

The Dispatch.

ESTABLISHED FEBRUARY 8, 1866. Vol. 26, No. 25.—Entered at Pittsburgh Postoffice, November 15, 1878, as second-class matter. Business Office—Corner Smithfield and Diamond Streets. News Rooms and Publishing House—75, 77 and 79 Diamond Street.

ADVERTISING OFFICE ROOM 15, TRIBUNE BUILDING, NEW YORK. THE DISPATCH always has on hand a large number of copies of the paper for sale at a discount. Foreign advertisers and agents of THE DISPATCH, write in New York, are also made welcome.

TEAMS OF THE DISPATCH. POSTAGE FREE IN THE UNITED STATES. DAILY DISPATCH, ONE YEAR, $1.00. DAILY DISPATCH, PER QUARTER, $0.25. DAILY DISPATCH, INCLUDING SUNDAY, 1 YEAR, $1.00. DAILY DISPATCH, INCLUDING SUNDAY, 3 MONTHS, $0.75. SUNDAY DISPATCH, ONE YEAR, $1.00. WEEKLY DISPATCH, ONE YEAR, $1.25. THE DAILY DISPATCH is delivered by carriers at 5 cents per week, or by mail at 10 cents per week.

PITTSBURGH, MONDAY, MAR. 2, 1891.

NEW FOREIGN LABOR.

The discovery brought out in our local columns of the fact that a considerable number of French glass-workers to the population of Pittsburgh is an interesting one, however it may turn out. Under any view it is a proof of the high rate of wages paid to labor in this industry, and the attractions thus offered to workers from other countries. As to the call for legal interference, that depends on facts which are not yet clearly established. If the new glassworkers come over on their own responsibility in the hope of securing a share of the good wages paid in that industry, they are not exercising a right held out to them by our laws. If they are brought here by agreement or promises from the owners of the plant, or come under the action of the contract labor law, but as the strongest allegation in that direction is that they are attracted here by the circulation of the statistical information that wages are far higher than in their own country, it is not likely that the courts will hold the circulation of what is our national boast to be a contract, in violation of the law. That enactment has already made a record of not keeping any of the labor that is undesirable. It does not seem likely to vary the record in this instance.

A NATIONAL ART EXHIBITION.

The proposition to open the Carnegie art gallery in Pittsburgh, when it is erected, by a national exhibition of American art is looking a good way into the future; but it is one of these projects that require thinking ahead, and the outlines of the idea in the art department THE SUNDAY DISPATCH has commended the approval and co-operation of our citizens. Nothing more appropriate could be devised for the opening of a gallery which is to be distinctively of American art, than a national exhibition of works of that class. When the artists of this country learn the magnitude of the endowment which Mr. Carnegie is establishing for the purchase of American pictures they will be ready to furnish their works to an opening exhibition to an extent which will make it one of no slight fame. It will be well to bear this idea in mind; and possibly the prospect which it holds out will be an incentive toward an early and harmonious decision of the now difficult question of the site.

DUDLEY'S PROGRESS.

There are constant and gratifying assurances that the world moves. However discouraging the indications to the contrary may be at times, the optimistic view is always justified by some new and unexpected evidence of progress. It has seemed lately to those who recognized the necessity of honest elections as an essential to republican institutions, that the progress was in the wrong direction. It appeared, in that view, that the gloomy view is brightened by the appearance, in the role of an agent of regeneration and reform, of no less a person than Colonel W. W. Dudley, and the frank declaration by him that "the Republican party needs regeneration. What we need more than anything else is honest elections and the assurance that every man's ballot will be counted."

The stunning effect of this deliverance from the exponent of "blocks of five" politics upon a Democratic cotemporary is to evoke the exclamation: "Colonel Dudley is either a lunatic or a humorist of high rank." But this is ill-considered. No one can dispute that it speaks the words of truth and soberness. Moreover, even a partisan prejudice should not blind the perception that in this matter Colonel Dudley speaks of a matter concerning which he has full information. While we may suspect ulterior motives in the acts of Satan rebelling, no one can doubt the expert authority of the Prince of Darkness, or the undesirability of transgressions of the moral law.

OUR NAVAL PROGRESS.

A recent address by Commander Read, of the United States Navy, contains some very interesting ideas on the same subject of the navy. That is a matter which has risen in public importance of late, both because a considerable amount of the public funds has been committed to the building of a fleet, and because one or two international questions have been with questionable wisdom pushed to the point where we were forced to contemplate our preparations to prosecute hostilities with a foreign power. Commander Read lays down the rule which THE DISPATCH has always urged, that while it is both impossible and unnecessary for the United States to maintain a navy like that of England or France, it is requisite that what vessels we do have shall be the best. The limited number of cruisers which we maintain should be second to none either in resistance, in power of armament, or in readiness to hostile projectiles. Our vessels for the defense of our coasts, if such are maintained, should be impregnable and destructive though they need not necessarily possess first-class sea-going abilities. It is satisfactory to learn from an expert of Commander Read's standing, that these requirements, so far as the cruisers are concerned, have been more than met by the vessels that have been added to the navy of late years. It is to be regretted that the money of the nation has been well spent. It is for the sake of keeping up the high standard that THE DISPATCH has opposed the disposition of the Naval Bureau, in cases where the bids for the construction of new vessels have exceeded the limit set by Congress, to lower the requirements of power and speed for the vessels, rather than wait for Congress to increase the allowance. It is clear that we accept poorer vessels for the sake of getting them built six months or a year sooner, and the gratifying testimony of Commander Read of the first-class standard of our navy cannot be permanently true. Another point in this connection is well worth considering, and that is the warning against building too many vessels of one class. Simply because we have succeeded in building first-class vessels of one description is no reason why we should keep on building them indefinitely. We were satisfied for twenty years with the naval armament reaching the course of our progress, and the consequence is that we got twenty years behind the rest of the world. To build our entire navy on the accepted type of the present day might leave us in the same position twenty years hence. Nothing is more fully established than that the approved vessels and guns of one era are worthless in the next one, and that fact has several times reduced the navy of England to the value of old junk.

have been more than met by the vessels that have been added to the navy of late years. It is to be regretted that the money of the nation has been well spent. It is for the sake of keeping up the high standard that THE DISPATCH has opposed the disposition of the Naval Bureau, in cases where the bids for the construction of new vessels have exceeded the limit set by Congress, to lower the requirements of power and speed for the vessels, rather than wait for Congress to increase the allowance. It is clear that we accept poorer vessels for the sake of getting them built six months or a year sooner, and the gratifying testimony of Commander Read of the first-class standard of our navy cannot be permanently true. Another point in this connection is well worth considering, and that is the warning against building too many vessels of one class. Simply because we have succeeded in building first-class vessels of one description is no reason why we should keep on building them indefinitely. We were satisfied for twenty years with the naval armament reaching the course of our progress, and the consequence is that we got twenty years behind the rest of the world. To build our entire navy on the accepted type of the present day might leave us in the same position twenty years hence. Nothing is more fully established than that the approved vessels and guns of one era are worthless in the next one, and that fact has several times reduced the navy of England to the value of old junk.

The proper course of the United States is to maintain a small navy of first-class vessels, and to direct expenditure to the testing of new designs in naval warfare. Whatever can be done in the line of dynamic construction of torpedos, boats, submarines vessels or coast defense should be given a fair chance. One or two vessels of that sort, as much as of the general progress of naval construction as the Merrimac and Monitor were in 1862, will do more for the protection of our harbors in case of war than an immense fleet of vessels proportionately behind the age. A review of the progress of Congressional business shows that forty-eight hours of the termination of the session four of the regular appropriation bills have passed both Houses of Congress; nine are in conference committees at various stages of progress, and three are yet to pass the Senate. It will thus be seen that in two days' session there must be action in both Houses of Congress on twelve of the appropriation bills, including by far the greater share of the bills of the Government, or else the absolutely necessary work of Congress will remain undone. Of course, it will be utterly impossible in that space of time for Congress to exercise the scrutiny that should be given to the government expenditures, to detect squanders, to cut down extravagance in one quarter, or to exert a wise liberality in another. It will be even more impossible to give any attention to important measures of non-partisan legislation which have been awaiting the pleasure of our lawmakers during the entire session. This is only a new example of a long-standing and growing Congressional vice. The expiring Congress has, as was early predicted by THE DISPATCH, wasted so much time in partisan squabbles that it cannot do the work of passing the appropriation bills as it ought to be done, and will have to pass such measures for the general interest as the bankruptcy bill.

THE CHRONIC TROUBLE.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

CANADIAN POLITICS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

THE BACARAT SCANDAL.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

AND NOW EX-TREASURER HUSTON.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

THE DEFENSE OF AN INCALLED "ORDER."

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

SCINTILLATIONS OF FAME.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

SENATOR HEARST.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

IT IS PATHETIC TO THINK THAT ANNA DICKINSON.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

THE THUNDERER'S MISTAKE.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

DUDLEY'S PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

OUR NAVAL PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

THE THUNDERER'S MISTAKE.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

DUDLEY'S PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

OUR NAVAL PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

THE THUNDERER'S MISTAKE.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

DUDLEY'S PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

OUR NAVAL PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

THE THUNDERER'S MISTAKE.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

DUDLEY'S PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

OUR NAVAL PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

THE THUNDERER'S MISTAKE.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

DUDLEY'S PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

OUR NAVAL PROGRESS.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

THE THUNDERER'S MISTAKE.

It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question.

TALES FOR THE CURIOUS.

Famous Men and Their Handicapped Sons.—O'Reilly's Prison Reminiscences.—Champion Lay Men.—Evolution of the Pullman Sleeper.—Brevelin and Oddities. The sons of distinguished men are a topic discussed by the Washington correspondent of the New York Telegram. Says Mr. Quinn: "Being the most popular public man in rather a trying position to fill, so much is required of him. He is expected to be fully as able as his father, and if he fails in that requirement he is put to shame. There were Democrats and Republicans who contributed their views upon the subject, and they all agree that Cameron had not been a son of Simon. He would not today occupy the position, and that fact is one of the things to be remembered by the Pennsylvania Senator. Had he been a son of some coal heaver and acquired his position by the same means, there would have been no objection to his being a Senator with greater respectability than he has. He did, but his father's name overshadows him. When Robert T. Lincoln was elected to a Cabinet position in notice that one ever thinks of holding him responsible for his monetary vicarities. THAT Silver digger failed to locate the silver pool by investigation searching in the wrong place. He thought the same thing, and the effect that it discovered a large pool of whiteash. NINE hundred and ninety millions is now the estimate of the appropriations during the session of the Fifty-first Congress. It is $127,000,000 more than the appropriations of the Fifty Congress, and $24,000,000 in excess of those in the Forty-ninth. No wonder the surplus is disposed to shrink away and hide its diminished head. THE adjournment of Congress and the end of the Canadian campaign coming in the same week build out the hope that the continent will have a quiet time until the baseball season opens. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a spirit portrait of the long-defunct Egyptian queen. But Bernhard will probably object to this as an impertinent suggestion. That princess of spiritualism is herself somewhat prejudiced on the avoirdupois side of the question. It is suggested that the Bernhard and Davenport dispute over the rotundity of Cleopatra be settled by getting Ann Odella Duss De Barr to paint a