000 tons. The number of stacks in blast is the Ema at New Castle (two), capacity 40,000 tons; the Rosena at New Castle (one), capacity 40,000 tons; the Rosena at New Castle (one), capacity 62,000 tons, and Brown, Bonnel & Co.'s at Youngstown (two), capacity 62,000 tons. This shows a total of seven stacks, with an annual capacity of 199,000 tons.

Assuming that their output is three-fourths of their capacity, they would produce in one year almost 150,000 tons, or 690 tons per day of 250 working days. For 20 days since the shutdown the production of the 37 stacks last year on the same basis was at the rate of 4,900 tons per day, and for 29 days since the shutdown the production would be almost 100,000 tons, The inumber of tons lost is therefore about 90,000, and figuring as the mean price of Bessemer and mill irrors for the period at $55 the loss to the figuring as the mean price of Bessemer and mill irons for the period at $15, the loss to the furnacemen in business amounts to $1,850,000. liesides this enormous loss, there is the loss to the shippers of limestone and coke, and merchants furnishing furnaces with other supplies. The greater loss, however, falls upon the workingmen, who have been thrown idle, because they are less able to bear it. A conservative estimate places the number of idle workmen, resulting from the shutdown, at 8,000, and upon this number there is dependent fully 40,000. They are at present not so seriously affected as they will be in case the idleness continues. The trade of merchants has consequently been injured by the idleness of this number of people, and many are discouraged, forsing that if the shutdown continues long shey will be forced to suspend business.

A Falling Off in Traffic. The loss of traffic and revenue to the rail roads has also been enormous. At the officesof the Lake Shere and Michigan Southern Railroad the Superintendent stated that their traffic on ore had fallen off 40 per cent, and that the shurdown had reduced the volume of business fully 25 per cent. It was further stated that their line was the least injured by the inactivity, of any road entering the valley, for the reason that they have only the ore fraffic from the lakes and a small portion of the big iron shipments to Cleveland and the West, and that the loss to the roads hauling the coke from the Connelisville region; limestone from the eastern part of the valleys, and the pig iron to the Eastern markets must be enormous. In a conversation with a superintendent of motive power of one of the principal roads centering here, he said that there were more locoering here, he said that there were more loco notives and cars in the different railroad shop motives and cars in the different railroad shops for repairs at present than at any previous time for some years, he stated that the railroads were taking advantage of the present quietness for making their repairs. The number of idle cars lying along the tratks of the different roads is very large. Many trainmen have been temporarily suspended from work, and all he attributed to the lack of pig iron and accompanying traffic, brought about by the banking of the furnaces. On the whole, the pig iron industry is stagmant, the people of both valleys discouraged, and general trade in consequence much depressed.

Will Soom Pass Away.

Will Soon Pass Away. There is no question but what the cloud of darkness that now overhangs the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys will ultimately pass and Shenango Valleys will ultimately pass away. Periods of great activity or decression in trade are always followed by periods of an opposite condition, but there is no reason why the trade of these naturally thriving districts should for a day be inactive; nor would it be were the greedy, grasping railroads for once inclined to give the situation deliberate and unprejudiced thought. They are holding out in the hope that something will turn up that will cause the furnaces to resume without their yielding in the question of freight rates.

Their particular hope is that the continued shutdown will cause a scarcity of pig iron, in which latter event prices would advance to a point that would enable the furnaces to resume. But pig iron manufacturers here think this is indeed a very vain hope.

So long as the railroads assert their present position to be their ultimatum time alone will teil the outcome. This, however, I can say that would the roads requee their freight rates so as to admit of a profitable margin, the industry would again assume its former activity and predominance.

At this writing there is not the least sign of a redominance, At this writing there is not the least sign of a break in the ranks of the furnacemen, nor will there be from the condition of their trade; nor do the railroad officials show any untoward ap-pearances of yielding and it seems that the solution of the vexed question of resumption will only be accomplished by time. More Applicants for Retail Licenses Than in 1890. Clerk of Courts McGunnegle yesterday com pleted a tabulation of the number of applications for retail liquor license this year. It shows an increase in Pittsburg and Allegheny and the boroughs and townships over last year, with a decrease of two in McKeesport. The total number of retail applications is 1,488, an increase of 218 over last year. The total number of whole-sie applications is 428, a decrease about equal to the increase in retail applications. The following are the retail applications.

IVELY ROW OF M'KEESPORT TOUGHS

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.: NEW CASTLE, Feb. 9 .- Captain J. H. Cooper, of this city, who received the apcointment of Superintendent of the State Arsenal at Harrisburg, to-day sent in a formal letter to Governor Pattison declining to accept the office. It has been known for several days that the Captain would take such a step, but the citizens of Lawrence county endeavored to dissuade him.

To the Governor he said that his home matters were in such a shape that he could not leave. To your correspondent the Cap-tain said that if he went to Harrisburg he would be obliged to leave his little daugh-ter at home or take her among straugers, and this he was unwilling to do. He has an excellent position here as manager of a large clothing house, and the difference in the salary would not be great.

Dr. Sheedy resorted to the operation of skin grafting. One week ago he again transplanted 150 pieces of skin. Out of the 250 pieces over 200 have taken hold and tre growing nicely. Those nearest the skin have already united with it, and those in the middle of the raw surface have grown two or three times their original size. Mr. Casey will not be deformed in the least and will have a healthy leg inside of six months.

EPPS'S COCOA BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and hutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Handreds of subtle maladies are floating around as ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Cotil Service Gazette.
