THE OIL SITUATION.

A Brighter Outlook for the Producers and the General Trade.

MANY NEW WELLS IN ALLEGHENY.

Wildcatting on the Increase in Adjoining Counties.

DEVELOPMENTS IN WEST VIRGINIA

The condition of the oil business in Alleghenv county, at least, has changed within the last three or four days. Since early last fall it has been remarkably quiet, and during the present year it is safe to say that it has scarcely been better then during the year of the shutdown. The men who deal in oil well supplies, boilers, engines, cordage and drilling tools, in fact every one who is in any way con-nected with the business has reason to complain of the stagnation. The producers feel it as much as any one, indeed more and, although they were the so, and, although they are the first to relieve the quietude which exists through the oil regions. Within the next 30 days it is almost certain that active operations will be resumed all over Allegheny county. There are yet thousands of acres which have not been tested, and at almost any point the fearless wildcatter is liable to strike a rich

Wonderful Wildwood Past. Wildwood has been the wonder and admiration of all the old operators. But few of them expect to find again within the of them expect to find again within the borders of the county another such reservoir of petroleum. An operator said yesterday that he had been all over the field and was surprised at the number of new rigs which were going up. Those in the Wildwood district are not looked upon as liable to startle the trade for the reason that they are all located on well-defined territory, and it is known just what they will do. The next wells of any consequence that are looked for are in the Moon district, down the Ohio. Operations have again commenced with renewed vigor in that locality, and there is plenty of ter-ritory that has yet to be explored. The Mo-Curdy field is also attracting some attention, and the chances are that it will be per-forated with a few scores of new holes before the Fourth of July. Outside of Allegheny county little Lawrence is receiving the biggest share of the attention existence of a pool of any dimensions in that region. A Through Belt Outlined.

of the operators. The test wells which are being drilled at Pulaski, above New Castle, and those in the neighborhood of Rock Point by T. W. Phillips will determine the

By taking a map of Pennsylvania and West Virginia regions it will be seen that West Virginia regions it will be seen that the belt runs direct through the lower edge of Lawrence and the northwest corner of Butler counties. These localities have never been drilled over. They are barren as yet. The existence of oil is not known any more than it was at Wildwood before W. E. Griffith put down his first test well. Only the drill will develop the fluid, and geographical prophesics and divining rods have never questioned the verdict of the bit. Nearly all the Pittsburg operators have men out now gathering up leases in have men out now gathering up lesses in the localities mentioned, and by the time the first test well goes down it is probable that not an acre will be left unlessed.

Wildcat wells are now going down in Beaver county miles away from any previous developments. They are being worked quietly, and the owners are in position to gobble all the territory possible in the vicinity if they should make a showing of oil An operator and oil. An operator said yesterday, in speak-ing of the Moon field: "The only difficulty down there is that the farmers want too much. They ask for an eighth royalty and a bonus of from $50 to $100 an acre. No operator can afford to make such terms at the present price of oil. We are willing to give them a sixteenth royalty, but an eighth is out of the question when you do not expect to get a well that will do over 20 or 25 barrels a day at the outside. That is the only obstacle in the way of the operators in the Moon field at present."

Washington and Greene. Following Allegheny county to the south-

Following Allepheny county to the south-west are Washington and Greene counties and West Virginia. Pointing to Prof. Carll's latest map of the oil regions yester-day a producer said: "It is impossible to look at the little pools which have been found and which are located on this map without thinking that there are more in the region. There are thousands of acres in Greene county upsprouded and it is only Greene county unsounded, and it is only a matter of a short time until that county will be the scene of active wildcatting. It stands to reason that if an operator can get oil at less expense in this county than he can in other places he will invest his money here. That is the reason why there has been so little work dense in West Virgins in comparison. work done in West Virginia in comparison with Pennsylvania operations. The latter region has received a boom during the last

At Pennsboro, Moore & Co. commenced drilling a well on the McDongall farm last Thursday, and contracts have been made for 40 other wells.

The Home Pools.

The home fields yesterday gave some encouragement to the producers. Frost & Greenlee's No. 3 on the Alston, at Wildwood, was four bits in the sand Saturday night, and making 18 barrels an hour. Their No. 1 Good was 13 feet in the sand and had 300 feet of oil in the hole. Beers & Co.'s No. 1 on the P. Kuhlber farm came in st noon Saturday and started off at the rate of 25 barrels an hour. The boiler was moved back and the well will be drilled deeper today, when it is expected it will do from 75 The most important feature in the Moon field is the well of Forst & Greenlee on the Hamburger farm which is expected in the Hamburger farm which is expected in this week. It will open up a big lot of new territory if it should come in good. The well of J.F. Moore & Co. on the Parker farm, which was started last Thursday, will also increase the value of considerable land if good. It is three quarters of a mile from the nearest well. It is bounded on the north by Corsopolis, by the McCurdy farm on the south; the Young farm on the east, and the McFarland on the west.

A MEMPHIS MYSTERY.

THE STORY OF AN OLD MAN'S LOVE FOR A LITTLE CHILD.

He Dies and Wills Her a Fortune-The Girl Is Kidnaped by Unknown Persons, and Finally Found on a River Flatboat-Queer Circumstances of the Case.

MEMPHIS, May 10.—On Thursday last Anna Clare Kenoye, the 9-year-old daughter of Mrs. M. S. Kenoye, started to school, but to the utter distraction of the mother has not yet returned. There is a strange story connected with the child's dis-sppearance—an old man's fancy for the lit-tle one, which prompted his leaving her a fortune at his death, and the sudden elevation of the mother from abject poverty vation of the mother from abject poverty to affluence.

In 1888, Mrs. Kenoye met by accident on a river steamer A. P. Kerrsucker, of Dubuque, Ia., who subsequently settled at Greenville, Mass. He tooka great fancy to the bright-faced child, and begged of the mother that she permit him to adopt the daughter, but his request was denied. He, however, made the child sundry presents and saw her frequently. In April of last year Mr. Kerrsucker died, leaving $25,000 of his fortune to Anna Clara Kenoye, of Memphis, which, in the event of her death, was to revert to his two nephews, residents of Dubuque, Ia.

What connection, if any, the terms of the will has with the disappearance of the girl, is, of course, problematical, but there is little doubt that she was kidnaped by parties having an interest in her. For several days the child has acted strangely, as if under a spell, and as though hiding something from her mother. The mother is of the opinion that the child has been persuaded to leave her, thinking she was to be in the hands of friends. The case was at once given to the police, and about 8 o'clock to-night the girl was found on a flat-boat on the river here. The owners of the boat refused to say who had left the girl, but admitted she had been in their charge since Thursday.

Fate of a Chinaman Who Acted as a Customs

WASHINGTON, May 10,-The Treasury Department recently received a letter from James Marr, an inspector of Chinese in the El Paso, Tex., customs district, in which he says that in October last he employed a Chinese laundryman of Paso Del Norte, Mex., as a detective. It was his arrivals at Paso Del Norte of Chinamen whose intention it was to cross to the United States. He seemed to do this faithfully the agent says, and was of no little service to him. business to report to the Inspector th to him.

The Inspector took a vacation some time ago, and on his return the last week in February he says he missed his Chinaman, and thereupon began a search for him, which resulted some days ago in his finding that he had been foully murdered in his room at Paso Del Norte. All the circumstances and such evidence, the agent says he could find showed conclusively that the assassination was caused by the Chinese order of assassins known as Highbinders, and the cause of the assassination was undoubtedly because the Chinaman acted for him.

THE AFTER EFFECTS.

Where the Fearful Danger of Grip Lies an How to Counternet It.

Here is something which one of the most prominent doctors in America recently said about the grip:
"Have you noticed that only those persons who were aged and feeble or debilitated died of the Grip? The Grip itself is not so serious or dangerous, but it is the terribly weakened con-dition that it leaves one in and the fearful after dition that it leaves one in and the fearful after effects which it brings. The people who die do not have vitality enough to recover; they do not possess vigor enough to throw off the after effects. Such people, in fact all people, should have help in some sensible way to throw off the depressing, the debilitating, the almost suicidal feelings which the Grip always causes. Nothing will do this, nothing will help causes. Nothing will do this, nothing will help nature except some pure stimulant and there is nothing in the way of stimulants equal to pure whiskey."

No medicinal stimulant ever has produced the results, ever has received the endorsements or ever has been so popular as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. The reason is exceedingly simple. It is because it has gently, healthily and completely assisted Nature, toned it up, enabled it to resigt the outside influences which tended to disease and to assist toward the attractive path which leads to health. The after effects of the Grip are the worst feature of it. They must be counteracted if strength and health are to be regained. They can be overcome in but one certain way and that is by the use of the sensible, efficient and highly endorsed stimulant above mentioned. There is nothing before the public which can for a mement compare with it and the genuine should be insisted upon.
