But instead of covering this, distance the Charleston got about half way and then went to anchor over night. Later advices show that she was hast seen just above the Mexican boundary line. Such officers as have an opinion that they feel free to express, say that the Charleston's movements can be explained in two ways: Either the department believes that the Itata is lying somewhere off the coast of California or it has no intention of seizing pleasantly noticeable within easy reach. The motive for such an attitude by our Government as that indicated by the last theory is rather hinhed at than directly stated by officials. It is, in thrief, that it might not be good diplomacy for the United States to go to far in the direction of hostility toward the Charles devolving upon a friendly Gov-

too far in the direction of hostility toward the Chilean insurgents. The duties devolving upon a friendly Gov-ernment in cases such as this have never been fully and clearly enunciated by au-thorities in international law, but it can be safely assumed that in the operations of the United States Marshal, in seizing the Itata and the Robert and Minnie and in the pur-sati of the Itata as long as she was in United States waters, our Government has already shown what the Geneva arbitration in the Alabama case has declared to be due dill-gence. The policy of our Government in this matter will probably soon be made clear by the movements of the Charleston and if she should content herself with a thorough search of American waters and return to port in a day or two, it may be that the Gov-ernment will rest satisfied.

After the jury returned, the first witness called was Dr. Wilson, who held the post-mortem on the body of the ex-Mayor. He said the first and fatal wound was made when Baird was slightly facing Garrison and the second shot through the head, was fired when the victim had his back almost di-rectly turned to Garrison. This has an im-portant bearing on the case, as the defense has intimated its intention of showing an at-tempt on the part of Baird to draw a weapon.

days past the skies have been lighted up with fires apparently in every direction, but little fears were entertained by people liv-ing in the towns, as those then threatened and in danger were farmers in the country districts or lumber camps in the midst of the blazing forests. In spite of every effort however, the flames crept steadily in seaky lines of smoke and flame toward the help-less towns, until it was seen the people must fight back the flames or have their very houses burned down over their heads. A dispatch from Austin says: Latest ad-vices from the terrible accident and burning on the Sinnemahoning Valley, near Moore's Run, seem to confirm the first reports, though there is no telegraphic communication as yet.

CORNING, May 11 .- News has been received nere through the Erie railway trainmen of the destructive work done by a peculiar forest fire near Randolph, Cataranga county, on the western division of the Erie. The fire started in a large tract of old bark peei-ings, where the dead hemlock, felled and standing, afforded material on which it fed and spread with fearful rapidity. Millions of feet of lumber and thousands of cords o bark were destroyed in a short time. The Allegheny Lumber Company lost 20,000,000 feet of lumber and between 15,000 and 20,000 cords of bark. This will be a money loss of between $150,000 and $200,000, with no insur

Conductor Bump saw this wave coming, its roar having been heard for some time. It was chasing the train. The conductor signalled his en-gineer to put on steam and rim away from the fire. But although the engineer finally got up a speed of 35 miles an hour, he could not run tway from the fiery wave, but it gained on him so rapidly that in a few min-utes the head of the wave had caught up with the train and passed it like a flash. Conductor Bump had the engine reversed as quickly as possible and the train was started back at its greatest speed to escape from the flery furmace. The flames swept by not more than 25 feet from the track, and the heat was terrible. The area of the wave was soon past, but its track was a sufficient, and blinding smoke.
