AN AGED COUPLE UNITED IN MARRIAGE.

Trophle Between a Woman and Her Son-in-Law Capaci by a Ring.

Many sides of city life are shown on the dockets of Aldermen. Several of these Magistrates had important cases before them yesterday, one of them to fix the liability of street railroads for the safety of passen gers alighting from cars.

Alderman McNeirney had rather a peculiar case before him yesterday afternoon. It was a charge of gross and willful negligence brought against the driver of a street car, by a man on behalf of his wife. It appears that Mrs. Patrick O'Donnell boarded a Sharpsburg car at the cemetery, last Saturday week, accompanied by a basket in which she carried her mar keting. Desiring to alight at a point near her home, she pulled the bell, and the car stopped. With regard to what subsequently happened there was a confliction of testimony. Mrs. O'Donnell swore that she had not time to alight from the ear with her basket before the car moved on again, causing her to fall. In this statement she was supported by four bystanders, and her husband, who chanced to be waiting for her on the sidewalk.

A Witness With Intuition

The defendant in the case, J. S. Cook, swore that some one in the car had called out, "All right!" and that he did not move his car until he had looked behind and saw all clear. He swore that he had looked behind and saw Mrs. O'Donnell, so far from lying on the street, walking away with some man. His testimony was supported by the evidence of a young man, Morgan Owens, who seemed to have had an intuition that his evidence would be required, and had all his statements down to a very

J. S. Ferguson appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Wilson for the defendant. The legal gentleman beld a short but warm discussion before the Alderman regarding the merits of the case. Mr. Wilson argued that it was preposterous to hold his client on a charge of malicious and willful damage on such evidence, while Mr. Ferguson contended that the public should have some protection against street car drivers who are guilty of neglicence, and asked that the defendant be held for court.

The Alderman reserved his decision until next Monday. Scott was allowed to go on bail. The plaintiffs declare their intention of entering suits for damages against the the company.

Mrs. Kate Atkinson was given a hearing yesterday by Aldonnan McGarey on a charge of laronny preferred by her son-in-law, John Rossburg, who claumed that she had taken his gold ring. At the hearing Mrs. Atkinson claimed to have bought the ring six years ago from James McKee and claimed it had never been out of her possession. The Alderman, on closely examining it, discovered that it had been repaired, and Bossburg at once stated that it had been inade smaller to fit his finger. After some little parley the Alderman told Mrs. Atkinson to go to the jeweler and get an abstract of the sale from him. She then concluded she did not want the ring and settled the case by giving it up and paying the costs. the case by giving it up and paying the costs. Never Too Old to Get Married,

THINKS CRISP IS AHEAD.

But Mr. Hopkins Would Rather See Wilson Flected Speaker.

Ex-Congressman James H. Hopkins, of Washington, registered at the Monongahela House last evening. The ex-Minister to Italy still watches the political arena, but from a dis-tance. Mr. Hopkins thinks that in the Speakership race Crisp, of Georgia, is in the lead, though McMillen, of Tennessee, is not far behind him. Both are good men and either would be creditable.
"I don't believe," continued Mr. Hopkins, at Mills is any longer a factor in the fight

He has dropped by the wayside, and it is prob ably better so. Mills is an impetuous man, and it is feared by Democrats that he may lose his balance and make some had blunders, which the party couldn't afford to have happen on the eve of 1892 Wilson, of West Virginia, would be a capital man, and personally I would rather see him Speaker than any of the other candidates. It is possible the Western States may combine on Bynum, and if they do he can be elected. I am afraid the Democrats with so large a majority will become careless, and the minority will often find them wanting. Every man will more or less free that he won't be missed in such a crowd, and here is where they will make a great mistake. The Democrats need to stick together and attend to business." Death of Morris Gallagher, Who Left the Ranks of the Salvation Army to Become a Mormon-Passed His Last Moments at the Poor Farm.

Morris Gallagher, who had a somewhat eventful career, died at the City Poor Farm at 6:40 o'clock yesterday morning. He was born in Pittsburg 31 years ago, but spent very little of his time here, leading a rather roving life. Some years ago he became religiously inclined and joined the Salvation Army in New York, and for a while was extremely enthusiastic in the cause. But when tremely enthusiastic in the cause. But when the novelty wore off Gallagher pined for something new, and he soon deserted the ranks.

Going West in his travels he visited almost every State beyond the Mississippi river, winding up in Utah. After working several months in Salt Lake City Gallagher became enamored of the easy-going customs of the Mormons. His own inclinations were augmented by the advice of some Mormon acquaintances, and he joined the disciples of Brigham Young, uniting with their church and blossoming out as a fullfledgen advocate of polygamy. But the scene was not as bright as it had been pictured. Knocking about from one place to another, brought on consumption, and the prespect of an early death worked so on his mind that he became slightly demented.

SENT HOME AGAIN. Adah Young and Her Friend Mrs. Burn

Leave for Buffalo. Adah Young, the Buffalo girl who was ar rested in Aliegheny on Monday for running away from home, was put on the train and statred in the direction of her home by Detective McDonough last night. The young widow, Mrs. Burns, who accompanied Miss Young from Buffalo to Allegheny, also boarded the train for home. The two ladies were inseparable, and Miss Young seemed to be controlled entirely by the actions Mrs. Burns. The latter is but of Mrs. Burns. The latter is but 20 years of age and very pretty. It appears both the women had an acquaintance with a large number of cheap theatrical people. They came here following a man named Douglass, or Dempsey, now playing at one of the 10-cent museums, and it was he who caused the girl's arrest by notifying her parents where she was. Both of them can do a little "business" as sketch artists themselves. Miss Young did a little song and dance for Superintendent Muth in the Allegheny lockup yesterday, just to show her proficiency. She said she had $15 when she left home, but had spent it all yesterday.

The little widow declared to Detective McDonough that she had not a cent after she bought a ticket to Forty-third street, and the detective gave her a dollar. She bought the detective gave her a dollar. She bought the ticket, she said, so she could get through the gate at the station, and refused under any circumstances to leave her companion. She inadvertently let the train conductor know she had a ticket for Forty-third street, but intended going to Buffalo. The conductor said he would put her off at the first-named station, whereat Miss Young said she would get off, too. An old gentleman who was traveling to Oil City overheard the conversation, and, interesting himself in their story, said he would see them all right through to their destination.

THE ACCIDENTS OF A DAY.

A Young Man Takes an Unfortunate Ride on the Lake Eric Road. Every day has its accidents. A Lake Eric train cut off a young man's legs and he will probably die. The other wishaps of yesterday

His recovery is doubtful.

Dawson.—James Dawson, a driver, was hurt yesterday by his mules backing the wagon over an embankment on California avenue. The animals escaped without injury, but a fence owned by James Woods was knocked down.

TRADE SCHOOLS FOR BOYS.

Mr. Lupton Says They Are Needed to Prevent the Growth of Crime.

W. B. Lupton went to New York last evening. He is much interested in the subject of trade schools, and would like to see one established in Pittsburg. Mr. Lupton said: "I beboy. I claim that as labor organizations are conducted now, they do not give enough boys an opportunity to learn trades. These unions are mainly responsible for the increase in crime, and I will show you how.

"According to the report of Superintendent Warner, of the workhouse, 3,800 persons served terms there last year. Of these over 3,000 were unapprenticed. The boys had been deprived of a chance to learn how to make a living, and naturally drifted into crime. Wouldn't it be boy. I claim that as labor organizations are naturally drifted into crime. Wouldn't it be better to make mechanics out of them than to burden the county with heavy taxes to support them behind bars? It would reduce expenses them behind bars? It would reduce expenses and would be doing a great work for humanity. Some boys are going through a regular course in crime. Their freshman year is spent in the Pennsylvania Reform School, the sophomore at the workhouse, the junior in the Huntingdon Reformatory, and the senior in the penitentiary. I recently told a prominent member of the American Mechanics that it would be well to drop the squabble over the Bible in the public school, or placing the flag over the schoolhouses, and see to it that boys are taught trades to keep them from becoming criminals."

FIGHTING ABOUT A HOLE.

Two Gangs of Men Spend All Day Futile Warfare.

The old story of two gangs of men working against each other, one gang trying to fill up a hole and the other trying to make it deeper, was told of a happening on the Brownsville turnpike yesterday. According to a member of the Birmingham and Brownsville Turnpike Company, which is the owner of the road, the Manufacturers' Gas Company has had a contract with the turnpike company to furnish 40 gaslamps placed along the turnpike, with a certain pressure of gas for a certain period of time. It is said the gas supply of the gas company became short, and it became necessary to equalize matters with its other customers. It was decided to put in a new guage and red Yesterday a gang of laborers was sent to place the new guage, and as the old one could not be reached without digging down the read considerable it was not long until the Turnpike Company was made aware of the matter. Another gang of men was sent to the scene by the Turnpike Company, who threw the dirt back in the bole as fast as the first gang would throw it out. This was kept up all day, and the turnpike has taken action through their attorneys, Hayes and Noble, to have an injunction issued against the Gas Company.

Weeks Talks About the Iron and Steel Trade Outlook.

GRIST OF A DAY FROM LABOR CIRCLES

The building trades are in a more unse tled condition this morning than they have been at any time since the stonemasons trouble broke out. According to the resolution passed at the meeting of the Building Trades Council last Saturday night, every trade identified with that organization ought to quit work this morning and remain idle until the whole eight-hour question is settled. If they fail to carry out the spirit of this resolution, the master builders will consider that they have gained a point through the weakness of their employes.

The Carpenters' Council met last night, and was in session until nearly 1 o'clock this morning. A committee of five mem bers of the stonemasons was given a hearing before the council. The committee rebearsed the Providence mission trouble and their subsequent lockout by the firms. They requested that the Carpenters' Council take some action looking toward a settlement of the difficulty, and were particularly anxious that all the other trades be ordered off to compel the bosses to give in.

To Be Officially Notified To-Day. The committee was given to understand that whatever action was taken would be officially communicated to it early this morning. The committee then retired and the car the situation, coupled with the question as to the feasibility of beginning the eight-hour battle to-day.

A. M. Swartz was seen after the adjournment, but said there would not be anything we tell our story now, it will hurt our cause."

This last remark was taken as an indication

There was also a meeting of the hodearriers last night, and they talked of sending a representative to the Carpenters' Council, but this was not done. H. Barnes read a paper recommending more uniformity in designs for machinery. A discussion followed, after which Mr. Steinmetz, who represents the interests in a new stove, was introduced.

Mr. Steinmetz read a description of his new stove, and made such extraordinary claims for it as to bring forth some searching questions regarding it from members. His principal claim is that it develops a greater amount of heat with less coal than any grate or stove now in use. Further, he says that there is no waste from clinkers, everything in it being completely consumed. Not alone cast from, but wrought from, can be melted in it, and that without at all affecting the sheet from lining of the pot. These latter statements of Mr. Steinmetz provoked some laughter.

EVICTED BY FORCE.

A Dead Weight Opposed to the Power of Constable—How a Family at Coraopolis Was Ejected From Its Leased Premises

-Lots of Fun for a Crowd. The even tenor of the Corsopolitans was broken yesterday by an eviction that stirred the borough to its innermost depths. A family named Lawrence occupied a house belonging to John Watson on a lease which, if reported correctly, was a queer document. It reported correctly, was a queer document. It is said to have provided for an occupancy for a year or longer if both parties were agreed, which of course would be no lease at all after the expiration of a year if either party saw fit to be dissatisfied.

Well, according to the story, Mr. Watson wanted possession, and the Lawrence family refused to vacate. Constable Backofen, of Sewickley, came over the river to evict the Lawrence family. They refused to go, and it is said Mrs. Lawrence gave some one a whack over the rence family. They rerused to go, and it is said Mrs. Lawrence gave some one a whack over the skull that cooled his ardor. The neighbors of both families refused to interfere, and, their neutrality being deeply set, the constable was obliged to go back to Sewickley for reinforcements. He got four men, and they came back and made another assault, which was successful, and the Lawrences were ejected in the presence of a large number of people.

Mr. Lawrence only offered a passive resistance, but when he lay down in the house the evicting party found him a limp and heavy load to carry. As the weather was warm there is no fear expressed that the engagement may end in pneumonia.

Victor Kaufmann, the 19-year-old boy who told Inspector McKelvey, Monday night, that he was a detective of considerable ability, came to the front again yesterday by discovering the body of man, supposed to have been murdered, floating in the Monongahela river. The last seen of young Kaufmann Monday night was at a Hungarian wedding at No. 1016 Carson street, where the Inspector had ent him with Special Officer Kelly, telling him in a joking way to look out for murders. Nothing more was heard of him until about 9 o'clock yesterday morning when word was sent to the Coroner's office that a "floater" had been found in the river near the Keystone mills. He had discovered his murder. The Young Detective on Guard.

John McKinley went out at once, and the first person he saw was the boy detective standing guard over the body on a cinder bank beside the river. The boy said he had been walking out along the river about 8:30 been walking out along the river about $30 o'clock, when he discovered the corpse in the water. Word was sent to the Fourteeath ward police station and several millmen helped Kaufmann pull the body out.

The body was afterward identified as that of Alexander C. Mayberry of No. 445 Ella street. It was badly decomposed and had evidently been in the water several weeks. There is

been in the water several weeks. There is little doubt that Mayberry was murdered. A piece of rope was found lastened to his right wrist, while marks on the other arm showed that the other end of the rope had been tied to it, and to all appearances his arms had been bound tightly behind his back. The rope had weakened in the water and was broken in pull-ing the holy out.

weakened in the water and was broken in pulling the body out.

Mr. Mayberry was employed in Riter & Conley's bouer works. On January 15 he disappeared, and his family and friends have been unable to find any trace of him since. Previous to his disappearance he was injured by falling iron in the mill, which is supposed to have allightly affected his mental nowers. The have slightly affected his mental powers. The murder theory is made more strong by the fact that he carried a gold watch and some money when he left home, and these were not on the corpse. Put the Police at Sea.

The police are at sea on the matter, though they are making every effort to assist the Coroner in locating the guilty parties. There was nothing about his clothes to, throw any was nothing about his clothes to, throw any light upon the mystery of his death.

After seeing the body on its way to the morgue the boy "spotter" went before the Coroner and made a sworn statement of what he knew of the case. He then made haste to find Inspector McKelvey to present another proof of his efficiency.

The dead man was a member of Springfield Lodge, Royal Arganum a committee of which

The dead man was a member of Springfield Lodge, Royal Arcanum, a committee of which viewed and identified the remains at the Morgue Isst night. The lodge will make arrangements for the funeral, Arts. Mayberry also identified the body yesterday afternoon. The deceased was 50 years of age.

Inspector McAleese does not believe it was a murder. He says it would have been possible for Mayberry to the himself in the manner described and it would be just the thing an insane man would be likely to do.

The inquest will be held at 11 o'clock this morning.

Efforts to Be Made to Raise Cash to Keep Hospital Afloat, A special meeting of the Board of Managers of the Southside Hospital was to have been held last evening, but failed for want of a quorum. The meeting was called for want of a quo-rum. The meeting was called for the purpose of devising ways and means of raising money to run the hospital for the next two years, as the appropriation expected from the State will about pay outstanding indebtedness. Several schemes are under advisement, and the best one will be utilized to raise the neces-sary funds.

Railroad Robbers Arrested. Erie Railroad robberies were committed to jail last night by Justice of the Peace Douglas, of Boston, Pa. They were Charles and Bert Harbaugh, Charles Rush, John Campbell, William Spielman, James Riley and Robert Sullivan. Each of the prisoners have their bail fixed at $1,000 on the informations of C. W. Cook, while Bert Harbaugh, Charles Rush and Riley are under $500 additional on a second charge of larceny preferred by Robert Shep-pard. The hearing in the case will take place next Friday before Justice Douglass.

Complaints Made That All the Improve ments for Which the City Is Liable Do Not Appear in Chief Bigelow's Report—

Many people have noted and commented n the fact that in the statement of city in debtedness on account of street and sewer mprovements published in Sunday's Dis PATCH, on behalf of which curative lation is asked, that the claim of Evan Jones, contractor—some $250,000—for constructing the Thirty-third street sewer, does not appear Controller Morrow, when asked for an explanation, said be could not give it, and added that it was as much of a liability as any one of the list published.

As it is a matter of nearly a quarter of a million, and some people suggested that there may be others of the same kind, further inquiry was made and a citizen found who keeps his eye on municipal affairs. He said it was on account of a fight between some city officials.

Advice, like castor oil, is very easy to give, but not so easy at all times to take, but the people who must foot buils for street and sewer improvements want all the light they can get, and they would doubtless advise that a clean breast be made of the whole business, even if it may add to the labor of grinding some axes. It may add to the labor of grinding some axes. They want to know the worst, as it is easier to get over a whole shock than it is to recover from it recovers. from it piecemeal.

Chief Bigelow was asked why the Thirty-third street sewer did not appear in his report, and at once he offered to bet $1.50 that it was there. The Chief would have lost the bet.

Caring for Little Joseph Doyle, Whose Mother Ill-Treated Him.

PEOPLE WHO HELP THE WORK ALONG

The Humane Society will take up the Morganza Reform School matter. The report of Ellwood O. Wagenhurt, published recently in THE DISPATCH, telling of cruel treatment to the ismates of the school, led the members of the society to believe the indicatious serious enough for them to take a hand in the matter and find out for themselves the truth or falsity of the accusations At the regular meeting of the society yes-terday afternoon the question was discussed for some time, and a resolution was offered to the effect that the agents of the society be nstructed to assist Mr. Wagenhurt in collect instructed to assist Mr. Wagenhurt in collecting evidence on the case, and that Secretary Davidson make the necessary arrangements at as early a date as possible. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

It is understood that Mr. Wagenhurt proposes to make a still more thorough investigation of the management of the school, and the experience of the Humane agents will be of great assistance to him.

experience of the Humane agents will be of great assistance to him.

Juseph John Doyle, a 15-year-old boy now in the hands of the Humane Society, will be placed in the St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum until a home can be secured for him. He went to the society's rooms yesterday and stated that his mother had driven him from home. His mother lives at Crafton and not long ago the attention of the Humane Society was called to the boy, who, it is said, was not receiving the best of treatment. The boy's father died a few years ago in New Castle, and his mother was afterward married to Edward Gormley. They went to Crafton and attention was attracted to the boy by the stories told to neighbors of Mrs. Gormto Edward Gormley. They went to Crafton and attention was attracted to the boy by the stories told to neighbors of Mrs. Gormley. She said her boy had killed several people, was very victous and needed much watching. The Humane Society took hold of the case and, it is said, learned that Mrs. Gormley was not the proper person to have charge of the boy. Sometimes she would dress the boy in the finest possible clothes and send him to school; atother times she would try and see how ragged and shabby she could make him appear and then drive him from home. The woman was warned to take better care of the boy, but yesterday he turned up at the Humane Society's office as stated. Efforts will be made to secure him a better home and Secretary Davidson was instructed to place him la St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum.

Secretary Davidson reported the following contributions to the society during the week: Singer, Nimick & Co., 20; William E. Lincoln, St. George A. Berry, S5: J. S. Atterbury, 55; Mrs. M. S.
