The Berlin Court on Its Dignity Because of the Market Flirtation of Young King Alexander and a German Countees.

FECULIAR TRIALS OF A SCCIALISTIC LEADER

IBY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANY.) BERLIN, Feb. 22.-The political world has been and is still greatly agitated by a series of events which have a close connection with one another, though they are generally treated through ignorance as distinct. The imperial quarrel with Prince Bismarck is treated here as really part and parcel of the difference which arose between the ex-Chancellor and the Emperor in regard to the future treatment of the whole subject of foreign relations. The fall of Signor Crispi, the visit of the Empress Frederick, mother of the Emperor, to Paris, and the pourparlers for a meeting this year of the German. Austrian and Russian sovereigns are all chapters in the book which is telling the story of cotemporary European history.

The Intrigues of the French. Signor Crispi's tall was due partly to French intrigues. No truthful French statesman could deny that for some years past France has been quietly but persistently trying to underwine the triple alliance.

The downfall was also due partly to the feeling which had grown up among the Italians that their country was nothing more than an appendage of the tripple allianse and that their resources were being exhausted to hely Germany to show a hold front against France by frightening Russia from consolidating with the French Repubbeen insulved by the most patriotic motives, and the statements of his hostility to the young Emperor are simply absurd.

On the contrary his loyalty to the scion of the Hohannollerns is almost of a felish character. But he stands for the moment almost alone in defending a policy which consisted in the alliance with Austria against France and in standing as a buffer delying the aggression of Russia. A Woman's Part in the Plane

Bismarck has fallen, and with him Crispi. The Empress Frederick, a sworn bitter enemy of the ex-Chancellor, is at the present moment woolng France into an approachment which her son ardently desires as the consummation of his policy of compromise, which is diametrically opposed to the policy of Prince Bismarck and to the old Emperor's theory of stubborn defiance. The defection of Italy from the triple alliance, for that is what it amounts to however it may be glossed over by the press, has necessitated a conference between the German and Austrian sovereigns to which the Czar is invited.

The preliminaries will be arranged diplomatically before hand, but before a few months have elapsed Europe will be startled by the news of an alliance of the Northern powers, which will thrust peace down the throat of France by mutual disarmament or by news of a rupture which may lead to a war of extermination.

The Kniser's Health Still Good.

In this connection a number of stupid lies have been circulated lately about the Emperor being in ill health. They are absolutely unfounded. I see him daily Unter den Linden looking in the best of nealth and in the prime vigor of manhood. The reports were spread for the purpose of influencing the Bourse, but that they virtually failed to secure the effect aimed at is proved by the fact that the new loan of 450,000,000 marks has been subscribed four times over in Berlin alone.

News from the country shows the remark able result that the loan is subscribed 45 times. There is some question of prosecuting the authors of these lying statements, which almost amount to treason.

MORE ROYAL SCANDALS.

THE YOUNG KING ALEXANDER AND A GERMAN COUNTESS.

It May Be Only a Mild Flirtation, but the Berlin Court Is Taking the Matter Up-A Minister's Son Snubbed Because of the Affair.

IBY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANT.1 BERLIN, Feb. 22.-The series of royal scandals in which I gave you an inkling in my last week's letter has been augmented by another, the scene of which, however, is laid in Belgrade, where woman's influence has always held more or less sway. The young King Alexander, a mere boy, is said to be infatuated with the Countess Bray Steinberg, wife of the German Minister, to such an extent that the Berlin relatives and friends of the lady have been informed of the fact and seriously contemplate the removal of the Countess from the scene of temptation. At a recent ball where the entire diplomatic corps and the Court of Belgrade were assembled Alexander paid the Countess such marked attention that every eye in the hall was centered on the couple, who, however, were so much lost in the pleasure of each others' society that they appeared unconscious of all observers. The Countess is a lovely young woman of sweet disposition and gitted with brilliant and entertaining powers of conversation.

Alexander has inherited from his mother a precocious, self-willed temperament, and his father's frivolousness is already exerting itself. The Berlin court is taking the matter up, which, after all, may only be a flirta-tion, and the Princess Reuss, wife of the German Ambassador in Vienna, gave ex-pression to the official disapprobation at a recent reception in her mansion, when she re-fused to recognize the son of the Roumanian Ambassador, Prince Bacaresco, who is the son of Princess Ghika, the sister of Queen

The young Prince had come with his parents on a general invitation issued to the Embassy, but when he made his bow to the manner what he was doing there, adding that she had not the pleasure of knowing him, and that it was, therefore, impossible that he should have received an invitation. The young man had the good sense not to reply, but quietly withdrew from the scene, Next day the Roumanian Minister, upon inquiry, was informed that Princess Reuss had mistaken his son for the attache Cretzulesco, who recently entered into a matrimonial combination with a ballet girl, and was, therefore, cut by all people of good Liebnecht objects very strongly to this kind of party discipline and says he will never submit to it as far his private doings are concerned.

A mass meeting of Radicals was held on Friday night, before which Herr Liebnecht was virtually put on his trial for visiting the boycotted concert hall. In reply to the charge he maintained his right as a good citizen to listen to good music, but prom-ised not to visit the boycotted concert hall again. He refused, however, to allow the party to dictate the localities which his family might frequent to hear music. Fully 24 speakers arose to denounce his conduct, but the assembly finally decided to post-pone its sentence. There were at least 3,000 Socialists present at this meeting.

[BY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANY.] LONDON, Feb. 22 .- The release from prison is announced of the notorious Irish eriminal, Patrick Kirwan, who was convicted of the murder of his young wife, Maria, in September, 1852. The sentence of death, which was originally passed upon him, was commuted to penal servitude for life. The trial was one of the most sensational in the annals of Irish crime. At first Kirwan was not suspected, but it was soon learned that he led a double life. He was a constant visitor to a woman at a place called Sandymount, and was regarded by the people in the neighborhood as the husband of the woman in question. Although this intrigue was going on for six years neither woman knew of the other's years, neither woman knew of the other's existence until a few months before the crime. Then shortly before dark one night a man named Campbell heard a loud cry and others living thereabouts heard screams.
Two boatmen proceeded to the point where the noise came from, and after a search of

BY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANT. BERLIN, Feb. 22.-Bishop Doane, o Albany, who visited Berlin in the early part of the week, as a delegate of the American Episcopal Church, and who held confirmation service in the American church at Dresden to-day, cut a picturesque figure in effete religious circles with his splendid robes of office, his hat laced up the side, his silk stockings and breeches. He and his good lady were fairly lionized by society, and the Empress Frederick drove up in state to the Mon Bijou Palace Church, where he preached, wearing the scarlet hood as an Oxford doctor of divinity. archist Meeting.

The Hebrew congregation which worships at the corner of Third avenue and Grant street is having turbulent times, which culminated in a fight in the sanctuary yesterday afternoon. For several months past there has been considerable ill feeling in this congregation, which blazed out last summer and resulted in the suspension of three of the members, but which apparently subsided and has been smoldering until now.

A man with disordered clothing a black eye and blood flowing from his mouth, rushed into the Central station yesterday tternoon. He gave his name as H. Bartnitzky and demanded the immediate arrest of Reuben Miller, Vice President of the Hebrew congregation, who, he said, had assaulted him within the sacred precincts of the Synagogue. Bartnitzky was instructed to make an information against Miller. which he promised to do, and an officer was sent to investigate the case.

Opposed Anarchistic Doctrines. Rabbi Sevitz was seen and told his story o the officer. According to his statements Reuben Miller, the vice president of the corner of Logan and Franklin streets, in which he carries on the manufacture of tobies, and has on the top floor a large room which he rents out occasionally for public meetings. A few days ago a man named Lewis, who is said to be a New York Anar-Lewis, who is said to be a New York Anarchist, came to this city, and wanted to deliver an address to the toby makers of Pittsburg. Miller agreed to rent his hall for the occasion, and the meeting was announced for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the Hebrew Sabbath.

Rabbi Sevitz heard of the proposed meeting and the same and the ing and, being opposed to the promulgation of Anarchistic doctrines and disliking the idea Anarchistic doctrines and disliking the idea of holding secular meetings on the Sabbath, took steps to counteract its effect. At the Saturday morning service he announced to his congregation that another service would be held in the afternoon, which is very un-usual, and impressed upon his hearers the necessity for their attendance. As a result the Synagogu: was filled to overflowing in the afternoon, while but a handful of toby-makers listened to the electroness of Lagis as makers listened to the eloquence of Lewis as his voice reverberated hollowly in the near-ly empty hall of Reuben Miller.

Couldn't Draw Against the Rabb's Miller heard the rabbi's announcement in the morning, but did not fully realize its significance until he sat at home wearily watching for the audience that failed to come. Then he saw through it all, and put-ting on his hat broke for the Synagogue, where he arrived out of breath and out of patience. His equanimity was not increased when he realized that the rabb: possessed a greater drawing power than his attraction from New York. Miller at once asserted himself as Vice President, and demanded to know by what authority the rabbi had anled this unassest congregational meeting. The rabbi replied that he possessed that power by virtue of the provisions of his contract with the congregation, which specifically clothed him with the authority to call meetings whenever he deemed it recover.

He went to the Synagogue, and by rigorously rapping his mace succeeded in calling the meeting to order long enough to inform them that if they did not make less noise he would send for the patrol wagon and arrest the disturbers. Preferred Charges Against the Rabbi Yesterday afternoon Reuben Miller went to the church meeting, which is held every Sunday to discuss the financial and religious affairs of the congregation, and preferred charges against Rabbi Sevitz, who, he said, had exceeded his authority in calling a special meeting without first obtaining the consent of the congregational officers, The rabbi resented the charges, claiming again that he had vested in himself the power to call meetings, and furthermore added that he was opposed to the promulga-tion of Anarchistic doctrines among young men of his congregation, as they were con-trary to the principles of the Hebrew religion, or, indeed, to the principles of any religion. He admitted that he had acted as he did for the purpose of keeping people away from Lewis' meeting.

Miller became greatly enraged, and advancing toward the rabbi, demanded his resignation. Great excitement at once prevailed, the partisans of both men jumping

Knocked Out in the Synagogue.

Bartnitzky, who is a friend of the rabbi, advanced toward Miller to expostulate with him. Just as Bartnitzky got within arm's length of Miller, the latter led with his right, catching him squarely between the eyes, and as he fell giving him a left-hander in the mouth, which loosened all his front

This gladiatorial display startled the congregation into silence for a moment, and Miller's friends took advantage of this to hustle their man out of the Synagogue. Those left behind at once realized that the tumult must have excited the attention of the police, and to avoid arrest, they all left hastily.

Bartnitzky says he will make an information against Miller before Magistrate Gripp to-day. None of the members profess to prophesy the outcome of the trouble in the ongregation.

The Discovery of the Bodies Indicates That Their Fate Was Even More Horrible Than Their Companions'-An Additiona Distress for the Sorrowing Relatives.

SPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH. HAZLETON, PA., Feb. 22 .- Four more sodies were to-day taken from the mine at Jeansville. They were those of Mike Smith, Harry Ball, Lawrence Reed and John Bullock. The position in which they were found, and the circumstances surrounding them gave unmistakable evidence of their having escaped death by the flood which precipitated the horrible catastrophe. only to meet it in a more tortuous manner by starvation or suffocation.

Since the finding of Kelly's and Ward's bodies it was generally believed their companions shared a similar fate-that of drowning. This gave a sense of relief to the mourning relatives, who apprehended with horror the excruciating suffering the recovcongregation, has erected a building at the ery of those bodies to-day too plainly showed. When the exploring party to-day reached the breast in which the four bodies were found, it was noticed that the water had not reached the top of the breast. About 70 feet of it extending upward was dry and perfectly habitable. The explorers shuddered at the sight which met their gaze in this intervening space. Near the top of the breast was constructed a rude hut of a few plank and lumps of coal, the opening of which served for a door. In it was found in a kneeling posture the body of Reed, while his three companions were huddled together within it, all dead.

The explorers were too horrified to act and it was only after the lapse of several minutes that they brought themselves to a true sense of the situation and realized the terrible fate of their comrades. The kneeling posture in which Reed was found, as if imploring divine mercy, the humble, beseeching position of his companions, showed their sufferings to have been agonizing. It is supposed they had lived about ten days and were forced to succumb to the growing pangs of starvation. The feeling which the finding of these bodies has created among relatives is most distressing and the awful truth which they most dreaded has been forced upon them.

Remarkable and Valuable Discovery Near Canon City, Colorado.

DENVER, Feb. 22.-News has just reached this city of one of the most remarkable discoveries in America of the present year. The find is an alabaster quarry, the ledge being of great thickness and extending for miles in the foothills near Canon City. A party of gentlemen who have visited the place say that blocks of any size that it is possible for the ingenuity of man to handle can readily be quarried.

The specimens shown vary from the per-fect white to every possible tint of the rain-bow. Some of it will stand a pressure of 10,000 pounds to the square inch, and it all takes on a most beautiful polish. A portion of it makes a most merchantable plas-ter of paris, while the brown varieties can be used in an hydraulic cement. To Prevent the Placing of the Oil Bill on the House Calendar.

BURDICK HAS POSTPONED ACTION

Mysterious Disappearance of & Constitutional Convention Measure.

STATE BREWERS TO ENTER A PROTEST

TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR ! HARRISBURG, Feb. 22.-Representative The Standard Oil Company, since the offering of the resolution to place the Burdick bill on the House calendar, have been busy interviewing members of the House in the city in the interest of the defeat of the propoition. In order to obtain votes to accom plish this result members who have charge of egislation for the passage of which they are known to be anxious have been approached by these agents of the corporation and promsed support for their measures in exchange for opposition to the anti-Standard bill.

In anticipation of the calling up of Burdick's resolution to-morrow night, signatures have been secured to remonstrances at distributing points of the National Transit Company against the passage of the bill to reduce the rates of transportation and storage of oil. These remonstrances are being dragged her two tons of elephant flesh up orwarded to members of the House, and tonorrow evening a flood of them is expected at the session of the House. Action on the Matter Postponed.

Burdick has decided not to call up his resolution to-morrow night because he does not expect a sufficiently large attendance at the session of the House to make certain its favorable consideration. It would be impossible to seeme the mystery. There is not any mystery, however, about the way she is going to get of the house, but he consideration of the double of boards over the stairs out into the house, but he consideration. Representative Johnson, Chairman of the House Judielary Committee, to which the bill was referred, does not know what became of it. He was asked about the bill before its loss was discovered and replied that it had not been referred to his committee. He was positive in making his statement, but an examination of the resident clerk's book, containing record of the dis-position of bills after their introduction, in the presence of Mr. Johnson showed him that he was in error.

He then remarked that he bad not see this bill among those in his charge while looking over the list during the day and looking over the list during the day and made an investigation with a similar un-favorable result. Mr. Wherry was promptly old by Mr. Johnson of the disappearance of the hill, and neither of these men any idea of what has become of it.

Determined to Push Ballot Reform. The Baker ballot reform bill has been referred to a sub-committee, and Mr. Wherry has hopes that like disposition has been made of his bill. If it should not be found he will have another promptly prepared, and ballot reform will not suffer to any ma-terial extent by the misfortune which has befallen it. In the determination of the Democrats in the Legislature to push ballot reform they are warmly indorsed by the Knights of Labor committee, one of whose duties is to work for a convention to amend the Constitution so as to get rid of the provision which requires election tickets to

Liquor License Applicants Want to Knot Who Employs Them.

CHIEF BROWN WATCHING THE SCOUTS

Chief Brown, of the Department of Public Safety, was notified yesterday that two men were making a careful tour of the saloous in Pittsburg, and were investigating in an unostentatious, but none the less thorough manner, the accommodations for man and beast furnished by the saloon keepers. The scouts, for such they are supposed to he, do not appear to be greatly interested in the character and age of the malt, vinous and spirituous liquors sold over the bar. They want to know how many meals and lunches the saloon keeper can or does furnish daily, and the number of rooms be keeps at the disposal of the foot-sore and travel-stained wayfurer. They also desire to learn whether it is necessary for the traveler to present credentials and letters of introduction before he can secure accommodation; whether he is expected to make good any possible loss on bed and the steep and narrow stairs leading to board by first filling himself up with brewed or distilled bilarity, or whether the place is a public house in the fullest sense of the term-a place where the wanderer can settle back in his chair and say with Falstaff, "Shall I not take mine ease in of good wine and pretty women, the Investigating Committee pays more attention to the quality and quantity of the bread and other solids than it does to the sack, or whatever liquids take its place at this day into the courtyard. To-day being Sunday, Mr. Reiche could not do any work toward carrying out his plan, and Fanchon was compelled to remain in the hallway. The investigators make memoranda of the facilities for cooking and serving hungry multitudes, and want to know if the man who rises early in the day with a head so big that his brains rattle inside in a lonesome way, and with his face so puffed up that his eyes can scarcely peep over the edge, can take his choice at the bar between a cocktail and a cup of coffee as a ness. The keeper, who managed to steal a few winks of sleep during his sentry duty on the stairs, did not relish Fanchon's advances. Once, in the middle of the night, Fanchon sneezed. In an instant the keeper, his wife and their three children were morning bracer.

This investigation has contributed considerably to the nervonmess of saloon keep-ers, few of whom anticipate the License Court ordeal with any degree of pleasure. What makes them all the more anxious is the fact that they do not know under whose instructions the men are working-whether by order of the Department of Public Safety, the Judges of the License Court, the Law and Order League, or of some anti-salon organization which has not yet publicly an-nounced its existence. The saloon keepers do not think it is a blackmail scheme, as the night the Ohio river at Cincinnati stood 54 men seem to shrink from observation as much as possible, while their general apfeet 4 inches above low water and was rising one inch an hour. They teel a foreboding that lightning is going to Business men here are preparing for a rise of not over 56 feet 6 inches from the strike, and they are atraid that if they make themselves too prominent they may receive the bolt. However, a quiet inquiry was made of Chief Brown as to whether these present flood. It is expected that the maximum stage will be reached here by 6 o'clock men were working by his orders, or if he will remain stationary till 6 o'clock on Tuesday night, when it will begin to fall. Of course, if the court desires it we will cheerfully fornish any information in our possession bearing upon the subject. As to these men who are visiting saloons, we will keep an eye upon them and will see that they make no illegitimate use of their information."

Inspector McAleese, of the First district, had also heard of the seekers after informa-tion, but knew nothing further about them.

ANOTHER EVENING OF TALK.

Second Chapter of the Allegheny Attempt to Roast the Judges.

The little hall at 63 Ohio street where the Sons of Temperance hold their meetings, was overcrowded last night. The young men who, the Sunday night before, had resented the attack on the characters of the Judges, were there to defend their position. The affair was but a repetition of the previous Sunday night. W. H. Carlisle, A. F. Bryce, L. Mooney and D. Swoge each took the stand that as the Judges had discretionary powers sufficient to enable them to refuse all licenses, they were morally responsible for anything done by the liquor traffic. They declared all saloons must be

W. G. Holman, Will Bigger and E. N. Cochrane held the opinion that under exist-ing circumstances the Judges should not be censured for granting licenses. They believed there were decent, respectable men in the saloon business, who conducted it properly. Mr. Mooney declared there was not a respectable man in the business. Mr. Holman attempted to reply, but Mr. Mooney adjourned the meeting.

TAKES TWO TO KILL A MAN.

D. Swoger Makes a Sweeping Assertion Against Saloon Keepers. The regular meeting of the Manchester branch of the W. C. T. U. was held at their hall, on Washington avenue, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Briody presided and opened the meeting. Messrs. Mooney, Carlisle and Swoger were called on, and all made short addresses.

The publication of the list of applicants for liquor license afforded a theme for talk, and Mr. Swoger said that of the 2,000 appli-cants one-half were murderers, as it took two saloon keepers to kill a man. THEY DON'T WANT PALMER.

Illinois F. M. B. A. Men Satisfied With the Action of Their Legislators. SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 22.-Representatives Moore and Taubeneck, who addressed a meeting at Shelbyville yesterday, returned to this city to-day. The audience was composed of farmers mostly, and when Moore asked how many desired him to vote for asked how many desired him to vote for Palmer, about one-sixth of 200 present raised their hands. Four wanted him to vote for a Republican, and the remainder signified their approval of the course so far taken by the F. M. B. A. legislators.

General Palmer, in an interview this afternoon, said he would continue to receive votes from Democratic members for some time to come, and that there is at present no indication of the near approach of time for change of candidates.
