First Leave of Absence the Marine Band Ever Had for a Concert Tour of the Country.

SOME FRESH GOSSIP FROM MUNICH.

A Budget of News That Will Interest the Lovers of the Art Divine Heresbouts,

The only way in which our Government has been in the habit of officially patronizing music has been in the maintenance of the Marine Band at Washington. As announced in these columns some weeks ago, this hitherto lonely national musical organization has secured its first leave of absence for a concert tour through the principal cities, including Pittsburg. There will be two concerts here on Saturday, May 2.

A bit of history may be in place just here. The pamphlet prospectus of the tour must bear the responsibility for the facts:

The United States Marine Corps, cousisting of about 2,000 members, was created in 1798 as an adjunct to the Navy, with headquarters in Washington. The Band of the United States Marine Corps, which is the official title for that organization, dates back to 100 years ago, when 13 Italian musicians were enlisted and stationed in the Marine Barracks, in Washington, for ceneral musical service there and at the Canitol, Several German members were shortly added, and the band met with varying favor for some time. Some of its earlier leaders were Prof. Carusi, Antonio Pons, who recently died at over 80 years of age; Prof. Trei, who died in at over 80 years of age; Prof. Trei, who died in the service, and Francisco Scala, now retired. The band received no official recognition till 1856 and the musicians were not classified till a few years later. Then there were three classes, now these have been reduced to two. General Grant was a warm friend of the band, and during his administration the mem-bership was increased to 56. This was cut down in 1878 to 40 members by Secretary of the Navy Themason. Some additions have since down in 1878 to 40 members by Secretary of the Navy Thompson. Some additions have since been made, and now the national band has nearly 60 members; and the bill favorably re-ported to the House of Representatives a few weeks since will increase this number to 72 members, besides making other provisions for the best musical talent. The Marine Band is regularly on duty from 850 to 12 o'clock every morning at the Marine Barracks, where a public concert is given every Monday. During the summer months concerts are given in the White House lawn every Saturday, and when Congress is not in session given in the white House inwise every day, and when Congress is not in session needay concerts are also given at the col. Besides these regular duties the band dject to summons for all Presidentil enter-ments, inaugural balls, official receptions, festivities, ceremonies, etc. The present director, Mr. John Philip Sousa, who is the seventh in the career of the band, was appointed ten years ago, under the Hayes administration; and his great abilities as a conactor and composer have placed the Marine and to the very front rank of national bands of the world, and made it the pride of the Navy members are collisted as marines, and classed as musicians, and entitled to retiremen or old age, or pensions for disabilities received n the service. All have to be subjected to the in the service. All have to be subjected to the mest rigid physical and musical examination, and must be over 5 feet 6 inches tall. The structest discipline is maintained, the members all taking pride in the military character of their organization, and, furthermore, being prompted by the kindliest consideration and esteem for their distinguished leader.

The band will be accompanied on this tour by Miss Marie Decca, who is known in private life as Miss Johnston, daughter of Judge Sanders Johnston, of Washington.

certs, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra when Verdi's "Requirem"gis to be given, JULES DE SWERT, the famous violoncellist and composer, died at Ostend within the month. He was wordt to perform such nice little feats at playing the entre Mendelssohn and Beeth-oren violin concertos upon the violoncello. Some wag in Boston is said to have called Vladimir de Pachman a "Chopinzee." He might also have called him a musical querilla in view of the irregular tactics with which the little Pole tries to ravish his audiences. Ogs of the lamented Karl Metr's noble, helpful essars, entitled "The Sauctity of Musac" is issued as a supplement to the March Elude. It is good in these degenerate days to come into contact with such high ideals, so suggestively and practically expressed.

THE Marsellaise Gub celebrates its seco antiversary next Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' Hall, Southsida. Miss Jennie Erans, Miss Auguste Guesther, Mr. G. Gilli, Mr. F. A. Ammon and Mr. William Guenther, with his orchestra, will take part in the musical pro-gramme. MRS. LUCILLE ELDRIDGE-SHAFER conducts the exceptionally complete and interesting musical department of The Evolutionisi, a new monthly just started in Pittsburg. A lively sketch of the Karl Mers Musical Library is of particular local interest. Mrs. Shafer is wel-comed into the scribbling ranks.

SPEARING of a new soprano song by Mr. Ad. M. Foerster, of Pittsburg, Presto says very properly: "Mr. Foerster is among the first of American composers. His name to a piece of music is a guarantee of its excellence. 'O, Love of Long Ago,' is a charming ballad, possessing the additional merit of having original words." THE Mendelssohn Club, of the East End, at last Tuesday's concert, sang G. W. Chadwick's cantata, "Lovely Resabelle," Randegger's Paslm CL., and several part songe by Caldicatt Mr. James P. McCollum conducted, Mr. R Mayer accompanied, and Miss Lazzie Reed Miss Ella Semple and Mr. C. B. Steizner con ributed sole numbers.

MR. SIMS REEVES, the great English teno is to make his positively last farewell appearance in May at the Albert Hall, London. this veleran's farewells have been steadily going on for nearly a decade, it will be a relief to hear that Sims has simpered down in good faith at last. A CORRESPONDENT of the Musical Courier recounting beauteous Teress Carren's triumph at St. Petersburg, says: "Rubinstein was in the front row at her concerts, and in his enthe front row at her concerts, and in his en-thusiastic fashion hugged and kissed her in sight of the orchestra and public, and as Ru-binstein never goes to recitals the South American pianist had reason to be proud." What's the matter with Rubinstein's being the one to feel proud?

ACME COUNCIL NO. 219, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold its third anniversary next Thesday even-ing at Ood Fellows' Hall, Southside. Mrs. Genevra Johnstone-Bishop, of Chicaco, who is greatly admired in Pittsbürg already, will be the soprane soloist. Mr. Howard M. Yost, the Cieveiand barytone, will make his local debut on this occasion. Mr. Yost has been singing through the West the leading parts in the "Messiah." Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." Rubinstein's "Tower of Eabel," Berlior's "Damnation of Faust," and other works of the first rank, and has won high favor from press and public. The Haydn Quartet (male) and Toerge's Orchestra will round out Tuesday evening's attractive programma. MANY of the delegates of the National

MANY of the delegates of the Nationa League of Musicians want to be classed as laborers when seeking the supposed assistance of the trades unions, but as artists when seekof the trades unions, but as artists when seek-ing engagements in the permanent sym-phony orchestras being organized in Chidage and New York. They will be obliged to chose one or the other, however; the two classes don't mix well. It speaks well for the league that the proposition to make a for-mal alliance with the Federation of Labor was finally voted down. It shows that they aim to be artists sometime, and don't want to be switched off on the labor side track. That is right, and it will be better still when the unions realize that the best way to assure engagements realize that the best way to assure engagements for their members is, not by boycott or by ex-cluding foreign artists, but by making them-selves really working of and capable for the en-excoments that sack.

MR. ETHELBERT NEVIN has said good bye to his native town for an indefinite period. The Wagnerian talk and playing at Mrs McClintock's Allegheny residence on Saturday, the 21st, and the recital on Monday evening for the organ fund of Sewickley Presbyterian Church(when Mrs. J.Sharp McDonald assisted) Church(when Mrs. J.Sharp McDonald assisted) were Mr. Nevin's last appearances here. He expects to sail, with his wife and little son, on May 16, to spend several years in Paris and at other centers studying, writing and playing amid the most instructive and inspiring sur-roundings he can find. It is no mean ambition, no low ideal, that could prescribe this course of action to a man who has already been through such an amount of preparatory work and active, professional achievement, both as planist and as composer. Most men would be quite contents to work on along the plane Mr. Nevin has already attained; his zeal for the best and the highest well deserves the rich meed of success which a multitude of flittskurgers hope and expect will ultimately be his. #### Gossip From Mantch.

Mr. Frank F. Saddler, writing from Munich under date of March 1, contributes the following interesting musical gostip: Ferdinand Langer's long expected and unlucky opera, "Murillo," has been given at last. Its first misfortune was to fall into the hands of Fisher, who made several large cuts. Then Von Perfall threatened to make more cuts. The rehearsals proceeded on a rather uncertain basis till Levi finally cut oat about an hour of flower girls, peddlers and about an hour of Lower girls, peddlers and sundry unnecessary and uninteresting things. Then the Arobbishop put in a protest against the studio scene in the second act where the Holy Mother (merely a model, how-ever,) jumps down from the platform and does a fandango to a mandolin accompaniment. The result of this interfersnee was that the model, instead of appearing in the robes of the esered character, was attired merely as a Span-ish maideu.

"first night" was of course owing to all this notoriety played to a full house, and a num-ber of very generously inclined people insisted on calling the composer-who had personally conducted-before the footlights, though they had to do so amid a storm of hisses from those who could not conceal their disgust. It is without doubt the most uninteresting, tiresome ed-for opera that the Royal Theater has been guilty of. Why was it given at all? Well, the intendant in Munich, Carl yon Perfail, has in the capacity of composer perpetrated a short opera called "Junker Heinz." As intendant he accepted "Murillo" and put it in rehearsal; and Langer. the composer of "Murillo," as conductor of the Mannheim Theater, will, perhags, see that "Junker Heinz" finds a place on the repertoire there. It is a plain case of "one good turn de-serves another."

Mascagni's little "Cavalleria Rusticana" is still a great drawing card, though those who go to see it more than once(and their name is legion

To see it more than once(and their name is legion cannot tell you why they go, except that the music does not sound like the German school, or the French School, or the Italian, but simply like Mascagni. If he can retain the freshness, originality and Individuality shown in this opera in his future works, his name will shine burghter that Verd's. For this month (March), we have two novel-lies at the Royal-"Gid," opera by Cornelins, the writer of the beloved "Barber of Bagdad," and Liast's cratorio "Heilige Elisabeth." The latter work will be performed in costume and its already creating much excitement in musical and theatrical circles. The next Odeon concert with the Royal Orchestra introduces to us two monother-Chafnier's rhapsodie "Espana" and a ton-neem, "Don Juan," by the young Richard Stratus. So the musical springtide opens the guiet city of art.

It was said at the close of last season that we should never find a singer to take Lilli Lebmann's place. But Mme.
