

RESIGNED HIS POST.

A. T. Rowand Gives Up the Presidency of the Signal Company to E. H. Goodman and WESTINGHOUSE REPRESENTATION.

The Arrangement to Be Completed at a Meeting of the Directory Held in Philadelphia To-Day.

E. F. WATERS UPHOLDS MR. ROWAND, Who Will Act as Vice President When He Has Received From His Present Office.

A. T. Rowand has tendered his resignation as President of the Union Switch and Signal Company, and the Board of Directors will meet to-day, in Philadelphia, to accept it, and elect E. H. Goodman, the General Manager, as President in his stead.

It is said that the Boston people were not aware that the company held Mr. Westinghouse's personal collaterals, and such arrangements as would enable him to terminate them within a specified time.

The rumor that Mr. Rowand had resigned was spread at an early hour yesterday. Concerning it nothing could be learned on the second floor of the Westinghouse building.

Mr. Westinghouse was busy, and, anyhow, had nothing to say. Passing from his office for a moment, he observed the reporters, and said, laughing: "Still on the warpath, eh? Well, I can name none now except to enable any questions to be put to him. He looked well, and did not seem disturbed by events. His private secretary, Walter Updegraff, remarked that his side had nothing to say, very particularly, but he opined that some news could be obtained from Mr. Waters or Mr. Rowand.

The latter gentleman had not been in town during the day, and the intelligence that he was confined to his home by prostration. He was too ill to see anyone.

A Change of Sentiment Predicted. Edwin F. Waters was not disposed to discuss the affairs of the company at first, but finally submitted to be interviewed. He scored certain newspapers very severely for what he characterized as their "cross, unjust and unwarranted attacks" on Mr. Rowand, and said that whenever a fight was thrown on the matter there would be a change of sentiment regarding the entire affair.

"The condition of the company's affairs," he said, "demands that caution should be exercised in any statements made regarding them, and much has been already said that has only resulted in misleading the public respecting them. It is not yet time to say anything from the inside of the company, but I can say that when the position we have taken is fully understood there will be a revulsion of public feeling in favor of Mr. Rowand. That gentleman is utterly prostrated by the attacks made on him; and that were without an iota of foundation."

Mr. Waters would not reply when asked if Mr. Rowand has resigned as reported, but let it be inferred that he had. Attorney Sol Shover, Jr., was more communicative. In reply to questions he said: "It was arranged at a meeting held yesterday, that Mr. Goodman should become President of the company, and Mr. Rowand Vice President. This was decided upon in consequence of advances made by Mr. Westinghouse and his friends, that that gentleman's interest in the company was due to a supposed illegality in the election, or as in the nature of a compromise, but to a belief that Mr. Westinghouse had a local representative on the board. Mr. Goodman was on the old board, and is qualified to take care of the interests of the whole of the shareholders."

To-Day's Meeting in Philadelphia. Mr. Waters left on the last line for Philadelphia. He said that there would be a meeting of the board there to-day to make changes in its officers. He added that he was entirely satisfied with every thing that had been done, and that the business of the company would be put on a better basis. There was a deal of misapprehension about it, and it is believed that he is entirely satisfied with every thing that has been done, and that the business of the company would be put on a better basis.

M'KEE'S ROCKERS INDIGNANT.

The Death of Robert Story Blamed Upon the P. & L. E. Company—Another Reason, It is Claimed, Why There Should Be a Thorough Government.

The death of Robert Story, the clock-fixer, has stirred the M'Kee's Rocks people to the profoundest depth of indignation, which is only less profoundly deep than their expression of feeling last night in Al Young's Hotel, but those who took the lead pledged the reporter not to give their names at present, as they said they did not want to disclose their names until another meeting is held, probably some time next week, when they propose to again put the matter in shape for the consideration of the grand jury for the June term of the quarter session.

The advocates of the erection of a borough state that Story would not have fallen into the cellar and lost his life had there been a thorough government to force the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railway authorities to either erect a guard or place a light at the ruins of the burned station house. They say several people have tumbled into the cellar since the business of the company. The company took the lamps of the streets. The company was short of gas for fuel and now the streets are dark save where business men hang out lanterns to save their customers, and so some of them do no business after 6 o'clock p. m., they are not in the pro-bo-no-publico line.

The inhabitants complain that they are getting weary of balancing themselves on the sidewalks in their efforts to keep out of the mud. These walks are the most heterogeneous and wonderfully constructed of any that have been seen since 1865, when Pitcho City was built. First the township authorities laid a crab-plank walk, one plank wide. They did not grade the streets, and the planks conform to the topography of the ground. Since then some householders have added another plank, and others two, while some, more ambitious, have added three, and some have added width. The result is that if a fellow starts to exert his girl he is obliged to break ranks at intervals of 25 to 50 feet, and since the street lamps have been done, the population is forced to carry lanterns or run the risk of dislocation of neck or limbs.

GOING BACK TO THE LAW.

Es-Senator Spooner Says He Is Not Worried About the Future. He Thinks a Mistake Was Made in Not Passing the Elections Bill.

Ex-United States Senator Spooner, the bright "Michigan" who retired from public life with the close of the last Congress, was a passenger on the limited last evening going home. He takes his defeat good-naturedly, and expects to go back to the Senate in the future.

"Yes," he said, "I read the story that Senator Spooner intended to retire with the view of having me succeed him, but I am not worrying very much about it. There is nothing in the report so far as I know. It was not the tariff that knocked me out, but a number of other things that I had to do. On the South side it seemed for a time as if the Twenty-eighth ward station house would blow over. It has been in a bad condition for some time and shook in the wind, but it was not until Saturday that it fell. The loss will be about $800. In Allegheny little 11-year-old Lucy Davis was on her way to school when she was struck by a trolley car and actually took her breath away. She gasped for a moment, and then fell insensible. She had to be carried into a house, and it was some time before she recovered. In the East End considerable damage was done. The large advertising boards on Fifth avenue, near Craft avenue, were blown down. In THE DISPATCH building a popular humorist will tell how he caught a ghost and then was set upon by it."

SPOILED A ROMANCE.

Annette Lee's Father Turns Up and Takes Her Home.

The father and brother of the 14-year-old girl who represented herself to Inspector McAleese as Annette Lee, of Butler, Pa., and who told such a sad story of having been turned out of the house of her deceased father by heartless creditors, called at Central station last night and took the girl home. He is a reputable business man of Butler, and declined to give his name in order to escape unpleasant notoriety. He said, however, that the girl had played truant from school, and having been chastised for doing the same thing on a previous occasion, ran away this time to escape a whipping.

Instead of being an orphan and entirely friendless, as she represented, she has several brothers and sisters and a good home with her father. Her mother being dead, the house is kept by a hired housekeeper, and it is the opinion of the father that the girl did not like the woman, and this was one reason for her running away. She was taken in charge by her father last night.

STRUCK BY A STORM.

Pittsburg and Allegheny Hit Amidships by a Stiff March Gale.

THE HEAVIEST KNOWN FOR YEARS, Although There Was Scarcely Any Damage and No Lives Lost.

Pittsburg and Allegheny were swept by a wind storm yesterday. The storm came from the west, and had a velocity of 40 miles an hour. Although it spread terror in every section, there was no loss of life and but very little damage. Only a few people were slightly injured. Buildings swayed in the wind and the air was full of flying missiles. Roofs were torn loose and chimneys blown down in many instances.

The great tower-like chimney of the wrecked Germania building was one of the first to fall. It struck and crushed in parts of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Insurance building and Robinson Bros.' Bank. About the same time a big piece of the iron cornice of the Germania building was blown into Wood street, but no one was hurt. The high walls of the Walden block tumbled in the storm, and for a time it looked as if there would be a repetition of the disaster of two years ago.

Two hours after the storm started it had swept over the city, and a gale that fairly whistled as it tore through the streets. A light snow storm added to the discomfort. The high walls of the Walden block tumbled in the storm, and for a time it looked as if there would be a repetition of the disaster of two years ago.

AXAJ BIDS DEFIANCE.

The Part That a Plaster Cast of That Hero Played in the Storm.

The passer-by on Wood street yesterday who chanced to look at the Boatman's building discovered in one of the Pittsburgh Art School windows the plaster figure of Ajax defying the lightning. Ajax is nothing if not defiant, and he stands in the position he has assumed since he was struck by lightning. Several passengers became quite interested in the race, and finally a pool was formed and bets made whether the conductor would make the boy pay his fare or carry him free for his generosity. The only one who bet that the conductor would demand fare evidently knew him for he did so almost as soon as he lay on the car, and the acknowledging passenger captured the entire pool.

COLDER THAN THE STORM.

A Southside Street Car Conductor Who Has Swallowed a Refrigerator.

Last night about 9 o'clock car No. 9 of the Southside line was crossing the Monongahela bridge when a gust of wind and snow carried the driver's stool off of the car. A young boy jumped off and picked it up and started for the car. After chasing the car almost the entire length of the bridge he finally caught up with it.

Doctors and Preachers Who Fail to Report Marriages and Births ABOUT TO BE BROUGHT TO TIME.

The Board of Health Determined to Secure Better Statistics.

ONE-THIRD THE BIRTHS NOT REPORTED.

Ministers, doctors and midwives all over the city are threatened with suits for not reporting marriages and births to the Bureau of Health. An act of 1870 imposes a fine of $20 for each offense for not making such reports. The law has never been fully lived up to, and various health inspectors have to visit the most of these persons and compel them to make returns. Chief Clerk Wilbur P. McKelvey has decided to do this no longer, but to bring suits wherever the reports are not forthcoming.

The Aldermen are the only people who live up to the law, and the midwives rank next, with physicians and ministers at the bottom of the list. With doctors it is due to neglect. Ministers fail mostly from ignorance of the law, and the most trouble is experienced with Methodist preachers, say the authorities.

"None of the city records," said Chief Clerk McKelvey yesterday, "are more deficient than those of marriages and births. The fine for not reporting them is $20 for each offense, and I am going to see that the law is enforced."

BLAME IT ON THE WEATHER.

What Some Physicians Say Is the Cause of the Present Excessive Amount of Sick-ness—It May Be Called the Grip, Influenza or Catarrh.

"Every person who has a cold imagines he, or it is getting the grip," remarked Dr. J. R. Thompson, last night. "Whether it is grip or simply very bad colds, there is no doubt that many hundreds of Pittsburghers are sick, and very sick. Medical men say that the greater part of the sickness from which so many people suffer has been caused by the changeable weather which has visited this section of the country during the winter and which still continues. But it is not only the people of Pittsburgh who are suffering, but in Chicago physicians assert that many have the genuine grip."

Dr. Thompson said he had not seen a case of grip this winter. He believed that the grip was caused by impure air, and that naturally its severity depended upon differences in constitutions. Then again there were differences in the symptoms. The Doctor did not think there were many cases in the city similar to those prevalent when the grip was so bad here. Unquestionably a great many people were suffering from colds, influenza, catarrh, so badly that they were confined to their beds. It was the exceptionally bad weather that did it.

Dr. C. P. Birge said it was a hard matter to define just what was the grip. As he understood it, persons suffering from a disease that might be given that term were usually under excessive depression of spirits. He had never seen a greater number of people troubled with severe colds than at present, and it required prudence to prevent them from turning into pneumonia. He would not call it the grip, because there was no defined rule by which the symptoms were governed.

do not take the proper care of themselves. In my own family there are two cases. It is a peculiar disease, and hard to explain. I know I have not felt the same since I had an attack last year. I never knew what it was to have cold feel until this winter, and I had the last heavy snow I had my left leg frozen, which I attribute to the effect of the grip on my system."

Dr. J. E. Wilson and H. G. Briggs are laid up with an attack of grip, and Dr. E. E. Briggs was out yesterday for the first time in 11 days.

Dr. McClelland, of the East End, states that he had a case of grip which drove his patient blind, it was so severe.

ATTACKED AND ROBBED. Adolph Krimm Charges Joseph Kohlmeyer With Stealing His Watch.

Joseph Kohlmeyer will have a hearing on Tuesday on a charge of assault and battery and larceny preferred against him yesterday before Alderman Kerr by Adolph Krimm, who alleges that he was assaulted on last Tuesday by three men, one of whom he recognized as the defendant.

Krimm lives on a public hillside above Twenty-sixth street, and was going home when attacked. He alleges that Kohlmeyer rifled his pockets of a gold watch, chain and $6.

His assailants beat him, leaving him in an almost unconscious condition and with an ugly wound on the head.
