A Handsome Young Man's Honeymoon Suddenly Interrupted Last Night by the Police.

WANTED FOR NUMEROUS THEFTS.

Carried Letters From President Garfield, to Whom He is Thought to Have Been Related.

DETECTIVE SHORE FOOLS A CAPPER.

& Strubenville Man Looking for Bis Wife, Who Ran Of With Eis Brother,

The police of the First district yesterday broke up a honeymoon. The groom is in Central station, and the bride in Wheeling and in tears. The prisoner is a handsome young man, 21 years of age, with half a dozen names, among which are Gaul and Robinson. He is charged with baving committed numerous robberies about town, and the police have been after him for some time. The story of the young man's escapades is not thoroughly known, but a supposed relationship to the Garfield family has caused considerable interest in his case.

For over a month several mysterious hotel robberies have been reported to Inspector McAleese. A valuable overcost belonging to Mr. Stoffel, of the Monongahela House, was taken, and a few days later a new suit of clothes worth $60 was stolen from Mr. Suckey. Several things were stolen from Delaney's hotel. Others were reported from different places.

Suspicion Fastened on the Stranger. Suspicion fell on the handsome young stranger who was seen at various places about town, working at different saloons as hartender. Detectives were put on the case and he was traced to the Home Hotel.

Thursday atternoon he was seen leaving the hotel wearing the stolen suit of clothes. He was accompanied by a young lady. The two went to the Court House and applied for a marriage license. This was relused, owing to the youthful appearance of the girl. They then came down town and soon after took a train for Wheeling. The marriage ceremony was performed there. In the meantime Inspector McAleese instructed the hotel people to let him know when the groom came back for his trunks. About 8 o'clock last night the word came, and Detectives Robinson and Fitzgerald hurried down to the scene.

When they were within a hundred feet of the botel they saw their game standing in the doorway. He caught sight of them at the same time and took to his beels along Duquesne way. He was fleet-footed and gave them a hard chase. When Tenth street was reached the detectives fired several shots. This frightened him and he crawled under a wagon standing at the side of the street.

Found Two Letters From Garfield. The patrol wagon was called and Gaul was soon in Central station. Nothing was found on his person of any importance except two well-worn letters from James A. Garfield to his cousin, J. S. Garfield at Newberg, O. The letters were written in 1880, while Garfield was President. Gan claims his home is in Cleveland, and he is supposed to be related to the Garfield family or else very intimate with them. This is the only explanation for the pres

The sarrowing bride was Miss Jennie Norris, who has been connected with the Home Hotel for some time. She met Gaul there. The girl is but 16 years of age and very pretty. Gaul's father is supposed to live near Mansfield, O., and is said to be a man of considerable wealth and influence. An effort will be made to get word to him. Gaul will have a hearing this morning.

HELD FOR A DECISION.

Alderman Succep Binds a Real Estate Man Over for One Day,

A. A. Alles, the Southside real estate dealer, was given a hearing by Alderman Succep last evening on a serious charge preferred by Mrs. Ann McKenna, of 2409 Mary street. She says he fraudulently obher signature to a document. She says she appointed Alles ber agent in February to tell her house, for which she wanted $1,400. They finally agreed on $1,300. March 14 After sailed at her house, she says, and gave her $50 and a judgment note for $508, in part payment. A deed was made out which she signed later. After an investigation she found that she had sold her house for $1,100 found that she had sold her nouse for $1,000 instead of $1,000 as agreed. Alles made a second visit and paid $50 more, as a part payment. Mr. Alles states that Mrs. McKenna agreed to sell him the house for $1,100, and that he paid her $50, and gave her a note for $508. April 30 he sold the bouse to John P ell and paid her $50 more and cashed the judgment which he thought closed the deal, as the bulance of the $1,100 was covered by a mortgage held by Mrs. McKenna's son. The hearing occupied two hours, when the Alderman put Alles under $1,500 ball to await ois decision, which will be given

RAN AWAY WITH THE BROTHER.

George Thompson in Search of His Wife and Child.

George Thompson, a class blower of Steubenville, O., is in town bunting his wife. Thompson stated that about a week age his younger brother ran off with her and their 9-year-old son. He had no clew to their wheresbouts until a day or so ago, when his father received a letter from the prissing brother asking for a letter of recommendation to aid him in getting a situation on one of the street car lines in this city. The letter was dated at Pittsburg, but no address was given to which to send a reply Thompson came to Pittsburg in search of the runaways, and reported the case to Inspector McAleese. The Inspector started Detectives Fitzgerald, Robinson and Bendal in search of the missing pair, and they hunted through the city all day. Up to last night, however, they had found no trace of a Grave Offense. J. B. Cole, who formerly resided at 301 Locust street, Allegheny, will have a bearing to-day on a grave charge. A few years ago Cole, who is reputed wealthy, married a widow named Reitz, who lives at 179 Rush street, the mother of a hoy and girl, the latter of whom is now 17 years old. Shortly after Cole married he is alleged to have deserted his newly made wife who en tered suit against him and he was placed under bail to auswer the charge in court.

A Wealthy Alleghenian, J. B. Cole, Accused

FOOLED THE BEGGAR.

Detective Shore Turns a Trick on a Professional Capper.

Detective Shore is not a safe man for beggars to tuckle. Yesterday afternoon 's seedy-looking chap accosted him at Grant and Diamond street, who wanted $2. The stranger gave his name as Harry Williams and said he had spent all his money. He had an interest, however, in a raft lying above the Sharpsburg bridge, which he wanted to sell, and he would give his note for the $2. Detective Shore said all right for Williams to come to his office and make out the note. Out the note.

They started for Central Station, but when they had gone but a short distance Williams became suspicious and tried to break away. He was lodged in the station notwithstanding, and it was discovered that he answered the description of a man whom the police have been looking for for several days.

A number of cases similar to the game attempted on Detective Shore had been re-ported, and it is thought that Williams is the man. He was locked up for a hearing.

Bessie Garrigan Found Doing Housework for a Colored Woman.

Bessie Garrigan, the 11-year-old girl who left her home on Second street, Allegheny, last week, and who was supposed to have gone off with a cheap circus, has been found. Captain Bell, of the Allegheny force, found ber yesterday afternoon living with a col-ored woman, Mrs. Jordan, at 18 Robinson street. She was doing chores about the house and has been working there for three weeks, having played truant from school in order to do the work.

Bessie was placed in the lookup and will likely be sent to Morganza.

Amelia Reeves Lost and Found. Early Thursday evening a 3-year-old hild, Amelia Reeves, a daughter of Thomas Reeves, wandered away from her home on the Morningside road, near the Sharpsburg bridge. QUAY GOES HOME. He Had Senator Smith With Him, Who Will Spend Sunday at Beaver.

Senator Quay and State Senator George Handy Smith were on the limited last evening going to Beaver from Harrisburg. Senator Smith said he was going to spend Saturday and Sunday with Senator Quay in the country. If it were not for the fact that Mr. Smith is a stanch triend of Mr. Mages no one would think there was anything more in the object of the visit than the en-joyment of buselic bliss for a few days, but, in the face of the rescut reports of attempts to patch up the political differences between the two leaders, the trip of Mr. Suith into the country might not be so innocent as it appears on the surface. However, on this subject the two men were slient. They declined to talk, any more than Senator Smith said it was a purely social visit.

Concerning the ballot reform bill Mr. Smith said it was not out of committee yet, but the Senate would take up the bill next week. He doesn't think the Legislature will adjourn before June 5. Mr. Quay was as uncommunicative as ever. He was surprised to learn he had been catechised at length when he went East a few days ago. He declared he had seen no reporters, and what appeared was a pure fake. He had nothing jurther to say. The Senator's family will start for a trip abroad in a few days. He expects to go East again next week. Though Senator Quay asys his health is fair he is not looking well and it is very noticeable.

OVERCOATS AT A DISCOUNT

The Weather Suddenly So Much Warr That Rain is Predicted.

Overcoats were at a discount yesterday. There was a light frost in the lowlands, but it did not harm, and now the agriculturists' feelings are mixed. They would like to see a six-hours' rain, but rather than take s frost with, or after it, they will be content to do without moisture until the earth ac-cumulates a stock of heat to radiate. The moon changed yesterday, and some of the "lunatics" prophesied rain in consequence, but as they had not seen it yet, they could not predict with any certanity. They could not say whether it was a wet or a dry moon, whether on its back so as to slop over, or with points down and empty, and few could say with certainty whether it rose over McNairtown or further South. If over McNairtown, the weather will be cold, if further South warm.

The hoot-owls have been quiet lately.
The tree frogs sang at the time of the last shower' but there wasn't water enough to moisten their woodl organs and they gave over. Clay soils are so baked that they cannot be plowed satisfactorily.

Master Builders Decide to Resume Operations and Give Their Men

A CHANCE TO RETURN TO WORK.

Two Union Contractors Said to Have Granted the Demands.

THE PLUMBERS' STRIKE A SURPRISE

The latest development in the building trades' strike is the decision of the Master Builders to resume work. This action was taken by them after the adoption of their new working rules, and it is expected that by Monday most of the shops will be open. A great many of the bosses will work themselves, as the tinners did last year. The contractors will adopt this as a policy by which they expect to break the strike. Vice President Powell, of the Master Builders' Association, said last night: "We have heard that a large number of men are willing to return to work if they had the chance. We will give them an opportunity now, and see what they will do. I feel very certain, however, that a great many will go to work on Monday. We do not want to lock out any who wants to work." GAS FOR FUEL PURPOSES.

Recent Experiments With the Article That

Are Significant, There have been a number of recent experiments with manufactured gas, and it is claimed it can soon be furnished for fuel purposes at a less cost than the present supply of natural gas is being consumed. The actual cost of putting illuminating gas into houses is 11/2 cents per 1,000 feet. Natural gas costs nearly five times as much.

Pittaburg natural gas men and the officials of the various companies are greatly interested in the recent developments, and it is claimed that arrangements are being made that will place the city out of all danger of a failure of her vapor fuel supply.

MACHINE MINERS' DEMANDS. Hocking Valley Employes Want an Advance

The meeting of machine miners at Murray Oity, in the Hocking Valley, yesterday made a demand for an advance, and appointed a committee to consult with the operators and inform them of what they wanted, and if it is not granted they will go wanted, and if it is not granted they will go out. The conference is to be held in Columbus next Wednesday. W. P. Rend, of Chicago, stated yesterday the operators will not concede the demand, and will undergo a strike before they will make any move in that direction. The present scale for machine mining is the one established by arbitration four years ago, and the operators claim the miners are now trains to per our of the four years ago, and the operators claim the miners are now trying to get out of the contract and return to the old trouble, which cost so much before.

President Rae, of the United Mine Workers, was at the Murray Hill meeting, and states the miners will go out unless they get what they have saked. The Murray City scale is an advance of five cents on the Lechner Machine Works, two cents advance on drilling and blasting, and one cent advance on cutting.

There is no space sufficiently large to allow the students to indulge in athletic sports, or take needed out-door exercise. In the East End there is plenty of room, and there would be no trouble in

If the people of that section would raise a fund of $100,000, buy five or six acres of ground in a good location and erect suitable buildings, there is not a trustee or member of the faculty who would money that has so far prevented such a move. In Allegheny, it is claimed, the Seminary is to some extent isolated, whereas in the East End the surroundings are such as would help the school in many respects.

Busy about the hall and upon the stage were the members of the Executive Committee, A. L. Kennedy, G. W. Kirk, E. P. Newlin, T. T. Anderson and M. J. Garnier. Mayor Gourley was expected to have been present and respond to the toast of "Our City, " but the Chief Executive sent word to some of his friends that he was afraid to venture out in the night sir. The announcement was not formally made, but it was understood early in the day that His Honor would not be able to attend.

The Growth of the Machinists.

G. W. Kirk was the toast master, and he made the address of welcome, which was short and to the point. Then the Rev. E. R. Donehoo said grace, after which the clatter of knives and forks went on merrily for an hour. It was a cold-water banquet, the strongest liquids being coffee and lemonade. The first address on the programme was that of the Mayor, but in his absence Grand Master Machinist J. J. Creamer was introduced. His theme as named upon the list of speeches was "The National Association of Machinists."

Mr. Creamer said that the teast to which he was asked to respond hardly covered the point that should be made. Instead of the National Association it should have read the International Association, for the present meeting marked the welding together of machinists from Canada as well as from the United States. He said that the third annual convention of the association marked a period of progress that had not been dreamed of when the organization was first formed in Atlanta. He then gave a history of its Atlanta. He then gave a history of its growth and the rapid accession to member-ship which followed its birth. Shorter Hours and More Money.

Shorter Hours and More Money.

The magic hand of the machinist, said he, is felt in all the walks of life. Without it the wheels of progress would be stopped. Why are we organized, he asked, and his answer was not for strikes, not for the purpose of demanding things which are unjust. Capital has organized for its own protection, and to secure all the benefits possible. We have organized to better our social, our moral and our educational condition. In addition to that we know that shorter hours and more pay will benefit us. We want and more pay will benefit us. We want more time to fit us for a better position in the world, and we want more money to help us maintain that position.

How do we propose to do all this, asked Mr. Creamer, and he at once replied to his own question by remarking that the ques-tion would be answered before the conven-tion adjourned. It would be answered, he said, to the satisfaction of all the numbers of the association throughout the North American continent. The last remarks of the speaker were greeted with loud ap-plause, as were also those in relation to shorter hours and more pay.

The next speaker was A. W. Duff, who responded to the toast of the law. W. J. Brennen spoke for the employer, but said he felt a little swkward in responding, because, he said, it would be much easier to speak on the other side. "Machinists" was responded to by H. E. Easton, D. G. M. M.; "Medicine," by J. Milton Duff, D. D.; "Co-operation," by T. C. McGonnell; "Nine-Hour Day," by D. Douglas Wilson; "Politics," by Clarence Burleigh; "Our Employe," by John N. Large Store and Several Dwellings Burned Down Last Night-Value of Property Destroyed Estimated at About $40,000-An Allegheny Engine There. The residents of Glenfield, 10 miles from the city on the Fort Wayne road, were afforded a pretty extensive, and at the same time costly pyrotechnical display last evening. At 7 o'olock fire broke out in the workhouse in rear of the two-story frame dwelling occupied by John F. Graham, THE MAYOR NOT PRESENT AT THE PEAST which faced the railroad. The entire block occupied by these houses was destroyed, causing damage variously estimated between $40,000 and $50,000.

Mrs. Graham and her husband were absent attending a cuchre party, and neither can account for the origin of the fire. The store contained miscellaneous goods valued at $11,000, which is covered by insurance for $4,000. It was a three-story brick building in front, standing on an area of 50 feet by 25, and had a two-story brick annex in the rear. The buildings were valued at $15,000, and were insured for $8,000. The Graham family were uninsured, and lose all their valuable furniture excepting a few pieces which they saved. Their loss is about $2,000. Mrs. Graham succeeded in saving money she had in the house, but lost some costly jewelry. ome costly jewelry.

Adjoing the Graham house was a 13-room frame dwelling belonging to A. Merz, of Sewickley, formerly of Grogan & Merz, of this city. It was at one time used at a hotel, but was unoccupied last night. It was valued at $5,000. Next to it was another unoccupied house owned by R. Phillips, and in the rear were stables, the property of Mr. Mers, all of which were destroyed.

property of Mr. Mers, all of which were destroyed.

When the fire was discovered, Burgess Welch telephoned to the Allegheny authorities, and Superintendent Jones was asked to send an engine down to the scene. A special was obtained, but it was 10 o'clock before the firemen arrived at Glenfield. The fire was then smouldering, and nothing could be done to save property, as all in the vicinity had been burned down. The engine ordered out was the Hope Company and six men, one man from the Goodwill, and seven from the Columbia under Captain Noble Jones. Twenty-seven sections of hose—1,500 feet—were taken along, and Assistant Trainmaster W. P. Shotwell, Superintendent Jones and Superintendent of Fire Alarm Loomis were en board the train. Chief Murphy superintended the operation of loading the engine on two flat cars at Sandusky street, which occupied some time and a share of attention from a large crowd.

Burgess Welch said last night that the Council would now probably take steps to provide some fire fighting facilities which the borough at present were altogether without. The signal tower was badly scorched, the instrument disarranged, and only a copious supply of water saved the structure.

HOW IT HAPPENED. Mr. Hartman's Explanation of the Indictment Against Him. Speaking of the indictment found against him yesterday, Henry Hartman said last evening: "About a year ago we had our former agent in New York City arrested for embezzlement, and have several suits pend ing against him now. In hopes of getting us to let up on him he brought an action under the inter-State commerce act, alleg ing under billing of goods. So little did either Mr. Wylie or myself pay to it, that neither of us knew the case was up in court. "A young man who was then in our employ as shipping clerk, billed a few lots of goods apparently under actual weight, bu wholly unknown to any officer of the company, as no same man would intentionally risk incurring the penalties of the act in question for the sake of a few dollars, the whole claim being but a few thousand whole claim being but a few thousand pounds. On investigation, it seems that the goods mentioned were formerly crated and certain deductions made for crating, whereas, after crating was abandoned, the "tare," through negligence, was occasionally deducted by the clerk 'manifesting' to that agency—which was the only place that goods were delivered. We have no concern whatever, as to the outcome of the matter."

Akron people are jealous of the place, and gave it a big boom by warning buyers to be careful of towns on paper. Manager M. J. Alexander is ex-pected home to-day.

A New Business Started in Pittsburg.

Heretofore it has been a perplexing question when house-cleaning time came to find a painter, a calsominer, decorator and paper hanger who could furnish a house and have so many different workmen embellish it with any taste or harmony in coloring of so many branches. This has been overcome by the fact that the well-known painters and decorators, Mesers. Stoughton & Stulen, have established a new business in this city under the style of house decoration, taking in all of the above branches, and also have in stock a large assortment of fine wall paper that cannot help but, please all who desire to purchase wall paper, linerusta, sterco-relief, picture moldings and all the novelties connected with the wall paper business, House, sign and freeco painting, glass and glazing A New Business Started in Pittsburg. extremely moderate. nected with the wall paper business. Mother With a Sick Infant Reach the to the Poor Farm and the Baby to the Chief Elliot, of the Department of Char-Ities, had a peculiar case called to his attention yesterday, and with his usual consideration for those in need showed himself the friend indeed. Shortly before noon a train filled with immigrants reached the Baltimore and Ohio station. There were all told 356 of them, the most prosperous looking crowd that has come to Pittaburg for a long time. They were mostly Gerfor a long time. They were mostly Ger-mans, but among them were people of several other nationalities. One hundred and fifteen remained in Pittsburg, 200 went to Cleveland, and the others to nearby points. They had reached Pittsburg by the way of Baltimore.

Just before the train drew up in the station, a baby in the arms of its mother, a woman who seemed to have no friends among those in the car, was taken with violent spasms. The child was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital, and the mother, who could not speak a word of English, was taken to the office of the Department of Charities. There, through an interpreter, she gave the name of Uhika Gradowitz. She had a ticket to Broadford, but no money. In addition to the sick infant, there was with her a child about 3 years

Her story is a pathetic one. Several months ago her husband was killed in one of the mines in the anthracite coal region. She was left without any means of support, and finally her neighbors raised among them-selves sufficient cash to buy her a ticket to selves sufficient cash to buy her a tloket to Broadford, where she says she has friends. The chief sent her and the eldest child to the Poor Farm until it is found whether the baby will recover or die. Late last night the physicians at the hospital thought the child would pull through.

LOOKING BACKWARD

May be a pleasing pastime, but we take more pleasure in "Looking Forward." We cannot point with pride to a long and distant past, but we can plant aix feet on the living present, and serve your interests with as much pleasure and profit as our more ancient and respected competitors. We do not sell our goods below cost, nor throw dust in your eyes by giving presents with them. Neither do we mark our goods too high, because we have our finger on high, because we have our finger on the popular pulse and note the indi-cations. There must be a reason for the growth of our trade. We think it is largely due to candid, frank, open business methods. When we talk about our Hosiery and Underwear, we must exercise care. We can't say too much about it, but we want to say it so that you will want to see. That's all; the rest will
