Gas City Council No. 273, is arranging to hold a picnic on July 30. Vine Cliff Council No. 107 will go to Cleveland in Pullman coaches. There is some talk of a new council being organized in Johnstown, Pa.

next month. John Grey Council No. 249 accompanied Pittsburg Commandery to church on last Sunday morning.

The mention of James Cranston for National Vice Councilor, which was made a week ago, has received approbation. J. J. Isensee, of Acme Council, and a rival of Whitney as a soloist, will sing at a con-cert at the Second U. P. Church, Allegheny, on Thursday evening, May 28.

President Harrison, who is an American Mechanic, said in one of his recent speeches: "You have not failed to make sure that the children, the blessed children of your houses, that are now coming, are made secure in their position of a well endowed school system. What a testimony it is to the American character; that however intense the push for the thirgs of life; however eager the pursuit of any you can prove eager the pursuit of gain, you can never eager the pursuit of gain, you can never assemble a community of 200 people that do not begin to organize schools for the children. These common schools are not simply nurseries of intellectual training; they are nurseries of citizenship."

The Juniors are determined to make the excursion to Cleveland a big success. The low rate of transportation has already in-duced hundreds of members to make ar-rangements for the trip, and the Forest City will surely be crowded with Mechanics dur-ing the session of the National Council. There is not the least doubt but that from 3.000 to 5.000 men will go from Pittsburg and Allegheny, and that there will be from 10.000 to 15.000 men in line on the day of the parade. This is as it should be. Let us show our appreciation of what public demonstrations have done for us at home by giving Cleveland a parade that will be of some practical value to the organization there.

This is the order's birthday. On May 17, 1833, Washington Council No. I was instituted in Germantown, Philadelphia, by Reliance Council, of the O.U. A. M., as a local "feeder" for that council, the membership being restricted to persons between the ages of 16 and 21 years, with the object of preparing the younger element for admission into the O.U. A. M. For a number of years Washington Council existed alone, and it was not too Council existed alone, and it was not ton Council existed alone, and it was not until 1860 that the order was sufficiently strong to organize a State Council. On March 18 the State Council was organized in the town hall of Germantown, eight councils being represented. In 1879 the action which severed the junior from the senior order was finally taken and the former bersen its severed the junior from the senior order was finally taken, and the former began its work as an independent organization. Its native State, Pennsylvania, is the stronghold of the order, its progress in other States having been somewhat slow; but wherever it has found a foothold it has stayed, and its further prosperity is but a matter of time. Washington Council will celebrate the establishment of the organization to-day and to-morrow.

The news of the death of Brother J. P. Winower, Junior Past State Councilor, was and intelligence to the membership in Western Pennsylvania and particularly to the members in this city. Brother Winower has been in the city several times, and was intimately acquainted with many of the active members in this section. He was elected State Vice Councilor at Wilkesbarre, in 1889, and State Councilor at Harrisburg in 1889. His term as the chief exective of the order in Pennsylvania was the most profitable in his term as the chief exective of the order in Pennsylvania was the most profitable in the history of the organization. He was a firm but moderate officer, a faithful and earnest worker, and a warm friend. All who knew him can but speak words of kindness for him, and regret at the loss the State Council of Pennsylvania has sustained. On the occasion of one of his visits in this city rother Winower visited Acme Council No. 219. At their meeting Thursday evening a committee was appointed to draft a minute on the lamented brother's death. The funeral will take place in Lancaster to-day, with the ceremonies of the order.

STATUS OF SQUIRREL HILL ROAD. Careful Review of Operations on the Local Stock Board for the Week.

OFFICE AND STREET NEWS AND GOSSIP

Rapid transit and water are the only things needed to insure the development of the Squirrel Hill district, and these can be secured within the next so days if property owners will at once come forward with a little assistance to the proposed electric road. The owners of the road feel friendly toward the hill people and would willingly extend their line over the hill if they were only assured of a fair return on their invest-ment. They have labored assiduously to convince property owners that by their re-fusal to extend needful help they are standing in their own light.

Information comes from insiders that the tracks have been removed from Murray avenue and that the present intention is to operate only that part of the road which is a feeder to the Duquesne Traction from Boquet and Forbes streets to the Steele entrance to Schenley Park. If this change be entrance to Schenley Park. If this change be made, as seems probable, it will be a severe blow to property owners on the hill. No doubt they feel sore over the money they have already sunk in the road, but they should bear in mind that this is not the time to cry over spilt milk, but rather to put their shoulders to the wheel, consult the new management of the road, find out what is wanted, and not let up till the road shall be put in full operation as far east, at least, as Homewood Cemetery.

As an inducement to incite the people to prompt action in this matter, one of the promoters of the road said yesterday that they were willing, in return for the required assistance, and as a guarantee of good faith, to give an indemnifying bond, in any reasonable amount, which they would forfeit if the road were not completed as far as the cemetery within 90 days from the date of signature, and that, too, without a single dollar to be paid in until the cars were started.

Demand Broadening and Most of the Leaders Score Improvements-The Tractions Hold First Place-A Careful Review of the Operations of the Week.

Sales of local stocks on call last week ag gregated 2,491 shares, of which 1,489 were Electric, against 2,729 the previous week. gregated 2, 20 states, of which 1,429 were Electric, against 2,729 the previous week. Yesterday's closing prices as compared with those of the previous Saturday show gains in all the Tractions, Pipeage, Monongahela Water Company, Switch and Signal, Airbrake and Underground Cable, Philadelphia and Chartiers Gas, Luster and Electric lost a fraction each. The rest of the list was steady to firm. The most important gains were scored by Duquesne, Pittsburg and Birmingham Tractions and Standard Underground Cable, ranging from three to six points, the latter leading the advance.

Electric maintained its position as the center of interest, chiefly on account of the promulgation of the reorganization scheme and the discussion which it occasioned. It was generally accepted as the best and easiest way out of a serious difficulty. There is no longer a doubt that will be ratified at the directors' meeting be-morrow, at which Mr. Westinghouse will be present. The common stock is being turned in faster than expected. The highest point touched by it during the week was 15% and closed at 15% bid. The close at Boston was 15 bid, offered at 15% showing that Pittsburg was more bullish than the Hub.

A. J. Lawrence & Co., in their weekly review of local financial affairs, say: "During the past week the holders of the $7,000,000 common stock of the Westinghouse Electric Company have been pondering over the plan of reorganization submitted to them, and they are expected to render their verdict at the adjourned annual meeting on Monday. The indications favor its adoption, but we miss our guess if the ultimate result is not disappointing. We do not say this in any spirit of unfriendliness to the plan, but merely to caution stockholders against setting their hopes too high. We believe that 100 shares of nasenting common stock will sell for more money to-day than 60 shares of nasenting common stock will sell for more money to-day than 60 shares of assenting common stock will bring six months from now.

"The course of the Traction stocks the past few days has fully verified the remarks in our letter of one month ago. This class of securities will eventually become as prime investments as bank shares or good bonds. Just at present, however, several of the issues coming upon the market are surcharged with speculative elements, and we look for active trading, accompanied by more or less interesting manipulation. In this connection an important fact should not be ignored. During the past few years Pittsburg traders have become educated to playing the 'short' side of the market, so profits have been overwhelmingly on that side. This has given a broader basis to the trading, and will be found an ever present support in times of trouble. It may be expected, therefore, that should speculation carry prices to the unreasonable height reached two years ago, the 'shorts' will become a potent factor in the market.

"A word as to the outlook for the money market. For the past fortnight the public has heard of nothing but gold exports and th spring of '89; the iron trade is improving, and railroad business is picking up, so that the outlook is certainly brighter than for a the outlook is certainly brighter than for a long time past."

Testerday's sales were 100 shares Duquesne Traction at 20, 100 at 20, 8 Luster at 13½, 25 Manchester Traction at 87½, 4 Electric at 15½, 50 at 15½, 100 at 15½, 10 Philadelphia Gas at 12½. Closing bids and offers for the week are appended:

WALL STREET'S BUDGET. ESTERDAY'S BUSINESS AND SPECU-

LATIONS OF OPERATORS. hare Market Opens Active and Weak on Expectation of a Poor Bank Statement-The Statement Is a Surprise and a Sharp

Rally Takes Place. New York, May 16 .- The stock market today was active, and while weak at first, rallied sharply, nearly recovering the early osses and bringing prices up close to those of last evening. The general expectation, in view of the extraordinary heavy ship-ments of gold for the last two weeks, was that the bank statement would show a serious decrease in the reserves, if not a complete loss of the reserves. There was, therefore, a vigorous effort to sell all the stocks which the which the market would take in the early trading, and although there was undoubtedy good support given many of the leading ly good support given many of the leading shares, the effect was to make an extremely feverish and withal weak market.

The support was apparently withdrawn toward II o'clock and the pressure to sell became more urgent, so that a sharp decline all along the line brought prices down from 1 to 2 per cent from last evening's figures, and the lowest prices of the week were reached. In the downward movement, Manhattan, Chicago Gas, Louisville and Nashville, Pacific Mail, Union Pacific and Rock Island were specially prominent.

The Turning Point Is Reached.

The Turning Point Is Reached. The strongest spot in the list was the Northern Pacifics. They were helped by the cable advices from Berlin, which gave inter-views with some influential officers of the Deutsche Bank, in which they expressed great friendship for Mr. Villard and deprecated the recent stories of a break between that gentleman and the bank. The bank statement, however, when it appeared, showed a small increase in the reserves instead of the loss expected, and there was a rush to buy, greater, even, than the previous pressure to sell, and prices rallied very sharply, recovering, in the 15 minutes left to do business, almost all the losses of the morning.

There was most excellent buying of the Northern Pacifics, Missouri Pacific, the Wheeling and Lake Eries, Rock Island and Union Pacific, but the entire list shared in the improvement, which was material in all portions. The market closed active and strong at the recovery. The final changes are generally small fractional losses, but the Northern Pacifics are higher, and Louisville and Nashville is down 1% and Pacific Mail 1 per cent. great friendship for Mr. Villard and depre-per cent. Railroad bonds were quiet and followed closely the movements in the share list, being weak in the early dealings but stiffening up later. The final changes are, as usual, insufficient among the active issues, but Seattle Lake Shore firsts lost 3½, at 98.

What Henry Clews Says. Henry Clews, in his weekly letter, says: The marked intrinsic buoyancy of the stock market continues to be held in check by the large special exports of specie, and hence it becomes important to understand the causes and the probable duration of the gold outflow and the bearing it should legitimately have upon confidence and the course of the local money market. Primarily, the exports seem to have risen from the urgencies of Russian finance. The consequent large and sudden drain upon the European stocks of gold, coming close upon the deep disturbance of confidence arising from the financial com plications in South America, has caused Continental banks to recoup themselves for the loss by getting gold from every possible source; and naturally the drain has been especially directed toward the United tates. The panic in Lisbon, the uneasiness at Madrid and the alarm in Paris during the past week, are illustrations of the way in which these causes are acting upon European banking interests. The trouble in those which these causes are acting upon European banking interests. The trouble in those cities, however, seems to have been adjusted, and that fact has partially restored confidence. Nevertheless, the situation is shrouded in uncertainty.

While this uncertainty prevails, we must stand exposed to a continuance of the demand on New York for gold; and Thursday's significant advance of the Bank of England's rate of discount from 4 to 5 per cent was no doubt made with that end in view. It is not easy to determine what may be the present ability of Europe to draw upon this country. The recent large exports of gold have been due not only to our heavy maturing obligations on account of special importations made in anticipation of the operation of the new tariff duties, but also to the remittance of foreign banking balances resting here for employment. How far the latter resource against cash remittances may have been already diminished, it is impossible to estimate; but even had it been exhausted (which is not supposable), there would still remain ways in which Europe could get gold from us through borrowing here, were the pressure urgent enough to justify the cost of such operations.

On one point we may quite safely be confident—that in spite of the shallow prophecies about the loss of gold threatening serious danger from the operation of the new silver act, neither the gold already exported nor any further early amounts that may possibly follow, can be fraught with any more serious inconvenience than a temporary stringency in the local money market. It does not seem to be sufficiently appreciated that, within recent years, a very important change has occurred in the distribution of gold, so far as respects the United States. Between the years leg and left inclusive, we made a net import of $180,000,000, there having been only three years within the last 13 during which the export of $585,000,000 of gold; while during the period of 1878 to 1896, we made a net import of $180,000,000 stree having been only three years wit

Nevertheless, while there is no danger of of any permanent depletion of our stock of gold, it is not impossible that further early shipments may so far deplete the reserves of the banks as to impose more or less check upon speculative transactions, and for that reason I suggest to our friends a conservareason I suggest to our friends a conserva-tive course in respect to all such operations and the postponement of buying until the European prospect is clearer. In the mean-time, the harvest prospects and the current good earnings of the railroads are improving the intrinsic value of stocks, insuring an active market when these financial clouds have been dispelled.

What Oakley & Co. Received. John M. Oakley & Co.'s Wall street wire brought the following yesterday: Wall street had a genuine surprise party this morning in the bank statement, which either paralyzed or amused everybody. There are a good many, guessers down here and some of them are likely to hit almost everything which happens, but it is safe to say that no one, from the youngest messenger to Jay Gould, would have guessed this result; it one, from the youngest messenger to Jay Gould, would have guessed this result; it actually showed a gain of $188,000 on reserves, the requirement being lowered a million and a quarter by a decrease of $5,000, 200 in depocits. This actual loss of money was $1,100,000, the year's loss in specie of $2,66,000 by legal tenders. This is the money received from the interior, and it cut a larger figure in bank figures than had been anticipated. Well, when the bank statement appeared at 11:45 a.X. it needed no braces, for prices had been on the down turn and melted away under a renewal of the gold and money scare.

Loundon was lower on consols and Americans, and cables from Europe were disquieting. Fears were expressed that a general European collapse is imminent, and that it will extend to commercial circles there, and that we shall be compelled togive up enough gold to produce stringency here. That is the alarmist's scare, and it may have enough in it to cause another down turn next week. The buying in the last hour to-day was to cover shorts, for the bears had been calculating without their host, and they were correspondingly ratited.

Nearly every man who sells stocks now has a string attached to them so that he can pull them back at a lower price. Very few have sold out to stay out; they only tok to port till the squall blows over knowing that good weather will soon appear. The general and special home conditions are all rights and indicative of great prosperity, and the only cloud upon the horizon is the specter of European disasters. Six months have leaped since the Baring Brothers' embarrasment, and its exems as if matters abroad must have been so far healed as to prevent an open breaking out.

Monday is a holiday in London. Speculators will watch the market next week with the market next week with last and considerable and proper till the squall blows over knowing that good weather will soon appear. The general and special home conditions are all rights and indicative of great prosperity, and the only condition be a steamgauge showing the pressure we are under. FROM THE GRAIN CENTER.

How the Week Ended in the Speculativ

Pits on the Chicago 'Change. CHICAGO, May 16 .- Reports of general rainfalls in the Southwestern wheat belt, circulated on the Board of Trade at the opening this morning, changed the speculative situa-tion in the wheat pit, as it quieted all talk of damage by dry weather, and temporarily silenced the talk of insect damage. It was thought that the copious rains in Kansas had certainly drowned out the chinch bugs. Acting on this theory the bear leaders made a little more aggressive campaign, and they had great help in the shape of selling orders from the Southwest and from outsiders gen-a little more aggressive campaign, and they had great help in the shape of selling orders from the Southwest and from outsiders generally.

The local demand was not great. In fact, local traders seemed to be simply acting against their privileges. Whenever the market reached the price at which "puts" had sold last night, the holders of these privileges, having an insurance against loss, would do a little buying. Any bulge, however, brought most of this wheat on the market again. Among the bullish news were the favorable New York bank statement, continued dry weather and prospects for a late crop season of the Northwest, advices from San Francisco that buying by France there had been renewed, generally firm cables and estimates of a heavy decrease in the visible supply. In the face of all this, hewever, the heavy pressure to sell by local bears and the representatives of New York, St. Louis and other houses gave the market a decidedly weak tone during most of the day. July opened at $1 02%, and immediately broke to $1 02, and rallied to $1 02%, declined to $1 01%.

Corn started with an appearance of strength, but it was very quickly dissipated, when it became known that the predictions of frost in the Northwest corn belt made for last night were not verified. Instead of suffering damage, the young corn plants were benefited by rain. This caused holders of property to throw it on the market, and these offerings, coupled with the weakness in wheat, gave a decidedly heavy tone to the market. July, which opened at $02393/c, sold straight down to $2,4c, and after a slight rally dropped to $7%, closing 1 point higher.

Oats ranged lower because of the rainfall, which did away with talk of damage by the oat louse, the net loss for the day being $4c.

Oats ranged lower because of the rainfall, which did away with talk of damage by the oat louse, the net loss for the day being 3/c.

Provisions started out very strong, but weakened on heavy sales by holders. The market ranged steadily downward, but the transactions after the first hour were light. July print opened at $11 60 and sold off to $11 30, closing 21/c higher. Lard is off 71/c, compared with yesterday, and ribs 10c.
