

A REPLY FROM QUAY

To Attacks on Him Will Be Delivered in the Senate Monday.

A STRONG STATEMENT PREPARED, In Which He Will Answer the Personal Assaults as Well as Criticisms of His Political Course.

(FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Senator Quay was to go to the Capitol to-day. If he is well enough to speak on Monday, it is expected that he will make a personal statement regarding criticisms brought against his course in the Senate and out of it on the elections bill and on more personal matters.

The Senator has been busy with his manuscript on this subject for some time, and he has at last completed it to the satisfaction of himself and friends. He did propose to make the statement this week, but owing to illness, he was obliged to postpone it.

A Strong Statement Prepared. The Senator has prepared his answer carefully, and those who have seen it claim that he will put his accusers to confusion. Senator Quay is suffering from malaria and heart trouble, and until today he has been confined to his bed. He is receiving medical advice from Medical Director Wales, of the United States Army, and has been told that he must cease work and take a complete rest.

Acting under that advice, Senator Quay has decided that as soon as he has made his statement in the Senate he will take a trip to Florida, where he will remain for several months. Representative Quay will accompany his father, and they will occupy a new cottage built for the party near the scene of former tarpon fishing.

Great Praise for Dalzell. Representative Dalzell is still the recipient of no end of compliments for his speech in criticism of Secretary Tracy's course in the Beller affair, which called out a pretty bit of commendation even from the Secretary himself. Judge Crisp, of Georgia, one of the finest legal minds in the House, and early ally at this time for the Speaker, said to-day that in all his political and Congressional career he never had a more masterly address, or one that had such incontrovertible facts running all through it.

Commander Reiter has been thoroughly vindicated by that speech. Judge Crisp. "Whether the Secretary of the Navy grants or does not grant him a court martial, he has had his case presented in such a clear and forcible manner that all who have read the accounts in the newspapers cannot but recognize the fact that the Secretary went outside of his duties in acting in the manner he did.

No Answer Was Possible. "Every intelligent reader knows by this time that Commander Reiter has been unjustly treated by the administration, and nobody could have presented his case in a better light than could Dalzell. It was simply magnificent. It was also unanswerable, and Lodge should have recognized that fact before he attempted to reply."

A DAY IN THE COURTS. Only a Few Sentences Dealt Out Yesterday.—Another Sunday Work Case to Be Decided.—An Injunction Against Controller Grier Refused.—Court Notes.

In the Criminal Court yesterday morning Judge Stowe heard an argument on an appeal of P. L. Robbins from a fine imposed by Alderman Bell for violation of the Sunday law. Robbins is a coal operator and employs a man on Sunday to furnish coal to engines on the Pittsburgh and Western Railroad. The original suit was brought by the Law and Order Society. The Court took the papers and will hand down a decision next week.

Application was made and granted to admit Patrick St. Clair to bail in $1,000. He was held by the Coroner to answer a charge of manslaughter, in pushing W. A. Juler into the street and in front of a car, which ran over him and caused his death.

its investigation into the conduct of the State Board of Charities has been considerably criticized in Pennsylvania newspapers of late. When this subject was mentioned to Congressman Reburn, the chairman of the committee to-day, he said:

"If these critics were to go to my house they would find that while I was not traveling around with a brass band, I was at work. I am hard at work upon the report, but it is a tedious piece of business and involves a vast deal of labor. My Congressional duties interfere a great deal with it, but it will be ready all in good time."

TAGGART'S FINE WORK.

URGING THE APPOINTMENT OF MAGNIN FOR MARSHAL.

By Succeeding in This He Hopes To Get Even With Cameron—A Call on the President and a Pleasant Reception From Him.

(FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Representative Taggart, who made such a brilliant failure at defeating Cameron for re-election to the United States Senate, is in the city looking out for an appointment, that will at least have some semblance of a slip at Cameron. Taggart came here this morning and went to the office of Postmaster General Wanamaker. He told Mr. Wanamaker that he favored the appointment of Mr. Magnin, of Delaware county, for the office of United States Marshal for the Eastern district of Pennsylvania, and asked his co-operation.

Mr. Wanamaker quietly informed Mr. Taggart that he was not taking any hand in the selection of a successor to the late Marshal Dill, but that he would be glad to accompany him to the White House, where he could lay his case before the President. This was satisfactory to Taggart, and he got into the carriage of the Postmaster General, and together they drove to the Executive Mansion. Of course Mr. Harrison received him with open arms, as he was the much-wanted and so long as long to defeat Cameron. When the introduction had taken place the talk of Magnin's appointment was gotten through with, and then the President informed Mr. Taggart that his case would receive the consideration it deserved, and that he would hear from the subject again. With his politest bow and pleasant smile Mr. Taggart took his departure, feeling sure that the case was won.

It is said by some here to-night that the President sent for Taggart in order to have a consultation on the matter of the appointment, and the matter is looked upon as being a chance for Taggart to get square, in a measure, with Senator Cameron, who is on the back of Reardon's application. Taggart comes from Montgomery county, and the fact that he is urging the appointment of a candidate who lives in Delaware county is rather significant.

It is expected that all doubts in the matter will be set aside in a few days by the appointment of a successor to the late Adair Dill.

CIVILIZING THE INDIAN. It Should Be Done With the Flow, and Not the Spelling Book.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The House today went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Dingley, of Maine, in the chair. On the Indian appropriation bill Mr. Smith, of Arizona, said the Indian question should be settled by the plowshare, and not by the spelling book. (Mr. Smith) had been West in search of Fenimore Cooper's conception of an Indian. He has found an Indian a nasty, dirty, lazy vagabond, who would not work. All the Indian wanted was enough to eat.

An Injunction Refused. Judge Collier yesterday handed down his opinion on the case of Alexander Gilliland against County Controller Grier. Gilliland was an equity case, brought by Gilliland to restrain the Controller from awarding the contracts for the county deposits to the Central Bank. The only bid considered for interest on the current daily balances was that of the Central Bank. A mistake was made in the advertisement in one issue of the papers giving the time for the conclusion of receiving bids, and the Union Bank came in a day too late. The bill was then filed to restrain the Controller from awarding the deposits to the Central Bank, on the ground of his own preference.

The Court, in its opinion, did not dispute the right of a taxpayer to sue such a bill, but for so many months it had been the case that taxpayers had received much injury. It did not appear that a higher bid had been offered, and they decided to hold that the assignments were insufficient, and refused the injunction asked for.

A SUIT FOR $5,000 DAMAGES. That Will Cause a Great Deal of Comment Around Natrona.

Attorneys David Smith and W. S. Nestle yesterday entered suit in Common Pleas Court No. 1 on behalf of George McWilliams, a farmer on the Brockebridge farm, against the county of Natrona, a drag of Natrona, damages being laid at $5,000. It is charged that the defendant circulated a report that a girl named Annie Greengard, a daughter of the plaintiff in this case, and that he had been put under a bond of $50 to answer for the same. The suit was brought by McWilliams, and he says that not only is the latter, but also the former part of the story untrue, and that he has suffered great annoyance from hearing the repetition of it. The matter excites much attention in the neighborhood of Natrona on account of the prominence of the principals in the suit.

A NEW METHOD OF Americanizing Encyclopaedias.

The Use of Scissors Plays an Important Part—Plain Talk by the Henry G. Allen Com'y.

OVER $300 IN PRIZES!

First—We will give a $75 set of Encyclopaedia Britannica, 30 volumes, which includes the five volumes of American Supplement, the 30 volumes bound in full Library, or one-half Russian Leather, to any person proving by comparison with the imported Britannica that our Reprint is not an exact reproduction of the latest edition, the 9th.

Second—We will give a $60 set of Encyclopaedia Britannica, 30 volumes, to any person proving that there is any Reprint of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, other than that published by the Henry G. Allen Company.

Third—We will give a $45 set of Encyclopaedia Britannica, 30 volumes, to any person proving that the work published by a Chicago publishing house, and called the Encyclopaedia Britannica, is a reprint of the Britannica.

Fourth—Another $45 set of Encyclopaedia Britannica, 30 volumes, to any person proving that the work with the seductive title, "The Americanized" Encyclopaedia Britannica is the Britannica.

To judge from the elaborate use of ink and paper in behalf of the last-named work by one of the Pittsburgh papers, some may think that their only aim is to prove a beacon to an unsuspecting public. It is possible that neither the paper nor the publishers of the "New Americanized" Encyclopaedia Britannica knew that the Britannica had already been Americanized by eminent American writers; and so ably done, too, that the five [5] volumes of the American Supplement to the Britannica, treating matters of vital importance to Americans bringing the work down to recent date, giving biographies of eminent living persons, called forth commendation from the press of Europe as well as that of our own country!

An exhaustive Encyclopaedia dialogue, in the paper referred to on the 6th inst., gives a talk between a prospective buyer of this mutilated Chicago edition, and a representative of the publishers of the same, in which the representative asserts that Ulyssus S. Grant is not mentioned in the Britannica; that it says not a word about Sherman, Hancock, Blaine nor Harrison, though our supplement mentions Harrison and states that he is the twenty-first President of the United States!

He continues with Harriet Beecher Stowe, Julia Ward Howe, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Charles Stewart Parnell nor Bismarck, nor Jefferson Davis; and we presume if the deuded prospective buyer had not called, "Hold," the obliging representative would have still been naming eminent persons omitted from the Britannica.

We will give $100 to any Pittsburgh benevolent institution if there is a single one of the above named persons omitted from our work.

In the dialogue referred to, replying to the inquirer's query, if the Britannica says anything about anybody? The smooth representative answers, "Oh, yes; it contains some of the most magnificent biographies that were ever written; McCauley's life of Johnson, for example." But even that magnificent eulogy could not escape the pruning process employed to reduce the work to 10 volumes. This was done by omitting from the article in the Britannica, paragraph after paragraph, and giving the balance of the article verbatim.

For the benefit of the public we would ask this Chicago publishing concern to inform the public who are the writers or contributors to this wonderful "Americanized Britannica" that is being foisted upon the attention of our interested citizens. In all candor the Henry G. Allen Co. will say to those contemplating buying the Encyclopaedia Britannica, "Look before you leap. Examine both before you buy."

One of the Chicago editions is fatally mutilated, and the other, well, it is a non-descript. There is but one reprint of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, and that one is published by
