solution of the problem could be discovered. It was generally admi red that the intentions of the act, whil: plainly meaning an appropriation, was not to be so construed. After a discussion and review, which lasted for a couple of hours, it was decided to leave the vexed question to the legal dis-cernment of the Attorney General. Accordingly the bill, together with all the data and such matters, was taken over to the Department of Justice, where Attorney Gen-erat Miller will wrestle with the problem and make known his final ultimatum.
