ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. JOHNSTOWN, Feb. 16 .- Once more Johnstown is under water. As a result of the heavy rains of last night the Conemaugh river and Stony creek were each bank-full

Three bridges over the Conemaugh, the Point bridge, the Lincoln bridge and the Woodvale bridge, gave way before the vast quantity of water hurled against them, and vere entirely destroyed. A new bridge was in course of erection on the site of the old Lancoln bridge, and the huge iron beams went down with the old structure. The present flood is the largest since May 31, 1889. The rain is still pouring down at au At 6 o'clock all the lower part of the city was inundated. The Morrell House had been flooded for several hours, and the lower floors of the Club House were under water. On the Southside and in Cambria hundreds of houses are flooded, and the people are getting out in boats. All the bridges exept the new one at Franklin street have been carried away.

It being impossible to reach the station, the Pennsylvania Railread has established a depot at Washington street,

A rumor that the big Stony creek log boom was breaking caused the most intense alarm, and the people are fleeing to the high grounds. It is said the water at the large om on Shady ereck is higher than it was in 1887, when it broke. There are over 3. 000,000 or 4,000,000 feet of logs in this boom. It is said if this boom breaks it will surely arry away the boom at Fouseville, and in that vent very serious consequences will result in anstown. At Fo'clock communication with the different quarters of the fown was impracticable, ex-cept over the new Franklin street bridge and

OPPOSITION TO THE NEW ROAD ACT

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCELS HARRISBURG, Feb. 16 .- One of the closest legal reasoners in the Senate has been making a study of the Constitution, with reference to the proposed reimbursement of William H. Kemble for his loan of $400,000 to Governor Beaver for the abatement of nuisances produced by the Johnstown flood, and as a result of his investigation he says e cannot see how the bill introduced in the House on the subject can stand a constitutional test. A sub-committee of the Committee on Appropriations has started an exmination of the resolution on file in the Auditor General's department, showing the mount expended under the authority of the State Board of Health at Johnstown. This sum reaches about $400,000. The vouchers deposited with the Auditor General are not of the ordinary kind, requiring examination at the hands of that official but the committee of the House thought it advisable to scrutinize them before passing favorably on an appropriation to cover the loan negotiated by the Governor. The in-quiry is said to be satisfactory, and the bill to reimburse Mr. Kemble will doubtless be

He Will Be Reimbursed. That gentleman has received the thanks of the Legislature for his philanthropic act, in meeting a great public exigency, and the Legislature will likely supplement this ac-tion by the passage of the indicated approprintion, but many members will vote for it under protest, because they believe the Constitution is in the way of the execution of the proposed legislation.

There will be opposition to the measure for this same reason, but it will not be potential enough to compass its defeat. Other members, who have grave doubts as to its constitutionality, will support it and throw the re-sponsibility of either approving or vetoing it on the Governor. Several Senators, who would be glad to vote for the appropriation if it were freed from constitutional objections, are clearly Ireed from constitutional objections, are clearly of the opinion that it would be a violation of section 11, article 3 of the organic law, which prohibits the Legislature from "providing for the payment of any claim against the Commonwealth without previous authority of law."

What the Constitution Says.

Sections 5 and 6 of article 9 of the Constitution also provide that "no debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasions, suppresexisting debt," "and all laws authorizing the State shall specify the purpose for which the State shall specify the purpose for which the money is to be used, and the money so borrowed shall be used for the purpose specified and no other."

Ex-Governor Beaver and ex-Attorney General Kirkpatrick claim that the negotiation of the Johnstown loan was clearly legal, because the work to which it was applied was done under the authority of the State Board of Health, which is empowered, "when required by the Governor of the Legislature, and at such other times as it deems it important to institute sanitary inspections of public institutions or places throughout the State, and te enforce such regulations as will tend to limit the progress of ulations as will tend to limit the progress of epidemic diseases." Another provision authorizes the Board of

One of the best lawyers in the Senate has expressed the opinion that there is no constitutional warrant for the passage of the proposed reimbursement legislation, and that the only legal remedy the State had for the aba only legal remedy the State had for the abatement of the nuisance created by the Johnstown flood was by having the Governor call the Legislature together in extra session to pass a bill appropriating sufficient money to meet the great public emergency. This, he said, could have been done with very little expense to the State.

Representative Fruit, Chairman of the Ap-propriation Committee, is free in the expres-sion of the belief that Governor Pattison will sign the reimbursement bill.

The proposed new law will allow the Register of Wills in Allegheny county not more than $5,00 a year in fees, in addition to his salary.

Opposing the Road Bill.

Senator Showalter says the first reports rela tive to the bill of the Road Commission from his constituents were favorable to its passage, but since its contents have been digested oppsition to it seems to be crystallizing. The Grangers have begun filing complaints against its enactment into law. Forest Grange, of Butler county, has forwarded Senator Showalter a protest against the proposed legislation, in which it is stated that the members of the rder are utterly opposed to this bill.

Another citizen of the county writes that the Another citizen of the county writes that the people of his neighborhood are satisfied with the present laws relating to the improvement of roads; that they are opposed to either county or State supervision, and favor home rule. They are particularly opposed to the proposed creation of the office of county engineer. The oil producing neople, Senator Showalter thinks, are generally favorable to the commission pill.

A Case From Meadville Argued Before th

Attorney General. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.; HARRISBURG, Feb. 16 .- In 1887 the Legislature passed an act authorizing the formation of co-operative associations for manufacturing, mining and kindred purposes. Under this law the Farmers' Co-Operative Association of jured. Meadville was organized. The company in some of the stockholders rebelled at this course as being in violation of the law. An applica-tion was made to Attorney General Kirkpat-rick for a writ of que warrante to show cause why the association prosecuted a banking busi-

This application was argued before Attorney General Hensel to-day, ex-Senator Herr, of this city, appearing for the complainants, and S. Newton Pettis, of Meadville, for the company. No decision was reached by the Attorney Gen-Pittsburg Typewirter Displaced.

THE OIL-BILL FIGHT.

IT WILL BE RESUMED ON THURSDAY WITH RENEWED VIGOR.

The Standard Attorneys Will Be There With an Elaborate Defense of Its Client-Refiners to Oppose the Bill-Its Friends Are Confident

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. HARRISBURG, Feb. 16 .- The Standard Oil Company's legal representatives, who have been assigned to speak against the bill to cut down the rates of transportation and storage of oil before a joint session of the the Senate Judiciary and House Corporation Committees, are making great preparations to refute the principal arguments used by ex-Senator Lee in his remarks before these committees last week. In the opinion of Mr. M. E. Olmstead, of this city, Mr. Lee fully answered himself during the discussion, when he was obliged to make responses to several interrogatories pro-pounded to him, but notwithstanding this the representative of the great corporation will go into an elaborate defense of his client, and will try to prove that the present rates are not exorbitant, and that if reduced would not inure to the benefit of the pro-would not inure to the benefit of the producers.

He claims that Lee's argument that oil was transported at a profit of 15 cents a barrel by producers who owned lines is preposterous, in view of the fact that these lines were admitted to have been only five miles long, while under the proposed law it is attempted to make pipe line companies carry a barrel of oil for 50 miles at 12 cents a barrel, and for a further distance at the rate of 3 cents a barrel for over 50 miles. As showing the great sacrifice his company has made in the interest of the producers of oil, Mr. Olmstead says it constructed taaks with a capacity of 45,000,000 barrels, and only about 3,000,000 barrels are now stored in them. In the argument against the bill aimed at the Standard, Mr. Olmstead will be assisted by Lyman D. Gilbert, of this city, Deputy Attorney General under the administration of Governor Hoyt. Other representatives of the Standard will be here on Thursday, but the big talk will be done by these men. Refiners will also be represented in opposition to the bill.

The friends of the movement will also be at the hearing in force, and appear confident of getting the bill out of committee with a favorable recommendation soon after the arguments shall have been concluded.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Feb. 16 .- Mr. Matu-Nashi known in England as Standing Bear, a fullblooded Sioux, who accompanied Buffalo Bill's Wild West show to Europe three years ago, returned to-day on the steamship Scandia with a handsome blue-eyed German bride and a two-year-old boy, the first halfbreed born on Austrian soil. Standing Bear is a straight-limbed, dignified child of the prairie, in the early prime of manhood. He took a day off in Vienna while the Wild West show was exhibiting there and strolled around the city. He is inordinately fond of pastry and happened to pass a baker's shop. In the window was a tempting display. He had a pocket full of marks, and he went in, put a coin on the counter and indicated to the comely and plump young woman, who smiled at him and asked him in dulcet German what he would have, that he wanted a pie, thus asserting his right to the proud title of

Now it chanced that the young woman had been a widow for just a year, and had a great longing for another partner. She oted that the red man was tall and graceful, that he had attracted a great crowd of folk in front of the bakery, and that countless German noses were pressed against the window. So she thought what a could have the red man as a permanent attraction. She made up her mind in a mo-ment that she would woo the warrior and try to get up a little Wild West show of

When Matu-Nashi had encompassed his pie, she bade him sit down, signifying by sundry gestures that if he would be might eat all the pies in the bakery. He understood her, and from that day Standing Bear was missed from the Wild West show. She made an effort to teach her husband she decided to let him teach her Sioux. She was an apt pupil, and soon was nearly as good a talker as Standing Bear. # MR. MORLEY'S MOTION.

The British House of Commons Refuses to Censure Mr. Balfour.

BUT HE IS MERCILESSLY SCORED.

Messrs. Morley, Gladstone, Balfour, Smith and Many Others

PARTICIPATE IN THE GREAT DEBATE

LONDON, Feb. 16 .- In the House of Comnons this afternoon, John Morley arose ously given by him, moved that the House adopt a vote centuring the Irish Executive for its action in the Tipperary prosecutions. Mr. Morley's motion declared that such action on the part of the Irish Executive was calculated to bring the law into contempt, and was a violation of the rights of citizens. The House at this time was filled from the galleries to the floor. Mr. Parnell sat beween Thomas Bailey Potter and Timothy M. Healy. Thomas Sexton sat directly be hind Justin McCarthy on the same bench as Mr. Morley.

The Speech of the Mover of the Motion. Mr. Morley, rising amid cheers, said that the motion, instead of being put out of date by recent events, was most opportune, in view of the fact that two prominent Irish members of Parliament had just passed on their way into prison within sight of the House. The imprisonment of these members of Parliament was the climax of the Tipperary prosecution. He appealed to the House as to whether, until September last, his attitude toward the Irish police had been hostile, but after seeing in Tipperary the working of the treseeing in Tipperary the working of the tremendous coercion machine, his eyes had been opened as to what pitch of demoralization, brutality and lawlessness the agents of Mr. Balfour had been brought to by Mr.
Balfour's standing up for every act of theirs, right or wrong [cheers]; crediting every statement of the police, and refusing to make any inquiry, however strong the evidence was against them. [Hear! Hear!] In Tipperary the police adopted a course for which, in England, Colonel Caddell and every man concerned in it would have been cashiered. At the entrance of the Court House there was not the in it would have been cashiered. At the en-trance of the Court House there was not the Secretary Balfour Begins to Squirm. Secretary Balfour Begins to Squirm.

The police used brutal, ferocious and absolutely unprovoked violence. He (Morley) was ready to attest to everything in court.

At this point Mr. Balfour signified dissent, and Mr. Morley asked him if he meant to say he shrank from going into a court of evidence.

Mr. Balfour—No, but your friends succeeded in postponing the trial until March.

Mr. Morley, continuing, said that the Judge held that the reasons for postponement were adequate. When the coercion act was passed it was not intended that cases like those in the Tipperary should be withdrawn from the jury. The bench there was deliberately packed to try a great State case to which 90 witnesses were summoned. The selection of Magistrates Shannon and Irwin was about the most monstrous act that even Mr. Balfour ever committed. [Cheers.] strous act that even Mr. Ballour ever committed. [Cheers.]
T. W. Russell, (Unionist) said that Mr. Morley spent three hours in Tipperary and bolted by the next train. [Laughter.] He ridiculed the statement that the crowd was harmless. No Tipperary mob, he said, had ever before been held up to admiration as a pacific crowd.

A Defense of the Irish Police. His amendment asked the House to vindicate the action of the police in view of the conspiracy of which Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien had been convicted. Their inciting advice turned Tipperary, which was once one of the most prosperous towns in Ireland, into a place as desolate as if it had been swept by an avenging army. Thanks to the Government, village roffinnism had been suppressed. Mr. Morley sought to tie the hands of the executive.

Mr. Glaustone expressed surprise that the Government countenanced an amendment evading the main accusation against Balfour. Assailing the authors of the plan of campaign was not an answer to the charge. Mr. Balfour was always willing to accept wholesale statements of efficials. It was indecorous of him to charge Morley with deliberately suppressing facts. By garbling evidence the Government aimed to exclude the people from the protection of a jury in order to let the executive work their will upon their opponents. They (the Government) had thus succeeded in effecting compulsory expulsion from the House of two of the ablest and most honored Irish members at a seriod when all sides felt that His amendment asked the House to vindicate effecting compulsory expulsion from the House of two of the ablest and most honored Irish the country had special need of their services. Why Dillon and O'Brien Were Muzzled. It was a noble stroke to close the prison doors on Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon on the eve of the discussion of a question of which they were best entitled to speak. [Cheers.] Doubt-less the House would again distinguish itself by voting confidence in the Government. The vote, however, would not avert their coming vote, however, would not avert their coming doom, nor obscure the evergrowing evidence that the country was determined that the fellow subjects in Ireland should soon enjoy the same precious and invaluable liberties possessed by Britain. [Cheers,]

Mr. Parnell left when Mr. Gladstone began his speech. Mr. Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, was the next speaker. The debate was continued to an empty house by Mr. McNell (Nationalist) and Mr. Corbett (Unionist) and others, but when Mr. Balfour arose the benches filled again. Mr. Balfour said he could not imagine a more trivial ground for a vote of censure than the fact that his secretary happened to be present when a few heads were censure than the fact that his secretary hap-pened to be present when a few heads were broken in the Tipperary riot. Mr. Balfour having complained that Mr. Gladstone was not present to listen to his reply, Mr. Morley in-formed him that Mr. Gladstone was ill. Mr. Balfour expressed regree, and said he would withhold his intended remarks. Mr. Morley's motion was rejected-320 to 245.

Parnell as a Listener. Mr. Parnell flushed once when Mr. Balfour made a reference to the Decalogue. Other-wise he was cool. He departed directly after Sir William Vernon Harcourt arose. The Sir William Verson Harcourt arose. The latter said he sympathized with Mr. Balfour in his task. Mr. Balfour was compelled to speak without having a case. Instead of replying to the charges upon which he would be tried in the general election, Mr. Balfour accused Mr. Morley of conduct unbecoming a Privy Councilor. Why did not the Government strike out Mr. Morley's name from the list, as George Ill. struck out the names of Fox and the Duke of Devonsbire? Doubtless the Government was proud and appreciated the conernment was proud and appreciated the con-venience of imprisoning Mesers. Dillon and O'Brien on the eve of the discussion on the O'Brien on the eve of the discussion on the land bill.

Mr. McCarthy followed, contending that the Government has failed to answer the charges brought against them by Mr. Morley. The division was taken at 12:30 A. Mr. and the announcement of the figures was received with prolonged Conservative cheers, On Mr. Russell's amendment being put, Mr. Healy moved to adjourn, and Sir William Vernon Harcourt seconded the motion. Mr. Smith declined to put the motion, on the ground that it was understood that the debate should be concluded to-night. Sir Charles Russell, Mr. Redmond, Mr. Sexton and Mr. Morley declared that the Russell amendment altered the scope of the debate. The discussion over an adjournment was lone #### and angry, and threatened an all-night sitting. The House finally adjourned at 1:30 A. M. HE INTERVIEWED A DUMMY.

A Hungarian Who Thought He Talked With Bismarck Is Mistaken. BUDA-PESTH, Feb. 16,-The Pesther Lloyd publishes a letter, and vouches for the correctness of its detail, relating to the famous Albranyi interview, claiming that it was a prac-tical joke designed by a gentleman on tical joke designed by a gentleman on Abranyi, the Hungarian deputy, in revenge for some fancied grievance which the j-ker had against Abranyi. The result was that a man resembling Bismarch was employed to personate the ex-Chancellor, and Abranyi is said to have fallen into the trap and to have interviewed Prince Bismarck's dumany.

About a year ago Albranyi published an alleged interview with the ex-Chancellor, immediately after the publication of which Bismarck repudiated all the assertions made. Abranyi then sought another interview with Prince Bismarck, but was refused admittance to the ex-Chancellor's presence. Abranyi was highly Bismarck, our was retused admittance to the ex-Chancellor's pressure. Abranyi was highly incensed at this proceeding, and at the taunts and jeers he received on all sides from the press, and from his friends and acqualatances, Finally he was goaded into publishing a letter, August 25, in which he reiterated his former tatements, and insisted upon their entire correctness. This brought out another denial statements, and a renewed onslaught upon from Bismarck, and a renewed onslaught upon the unfortunate Hungarian deputy. On Au-gust 28, as a result of his alleged interview with Prince Bismarck, Abranyi resigned his seat in

RUSSELL TO CLEVELAND.

The Massachusetts Governor Praises the Letter Against Free Coinage. BOSTON, Feb. 16.-Governor Russell is another statesman who dares to let his ppinions be known, as witness this letter, which he sent yesterday to Mr. Cleveland: MY DEAR SIE-I cannot refrain from writing you to express my gratification at your recent letter against free coluage of silver, and my admiration for the courage and patriotism that prompted it, and which have led you in the past to meet every public duty without dinching.

As a Democrat, too, intensely loyal to my party and its principles, eager for its success, I congratulate you that you have taken a position which is not only right, but which greatly strongthens the party in the North and East. It seems clear that the division on this question is geographical rather than political; yet believe me most sincerely that the apparent support of many Democrats of the proposition for free silver coinage arose from their earnest and just desire to kill the force hill, which now, thank God, is dead. I look now to see a stronger stand in our party against free coinage.

New England is rapidly becoming Democratic, because of the sound position our party has taken on the tariff question, against the force bill and the whole system of political tyranny, selfishness and intrigue represented by the Republican party. We cannot afford to check this Democratic tendency by any false position on the silver question, nor by yielding to an impulsive movement which has mistaken the proper remedy for a just grievance.

I have no doubt the farmers are suffering from unjust burdens, but their greatest burden is the tariff taxation, which has benefited the few and wealting at their expense, and their greatest relief would be an immediate and large reduction of these tariff burdens.

Our party has now so fully the coundence of the country and its business interests that it cannot afford to coumit itself to a measure which will impair this confidence.

Great credit is due you for expressing with so much force and without regard to personal consequences the opinion of the Democratic party of the North and East on this subject, Yours very truly.

WILLIAM E. RUSSELL. As a Democrat, too, intensely loyal to my

BURNING TANKS OF OIL.

Among the Spectators. PHILADELHIA, Feb. 16 .- Eight out of 12 tank oil cars that were coupled together, and five loaded coal cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad, were destroyed by fire tonight. The flames from the burning oil attracted thousands of people to the scene. Suddenly one of the oil cars exploded and the burning oil was thrown high in the air. The crowd made a wild rush for safety, and many were knocked down and trampled and some were badly injured, but one killed. Loss estimated at from $15,000

The talk was all about the Storey and Bierbauer matter, but it only veiled the true purposes of the revolt—the capture of Cincinnati

WRESTLING IN THE TWELFTH WARD. Harry Hulton Downs Adam Ihler in Lively Contest-The Winner Challenged. There was an interesting wrestling match, catch-as-catch-can style, in the Twelfth ward last evening. The contestants were Harry Hulton and Adam Ihler. They wrestled the best two of three falls for $50 a side. Hulton won the first and third falls in five and two minutes respectively, winning the match. The betting was very spirited.

A Twelfth ward sporting man called at this office last evening and left the following challenge, accompanied by a forfeit: "I now put up 55 with the sporting editor of THE DISPATCH to match Tim Miniban to wrestle Harry Hulton the best two of three falls for from $50 to $550 a side. Or I will match Jerome Murray to throw both Hulton and Ihler inside of 30 minutes. CLEVELAND SIGNS CHILDS.

The Promising Second Baseman Finally Captured by Manager Leadley. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCILL CLEVELAND, Feb. 16,-The Cleveland club to-day signed Clarence L. Childs, the ex-Syracuse second baseman, to play with the local team for the ensuing year. In exchange for team for the ensuing year. In exchange for the contract with Childs the Boston Association club gets the services of Radford and Stricker of the Clevelands of 1889, Boston having purchased Child's release off Syracuse. The deal would have been completed two weeks ago but for the tampering with Childs by Barnie, of Baltimore, who was endeavoring to induce the player to hold off. Childs is a good fielder and a tine batter.

Cleveland's infield for next year will be Virtue, first base; Childs, second base; McKean, shortstop; Tebeau, third base.
