THE FUNERAL TRAIN

Is Viewed by Many Thousands as It Passes Through Pittsburg.

THE CITY'S TRIBUTE TO SHERMAN.

Veterans of the War and Citizen Soldiers at the Union Station.

BE PROVIDED FOR HIS OWN MONUMENT

The train bearing the body of General W. T. Sherman arrived at the Union station yesterday morning, and while the engines were being changed the fact was noted by the ringing of bells and booming of cannon. The train, which was run as the first section of No. 9, drew into the station at 7:45 o'clock. Long before that hour a detail of policeman under command of Captain Silvus, guarded the approaches and kept back the crowd, which at one time jammed the nearby streets.

MONUMENT OVER THE GRAVE OF MRS. SHERMAN.

There was a light rain falling, but this had no apparent effect upon those who had gathered either from curiosity or to pay a last tribute of respect to the dead soldier. There were many women in the crowd. The bridge across Liberty street was packed with people, as were other available points of observation. Among the spectators were many who, it could be seen, had been soldiers during the War of the Rebellion, the fact being apparent from the Grand Army button worn upon their coats.

Veterans and Citizen Soldiers.

The organized veterans were out in full force, over 300 comrades parading, under command of Department Commander Joseph F. Denniston. They bore a magnificent floral tribute, which was placed at the foot of the coffin. The Eighteenth Regiment paraded about 350 men, commanded by Colonel Norman M. Smith, and took up its position on the Panhandle platform, together with the veterans.

As the train came in the Cathedral Band played a dirge, the soldiers presented arms and the spectators removed their hats. The engine was heavily draped with crape, and the six coaches were also festooned with the emblems of mourning.

While at the station Battery B fired 17 guns, a Major General's salute, from the hills above. When the engine which was to replace the one that had brought in the train was coupled to the first car the Eighteenth Regiment bugler sounded a few notes, the soldiers presented arms and the train drew out.

Along the Line of the Road.

The first gatherings of any size that viewed the funeral train after leaving Altoona were at Greensburg and East Liberty. At the former place there was a large crowd at the station, but no formal demonstration. At Wilkinsburg the platform was lined with people. Fully 1,500 persons had gathered at East Liberty station when the train passed that point. The members of James McPherson Post 117, G. A. R., 50 strong, were drawn up in line and stood at attention as the train passed.

Before reaching the city the train stopped at Edgewood to permit Mr. and Mrs. Willis F. McCook and the Fitch children to get on board. At the Union station the latter were taken into the funeral car for a few minutes. On the Southside there was not much opportunity to observe the cars but nevertheless large crowds had congregated in the vicinity of the bridge and along the mill district. Many residents of the West End got a glimpse of the train as it rushed through that section of the city.

At Mansfield, Pa., through the blunder of a switchman, the train, which was going very slow, ran into a siding, but no one was hurt and those on board knew nothing of the occurrence.

General Sherman's Monument.

General Sherman's dislike for display was well known. He had directions issued at various times in relation to his funeral and also as to his monument. Regarding the latter, Lieutenant Tunckura, a son-in-law of the General, said yesterday, while the train was at the Union station:

"The General said that he wanted no demonstration after his death but a military funeral, such as he was entitled to according to his rank. He had been at General Grant's funeral, and this was what made him so positive in his position. He said that he did not want his body taken over the country like General Grant's had been, and then have his body deposited on the banks of the Hudson, where there was no one to take care of anything.

"He has made a will, and in it he strictly stipulates that the funeral expenses be paid out of his estate. He has even gone so far as to choose the monument that is to be erected over his grave. He decided on the kind and cost of it, even to what lettering should be on it. All he desires is to have the date of his birth, his rank and the date of his death, and besides this only two words, viz: 'True and Honest.' So positive was he about there being no demonstration after his death, other than requested, that in his deliriums he would talk about it. In fact, in this last sickness, he seemed to think of this more than anything else."

WESTWARD BOUND.

THE FUNERAL TRAIN ON ITS WAY FROM PITTSBURG.

It Is Greeted at All Points in the Dead Warrior's Native State by the G. A. R., School Children and Large Crowds—Halt at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20.—The first stop of the funeral train in Ohio, the native State of the dead chieftain, was at Steubenville, at 9:30 A. M., where 2,000 people were gathered at the depot. As the train passed through the State it was greeted at various points by Grand Army posts and other military organizations. At Newcomerstown all the public school children stood in a line at the street crossing, with heads uncovered and carrying small flags edged with black. As the train passed by they could be heard singing "Nearer My God to Thee." Similar juvenile demonstrations were made at Coshocton and Trinway.

A brief stop was made at Newark, and Columbus was reached at 2:25, where a struggling mass of humanity struggled to catch a glimpse of the cortege.

Senator Sherman, ex-President Hayes, General Ewing and others of the party came from the train and had a brief talk with the relatives living in the city who had come to the train. The officers from the United States garrison in this city were at the train to meet the Government officials. Quite a number of the relatives of the deceased General from Lancaster and Zanesville joined the funeral party at this point. The members of the joint legislative committee had a special car, which was hitched to the regular Panhandle train west following the funeral train. The train left Columbus at 3:15 P. M.

ONE WAY TO GET EVEN.

A Peculiar Wrangle on Hand Between Two Southside Brothers.

Joseph Loll, of Lower St. Clair township, has entered suit before Alderman King against his brother, Anton Loll, Charles Reible and a man named Height, for assault and battery. It is rather a peculiar case, from Loll's story. His father died some time ago, leaving some property. Joseph Loll thinks he is not treated as well as his brother Anton by his mother, and that they are after his share of the property. On Thursday evening Reible and Height went to Loll's house and represented themselves to be constables from Alderman King's office and served a warrant on Joseph Loll. He had an idea they were not all right, and refused to go with them. After quite a struggle, in which his younger brother assisted the alleged officers, while endeavoring to get away they offered to let him go if he would sign a paper which they exhibited. He refused, and finally succeeded in breaking away from them. He then secured an ax and chased his assailants away.

Yesterday morning Loll visited Alderman King and wanted to know what was the charge against him. Upon learning there was nothing against him he explained the circumstances to the Alderman, and finally entered suit for assault and battery.

Anton Loll was arrested yesterday, and from him it was learned who the other two were. They will be arrested and the hearing will be held to-day, when some interesting developments are expected.

DUEL BETWEEN MEN AND BROOMS.

Chief Bigelow Witnesses an Interesting Contest in New York.

Chief Bigelow, of the Department of Public Works, returned yesterday from New York, where he had been for three days investigating the street cleaning methods in vogue in the Metropolis. The subject is being thoroughly sifted just now owing to a dispute between the Board of Public Works and an organization of indignation. The latter hold that sweeping the streets by hand is the only thorough method, while the officials cling to the machine sweepers. To settle this question the city has been divided into two sections, one being given up to the manual sweepers and the other to the machines.

Chief Bigelow decided that the machines did just as good work as the men, to say nothing of the difference in speed. The Chief is congratulating himself on the fact that Pittsburg will soon own the teams which haul the sweepers, and will thereby allow him to secure better results. One thing he wants to remedy, and that is the sweeping of the main thoroughfares just as the theaters are letting out, which has resulted in the destruction of many opera bonnets and the loss of much temper. A new schedule will be arranged, which will keep the sweepers on the side streets until all good citizens are at home.

Killed on the Railroad.

The bodies of two unknown men were found on the Pennsylvania tracks yesterday, one at Swissvale, the other at Nineveh. They were badly mutilated, and were turned over to the authorities at these places.

REGARDING CONVICTS

The Western Penitentiary Inspectors Issue Their Usual

REPORT ON THAT INSTITUTION.

Requesting of the Legislature a Large Appropriation to

THOROUGHLY FINISH THE SOUTH WING

The biennial report of the Inspectors of the State Penitentiary for the Western district of Pennsylvania, has been forwarded to Harrisburg.

In their report the inspectors announce that the work on the south wing has been steadily prosecuted, to a great extent by prisoners, and add that the steady increase of population has indicated other necessities, and the board recommends an appropriation, which has already been approved by the State Board of Charities, for completing the south wing, building 40 cells for female prisoners, a chapel in which all the prisoners can be brought together at certain times, a building for storage and preserving supplies, and a stable.

Formerly, the building used for female prisoners was amply commodious, but in these two years the number has more than doubled, and the house has become unsuitable and entirely inadequate. The board, after careful consideration, decided to proceed at once with the work, as they deemed it an imperative necessity to provide separate cells for each prisoner, their construction has progressed as rapidly as the weather would permit, and it is expected to have them finished by April next.

A Consummation Long Desired.

A systematic grading and classification of prisoners will be introduced as soon as the south wing is ready for occupancy. While this is a new departure, the board has long desired its accomplishment, inasmuch as the systematic recognition of merit under this plan has in view the best interests of the criminal by placing him under conditions most favorable for reformation of character, the great end and aim of prison discipline, the attainment of which is of prime importance, not only to the prisoner but to society at large. The report continues:

While this institution has been remarkably fortunate since its removal to Riverside, in the matter of development of insanity, yet the statistics of the Commonwealth show a largely increasing number of insane prisoners. There are now over 300 criminal insane cared for by the State, many of them unprovided with any attention beyond that afforded by institutions never intended or equipped for such service.

The establishment of an asylum within walls, with such buildings and equipments as will combine suitable arrangements for their proper care and treatment, with the security of a prison is strongly recommended by the Inspectors to the Legislature.

Money Needed for the Next Two Years.

The report concludes with a request for the following appropriations for the years 1891 and 1892:

For finishing south wing, building an addition for female prisoners, a chapel, supply building, stable and storage building,	$80,000
For salaries for two years	70,000
Books and stationery for inspectors	1,000
	$151,000

And the usual gratuities to discharged prisoners.

Warden Wright, in his report says:

The number in the prison at the close of the year was 783, or 100 more than at the end of 1888. Of the whole number received in the past two years, 356, or 59 per cent, were under 30 years of age; 258, or 39.47 per cent, were less than 25 years old (in the same time and from the same counties 132 entered the new State reformatory). The number of repeaters was 86, or 14.26 per cent; in the previous two years 16 per cent were of this class. Four hundred and sixty-nine, or nearly 78 percent, had no trades; 107, or nearly 18 per cent, were illiterate or nearly so; 321, or 53.23 per cent, were natives of Pennsylvania; 156, or 25.87 per cent, were born in other States; and 126, or 20.90 per cent, were foreign born; 454, or 75.29 per cent, were convicted of crimes against property, and 149, or 24.71 per cent, of crimes against person.

Upon the completion of the south wing the prison will have 1,180 cells for general use, complete in all details except light at night; candles are used at present, but electric light should be procured to light the cells and grounds as soon as practicable.

The Work Done By Convicts.

As a rule the extent of labor in prisons is known by few. No matter where the prison may be, a large proportion of its inmates are required in the routine work, such as cooking, baking, washing, cleaning, and many other details of ordinary prison duty. Nearly every prison maintains a large working party to keep up repairs in buildings and grounds, all being at labor alike useful and necessary, but without any income for its result. It naturally follows that the labor of the men who are employed in productive industries does not go far toward the cost of maintenance; besides this there are many other causes why the earnings are limited; the character of the labor is crude, unskilled, often unwilling and restless for change. But for every one in prison, labor maintains its position as the leading factor in prison treatment. We have only the making of mats, mattings and brooms from which an income is derived. Much of the work is of a nominal character, but even that is preferable to the demoralization of idleness. Labor in prison should be useful, thorough and cheerful in character; when it is such its benefits cannot be overestimated.

The total expenses for 1889 were $89,867 31, and for 1890, $94,282 34. The revenue for 1889 was $93,415 06, and for 1890, $98,126 34.

The Treasurer's report shows that $74,626 88 was expended on account of new buildings, $93,650 50 for subsistence and $35,000 in salaries to officers. The receipts include $111,784 63 from sales of mats and matting and $15,044 96 from sales of brooms. One thousand nine hundred and sixty-five dollars and five cents was given in gratuities to prisoners on their discharge.

Nativity of the Year's Aggregation.

Of the 313 prisoners received during the year, 216 were white males of American birth, 3 white females, 30 colored males and 3 colored females of the same nationality. Of 58 foreign born male prisoners and 3 female, 16 were from Hungary and 8 from Ireland. Pennsylvania furnished 165 and New York 24 of the native-born prisoners. The crimes which sent the greatest number of inmates to the penitentiary last year were larceny, 57 cases; larceny and receiving stolen goods, 16; robbery 9 and burglary 12, and murder in second degree 13. The total number of prisoners confined in the pen is 1,039. Of prisoners received during 1890, 290 in number, 9 are under 18 years of age, 23 from 18 to 21, 7 between 60 and 70, and 1 over 70 years. Fifty-two of the total were abstainers, 91 moderate drinkers, 122 "occasionally intoxicated," and 25 intemperate; 97 were Catholics, 91 Methodists, 25 Presbyterians, 25 Lutherans, 13 Baptist, 6 United Brethren, 5 Episcopalians and 18 to other beliefs, 10 were of no creed.

The physician reports four deaths for 1889, and eight deaths and two suicides for 1890. The report continues:

Of the 603 convicts received during the past two years, 163 were in impaired health, eight in bad health, and five mentally impaired at the time of their admission. Of the whole number discharged during the past two years, all, with few exceptions, have left the prison in an improved state of health.

WENT A BIT TOO FAR.

Three Men Who Took Advantage of a Police Flood-Time Order.

David Crowley, Thomas Carlis and William Hagle were arrested yesterday afternoon, on information by Officer Tanney, and taken to the Thirty-sixth ward station.

During the high water officers were instructed not to make arrests except for serious offenses. The above parties, knowing of the order, took advantage of it and behaved in a disorderly manner, swearing at the officers and daring them to arrest them. They will have a hearing before Magistrate Succop this morning.

FINE MUSIC AT CARNEGIE HALL.

The Excellent Programme for the Free Organ Recital This Afternoon.

A charming miscellaneous programme will be observed at the forty-first free organ recital in Carnegie Hall this afternoon. The vocal music will be given by the popular young soprano of Allegheny, Miss Carrie Angell, and Mr. Rinehart, second tenor of the Calvary choir. Among the instrumental novelties are Simeon Bissell's new waltz. The programme is as follows:

Overture to Zanetta	Auber
Novellette	F. L. Morey
Valse miniature	Meyer-Helmund
Aragonaise from the Ballet "Cid"	Massenet
Potpourri "Trumpeter of Sakleinger"	Nessler
Vocal "Last Night"	Kjerulf
Monastery Bells	L. Wely
Valse Russe	Jovanovici
Land of My Dream Waltz	Otto Heyer
Vocal: "Winter Lullaby"	De Koven
Bessie Waltz	Simeon Bissell
Danse "Sevillana"	F. Behr
Vocal: "All in a Garden Fair"	M. Watson
Overture "Jean de Paris"	Boldieu

Skin Diseases.

The human family are subject to nearly 200 skin diseases, about 100 of which are common to this country. No class of diseases are more distressing, annoying and humiliating to the sufferer than skin diseases, and none are less understood by family physicians. They are so numerous, so different in their conditions and symptoms, that in order to understand them thoroughly and treat them intelligently and successfully it is necessary for a physician to make their care, management and treatment a specialty. This Dr. VanDyck has done for years. He has studied, analyzed and treated every form of rash, humor, eruption, blood and skin disease in existence, until he has arrived at almost perfection in their treatment. He has treated the skin for over 20 years; was the first physician in this country to make the treatment of the skin a specialty. He numbers among his patients many of our most prominent families.

Remember this, the care, management and treatment of the skin, complexion and hair is of the greatest importance in the health, comfort and happiness of every one, and we should always endeavor to obtain the best possible skill, and should consult the specialist with the utmost freedom. Dr. VanDyck has a national reputation for his skill in the practice of dermatology

(SKIN DISEASES.)

ACNE—In this disease white or red inflamed pimples appear on forehead, cheeks and nose, is often associated with an oily condition of the skin, affects both sexes between the ages of 15 and 30, is a very unsightly facial blemish.

COMEDONES—In this affection black specks fill the pores of the skin, seen mostly on the cheeks, nose, forehead and ears, is often associated with acne, affects both sexes.

LIVER SPOTS—Are dark brownish, dirty, muddy-looking spots in the cheeks, forehead, neck and around the mouth; the neck and mouth often looking as if skin were scaled, affecting ladies mostly.

RED NOSE—Nothing is more suggestive to the public than a chronic red nose; many a man and woman of the most abstemious habits are compelled to carry the perceptible sign of conviviality; the nose becomes red upon the least exposure to heat or cold, which in time becomes chronic red—in many advanced cases a network of capillaries and veins appear.
