KNEW HIS OWN MIND.

The Will of R. C. Renderson Fully

WHY A DAUGHTER'S DISINHERITED

Breaking of a Rope Causes a Suit Against

TESTEEDAY IN THE COUNTY COURTS

yesterday handed down an opinion in the cuse of the contested will of the late R. C. Henderson. In his will Mr. Henderson disinherited his only child, Mrs. Kate Turpin, and divided his estate between the Little Sisters of the Poor and the Sisters of Mercy. Mrs. Turpin contested the will, alleging testamentary incapacity, and that her father has been laboring under an insane delusion. Judge Hawkins said that the evidence showed that Mr. Henderson disinherited his daughter because she had neglected him in his old age, and because of his dislike of her hus band. It was clear that the will was not made because of an instanc delusion, but was based on existing facts. The evidence was not sufficient to ju-tify setting aside the will, and the appeal was dismissed.

EXECUTIONS OF YESTERDAY.

The following executions were issued yester Laurent, $150 and $900; J. B. Hill vs Michael Stewart v. Hugh King, $643 St; Margaretha Milim vs Mar in Schmitt, $2,720 05; J. McCleary vs heirs of S. H. McCleary, $540; Snyder Abell & Co. vs H. Greatefrund, $363.

The suit of Charles Tomlinson and wife Slaule. The parties are residents of Braddock Reed, who is a house build ... He was sent up on a root, and the ladder being too short, a rope was given him. The rope broke, and he felt to the ground and was killed.

It is claimed that his employer was liable for furnishing him with a rotten rope.

End of a Twenty Years' Trust.

The final account of Hon, J. P. Sterrett, Justice of the Supreme Court, as trustee of the estate of James McAuley, deceased, was passed amount accounted for by Justice Sterreit was 200 291 88, the total of a trust for 20 years created under the will of Mr. McAuley. During the 20 years the income went to Dr. R. and Mrs. McAuley, and at the expiration of that time was to be divided among them or their belrs.

tion of Collins, seem to be absorbed in the scientific phase of the affair, and are calmly indifferent to the suffering and danger to the faster. Yesterday afternoon a consultation between leading people engaged in humane work and a prominent law firm was held, with a view to patting a stop to the fast. The attention of Agent Dean, of the Anni-Cruelty Society, was called to the matter, and he says that he will put a stop to the fast if it can legally be accomplished. Mr. Dean says that Manager Davis shifts the responsibility on the ground that the fast is entirely voluntary on the part of Collins, and that he has no power to compel the faster to give up his foolhardy undertaxing.

Mr. Davis tells Agent Dean and the Humane Society people that he made the offer in good faith, and that to end the fast now would have a tendency to create would have a tendency to create a suspicion that he had not acted in good faith with the faster. The museum manager further says, however, that no consideration would weigh a straw with him, if it can be absolutely demonstrated that the life of the faster is in danger, and that if such proves to be true he will pay Collins the $1,000 and do what he can to persuade him to end the fast.

CROWDED OUT BY ROUTINE.

Towers and Engines. The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Fire Insurance Underwriters was held yesterday afternoon in the Fire Marshal's office. The meeting did not adjourn until about 5 o'clock, and even then the routine business was not firished. Captain Herbert had a set of resolutions to submit regarding the necessity for water towers or stronger engines, but there was no chance to offer them. Regarding this matter Captain Herbert said last evening: "We intended to take some action regarding more perfect fire protection, but there was so much routine business that nothing else was brought up. We will have to call a special much rought up. We will have to call a special meeting in a few days, and the matter will then be presented, and we may also take up the new insurance bill that has been offered by Mr. Lytle
