Mr. Wallace Talks About His Trotting Register-General Sporting News of the Day.

A meeting of the directors of the local hall club was held yesterday, and so much business was done that two sessions were needed to finish it. The magnates assembled at the Hotel Anderson, and they completed arrangements for the grand parade which is to celebrate the opening of the baseball season in Pittsburg. If all goes well the opening day will be a "cracker-jack," and an immense crowd will throng Exposition Park to witness the opening of hostilities between the aggregation from Chicago and the forces of our great and only "Pirate King"

The arrangements for the parade have all been left to that very able and experienced manager of such events, Al Scandrett, His programme was unanimously adopted by the board, and it is as follows: The parade will leave the Hotel Anderson at 1:50, and proceed up Sixth street to Market, to Third avenue to Wood, and then on to Sixth avenue. Then it will go to Smithfield street to Second avenue, and then up to Grant street to Fifth avenue, Then down that avenue to Market street again and to Sixth, and then across the bridge to Allegheny and along Robinson screet to the Allegheny and along Robinson street to the grounds. Representatives of the press, together with all the members of the two teams, will be in the parade, and the whols will be headed by a brass band.

The airectors appointed George McLean to be official scorer. He was for years the scorer of the oblideance that the capacity of the last P. L. club. He is a capable and genial gentleman. The salary list was also approved, and the "boys" will get their first "pay" to day if Manager Hanlon returns. Various contracts for the improvement of the grounds were let, hotably one for a more extensed sodding of the ground than at first was auticipated. The directors also agreed to give each maper four annual passes to the games.

The players of the local team returned home from the South, yesterday, and they all looked well. Their opnower regarding the trip were from the South, yesterday, and they all looked well. Their opinious regarding the trip were varied. Harry Staley expressed himself as not being very much in love with St. Augustine as sputing training quarters. He complained that when at exercise the players perspired friedly, and immediately afterward the sea breezes produced a chilliness. Others liked the place very much. Fred Carroll never looked better in his life. He was in excellent condition, and if appearance goes in excellent condition, and if appearance goes for anything Fred ought to play a great game. He thinks the team is a good one and is of opinion that they will stand well up in the race

H. B. Rea, of this city, has sold his mare, Minnie Bell, record 2:24%, to J. C. Fay, of Seatfall goes well. Yesterday afternoon all the players were tle, Wash., for $2,000. The mare is in excellent condition and Mr. Fay thinks he has made a hard at work practicing on the vacant ground between the right field stands and the fence. The outfield was not in condition to play on as a considerable part of it was plowed up. It will be made all right to-day.

Manager Hanlon will arrive in the city this morning and he will state this evening who the pitcher in to-morrow's game will be. Mack will be the catener. HINES' eye isn't on the ball yet, but his fielding last week was a great feature of the games.

Since then the Government has come into possession and has expended some $10,000,000. The trouble with the claim is that a clear chain of title from the Mexican Government to Temple, who sold the land to Fremont, has been lacking. The heirs here claim to have recoved a letter from San Francisco, containing what purports to make a clear title to the land. Verdict for Him in the Famous Breach of Promise Case

BROUGHT BY GLADYS EVELYN.

The Fair Plaintiff Will Still Bring Another

Prosecution, HURLBURT'S FRIENDS ARE JUBILANT

IBY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANY.1 LONDON, April 20.-The last scene of all in the strange, eventful history of Gladys Evelyn against William Henry Hurlburt was duly enacted to-day before Justice Cave, the special jury, which has listened for a week to the stories of the contending parties, and a large crowd of fashionably dressed spectators. With the fair plaintiff in the front to remind one of the stage and the gayly-clad audience listening and taking an active interest in the proceedings, one might with very little stretch of the imagication have believed himself assisting at a matinee.

The learned Judge, on taking his place, concluded his summing up of the case, and at 1 o'clock the jury retired to consider its verdict. When the jury filed into the court there was a hush of expectation as the clerk arose to speak the well-known words: "Gencommunistic and agrarian measures—died in one or the other House, and there is an expression of relief from the State that the came the reply from the foreman: "We came the reply from the foreman: "We have. We find there was no promise of marriage made by the defendant to the plaintiff." Justice Cave then said: "Then, plaintiff." Justice Cave then said: "Then, that is a verdict for the defendant."

This decision was greeted with some slight applause by Mr. Hurburt's friends, who were in a body in the court, and that gentleman, rising from his seat, instantly began to push his way out. The plaintiff's demeanor at this moment was in marked contrast to Mr. Hurburt's manner. She sat quietly in her place for a minute or so looking stolldly in front of her, as if nothing had happened, least of all in which she was interested. Then she turned to her solicitor and said, in a low voice, but one solicitor and said, in a low voice, but one which was distinctly audible: "But he did promise to marry me, and I will prove it

A ROMANTIC ENDING. The Coming Wedding of an Austrian Coun

and Hebrew Lady. IBY DUNLAP'S CABLE COMPANT. 1 BUDA PESTH, April 20 .- Count Zichy, the prother of the virtuose and director of the Imperial Opera, will be married next week to Adelheid Grisks, nee Steinfeld, a wealthy and beautiful Hebrew lady. This union will be the happy finale to a long and stormy courtship, the Count having become infatuated with Adelheid, who was a school friend of his first wife, nee Countess Palfry, when she was still in her teens, but her father intervened, and married her out of hand to a Hebrew banker. When Herr Steinfeld was on his death bed some three months ago, Count Ziehy and Mme. Girska at last succeeded in obtaining his consent to their union. The lovers then went to work to procure divorces from their respective spouses, and after some trouble succeeded. On Saturday the coming Countess Zichy entered the Roman Catholic Church, thus removing the last ob-stacle to the proposed marriage.

The Last Iron Works in Maine Will Go to a Nova Scotla Syndicate SPECIAL TELEPRAN TO THE DISPATCE.

BANGOR, ME., April 20 .- Since the recent great development of the iron regions of the South and the consequent decline of prices, the Katahdin Charcoal Iron Company, of this city, which has a great deal of money invested at the Katahdin Iron Works, Piscataquis county, has found it difficult to continue its business without actual loss, and it has now been decided to sell the entire extensive plant of machinery to a Nova Scotia syndicate. The purchasers will set up the machinery at East River, Pitou county, N. S., where, it is claimed, the same combination of iron and coal is found as exists in the South. This winds up the iron business in Maine, the Pem-broke Iron Works having been closed some time ago. The Katahdin iron had been famous for years as a material for car
