AN ANCIENT PROCESS

Invoked by Ben Butler to Secure His Client's Release.

MRS. JOHNSON FREE ONCE MORE.

The General Gets Her Out on a Writ of Personal Replevin,

THAT HAS RARELY BEEN HEARD OF

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] Boston, May 14 .- Mrs. Clarietta Johnson General Butler's client, is once more at [lib erty, and she owes her temporary release to General Butler's thorough knowledge of the law. She was this morning taken out of the Woman's Reformatory Prison at Sherborn by Sheriff Cushing on a writ of "per-sonal replevin." The process, brought un-der chapter 185 of the Public Statutes, has been very rarely used, and inquiry among the lawyers develops the fact that to many of them it was unknown. The last case brought to the Supreme Court wherein this.

writ was used was in 1844.

This is a very old writ, and the only exception from its operations was the precept of the King. When in 1786 Massachusetts passed the statute, explaining the writ of replevin, what it was and how it should be served, it was required in capital cases to be served by the Sheriff and returned before the Supreme Court, otherwise the person might be hanged while the questions raised were being tried. They then, following the analogy of the old English law, excepted a man held by the supreme executive authority as a dangerous person. That was the only exception, but in case of something less than a capital crime, the writ was to be returnable to the Court of Common Pleas.

The law in relation to personal replevin remained as it was down to 1836, when the commissioners revised the statutes. They recommended that the writ "dehomine replegiando" should be repealed "on the ground that there was no use for it, but the Legislature thought differently, for while it was creditable to the proper and orderly administration of justice in the commonwealth, and evidence of a high regard for the personal liberty of the citizens, it was argued that the writ had not been frequently availed of and was deemed a necessary safeguard to the liberty of the citizen, and it was re-enacted substantially as it is now in 1887. might be hanged while the questions raised

Then there was also passed the personal liberty bill, which punished anybody, except a private soldier, who was ordered out and assisted in holding a fugitive slave. That remained in force until after slavery was abolished, when it was repealed, because there was no further use for it. But the writ of personal replevin has been retained down to this day. It has always been the judgment of able lawyers to retain it. Mrs. Johnson furnished the necessary bond to the sheriff and is now free, in Lowell.

A WILDWOOD SURPRISE.

THE W. W. MUNTYRE FARM SHOWS UP INDICATIONS FOR A WELL.

It Is Nearly a Mile South of the Alston Wells and East of a 45 Degree Line-A Good Well Reported From the McCurdy Field -Reports From Other Pools.

A little ripple of surprise spread over the groups of producers gathered on the streets hast evening when the late reports from Wildwood came in. It was caused by the Roth Oil Company's venture on the W. W. McIntyre, which got the sand at 2,617 feet, McIntyre, which got the sand at 2,017 feet, and at the second bit struck the pay. It instantly filled up with oil and the boiler was moved back. This well is three-quarters of a mile south of the Alston wells, and 1,500 feet east of a 45 degree line. Almost on a line between it and the Alston is the Jenny dry hole. If it should prove to be a good well as indicated it will probably turn the active operations in that direction. The Kanawha Oll Company has had a rig on the Kennedy west of the McIntyre, for several months, and last evening a member of the company said they would probably commence drilling it immediately. The McCurdy field also turned out a little surprise last night and is beginning to rival Wildwood in the attention which it is receiving.

the L. P. Peebles, was six feet in the sand last night. It made one flow and is standing full of oil. It is just south of the Marks farm and was not looked forward to with any Gegree of hopeful ess by the owners since they got a dry hole on the lease some time ago. The same company's Campbell No. 2, is in the 30-foot. Greenlee & Forst's well, on the Hazlett, is at the bottom of the 100-foot. The Campbell No. 2, on the western care is making 10 barrols naturally edge, is making 10 barreis naturally. The Metropolitan Oil Company's Kohlbar well was putted out about 30 barreis an hour yesterday J. M. Guffy and Guffy & Queen expect their No. 1 on the P. Kunslbear in Saturda. It is 80 rods northeast of their Heidelsperg well. Their weil on the P. Lintz farm is due Saturday or Sunday. It is 180 rods southwest of their Kohl-bar No. 1 The Kanawha's Fogle No. 2 is doing 30 barrels a day.

The Record of McCurdy.

McCtroy-Jerome Aiken's No. 2, on the parsonage lot, got the sand last night and was reported to have made several good flows. There was also a report current that flows. There was also a report current that it was doing 60 barrels an hour. All of the reports were encouraging and there is no doubt about it being a good well. Black & Gaffy's Ewing farm well, which is more than a mile northwest of the McCardy, will be a small well. It will be shot this morning. Gillespie & Co.'s Kiddle No. 3 is making 20 barrels an hour. Wilson & Co.'s graveyand is putting out 125 barrels a day, and Mellon & Wilson's Scott No. 3 is good for No. 1, and Patterson & Co.'s Ewing No. 1 are on top of the sand.

The Verona Wildeat.

The Verona Wildeat.

Verona—The Equitable Gas Company's well on the McGregor farm, two and one-half miles east of this place, is down 2,250 feet. They expect to have to go a couple of hundred feet deeper. The well has in it 2,000 feet of six-inch casing, weighing over 20 tons. This is one of the longest strings of casing ever put in a well in the State. It is 1,500 feet northwest of the Stoner gasser. Quiet at Moon.

Moon-The Kanawha Oil Company's Meeks farm well did 145 barrels in the last two days. Captain Green's well on the Doty nere was not shot yesterday as intended, but will receive a shot this morning.

New Rig at Cornopolis. CORACPOLIS-J. M. Guffy and Guffy & Queen started to build a rig on their Rouser farm in the southern edge of the field yes-terday.

Down Four Hundred and Fifty Feet. BARRESTOWN—Guffy & Queen are down 450 feet in their well on the Glasgow farm two miles west of this place.

In Butler County. PETERSVILLE-The Young Bros', well on the Shannon farm, which was drilled to the third sand, was reported yesterday to be good for 15 barrels a day by parties who had good for 15 barrels a day by parties who may visited it.

The McCalmont Oil Company has located a rig on the Walker farm at Callery. They expect to find the southwest extension of the Callery pool.

In the Chartiers Field. CRARTIERS-The McCalmont Oil Company has made a location on the Luke-May farm in the southern end of this field.

in the southern end of this field.

Lewis Gormley, who left the oil country ten years ago to engage in the ranching business in Southern California, has returned to his first love. He is stopping at the Hotel Boyer and intends to forsake the West and again engage in the producing business. Mr. Gormley is an old Lawrence county boy.

Daniel O'Day, General Manager of the Sational Transit Company, was 'in Pittsburg last night. His home is at Buffalo.
