came and saw, and though they failed to confreezing to death in the live" hest game played at League Park this season, "Silver" King has a fashion of hugging the ball close to his bosom and posing like a man in pain before delivering it. He is exasperatingly slow, and when Arlie Latham faced him he observed: "I'm waiting for you there, Mr. King." "Lath" went out just as the other Reds did in the first. When the old gladiator came to bat he drew a band. If "Old Pete" would play in Cuon hollow or Walla Walla he'd get a cheer. He pasted the ball in the old familiar way and got to first. Fred Carroll recalled nemories of the days he used to murder Will White, by getting a beauty to left which Holiiday stopped by a leap into the air. Bierbauer's tap fell to Smith's lot and the danger was over. King Was Wild and Holliday was awarded his base in the second Petity was a victim of circumstances and Brown-ing Stattery's dy fell rafe in short center. Then Browning did more execution. It looked as if no runs were possible, but Harrington's tap took a nasty bound away from Reilly and the "bug" scored. Reilly gave chase, fell down on the ball "Slat" came in too. The smoked Italians got also one. Hanlon drew a gift and was forced out by Muck. A passed bal sent him forward and Reilly did the rest by press ing his but and banging the ball into left. Th Reis matched this tally at their next turn. La-tham caught the ball on the end of his stick and it wirizzed over Rierbauer's head. Marr sacri-ficed and Reilly came along with the massing link. Swith was the next to make the circuit. He got a Smith was the next to make the circuit. He got a present and Harrington, after curving off a dozen fools, finally planted a sacrifice. McPhee's drive into left was good for two longs. Marr began busi-ness in the fifth with a fine hit futo right and he quit running when he reached third only to re-sume his journey homeward when Holliday got a scorcher to center. "The long" got in himself on a steal, Helliy's sacrifice and Smith's hit.

Beckley Was There. Big Jake Beckley warmed "Long John's" hands for him in the same inning. His line fly went through Reilly like water through a bose, and as Marr tumbied the ball momentarily the runner got to third. Browning sent a hot one into left, a fiy with a bill of lading to the clubhouse. Holliday made a great catch, but Beckley scored on the sacrifice. Reilly sneaked in with another in the sixth. He made it on a bass on balls and a brace of errors. Blerbauer's fumble of Mullane's tap with two out gave McPhee a chance to take tack the run he had given and he accepted it. There was a small measure of safe hits slumped out in the eighth, but out of two triples and a single only one run was made. Marr made it on his long drive and Miller's which throw made it on his long drive and Miller's which throw made it on his long drive and Miller's which throw made in on his long drive and Miller's who get callidge Miller from second, after Beckley had plucked out another beauty in the eighth. Handon and Reilly had scored and two men were out, "Pete" was at bat. A home run meant a tich the score. St. Jacob, however, got too far away from first and he was run down. With McPhee on second, Lathan hit clearly to center and circled the bags like a race horse in the last and that ended the run getting. Attendance, 734. Arctic weather. HOW THE ITALIAN CASE NOW STANDS

PITTSBURG DISPATCH

WASHINGTON, May 6 .- The report of the New Orleans grand jury on the killing of the Italians was a fruitful theme for discussion among the people at the State Department to-day. It may be said that the findings of the grand jury excited no surprise, for some such conclusion of the case was expected. The attempt to palliste the infraction of law by offsetting the alleged attempts at jury fixing is deprecated by the legal minds of the department, but there is a well defined opinion that on the whole the outcome of the case will be beneficial in its effect upon the turbulent foreign elements in the United States, inasmuch as it will make clear to them the fact that they cannot rely on treaties to escape responsibility to the great public for their unlawful acts. The report of the grand jury will, it is expected, reach Secretary Blaine in the course of time and figure in the official correspondence between the United States and Italy. There is reason to believe that in some details it differs from the report made to the Department of Justice by District Attorney Grant, and notably in the matter of the nationality of the victims.

The Question of Nationality. The grand jury's report found that eight The grand jury's report found that eight of them were naturalized American citizens and that one had declared his intention to become naturalized. District Attorney Grant, it is believed, found that one of the victims was an Italian by nationality, but was an escaped convict, and that another's nationality was so doubtful as to make it unsafe to hazard an opinion. So at any rate the Italian complaint will be narrowed down to at least two persons one an escaped convicte for Italian complaint will be narrowed down to at least two persons—one an escaped convict—for, although the United States has no naturalization treaty with Italy, the last named nation has invariably, through comity, recognized our naturalized citizens as free from amenability to their native Government.

When the case of these two victims is considered, the question will immediately arise: Were the treaty stipulations with Italy broken? This question is likely to figure in the correspondence between the two Governments as soon as the Italian Government is ready to fall reasonably into the usual diplomatic method of treating a subject, respecting which they take issue with another nation.

How the Italian Case Stands.

Unless it appears clearly that the treaty has been violated, the Italian case falls to the ground, and the leading diplomatic minds of the State Department maintain that this fact cannot be made to appear. The treaty guarantees Italian citizens in this country the same tees Italian citizens in this country the same rights and privileges and immunities as are enjoyed by our citizens, and it is asserted that if any Italian subjects were killed at New Orleans they nad the same measure of protection that was accorded to the American citizens who were killed at the same time and for the same reason and by the same time and for the same reason and by the same claim indemnity, if it appears they are entitled to do so. The same measure of popular vengeance might have been inflicted on native citizens of the United States, and altogether it is not clear to the State Department officials that the victims failed in any degree to receive the protection guaranteed by the treaty, which, it may be said, does not and cannot insure the lives of foreigners.

Porter's Leave of Absence. In Secretary Blaine's absence, there has been no forward move in the correspondence. It is learned that Mr. Porter, our Minister at Rome, learned that Mr. Porter, our Minister at Rome, applied to the Department of State for leave of absence before the New Orleans affair happened. He has been constantly on duty since March. 1889-more than two years—and it is customary for a Minister to have leave at-least once a year. Moreover, the sickly season is approaching in Romy, so that it is entirely probable that his request will be granted, as indeed would already have been the case had not the trouble reached such an acute phase. Attorney General Miller said he had read the report of the grand jury, but declined absolutely to express any opinion in regard to it or discuss any of its features. Secretary Foster, when asked his opinion on the report, said he really had not had time to read it, and therefore was not in a position to express an opinion fore was not in a position to express an opinion

Foster, of Iowa; Samuel B. Harbizon, of Pennsylvania, and John A. Schemerhorn, of Colorado; Secretary, Herbert A. Clark, of Michigan; Associate Secretaries, Ralph C. Goodwin, of Massachusetts; William McBrids, of Alabama, and William H. Meade, of California.

The afternoon session of the convention was opened by an address of welcome by William McDronald, President of the Kansas City Association, which was responded to by President McPhesters. A very interesting paper was read by C. S. Holt, of Chicago, on, the "Snares in the Path of Young Men of To-day—Doubt, Licentrousness, Intemperance, Gambling and Haste to Get Rich."

In the evening the report of the International Committee was read by the Secretary. The Association, it says, owns buildings and other real estate to the value of over $12.25,000. One thousand and eighty-three persons are encaged as General Secretaries and other paid officers; 779 reading rooms and 691 libraries, containing almost 5,000 books, are reported. The total membership is 25,000. Great interest was manifested in that part of the report in regard to the extension of the work of the Association to mission fields. On this point, the resolution considers that its field for work in missionary work, suggested by some of the Association, is looked upon with alarm. Upon this question the committee consulted with its committees within whose jurisdictions efforts to promote general missionary work seem to be the most prevalent. At the conference held in Topeka Sentember 17, 1890, it was generally agreed by the committee that the associations of the country ought not, in a technical and legal sense, be connected with a general missionary morement. The committee doesn't oppose missionary work seem to be the most prevalent. At the conference held in Topeka Sentember 17, 1890, it was generally agreed by the committee that t and Determined Fight. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.1 H ARRISBURG, May 6.- In the Senate there was a determined fight on the bill authorizing licensed wholesale dealers, brewers, distillers, manufacturers, rectifiers, compounders, store-keepers, agents and bottlers to make de-liveries of goods sold by them at their places of business by common carrier or by their own conveyance in any county in which the sale of liquor is not prohibited. The bill received 24 votes, two less than required to pass it, while the negative vote reached 14. Bill prohibiting stockholders or directors of banks from becoming notaries public was de-feated.

A SCHEME FOR STREET CARS How the Traveling Public May Be Made to

Share in the Profits. A method of enabling the public to share in the general prosperity of a street car line has been inaugurated on some electric lines. The bell punch is dispensed with and receipts are given by the conductor for cash fares instead. The receipts are put up in pads of 100, each pad baving its distinctive number and each receipt its serial number. The conductor in settling up each night must return the receipts in the pad or cash to correspond with the missing receipts and thus the transfer check is secured. The interest of the public in these receipts is indicated in the fact that 100 of them are worth 25 cents, or, in other words, on the return of 100 receipts at the office of the company the bearer will be entitled to six
