EMPEROR WILLIAM IN AN ANGRY MOOD

INY CAULE TO THE DISPATCE. Parts, Feb. 27 .- All official France, from the President downward, no doubt breathed a sigh of relief as the Dowager Empress Frederick, of Germany, steamed away from the capital this morning. The attitude assumed during her sojourn here by the Ligae des l'atriotes on the one hand and the crazy utterances of the Cologne Genetic on the other, would, it was leared, result in a popular demonstration that both Germany and France would ultimately regret. Fortunately, the imperial guest was enabled to conclude her visit without any demonstration and at 9:45 o'clock left the German embassy in a landau, accompanied by her danghter Count Munster, the German Ambassador, and General Leplat. To avoid the public the carriage was driven to the station by a circuitous route, but on approaching the Gare du Nord, a tollowing of some 100 persons, attracted by the German cockades worn by the coachman and footman, and gathered. They seemed drawn only by motives of curiosity, and made no attempt to interfere with the movenents of the royal travelers. Descending from the carriage, the Empress gave her arm to Count Munster, and crossing the interm, entered the carriage that had been eserved for her. She arrived at Calais at 42 s'clock this afternoon, where embarked the twin steamer Calais-Douvres for

THE QUEEN HUMILIATED

WITH GRIEF AND RAGE OVER THE BACCARAT SCANDAL.

Searching Investigation Into the Whole Affair Demanded-The Prince of Wales' Unfortunate Connections-Gordon Cumming Rejects All Overtures for a Com-

THY DUNLAR'S CABLE COMPANY.1 LONDON, Feb. 27 .- A red rag to a bull is about as calming to his rage as is the sight of the name of Sir William Gordon Cumming to the Queen. This case, oddly enough, has not passed out of the domain of the nineday wonder stage, which is about twice as long as an ordinary cause celebre is now able to hold public attention. It will undoubtedly drag its length, and a weary length, too, from day to day, and month to month until it flares up in the heat of a court of law. In the meantime ordinary words are unable to depict the grief and rage of the Queen at the affair which took piace at Tranby Croft. The reason of this is no doubt because most of the English papers have condemned the participation of the Prince of Wales in this now historical game of baccaret. In fact one of the papers has gone in for a more searching inquiry into the history of it, and as the result of this investigation it reminds neonle that he has been singularly infortunate in the choice of his friends, for two of them are now beguiling the weary hours exiled from home, for the exhilarating pastime of cheating at cards, while a third, "a man of pedigree," is now charged with a similar offense, and a fourth is in exile in consequence of the grave charge which has been made against him and has rendered his absence compulsory, while it would be ex-ceedingly difficult to say how many have been through the bankruptcy court.

Upon behalf of Sir William Gordon Cumming, his lawyers have replied that they do not intend to submit their case to anybody but a jury, and that there would not be a moment's unnecessary delay in bringing the case to trial. The lawyers add they do not intend to be hurried.

The Parnell Fire Escape Episode Still Stock Theatrical Joke.

(BY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANY) LONDON, Feb. 27 .- Parnellism continues after so long a time to be a stock joke at the music halls, as well as for the comedians in the comic opera entertainments, which now flourish like the green bay tree. The pretended climbing of a fire escape and an abrupt exit through a window serve to raise a shrick of laughter and are still made the subject of topical song. The changes rung on them, which an ordinarily intelligent individual would regard as trite and worn-out subjects for jest, be-come in the skillful hand, or rather mouth, of the low comedy merchant perfectly inexof society seem to delight in these references to the Uncrowned King.

This is the discovery at Como of an original portrait of Christopher Columbus, which was painted by Del Piombo, This portrait was formerly regarded as a heirloom in the family of the Gioveos, and, in fact, it was in the possession of Paul Gioveo, who makes references to it in his works, and had it engraved. Through the failure of the male branch of the Gioveo family, the picture passed into the possession of the De Archi family, and is now the property of Dr. De Archi, Como, by whom its history has been told.

LONDON'S AWFUL FOG. A Vigorous Onslaught to Be Made on It by a Scientific Commission.

THY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANY. LONDON, Feb. 27 .- Those who live in the exhilarating atmosphere and for the most part under bright sunshine can have no idea of the appalling misery it is to go for weeks without seeing the day god. Fog has been the dominant factor of existence here. People have gone to bed with it at night and have got up with it in the morning. It has been the universal opinion of scientists for years that Londoners are in a large measure answerable for this condition of things, but in spite of the discomfort it has been difficult to get anything really done to mitigate the evil.

At last attempts are being made to appoint a fog commission, in the hope that something will be done by it to compel such steps to be taken as will at least cause an effort to be made that will save people from the all-embracing clutches of this demon of darkness and death. The fog, which has been continuous from St. Valentine's Day, has cost hundreds of thousands of pounds loss to business people and has been the means of sacrificing hundreds of human

A MISSING REVOLVER FOUND ON BASE-BALL PLAYER BAUER.

It Was the Weapon Editor Elliot Killed Hughes With-The Murderer Tried to Get It Out of the Way-Police are Exonerated.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.]

COLUMBUS, Feb. 27 .- The excitement over Monday's tragedy here, when the Elliotts killed W. L. Hughes and A. C. Osborne, does not subside Coroner's jury, pictures of the men, new developments, etc., and the affair is discussed everywhere. The 38-caliber revolver, with which W. J. Elliott killed W. L. Hughes and also shot A. C. Osborne in the chin, has been missing until to-day, and Prosecuting Attorney Huling swore there would soon be a vacancy on the police force, as he blamed Officer Wolf, who arrested Elliott, with concealing the weapon.

The builet taken out of Hughes' head was a 38-caliber revolver ball, hence the desire to get the revolver from which it was fired. The three pistols in the hands of the police are all 32-calibers. In the present temper of the people, it will not take much to re-enact here the disgraceful Cincinnati riots. If the Elliotts escape with a slight sentence there will be a riot and lynching here.

The 38-caliber revolver was found this afternoon, however, and the innocence of the police proven. Clifford Little, a 13-year-old boy, told some of his playmates that he saw a man who was walking with Editor Elliott and the arresting officer, Wolf, reach his hand into Elliott's overcoat pocket and take a large revolver. This was repeated at the police station. This man proved to be Al Bauer, a baseball player. He walked on one side of Elliott, who whispered something to Bauer, who slipped his haud into the overcoat pocket and took out the "gun" unpreceived by the officer.

Chief of Police Murphy to-night arrested Bauer and locked him up. Bauer says Elliott whispered to him to take the re-volver and that he (Bauer) intended to give it to the Prosecuting Attorney. The re-Wesson, hammerless, self-cocking and self-ejecting, is a five-shooter, and all the cart-five feet at Fonda and six feet at Fort Plain. New York Central tracks are still covered with ice, some of which is three feet thick, and mixed with water in some places. As everybody knows, there has never been the least chance of the passage of the bill. The circular was evidently written solely for the purpose of stirring up strife, raising a row in the convention and giving the woman suffragists a black eye. The eminent ladies who lead the convention were very indignant at the charge, not so much on account of its a ubstance as of its anonymous character, and the spirit which prompted it. They utterly deny being in league with anybody except themselves, in a formal sense, though they admit being grateful even to an Anarchist, who has enough of the spirit of freedom and equality

The Charge of Socialism

Mrs. Corinne Brown, of Chicago, is one of the most advanced thinkers in the convention, with a decided leaning toward socialism. She has been for some time past interested in all branches of the labor question. She was even more emphatic in her denial of the statement that there was any sort of a oalition between the Suffragists and the Socialists. "I am not sure yet whether I am a Socialist or not," said Mrs. Brown to the reporter, who talked with her behind the scenes this morning; "but I am familiar with all their methods, as well as with those of the Suffragists, and I know that there is not a sign of any agreement or union between the two classes as classes."

One of the youngest and most brilliant members of the convention added her testi-mony to the falsity of the accusation, but gave some very interesting additional inwith socialism. Not anarchism not nihilism, not communism, but substantial, practical State socialism, such as has the support of 2,000,000 voters in Germany, and such as pervades the thinking, progressive, humane classes throughout the civilized world. The best there is of the woman suffrage movement is full of this sort of socialism, but that has no part nor lot in the movement. That is a question of economics The woman suffrage movement is for equality of the sex pefore the law. The socialism of those who are Socialists is the outgrowth of economic conditions-a pure question of the best and most just method of

During the reading Mr. Plumb expressed his conviction that an average of $150 a year for Indian pupils was much too high; and also that no permanent advantage was derived from a system of Indian training which now cost $2,000,000 a year, and would before long cost $10,000,000. He did not believe that it had advanced the Indian one single iota in the path of civilization He described the Indian as being taken by the nape of the neck and "yanked" onto a plane of civilization, where they were like the seed sown on unfertile ground, which, when the sun came out, was parched and

Mrs. Huston would be asked to luncheon or dinner, and the resignation would be withdrawn, only to be renewed when Mrs. Huston's name was some time found to be omitted from the list of ladies assisting Mrs. Harrison to receive. Then the row would break out anew and Huston would resign. Again it would be on account of a failure of the President to transfer Huston to some higher office. Several assistant secretaryships occurred at one time and another, and Huston wanted all of them. The President being forced to refuse, Huston would resign, and only redoubled social courtesies could balk his intention. When Secretary Windom passed away, who so fit for the succession as the Treasurer of the United States? Then came the climax. Foster's appointment sealed Harrison's doom. THE WRECKERS' FATE

A Verdict of Guilty Found Against Pungan, Work and Pfeiffer.

THE PRISONERS STUNNED BY IT.

Their Wives, Crushed by the Blow, Create a Scene-in Court.

AN APPEAL FOR NEW TRIALS MADE.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27 .- The trial of the wreckers of the Bank of America resulted to-day in a verdict of guilty against George F. Work and James S. Dungan, and Louis E. Pfeiffer, the President of the wrecked bank, is guilty according to his own confession and plea. Sentence has not yet been passed upon the convicted men, by reason of an application made by counsel for Work and Dungan for a new trial.

Only MacFarlane, of the quartet of men ho conspired to defraud the depositors in the bank and the policy holders of the American Life Insurance Company, is at present at large. He is a fugitive. The trial has been one of the most remarkable ever witnessed in this State, and has developed the most startling revelations as to the manner in which the financial affairs of one class of the commercial institutions of this country are carried on. Sensation after sen-sation has startled the court, and every hour seemed to bring with it some new phase of a surprising nature.

The Scene in Court. The bar was crowded with lawvers at the opening of to-day's proceedings. Mrs. Work and Mrs. Pfeiffer sat in the court, pale, nervous and trembling, weeping silently. Around Mrs. Pfeiffer sat a number iends, who now and then spoke words of comfort to her, but the only response she made was a shake of the head and a fresh outburst of weeping. Work was pale as usual, but all his sang froid had gone. He was evidently ill at ease, and showed it in every movement. While Furman Sheppard was arguing his case, he sat erect and apparently as motionless as a statue. Only once did he move, and that was when he whispered to Lawyer Moon some point for Mr. Sheppard to use. Dungan cowered in his seat, as if ashamed to meet the sunlight which streamed in at the windows. Pfeiffer was flustered and anxious. Eevry now and then he looked at his wife and then tapped his knee with his fingers in his nervous agitation. All three of the accused men listened to the speeches of counsel intensely, and both Dungan and Pteiffer moved back ward and forward as the statements affected

nem. District Attorney Graham's eloquence semed to melt and freeze them; alternately Now they paled and again they flushed Dungan would at times bury his face in his hands and then place his hand on the neck of a young man, who has sat near him during the whole trial. A Throng of People.

The fact that the evidence was all in and that council would begin their argument had the effect of thronging the Court House. On the stairway the tipstaves were stationed, with orders to limit the number of people, who entered the court room as much as possible. But the string of people poured in until the aisles were crowded and packed up to the iron gate which leads to the enclosure. The argument of counsel and the Judge's charge lasted until 3 o'clock. The jury then retired, and the court took a recess un-til 4:15. At 4:30 Judge Arnold took his seat on the bench, and a moment later the aisles were cleared to allow the jury to pass into the court room. A hush fell upon the crowd as the 12 men walked slowly down the aisle. Work and Pfeisfer eagerly scanned their faces, as if to glean

Stunned by the Verdict

The usual formalities were quickly gone through with, and the court officer took in his hand the bill of indictment, and, addressing the jury, asked if they had agreed upon a verdict. The foreman answered in "How say you, gentlemen of the jury, guilty, or not guilty?" "Guilty." As the word "guilty" fell from the fore-man's lips, Work's face became livid, his figers twitched convulsively and he leaned forward over the table. Dungan's head dropped back and he gasped for breath, then throwing his right arm around the neck of his friend, he leaned over and rested motionless. Pfeiffer sat bolt upright in his chair, giving no sign of any emotion. Lawyer Moon, for the defense, requested that the jury be polled, and it wa found that every man was in favor of the verdict as rendered. Lawyer Moon, on be-half of Work, and W. C. Terry, for Dungan, at once gave notice of their intention to move for a new trial. Sensational Scenes in Court When the jury had been dismissed a most sensational scene followed. Pale and tiembling, Mrs. Work was led by her daughter within the bar inclosure and there greeted her husband. She kissed him repeatedly, and as he turned to go she fell back in a chair in a fainting condition. The poor woman was led from the room by her daughter just as Mrs. Dungan said goodby to her husband at the gate. Mrs. Dungan was perfectly calm, but as she passed down the aisle her tottering form showed how much she felt the burden under which she was laboring.

A number of Work's friends crowded round him after the adjournment, and for a few momente he held an impromptu reception. Pfeiffer's wife hurried from the roo immediately after the verdict was rendered, and Pfciffer passed down to the van, after his counsel. three men were taken down the Judge's private entrance, in order to escape the crowd awaiting them at the front door, and, in charge of court officers, Lews and Tibber-ton were conveyed to Moyamensing. A WELL known and very able writer, now at New Orleans, has sent THE DISPATCH a Five hundred delegates from all parts of the world are present. All the leading colleges in America are represented.

The movement had its origin at the Mt. Hermon meeting of college men in the summer of 1886. At that time 100 of the 251 tudents in attendance from all parts f the United States and Canada volunteered for the foreign field. Since then the movement has been extended among the institutions of learning on this continent, until now there are over 5,000 students who have signified their willingness and desire to become foreign mission-aries. Over 300 of their number have already sailed. Many others are ready to go whenever the way opens, but a large major

TO BE CALLED TO THE PULPIT, ANYWAY

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Feb. 27 .- In the nidst of the productive dairy farms of Orange county is the little hamlet of Coldenham, founded by Cadwallader Colden, and kept green by Reverdy Johnson. Among the handful of buildings which comprise the settlement is a Covenanter Church. An episode has just occurrred within the walls of that little edifice which has created more stir and gossip than any previous incident in the history of Coldenham. The Rev. James McCready poured his eloquence from the pulpit of the Covenanter Church on the rude forefathers of the hamlet until he received a call which paid him far better financially. Ever since the little parish has been looking for somebody who would promulgate orthodox teachings to a diminishing but stubborn denomination at an annual stipend of $800 a year, a parsonage, garden patch, and a donation party and occasional wedding by way of dessert.

But it has been difficult to fill the place, and the pulpit has been vacant some time. An applicant for the vacant pulpit at last came a short time ago in the person of the Rev. Mr. Milligan, of Pennsylvania. Sun-day last was to be his trial trip. The day was clear and bracing, and the bardy yeo-manry who live at Coldenham and its immediate vicinity and are regular attendants at the Covenanter Church were out in full force. Young and old were dressed in their best and the maidens were attired in their prettiest gowns. All were anxious to see the new minister and listen to what he had to say. The Pennsylvania pastor had spoken for some time, to the entire satisfaction of his hearers, who had listened attentively, when suddenly he halted in the midst of his discourse and said: "I regret to state that me this morning. I have neither the time nor the inclination to return the compli-ment at this time, but may do so later on." A Surprise for the Congregation. These words fell like a thunderbolt upon the Covenanters, more especially so as this departure from theology was made while the eyes of the pastor were steadfastly fixed on those of a slushing young lady who is noted for her g, d looks and regarded as the belle of Coldenham. The effect on the congregation has never been equalled. When the

BERVILLE, Mich., April 12, 1889

Dear Sire:—I write that you may know the good I have received from the BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. I am now on the ninth bottle of your wonderful Bitters, and must confess I have received prompt cure of a long standing disease—SCROFULA. I have used dollar after dollars' worth of medicines and received no relief, but the third bottle of B. B. B. I found great rest. I have also used three bottles of BURDOCK PILLS; they are the best medicine I ever took. I cannot praise them too highly. I do owe my whole life to them and can recommend them to every living soul that is afflicted with that dreadful disease, SCROF-ULA. I was afflicted with lumps as large as an egg in my right side and large lumps on my throat, and my limbs were covered with a burning and itching rash, which very greatly annoyed me when near the warm stove. I had spent a great deal of money trying to get relief, and consulted the best medical treatment in the State, but all in vain, they did me no good whatever, and I had about given up when I thought I would try your medicines, and, thank God, they have cured me, I am a well woman to-day.
