The Decisions of the License Court Exciting Much Comment, But Generally Approved.

WRESTLING WITH A LOAD OF GRIEF

PASSING & VERY RIGID EXAMINATION. Lucky Salconkeepers Making Preparations for the Com ing Year's Buriness. The decisions of the Liceuse Court Judges formished the theme for gossip yesterday. Knots of citizens stood on the street corners and wondered why Jimmy This got a license while Johnny The-Other was knocked out. The licensees said nothing, and tried to look demure, but a twinkle in the eve belied the compression of the lips. Those gentlemen who had been knocked out by the learned jurists expressed their sorrow according to their temperament. Some tried to laugh it off with a "Let's take a drink to better luck next time;" others cursed Brooks, Beuch next time;" others cursed Brooks, Beuch and Bar, while still others attempted to drown their grief in deep potations. One rejected applicant, as soon as learned his wretched late on Monday night, proceeded to follow Tom Hood's advice to keep his spirits up by pouring spirits down About 8 o'clock yesterday morning the dejusted being promenaded Smithfield street, weeping copiously and staggering as if his burden of grief was too great for him to bear. Beyond All Human Power. A handsomely-dressed old lady, with benevolent countenance, was impressed by the spectacle, and hastened to tender assistance and offer consolation to a fellow-being in What is the matter, my good man?" she asked; "have you lost a child or your wife?" The weeping stranger steadied himself for a nent, and then pointing his index inger at the lady, exclaimed in tones of impressive cravity, "Worse than that; I've lost "Why-what do you mean? Oh, yes," as a new light dawned upon her; "you're a saloon keeper."

There was a toss of a handsome gray head, a swish of despery, and the weeping man was again alone with his sorrow. This year's license lottery undoubtedly gives more satisfaction than any that has preceded since Brooks got a finger in the pie. course all is not harmony, and cannot be expected to be where nearly a thousand applicants draw blanks, but some who drew them say they were not greatly disappointed, as they say they hadn't any very sanguine feelings on the subject, but went in on the adage, "Nothing

Whether this state of mind possesses those who have drawn four blanks in succession and thus left $30 in the county treasury for the contingent fund, cannot be definitely stated, but it supposed that notwithstanding their hopeful Many people seen, not interested save per-

Many necole seen, not interested save perhaps in the case of some personal friend, all gave the same answer, and C. K. Yeager, the attorney, and Aiderman P. B. Reilly expressed what appeared to be the general opinion. They said they thought on the whole, so far as this matter had gone the selections were good, though each mentioned applicants they thought should have succeeded and did not and others whem they considered shady got their diplomas. They added that they possibly possessed knowledge of these cases that the Judges did not. 1). K. McGunnegle and Captain Dalgleish said that while some grumbling was heard from the disappointed, the volume was not so great nor so dense as on previous years, and they seemed to think that even liquor license applicants might get used to hanging in time as well as other membe.

May Slaughter the Wholesalers. It seems to be a pretty general impression that the increase in retail dealers will be offset, and probably more than offset, by the slaughter clesalers, those off color, who have been combining a retail business with their whole-sale trade and also selling recklessly to children and people of intemperate habits. They are generally believed to be in the objectors' list. There appears to be more dissatisfaction among uninterested people respecting the re-fusal to license the Hotel Boyer than in the case of any other refesal. It seems, however that the waves will roll over the unfortunat and in a few months their sorrows will be for gotten by the madding throng.

Colonel W. H. Reed remarked that it was a good idea to locate the majority of saloons in the business part of the city. Men like to have a few drinks during the day, but they don't want the restaurants in the meighborhood. the restaurants in the neighborhood of their homes or drinking in the presence of their children. He added that the Brooks law, as rigidly enforced, had made it possible for persons to get something to eat in the city, and some of the profits have been divided with the poor man.

He thinks it is a good plan to increase the number as the Judges have done. He does not believe that politics had anything to do with granting the licenses. Magistrate Succept, of the Southvide, is well pleased with the decisions of the Court, but thinks the Thirty-third ward should have at the story and the succession, as at present it is, to use his least one saloon, as at present it is, to use his thinks the Thirty-third ward should have at least one saloon, as at present it is, to use his expression, a nest of speak-easies."

The Judges this year seem to have departed from one of the rules frequently emphasized during hearings. It was that no licenses were to be granted on residence streets. At the corner of Logan and Colwell, a square from Fifth avenue, a grocery store has been crowded out to make way for a saloon. There has not been a saloon on Colwell street for years, and it is strictly a residence street. Now that the less broken applicantions will be thick next year, so many indignant property owners on the

DOING BIG BUSINESS

Flenty of Orders For All Manner of Bar Fixtures. All over the two cities the winners of retail liquor license prizes were bustling about getting liquor liceuse prizes were bustling about getting things ready for opening up May 1. There were issues and agreements to close up, orders for counters, mirrors, tables, chairs, giassware and other saloon paraphernalia to be filled out, negotations with wholesalers for an ample supply of all kinds of beverage, bartenders and waters to engage and a host of friends to shake hands with and thank for their congratulations and well-wishes. The new hosts were all in excellent humor and were decidedly popular.

Agents for wholesale cigar and liquor houses, cabinet makers and dealers in all manner of har fatures flocked into the city from all directions and besieged the newly-made prodirections and besieged the newly-made pro-prietors in the midst of their happiness. The red bowl tipped frequently amid the driving of hard bargansand the discussion of the outlook for the future and several firms in the city had a big day of it getting started on filling their orders.

In sorrowful contrast were the scenes about

Suspense Before the License Decisions Is Hard on Business. insiness in almost all branches took a jump yesterday. The suspense attending the delib-erations of the license judges, has always proved a cooler on business. Applicants with the very best of chances cannot be certain thout winning, and are wary about making any about winning, and are wary about making any arrangements prior to the announcement of the decisions. Prospective proprieters are straid to take any steps toward fitting up their places in face of the possibility of being refused. For the same reason they refrain from purchasing stock. Places already running and not certain about a renewal of their licenses are in the same fix. Stock is allowed to run down in order that little of it will be on band in case of a refusal, contemplated improvements are deferred and everything is in a state of unbusinessike suspense.

There was a transformation yesterday and many a smile appeared, where none had been for several weeks. Some liquor men favor the scheme of having the Judge decide each man's case as soon as he is examined in order to pre Applications From Belizhoover and Braddock Considered-The Judges Show Their Knowledge of Localities-A Thirst for Information on the Part of the Court.

Judges White and Magee once more took up the grind of license applicants vesterday morning, and Braddock's dealers and wouldbe dealers were given a hauling over the coals. The work of finishing up the list of retail applicants in the buroughs and townships, and the wholesale list, will be pushed vigorously and the Court hopes to be able to complete the work in ten days or two weeks.

When court opened yesterday an order was made transferring the present license to S. S.

Brown and in all proceedings in relation to the new license the name of Samuel S. Brown be substituted for Charles S. Holme and the new license be issued to Mr. Brown. Beltzhoover borough was the first on the list, and the three applicants, Charles Ammon, August Drewer and James Donahue, were put Too Close to Prohibition Daniel Gallagher, 1234 and 1236 Braddock avenue, was informed that his place was too close to the prohibitory line. Luke Gordon 1128 Braddock avenue, has had a license and obeyed the law. John Hand and Bernard Mc-Crory are new applicants who were backed up with strong recommendations. Bernard Kelly, 1005 Braddock avenue, has a license, a restaurant and a good record. Joseph A. Lyden, 1100 Main street, also has a license and got into an argument over lunches and meals.

Joseph Levi, 1122 Braddock avenue, had beth a wholessie and retail amplication in Africa.

Joseph Levi, 1122 Braddock avenue, had both a wholesale and retail application in. After some fussing with the Court he decided to withdraw the retail application. Isaac Lloyd, 904 and 806 Braddock avenue, met with some opposition from Mr. Christy, but his record was good. James Leech, 310 and 312 Eleventh street, has had a license and runs a hotel. Howard Minard, 1000 Washington street, has been without a license for a year and made a preity good record for himself.

John T. Murray, 1102 Braddock avenue, was the first afternoon applicant and had few questions to answer. P. F. Murray, 1116 Braddock avenue, admitted getting a little beer for him-

George B. Oskin, corner of Talbot ave-nue and Ninth street, is an express wagon driver and admitted delivering beer for Eber-hart & Ober, also that he sometimes took Taxing a Restaurateur's Memory. Owen O'Neill, 1230 Braddock avenue, was told by the Court that he had failed to open a restaurant, as he promised, but the applicant denied this and claimed that he not only opened a restaurant, but serves from 20 to 25 meals pe a restaurant, but serves from 20 to 25 meals per day. The Court wanted to know the names of some of the mealers, but the applicant's memory was bad on this point. Mr. Christy wanted to know if the applicant wasn't the only man in Braddock who refused to close his bar during the riot. This the applicant denied, say-ing that he was the first man to close up, and offered to call witnesses to this effect. James Quinn, 417 Robinson street, has had a wholesaic license during the past year and his receipts were from $7,000 to $6,000. The ap-plicant admitted that some of the customers were women. Mr. Christy—You were one of the gang.

Attorney Brennen—Oh, address the man by some decent name. You are in court and decency should prevail.

Judge White—Yes, apply some more fitting term.

Mr. Christy then wanted to know something of a crowd that broke windows in a house one night, but the applicant denied this.

H. M. Traynor wants a renewal of the Commercial Hotel at 1007 and 1009 Braddook arenue, and claims to have obeyed the law, except that he trusted some friends, to the number of 10 or 15. John N. Walter, 1135 Halket street, has been refused for two years, and Judge White showed his knowledge of the place by informing the applicant that the street was not paved and applicant that the street was less pared and had no sidewalks, besides, it is very close to the railroad. The Court also intimated that when the applicant had a license in 1885 he ran a very the applicant had a license in 1888 he ran a very bad place. Of course, this was denied.

William H. Wymard, 390 Braddock avenue, was refused last year. The applicant was backed by some strong letters from prominent Braddock citizens. This scared the speak-casy proprietors, and they were afraid to take a United States license, as Judge Ewing declared in court that it was prima facie evidence that the holder was selling liquor, whether he held a State license ownot."

The Finance Committee estimated the re-ceipts to the city from liquor licenses this year at $80,900. The license fee is divided, $200 going to the city, $20% to the county and $100 to the State. As there were but 281 licenses granted-the city will get $76,200, $3,800 less than ex-pected. Three errors crept into the license list. H.

The other mothers intimated there might be some collusion, and vowed they would not compete any farther. Then Mr. Davis was compelled to remove No. 29. This did not end his troubles. FUNERAL OF MRS. GLAS.

One of the Pioneers of the Place No Known as Sharpsburg.

One of the first and oldest inhabitants Sharpsburg, Mrs. Barbara Glas, aged 88 years, will be buried in St. Mary's Cemetery, in Shaler township, this morning at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Glas had made her home with one of her chil-dren, Mrs. Alexander Lutz, but for the last four years she has been confined to her bed with paralysis, but the immediate cause of ber death was a severe attack of the grip.

Mrs. Glas has been a resident of Sharpsburg for just 60 years. The family were the first tiers in the town, long before it had received its name. John Glas, who died January 4, 1874, was an intimate triend of Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor, the first Bishop of Pittsburg, and the family was among the few when St. Joseph's congregation was founded, nearly 50 years ago; and nearly 40 years ago, when the Germans separated and founded St. Mary's congregation, it was again among the first.
