ters to attend to at their next meeting Prominent among these will be a communi-cation from Chief Brown concerning the Fire Bureau. For a long time past the Chief has been convinced that Pittsburg is sadly in need of semething better in its fire-fighting department. Equipments all around are little better than 25 years ago, when the city was a village compared to what it is now. The Chief has recognized this fact, but has been unable to remedy the defects. Urged on by the disastrous results of several recent ires, he has been more outspoken than be fore in his claims.

DEAR SIR—At the last meeting of Councils there was presented to that honorable body by the underwriters of this city a communication touching our fire department, which was referred to you for consideration. While you are investigating matters called to the attention of Councils in that important document, would it not be well for you at the same time to consider the propriety of a complete reorganization of your Fire Bureau?

Have we an efficient fire department? Is it equal to the requirements of the times? Is there incompetent management of fires? These are questions repeatedly asked by the citizens and taxpayers of this city.

Confessed Necessity for a Change. You, yourself, have repeatedly voiced this senti-ment, and it is principally upon your own utter-ances that I base this communication. That you,

Hard Slap at an Unnamed Official. The ordinance, therefore, never reached Commo Council. It was permitted to die. As a consequence, protection from fire in this city is entrusted to the care of a department under the direct superintendence of an officer whose incapacity you yourself have time and again declared. And why? Simply because, as you admit, a single individual not connected in any manner with the city government issued the decree that a change should not be made. I make no charges. I base these remarks upon a well-defined knowledge of your own views. The power of appointment is with you, and upon you the responsibility rests. The fire department is maintained and supported by the money contributed by the taxpayers of this city, and they in return have a right to expect the best subject of increasing the apparatus in this way."

The idea of creating the new office of Fire Director and still keeping Mr. Evans in his position, has been before Councils in the form of an ordinance twice and has failed to pass. What action those bodies will take on it a third time cannot be told, but it is probable that if they consider it favorably the Mayor will veto any ordinance to that effect, although he will not say so.

She got into the city about noon yesterday, and went to a saloon with a friend of her husbands, where they had a couple of drinks. When she got out on the street she became dizzy. She declared that the child had been given nothing but a bottle of mineral water, but there is little doubt that the girl had been dosed with liquor. The case will be further investigated this morning.

AWFUL DESTITUTION OF MRS. APPEL

The question whether the city shall go ahead and finish the work on streets stopped by the Supreme Court decision has not been settled. In many cases the property owners may have to petition again under the new act before they can have their streets improved. Chief Bigelow, when asked about the matter yesterday, said:

"I do not think we will have to finish up these streets to escane suits for damages." Deserted by All Her Relatives, She I Slowly Dying in a Hovel.

NOT ENOUGH CLOTHING TO COVER HER.

"I do not think we will have to finish up these streets to escape suits for damages from the contractors. The city reserves the right to stop work on pressing occasions and cannot be held for damages. Of course we will have to pay the contractors for the work done, and any materials they have furnished, but beyond that there will be nothing to pay. In case of a street where $200,000 was required to do the work and only $2,000 of it was done, I do not believe it best to have the contractor go on. Where a large portion of the improvement has been completed the case is different. The whole question may be left with Councils to settle."

The city's attorneys were busy yesterday making preparations for the test suits to be brought under the new street acts, and they have little time to talk. In the heart of the Twentieth ward, with church bells ringing on all sides, stands a little eight-by-twelve, white-painted cottage, which contains but two rooms. It is within hearing of the palatial residences of Shady-side and Roup. From the little door, with its untrimmed grape vine hanging overhead, can be seen the shaded piazzas of Fifth avenue, and on the other side are magnifi-cent houses on Ellsworth avenue, where church societies meet, and, over cups of fragrant tea, gossip as to the best method o improving the condition of the African savage or carrying the gospel into the heart of the Chinese empire. ACCEPT THE COMMITTEE REPORT.

An Effort to Amend the Finding, So as to Censure the Teachers, Promptly Defeated.

JUST ONE WOTE LESS THAN WAS NEEDED

To Reconsider the Board's Action in Advertising for New Teachers.

The Central Board of Education met in spec, al session last night and in very short order sustained the faculty of the High School by accepting the report of the com-mittee appointed to investigate the Miss Nellie No bbs case. An amendment to the report ce asuring the faculty and putting setirectly opposite complexion on the re-port was offered by Mr. Prielps, and defeated by 24 votes to 10. A subsequent motion by D. McCandless, to e able the motion by D. McCandless, to emble the action of the board in advertising for applications for the positions in the High School to be reconside red, was lost by the narrow majority of one vote. The attends nee was very large, evincing the great interest taken in the case. There were only two ab sentees out of a possible &i, being H. F. Oin hauser, of the Birmingham sub-district, and M. B. Foley, of the Duquesne, sub-district. There are 37 seats on the board, but the Miner sville district has no representation, owing to the President McKelvey called the meeting to Preside it McKervey can be the meeting of order shortly after 7:20 o'clock, and there were then 31 members present. He briefly stated the objects of the meeting as being to hear the report of the High School Com-

Action of the High School Committee. Secretary Reisfar then rend the report of he committee. Having referred to the authority to investigate by resolution of the Board, the report concludes with a recom-mendation to the Board, as follows:

Resolved, That after disc investigation by the committee that Miss Neb-2 Nobbs was suspended by the faculty for disobedience of the rules, and that the action of the principal and the faculty be sustained. And further,
That the Secretary be instructed to notify Miss soon as she compiles with the rules she will be ad-

This report was signed by William Holmes, A. K. Henderson, Alexander Æ. Mc-Candless, Robert W. Blaze, Hugh Adams, D. in Torrence and John McKain, seven of the inc members of the committee. The other R. Torrence and John McKain, seven of the nine members of the committee. The other members are John E. Rogers, who would have signed the report had he been present, and Thomas H. Phelps. The Secretary then read a stenographic report of the proceedings at the High School on Friday, an account of which appeared in The Disparce of the next day.

The moment the Secretary had ceased speaking Dr. Kearns jumped to his feet with a motion that the report be adopted, but as the report should first be received before action could be taken, Mr. Kellar interposed with a motion to receive and file it, which was adopted.

Dr. Kenrus then moved, and Mr. Kellar was carried.
When Mr. Phelps rose to his feet interest in the proceedings became more fively. This member had been prominent all through the investigation as a stanch adherent of Miss Nobbs' view of the matter, so that when he arose with an amendment to the report there was a general air of preparation among those present, as it for a tussie on some point.

How Mr. Phelps Would Have Had It. Mr. Phelps, without any peroration, at striking out the recommendations by insert ing, after the word "Resolved:" "After hear ing the testimony in this case we are of the opinion that the treatment of Miss Nobbs by opinion that the treatment of Miss Nobbs by Prof. Sleeth was unworthy a member of the faculty of the Pittsburg High School, and deserves our severe condemnation. We also believe that had the principal exercised the proper discretion and judgment and used the power vested in him by Section 5, under head of Powers and Duties of the Principal' for the government of the Pittsburg High School at the time Miss Nobbs and her father called on him and explained her absence, that the case could and should have been settled then and there, and with justice and equity to all concerned, by permitting been settled then and there, and with justice and equity to all concerned, by permitting Miss Nobbs to resume her studies. While subsequent events render d the suspension of Miss Nobbs unavoidable we believe that these events were provoked by the improper conduct of the Professor of Elocution and lack of judgment on the part of the principal. Considering all phases of the case, we are of the opinion that Miss Nobbs his already suffered more punishment than she deserved, and, therefore, offer the following resolution:

burg High School."

Mr. Kellar promptly rose to a point of order. He urged that the amendment was opposed to the sense and meaning of the inding of the committee, and entirely destreyed the original resolution.

The Chairman held the point not well taken and decided that the amendment was cor-Mr. McKain declared that the amendment

The Chairman maintained his ruling, and Mr. Kellar called for the yeas and nays, extime: "Well, it doesn't matter; let it gott will be voted down anyway," a sentiment that met with much approval, as the result shows, the amendment being lost by 24 votes against to 10 in favor of it. The following against to 10 in favor of it. The following voted against the amendment: Messrs. Adams. Those who favored it were: Messrs. Benz, Boos, Bradley, Fichtell, Fox, Mellrey, Phelps, Swentzel, Walnwright and Zarle.

The vote on the original report was pre-ented by the High School Committee, which astains the faculty, was then put and adopted by 26 votes for to 8 against. The nembers voted as before excepting that Messrs Fichtell and Zagle voted this time

If one of the minority had voted with the majority, the proceedings might have assumed a very lively tinge from this on, the Chairman ruling that it required 24 votes to make the requisite majority. The minority votes were cast by Messrs, Benz, Berger, Boos, Bradley, Fichtell, Fox, Henderson, Loughran, Phelps, Swentzel, Wainwright and Zagle. A motion to adjourn was then put and carried. put and carried.

In regard to his motion to reconsider the In regard to his motion to reconsider the action of the heard in advertising for applications for the High School positions, Dr. McCandless said after the meeting that he considered it grossly unfair to allow the members of the faculty to remain undor the stigma, conveyed by implication under the advertisements, that they were unfit for their positions. Since the board had accepted the report of its committee and sustained the faculty in its action it was only proper that the action of the board at its former meeting should be rescinded and the advertisements recalled. There was no justicee at all in permitting the whole body of the faculty to remain under repreach because of allegations against one or two members.

It is deemed as very probable that the board will rescind its resolutions regarding the High School faculty at its next meeting in June. By some members the episode is regarded as already concluded, as the next meeting was so closely to the end of the year as to make it practically impossible to take any steps with regard to the faculty before its members would retire by expiration of term.

As far as Miss Nobbs is concerned she is now under suspension from the school until such time as she elects to read an apology before the faculty and declares her intention of conforming to the rules.

retary, J. M. and C. R. Britton respectively, for the purpose of reporting a plan for a permanent organization. This committee will report at to-day's meeting.

It is said that letters have been received from mining companies in the far West claiming that they can furnish any amount of tin after July 1.

D. M. Somers, of Brooklyn, and F. R. Phillips of Philadelphia, arrived last evening. The others will be here this morning. Mr. Somers is a Democrat, and he says the first call stated the object was to promote the tin plaje industry in the country. The committee on organization will report at this meeting, and then the plan of operation will be outlined. Mr. Somers said he was opposed to anything like a combination as it would kill the business, and so far as he was concerned the main motive would not be to keep up the present Mc-Kinley tariff. He thought the object was to help each other and the business by a comparison of ideas every once in a while. "The tariff can't be disturbed," said Mr. Somers, "for the next three years, and then under the present duty the manufacturers will be as thick as black birds. In my opinion it would be a good thing for the trude to cut down the duty as it would keep algreat many people out. Even if the tariff were cut to 1 cent per pound, the old duty, we could still make tin plate. We are large consumers, and might as well make it ourselves. The only way to make plate successfully is to build entirely new works with improved machinery, and this is what we are doing. Our plant will be ready to operate about September 1. We have started in with a determination to make tin plate, and will show the people that it can be done. About three-fourths of the plate made in the world is consumed in America. The importers are showing their hand all over the country in trying to get the agencies from the different manufacturers."

Mr. Phillips is a tariff man, and, in the main, spoke in a similar strain. His company is building a plant. Not as many people have gone into the business as partis passage of the new tariff. This gave the opposition press a chance to go to the other extreme and declare that no tin plate plants were being erected. Herein both sides mado blunders. He says the Americans can compete with the foreigners, and the latter know it only too well. The raw material will be imported from Australia, where England gets her supply.

MAPS OF THE CANAL Engineers' Society Presented With Diagrams of the New Waterway. The regular meeting of the Western Penn sylvania Engineers' Society was held last night. Colonel T. P. Roberts presided. Considerable interest was manifested in a set of maps showing the location of the proposed ship canal, presented to the society by Colonei Roberts, of the Canal Commission. The maps make up one of ten sets that have been prepared by Commissioner Goodwin, and are very complete. The largest one of the set is a general map showing the whole of the western part of the State, through which it is proposed to build the canal. The others are smaller ones, showing the canal and its workings at various points along the route; for instance, the head and mouth, the 14 locks, the cuts through hills and all other principal features are distinctly illustrated and explained on the various diagrams.

President Roberts announced the recent death of Edward Armstrong, late Chief of the Department of Public Works of Allegheny, who had been a member of the society since 1880. A motion was adopted providing for the appointment of a committee to draft suitable resolutions and to report at the next meeting. posed ship canal, presented to the society by Planing Mill Owners Claim to Be Operating Their Mills. The only new developments in the strike yesterday were the claims of the planing mill men that all the mills were running with from 5 to 20 men under the nine hour rules, and that by the end of the week they would have all the men they could use. The would have all the men they could use. The master builders also claim to be making inroads in the strike, but Special Agent Irwin says the reports show that all the carpenters are firm, and he denies that any men have gone to work save under the eight-hour rule. The master plumbers met last night, and were in session until midnight. They discussed the strike, and quite a number were in favor of withdrawing the new working rules, but when the vote was taken they decided to allow matters to stand as they are. The Carpenters' Council met last night and discussed the apprentice rules, with a view to modifying them somewhat, but no changes will be made until after the next conference, which will take place the last of the week.

The Department of Public Safety vester day turned into the city's sinking fund $1, 008 50, realized on the sale of worn-ou horses of the police and fire bureaus. Un der the law money realized from such sales must become part of the sinking fund. Last year when Chief Brown turned the money received from this source over to Controller Morrow, he had neglected to deduct from it Morrow, he had neglected to deduct from it the 5 per cent commission due to the auctioneer, and the Controller refused to al-low the deduction after the money got into his hands, thus making it necessary to pay the auctioneer from the appropriation of the department. This was not considered fair and yesterda, before the money was turned over to the Controller the auction-eer's commission, amounting to $53, was de-ducted.

Some controversy has arisen over the fact that Select Councilman Doyle, whose business is that of an auctioneer, was employed to sell the city's horses, it being alleged he is legally debarred from such service by reason of his being a Councilman. Superintendent Weir chaims that Doyle was sent to perform the work by the auctioneer who had the contract and he had as much right to do it as any other man. THEY BOLTED THE RULES.

LAST OF THE BUTLER SCHOOL,

Captain Boyer Says the State Should Edu cate Pauper Children. Thomas J. Stewart, Secretary of Internal Affairs; Colonel Frank Magee and Captain George G. Boyer, of Harrisburg, State Com-mander of the G. A. R., inspected the soldiers' orphan school yesterday at Butler. They are members of the State Commission. They are members of the State Commission. Captain Boyer said the Butler school would be closed this spring with the one at Philadelphia. The commission hated to do it, as the Butler people are doing a good work, but the law demanded it. The pupils will be placed in the Harford and Uniontown schools. When the commission was appointed in 1889 there were 1,500 children in the State schools. The number has been reduced to 900 and in a few years more all the schools will be abolished.

Captain Boyer thinks it would doubly pay the State to maintain the schools for the education of homeless and pauper children. It is the only way to teach them to be men and women, and keep them out of crime. He is a great believer in the potency of education as a moral agent, and says that some of the best men in the State owe their standing and nsefulness to the orphan schools. They have been more fortunate than the children of the poor.

Yesterday the drivers of all the mail wagons in the city received orders that on June 1 they are to appear in uniform, and that thereafter no person shall be permitted under any circumstances to ride on the mail wagons except the regular driver and the mail messengers. This is to put a stop to the practice of drivers having their friends or associates riding about on their mail trips. The uniform will consist of a full suit of light brown cordurory and a blue cap and badge. B. F. Crouse, the mail wagon contractor, is entitled to the credit of making the change, as under his contract uniforms are not required, but he has issued the order to please Mr. McKean, who in turn desires to please the public.

repeatedly asked by the citizens and taxpayers of this city

Whatever the qualifications of the men constituting your force, whatever their skill, whatever their courage in the discharge of their dangerous and difficult duties, they are handlcapped and crippled unless guided, controlled and managed by the cool judgment of an officer thoroughly equipped for the position of superintendent. That your present superintendent is not, in your own judgment, such an officer, is amply attested by your own words and actions. I have no harsh or unkind criticism to make of the gentleman at the head of your fire bureau. He has spent long years and the most active days of his life in the service. But I wish to state for your information that there is a wide-spread feeling in the community that the time has fully come when the management of that important department should pass into other hands.

ment, and it is principally upon your own utterances that I base this communication. That you, months ago, recognized the pressing necessity of a change is evidenced in the fact that you endeavored to secure the passage of an ordinance creating a new office and authorizing the appointment by you of an officer to fill it at a salary of $3.090 a year.
That officer, who was to be known as Fire Director, was to supersede the present Superintendent, assume the dutiles of that official and become the head of your fire bureau.

After that ordinance had passed select council and before it was presented to the common branch, you came to my office and asked me if I would approve the measure. Before answering, I inquired if it was your intention to retain the existing superintendent at an animal slary of $2.00 in a position the duties and responsibilities of which were,
by the ordinance, transferred to a newly created office? You answered, yes, with the explanatory remark that a prominent politician, giving the gendeman's name, would not permit his removal.

I then informed you that I would veto the ordinance for the reason that I could not favor legislation that created a new office with a large salary, while it at the same time, contemplated the retention, in a lucrative sinceure, of the superintendent whom the new appointee was intended to supersede.

money contributed by the taxpayers of this city, and they in return have a right to expect the best possible service. That service cannot be rendered except by the best possible management, and that management can only be had through the untiring efforts and unquestioned ability of the man who siands at the head of the bureau.

I call your attention to this matter because I believe it to be in the line of my duty, and I do so in the earnest hope that whatever the necessities demand will be promptly executed by you. Respectfully yours,

This I am opposed to. He has served the city faithfully and should not be cast aside now. My idea is to have a fire director fully competent to manage the department at work. "There are other changes also, just as much needed as this. We must have a fire boat or water tower in order to cope with the flames in the business portion of the city. I have several letters from coal merchants on the subject of increasing the apparatus in this way."
