Yon Bulow is about 30 years of age. He chains to be a portrait painter and linguist, being able to converse in not less than a dozen different languages. He is passing through a period in his life which might be called a "hard luck" epoch. He is in very destitute circumstances, having come to Pittsburg without a cent in his possession, very poorly clad and with no visible means of making money for a while yet at least.
He says that about four years ago he was attending a university at lunspruck, a small village in Germany. While there he became encayed in a quarrel with a fellow student or some trivial matters which ended in a challenge to fight a duel. The duel was fought and but so there have to Milwaukee to live. mother was dead, was still nursing and that was especially a very sad sight. The women, as they were fleeing with their bakes on their backs, were killed together, shot right through. All the Indians fled in these three directions. After most of them had been killed a cry was made that all those who were not killed or wounded should come forth and they would be safe, and little boys, who were not wounded, came out of their places of refuge, and as soon as they came in sight a number of soldiers surrounded them and buckbered them there.

Commissioner to Interpreter-I wish you would say to him that these are very serious charges to make against the United States army. I do not want any statements made, that are not absolutely true, and I want anyone here that feels that the statements are too strong to correct them.

Saddest Part of It.

American Horse-Of course it would have been all right if only the men were killed; we would feel almost graterul or it. But the fact of the killing of the women, and more especially the killing of the young hors and girls who are to make up the future of the Indian people-those being killed is the saddest part of the whole thing, and we feel it very sorely.

The Commissioner-Does American Horse know these things of his own personal knowledge, or has be been told them? American Horse-I was not there at the time before the burial of the badies, but I did go there with some of the Indian police and the Indian doctor and a great many set and the Indian doctor and a great many of the people, men from the agency, and we went through the battle field and saw where the bodies were from the track of the blood, The Rev. Mr. Cook, a Sioux half-breed, pastor of an Episcopal Church at Pine Ridge, who has at times acted as interpreter luring the conference, rose, and, among other things, said:

Much has been said about the good spirit with which the members of the Seventh Cav-alry went to that seat of action. It has been said that the desire to kwenge Custer's death was entirely absent from their minds.

These poor ladian people did not have that opportunity to protect and light for them-selves. If this is an indication of the spirit of a number of the men in that company I am sure the Seventh Cavalty did not go there with the bindest of motives, simply to bring these noor
