

"Indeed, if it be true, as I am informed, that All but Four of the Lynched Italians Were Rudini has acreed to await the action of the court, he tacitly agrees to abide by all of the law's delays which are as potent in Italy as in the United States, and so he gives his whole diplomatic case away, for before a verdict can e reached the matter will have become a bit I grotesque history, to be laughed at by the old waves of Washington political society as the most amusing tempest which has ever struck most anutsing tempest which has ever struck them over their teapots. "And suppose the verdict is for acquittal; what fault can the Italian Ministry find with that? They would not recognize the right of American citizens to remedy by violence a wrong verdict of one New Orleans jury; how then can they assume the right to arenge by violence another wrong verdict by another New Orleans jury?

slain were registered votors either by birth or naturalization. The four others, whom Consul Corte claims af entitled to the protection of the Italian Government, are Trabina, Bagnetto, Monasterio and Comitez. The first named is found to have been a voter in the parish of St. Charles. Bagnetto is proved to have been a fugitive nurderer from Palermo and a mem-ber of the Esposito band of highwaymen. Marchesi was a veteran of Garibaldi's army, but he fled from Palermo while charged with murdering a female. Trabina was also a rob-ber in Sicily. Of Comitez nobody seems to know anything. Orleans jury? "You see we have them on the diplomatic hip in every way, unless they proceed to war immediately, and in that case I assume the softlement of the affair will be transferred from the State to the Navy Department, and so I wash my hands of its furthur discussion, as I know less of guos and war vessels than the Navy Department does and that is saying a good deal, though Congress and not the gentle-men of the Navy are to blame for that." March, a seaman belonging to Liverpool, named Joseph Halton, fell from the foretop-sail yard into the sea and was drowned. Nine stowaways were sent ashore here from the steamship City of New York and three from the British Princess. They had smuggled themselves aboard at Liverpool, and were try-ing to get free passage to America.

LONDON, April 2 .- A remarkable feat in the story of the telephone was performed yester day. The Paris end of the line which connects that city with London was switched on to the Marseilles wire, and a conversation carried on with most gratifying results, for the words spoken here were distinctly heard on the shores of the Mediterranean, 800 miles away.
