TEMPTING OFFERS FROM WEALTHY MEN

FEON A STAFF CORRESPONDENT, I WASHINGTON, April 22.-The talk of Prot. S. P. Langley on the possibility of flying machines before the National Academy of Sciences yesterday, was by turns a vexing, amusing and serious subject to-day among the myriad of inventors, patent attorneys, employes of the Patent Office, and engineers who are congregated in the city. It was a great surprise to the scientists, who had looked upon Prof. Longley as devoted almost wholly to the investigation of solar

It was admitted generally that what Prof. Langley had said would tend to correct the faise impression that has obtained ever since the publication of the rhyme of "Darius Green and his flying machine," that the study of aerostatics is only for cranks. I: the successful flying machine is in-vented, and that is predicted as a thing of the near future, it is possible that Darius Green may yet have monuments erected to him as the one in whom the original thought

It is announced that the extemporaneous talk of the Processor yesterday is but the prelude to the publication of a volume which will give a perfect analysis and illustration of his experiments in the grounds of the observatory on the hills that overlook he city of Allegheny. Prof. Langley having proved the possibility of providing sufficient power to propel throngues the air an air-ship, together with the engine creating the power, it remains for a man or been of mechanical genius to meet the difficulties that still remain. Devices for starting the Ship from the earth, of guiding it in the air and of bringing it to the earth was the I bringing it to the earth again must be orked out by inventors.

A scientist laughingly remarked to-day that he saw no way of starting the ship on its aerial flight except by having an elevated track and running the car or ship along that until it got under good headway and then letting it shoet off the end of the platform. He did not see any way of stopping it safely, except by lasso-

In the ladies' block there were only about 100 representatives of that sex and they were dressed in every conceivable color from the weeds of mourning to brilliant combinations of green and orange. The greatest peculiarity of green and orange. The greatest peculiarity of the crowd in general was in its ability to yell, and they did that whether Pittsburg won or lost. Very frequently when obsering over the home club the applause died away into a sigh. In the seventh inning, when the Pittsburg learn scored four runs on the strength of the bad balls, a hundred voices ejaculated: "Isn't that a regular bunco game? J. Palmer is not the only nights." is not the only pirate."

But when the game was ended the most emphatic remark was: "A good general is better than a team of stars. Anson's command of his men is what won the game."

"Never did like to win the first game," was the comment of Al Scandrett. "We have been winning the first game for years and then we never took any afterward."

"The boys played all right for a start," remarked Mr. O'Neil, "and I am satisfied."

Just then Manager Hanlon appeared and declared: "The Chicago team is not balf as strong as ours, and I will bet we win the next three games."

"You're right," ejaculated J. Palmer O'Neil, and then the party adjourned for supper.

Fred. Carroll's Error Saved Anson From His First Defeat of the Season-The Game Was Full of Excitement-Luby

That's what Umpire Powers said yesterday for the first time this year at Exposition

King's" forces and the forces of the chieftain of the West commenced hostilities. A contest followed, which, if it was not of the finest and most brilliant, was brimful of excitement from beginning to end. And in the tenth inning the Chicago representatives had victory perched on their banner, and 6,000 people who went to see the game left the grounds declaring vengeance on Fred. Carroll for an error be made which turned victory into defeat. Probably a more enthusiastic crowd of citizens never assembled to see a ball game than the crowd of yesterday. They went to the park primed, and, like as many smouldering voicanoes, were ready to burst forth at any stage. An opportunity came, and it will long be remembered by those who saw it. At quite an unexpected stage of the argument, and in quite an unexpected manner, the home heroes went the front, and should have finally won the game had the error just referred to not taken But the unexpected always turns up in base

Then came a rain storm. But it soon subsided, and at 3:30 Umpire Powers took the two teams in charge, and quite a lively time he had with them before he was through with

A Good Opener. The game as an "opener" was tolerably good and was lost not so much by the good work of the visitors as by the defects of our expected pennant winners. There was no very great ob stacle in the way of our "champs" corralling ;

the ball with any effect, and that told a doleful tale.
On the other hand, "Old Sport" Galvin was being touched up with a regularity that was somewhat painful to Pittsburg partisans, and this enabled Anson and his pupils to keep add-ing, in small quantities, to their score. "Jeems' did very well, but the bats of his opponents came too often in hard and safe contact with the ball.

The fielding of the visitors was very good, and the home players, with one or two exceptions, did very well indeed. Although two trors are credited to Reilly, he really did some williant fielding. illiant fielding and made a great impress Bierbauer, as usual, was in excellent form. Taking everything into consideration, the boys did fairly well, and just as sure as they were beaten yesterday, just as certain is it that they were at least 33 per cent below their form. Glory and Disgust.

It is needless to tell the story of every inning in detail. Two stand out very prominent. One was when local partisans were throwing their hats in the air, and the other was when these same partisans collapsed just like a crowd of "sure thing" backers on a race track when they are all dumped. In the first four innings the are all dumped. In the first four innings the visitors, by two errors, four hits and a sacrifice, scored four runs. The sixth inning was enned with the score 4 to 0 in favor of Chicago.

Then came the seventh inning and it was a corker. Mr. Luby, who so far had fooled the inlent, commenced the inning in a very wild way. He could hit the plate, but he performed the more difficult feat of hitting our lean and lank Mr. Mack, who to many people is almost invivible. Then Reilly got his base on balls, "Old Sport" followed, and in the name of the inpe hittle Galvins thumped out a single over second. The bases were full and Mr. Luby sent the next three men to their bases on balls, forcing in three runs. Anson can stand a great forcing in three runs. Anson can stand a great deal, but his limit was reached and he retired Luby and introduced Hutchinson to the 6,600 and the opposing team. The man from Ken-tucky was now at but and Pete banged out a single, sending Milier home. Hierbaner forced Beckley out at the plate, and then Hanlen cracked out a single to left, sending Carroll and Browning home. This made six runs, or two ahead of the other fellows. The side was then retired.

Palmer, the Pirate." exclaimed a female voice, as a pair of dark side whiskers and a chronic smile appeared above the stairway. to right field. Carroll stood waiting for it and in a very dexterous manner he let it drop to the ground. Moans followed as "Hutch" landed on second base. Kitridge made a single to left and "Hutch" scored, but Kit was nabbed while trying to make second on the hit. Foster flew out to Reilly. Evan made a double to left and Cooney flew out to Hanlow. In the tenth inning Dahlen led off with a triple to left and after Anson was out Carroll sent Dahlen and after Anson was out Carroll sent Dahlen home by a single, winning the game. Score:

The Brooklyns Defeat the Phillies in Lively Opening Contest. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.-The opening of the League championship season here to-day was a memorable one. The weather was all that could be desired, and the attendance, both in number and character, was particularly gratifying to the management of both clubs. Sprinkled through the crowd were emi-nent divines, famous lawyers, solid business men and handsomely attired women, while the crowd in the open was large and enthusiastic. Brooklyn was first at bat, and Collins led off with a single to left. Griffin hit to Shindle, who made a three-base wild throw, Collins and Carruthers was sent to first on called balls Foutz came up with a single over second, and Pinckney and Griffin crossed the plate. A GLORIOUS TIME. Nearly 20,000 Witness a Great Game Between New York and Boston. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. NEW YORK, April 22 .- The opening of the aseball season in this city to-day was attended by glorious results, calculated to send a thrill game. To those who have predicted that baseball was dead, to-day's events will come as a crushing blow, for never before in the history of the game was there so grand and glorious an opening day as was this. Nearly 20,000 persons saw the New Yorks and Bostons struggle for supremacy, the hill tops, the elevated station, the telegraph poles and every conceivable structure which towered above the Polo ground fence, being loaded by humanity. Of this vast erowd 17,335 persons paid to pass through the gates. Elaborate preparations had been made for the occasion by the New York Club, through President Day and Manager Murrie, who carried everything out most successfully, The grand stand was beautifully decorated The grand stand was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting flying to the breeze. Cappa's Seventh Regiment Band discoursed music for two hours before the game was commenced. The crowd packed the grand stand to its utmost capacity. In the upper gallery was a swarm of beautifully dressed ladies. The "bleacheries" were one solid mass of humanity and beyond the ropes the crowd was four or five deep.
