

The Cincinnati Convention has added to the old adage, and evidently believes that a rose will smell even sweeter under another name. The organization which was launched with so much noise yesterday is the old Greenback party in disguise, and not a very complete disguise at that.

The first declaration of the platform is for a practically unlimited issue of legal tender paper money, and the abolition of the national banks. To be sure, the rag baby has a new dress and trimmings, including a revised sub-treasury plan, free silver and government loans on real estate, and the striped of these gauzy vestments it is the same baby still.

The reason for this is easily found. The farmers' movement, which culminated in the Cincinnati convention, was a spontaneous rising in the rural West and South, but the leadership has been appropriated now by such well-known political back-sellers as General Weaver, the Greenback candidate for President in 1880; Delamater, of Colorado; Seltz, of Ohio, and a score of other faithful worshippers of the paper dollar.

Three or four years ago, when the Labor movement was so dangerous for a short time, these same third party veterans sprang to the front, secured the adoption of their platform with the labor trimmings suited to the occasion, and the promising bud commenced to fade from that hour.

Now the same leaders with the familiar platform are once more with us, but this time they have no real motto, and the farmer has relinquished the child with any amount of enthusiasm, but an election day or two will determine whether fate will be more kind than before.

MAKING WAR ON THE PRACTICE. Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

Representative Brooks is on the war-path at the way in which liquor bill has been amended by a committee of the Senate. The amendments are such as to reverse the purpose of the bill. Instead of establishing further regulation of the wholesale trade, it practically opens the door to the bottle traffic under the wholesale disguise, and lowers the license fee for cities of the third-class.

TALK OF THE TOWN.

Baseball Tackled Seriously—Touching Up a Murrillo-Allegedly Book Lover—The Bohemian Girl in Carmen's Clothes—Gossip Picked Up by the Topical Talker.

It is coming along pretty nicely with baseball, said a studious young Pittsburgh business man yesterday.

"How do you mean?" asked a friend. "Well, you see, baseball is not the proper ad, you know; the correct game is 'in it,' as the boys say. So I set to work to master baseball. I used to do anything but baseball. But when I made up my mind to understand baseball I stopped at nothing. I began with the reports of baseball games in the newspapers. Every morning I read the details of the previous day's game. It was very difficult to understand—the reports were full of words and phrases I had never seen before. I read a reading column after column till I thought I might advance another step. This was to watch the baseball bulletin boards down town, and to read the reports of the game in the newspapers. I read the reports of the game in the newspapers. I read the reports of the game in the newspapers.

It is indisputable that the direction of the present road work to the object of making permanent highways would in course of years effect a permanent reform. There are a few enterprising localities in Pennsylvania where this has been accomplished. Since then my progress has been rapid, and if my courage holds out and I can get my first ball game to-morrow, it is an important step towards my goal. There must be some one to give me the ball, but I have prepared myself for the ordeal, and I shall take the chance.

Touching Up a Murrillo. Recently some Pittsburghers, among whom was a daughter of Mr. Simon Boymer, who is visiting a married sister in Los Angeles, California, were talking of the late road bill. The father who acted as guide took great delight in showing the old buildings which the passage of the road bill had destroyed. It was a labor of love to the venerable padre to relate the story of the foundation of the mission, and to linger upon the legends which the old buildings had handed down for years long silent in the adobe church. But he was most eloquent when he came to the paintings of the Virgin and Child. He expatiated upon the age and wondrous beauty of the immortal Spanish work.

The failure of road legislation should not lessen the activity in favor of improving highways. The work of educating the people as to the economic value of good roads should be kept up. Farming districts should be brought to see how they can benefit themselves by such work. It is this done for a couple of years, the next Legislature may contain intelligence enough to pass a law that will hasten the work of building first-class roads.

It is one of the sad features of the chase of the Charleston after the Itata, that it has knocked into a cocked hat the plan of the industrial Senate Committee on Territories. The report of the committee is in order to inquire into the advisability of establishing a Territorial Government there. The hard-worked Senators will no doubt be glad to get the report of the committee, and the padre's explanation was succeeded by a solemn nod.

A Glimpse of Elusive Locke. MANAGER E. D. WILK, of the Grand Opera House, is home from St. Louis, whither he went last week to corral the elusive Locke and the $25,000 prize. Mr. Wilk says that the man who has been rudely snatched away by the unruly behavior of the Chilean vessel. This will cause the insurgent Chileans to be regarded with some sentiments by the senate at its next session.

There is reason to believe that the declaration of the Chileans at Acapulco, that the latter tried to capture the Itata, was a very pretty feat. It produced the impression that the Itata was coming to Acapulco, and give her a few days' longer stay while she steadily steamed down the South American coast.

The souvenirs of the Presidential trip are said to number for a time, and it is a pity that they are not more numerous. They are made an exhibition of the World's Fair. As a product of industrial industry they would undoubtedly be unique.

It is one of the peculiar features of the Pennsylvania fiscal legislation, that each Legislature, after struggling with the tax question, the last proposition is to refer the subject to a commission. The commission, when the commission wrestles with the question while the next Legislature takes it up, and in the fullness of time refers it to another commission. The commission is now being urged in its regular season. It is strictly in accordance with precedents, but it does not afford much hope of settling the tax question.

Now it is asserted in England that Mr. Blaine's communication proposing a method for protecting the seals was not received by the British government. The commission, when the commission wrestles with the question while the next Legislature takes it up, and in the fullness of time refers it to another commission. The commission is now being urged in its regular season. It is strictly in accordance with precedents, but it does not afford much hope of settling the tax question.

The latest notion of the parent of bicycling proclivities is to take the youngest to ride with him, and to fade seems to be popular in the East End, for on Tuesday evening the young men, who were at that time nominally in the hands of the Sheriff, were seen in the streets of London, riding on their bicycles. The growth of the circulation has been rapid, and it is not going to take any chances.

Lucas Philippe, who claims to be a cousin of the last King of France, arrived at the Bay of Honduras on the 10th inst. He is a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

Deaths Here and Elsewhere. GEORGE W. LENTZ, one of the largest owners of the most valuable real estate in this country, died at Williamsport Monday, aged 78. He was one of the original firm of Lentz & Co., which was founded in 1840. He was a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

John M. Treney, son of Mrs. Julia B. Treney, died at Williamsport Monday, aged 78. He was one of the original firm of Lentz & Co., which was founded in 1840. He was a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

Maggie McFarland, daughter of Rev. A. J. McFarland, died at Williamsport Monday, aged 78. He was one of the original firm of Lentz & Co., which was founded in 1840. He was a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

James Torrance, of Pennsylvania, died at Williamsport Monday, aged 78. He was one of the original firm of Lentz & Co., which was founded in 1840. He was a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

General Lew Wallace offered one of the important places. CHICAGO, May 20.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the World's Fair this afternoon, it was decided to accept of the offer of General Lew Wallace, of Indiana, to be the chief of the Bureau of Mines and Mining.

Foremost Femines. OCTAVIA GRACE RITCHIE, the first woman of Quebec to take medical degree. Mrs. OLFERT wrote the sketch of Henry Irving's life for the new edition of Chambers' Encyclopedia.

Not Buggy at the Knees. The Art Society's reception at the Pittsburgh Club this evening was a success. The society will celebrate its seventeenth birthday.

General Lew Wallace offered one of the important places. CHICAGO, May 20.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the World's Fair this afternoon, it was decided to accept of the offer of General Lew Wallace, of Indiana, to be the chief of the Bureau of Mines and Mining.

Foremost Femines. OCTAVIA GRACE RITCHIE, the first woman of Quebec to take medical degree. Mrs. OLFERT wrote the sketch of Henry Irving's life for the new edition of Chambers' Encyclopedia.

A MURDEROUS ITALIAN WEAPON.

It is a Revolver and So Called Compound, and Was Captured in a Fight. (SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.)

New York, May 20.—Property Clerk S. H. Powell, of Brooklyn, has in his custody just now a weapon which is probably the most murderous specimen of small arm ever manufactured. It is a revolver and stiletto combined, and it was taken from an Italian criminal named Ruffano, who was arrested in a fight with two of his countrymen in a saloon in New York City.

The revolver is six-chambered, of 22-caliber, and has a stiletto blade which is three inches long. It is fastened to the revolver right underneath the barrel, and is held in place by a screw which is forced back by a screw, which protrudes through the side of the revolver. When the stiletto is ready for use the weapon measures 30 inches. It is fastened to the revolver right underneath the barrel, and is held in place by a screw which is forced back by a screw, which protrudes through the side of the revolver.

IGORRETTES KILLED HIM. Young Edward Myers Dies in Harrisburg From Nicotine Poisoning. CHAMBERSBURG, May 20.—Edward Myers, a young man of this place, aged 29 years, died at the Harrisburg Hospital last night of blood poisoning, caused directly by excessive cigarette smoking. He was on his way home and was taken sick and had to be taken to the hospital. He died of nicotine poisoning, caused directly by excessive cigarette smoking.

SOME ILLINOIS LEGISLATION. The Merritt Conspiracy Law Repealed, and Railroad Bills Passed. SPRINGFIELD, May 20.—It is known as the Merritt conspiracy law, being a codification of the common law on the subject of conspiracy to commit crime, the passage of which was the result of the market crash of 1890. It was passed by the legislature in 1890, and has since been repealed.

FAME'S FAVORITE FOLK. EUGENE FIELD is the only writer in the country to speak ill of Barnum. JOKAI, the Hungarian novelist, is a millionaire, and looks upon life as a joke.

CONGRESSMAN STEWART, of Aurora, Ill., whenever a circus comes along near that town, charts a train and takes a lot of children to the circus. HENRY PHILLIPS, an Alaskan boy who came to Carlisle, Pa., some four years ago, will leave for Sitka in a few weeks to take charge of the North Star, the paper published by the Sitka Indian and Eskimo.

THE Rev. Phillips Brooks is descended from a line of clergymen, one of them being the Rev. John Cotton. When he was in England in 1822 he preached in the pulpit of his ancestor, John Cotton, in old Boston. The Emperor William will bring a retinue of 70 people along with him when he visits Grandmama Victoria at Windsor Castle in July, and the old lady is already having her hair done for the occasion.

LOUIS PHILIPPE, who claims to be a cousin of the last King of France, arrived at the Bay of Honduras on the 10th inst. He is a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

DEATHS HERE AND ELSEWHERE. GEORGE W. LENTZ, one of the largest owners of the most valuable real estate in this country, died at Williamsport Monday, aged 78. He was one of the original firm of Lentz & Co., which was founded in 1840. He was a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

JOHN M. TRENEY, son of Mrs. Julia B. Treney, died at Williamsport Monday, aged 78. He was one of the original firm of Lentz & Co., which was founded in 1840. He was a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

MAGGIE MCFARLAND, daughter of Rev. A. J. McFarland, died at Williamsport Monday, aged 78. He was one of the original firm of Lentz & Co., which was founded in 1840. He was a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

JAMES TORRANCE, of Pennsylvania, died at Williamsport Monday, aged 78. He was one of the original firm of Lentz & Co., which was founded in 1840. He was a well-known discoverer of the devil-shill, a greenish substance which is found in great quantities in the mountains of the West Indies, and which is used by the natives for medicinal purposes.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE OFFERED ONE OF THE IMPORTANT PLACES. CHICAGO, May 20.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the World's Fair this afternoon, it was decided to accept of the offer of General Lew Wallace, of Indiana, to be the chief of the Bureau of Mines and Mining.

FOREMOST FEMINES. OCTAVIA GRACE RITCHIE, the first woman of Quebec to take medical degree. Mrs. OLFERT wrote the sketch of Henry Irving's life for the new edition of Chambers' Encyclopedia.

NOT BUGGY AT THE KNEES. The Art Society's reception at the Pittsburgh Club this evening was a success. The society will celebrate its seventeenth birthday.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE OFFERED ONE OF THE IMPORTANT PLACES. CHICAGO, May 20.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the World's Fair this afternoon, it was decided to accept of the offer of General Lew Wallace, of Indiana, to be the chief of the Bureau of Mines and Mining.

FOREMOST FEMINES. OCTAVIA GRACE RITCHIE, the first woman of Quebec to take medical degree. Mrs. OLFERT wrote the sketch of Henry Irving's life for the new edition of Chambers' Encyclopedia.

NOT BUGGY AT THE KNEES. The Art Society's reception at the Pittsburgh Club this evening was a success. The society will celebrate its seventeenth birthday.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE OFFERED ONE OF THE IMPORTANT PLACES. CHICAGO, May 20.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the World's Fair this afternoon, it was decided to accept of the offer of General Lew Wallace, of Indiana, to be the chief of the Bureau of Mines and Mining.

FOREMOST FEMINES. OCTAVIA GRACE RITCHIE, the first woman of Quebec to take medical degree. Mrs. OLFERT wrote the sketch of Henry Irving's life for the new edition of Chambers' Encyclopedia.

NOT BUGGY AT THE KNEES. The Art Society's reception at the Pittsburgh Club this evening was a success. The society will celebrate its seventeenth birthday.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE OFFERED ONE OF THE IMPORTANT PLACES. CHICAGO, May 20.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the World's Fair this afternoon, it was decided to accept of the offer of General Lew Wallace, of Indiana, to be the chief of the Bureau of Mines and Mining.

MUSIC AND SOCIETY.

Gilmore's Famous Band Pressed, the Children and Older Folk Yesterday.

Happy-hearted, bright-lit, joyous little children, carolling birds and sweet music made a pleasing combination at the Gilmore matinee concert yesterday. The children filled the gallery and overflowed into the balcony of the hall, the price of admission being for them only 10 cents, and a half holiday for school life having been granted for the occasion.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased. The concert was a success, and the children were very much pleased. The music was well rendered, and the children were very much pleased.

CURIOUS CONDENSATIONS.

—Creta, Neb., boasts that there is not a cat in the town.

—A farmer near Black Lick, O., has a hog that wears spectacles.

—Several mountain peaks in Idaho have settled from 16 to 23 feet in a few years.

—Floors of rubber, claimed to be as durable as asphalt and cheaper, are being tried in Germany.

—A newly-married Susquehanna, Pa., couple have separated and reunited three times in four weeks.

—A German 103 years old, with his son aged 70, and his fourth wife, aged 60, attended the Barge Office in New York the other day.

—A theater for colored actors will probably soon be erected in Philadelphia. It will be the only playhouse of the kind in America.

—An eminent physician says that men's stiff hats cause baldness and catarrh. Another doctor claims that soft hats produce catarrh of the scalp.

—Of all the queer things in Georgia, the queerest is a young lady who never ate a plate of ice cream nor drank a glass of soda water, lemonade or milk shake, in her life.

—One of the very high peaks in the Andes, near the city of Arequipa, is a volcano which has not erupted for many years.

—A perfect sapphire is one of the rarest gems, and consequently, when found, it is highly valued. A sapphire of this kind was recently discovered in the mountains of the West Indies.

—The South Sea Islands are being converted into a great number of small states, and the people are being educated in the arts and sciences.

—The New York State hospitals for the insane utilize the services of women physicians, and announcement is made that an examination will be held in Albany June 1.

—In Oldbury, Wiltshire, England, a life insurance club has been uncovered where the offices of President and Treasurer were held by an undertaker and that of Secretary by a lawyer. The club was so managed as to put a premium on murder.

—A woman living in a small village near Allentown, Pa., was notified to come to reading to sign a petition for an estate, which she refused to do. She declined to do so because her inheritance would not save the car from being sold to pay the taxes, and she would have to live in a tenement.

—It is said of a magistrate at Biddford, who is a great believer in muscle, that it is a common thing to see him on a high shelf leveling his eyes, busily reading law and swinging five-pound Indian clubs, or talking shop with his studies.

—A local journal at Fulda, Minn., notes that a woman recently brought in a very large egg, which she had laid in a nest of eggs in a hole in the wall. The egg was the largest she had ever laid, and it was very white, and it was very large.

—The candidate on the Democratic ticket was recently elected Treasurer of the County of Chester. He has refused to file his bond, not because he is unable, but because he is conscientiously opposed to going to the polls, and he has refused to file his bond for him. He is well-to-do, and a man of the strictest morals.

—It is passing strange that nobody has thought of moving canal boats by electricity instead of by mules. This thing is soon to be tried with the trolley cars, and it is thought that the boats, if thought, can attain a speed of from six to ten miles an hour, which would make the boats very valuable for the purpose of carrying mail and passengers.

—A Philadelphia chicken exhibits rare intelligence. A baker who supplies the famous "Bread and Butter" bakery in the city, has a hen which is so intelligent that it will open the front gate by this chicken as soon as she hears the baker tuck his horn. She then commences to cackle, and is given her customary reward. The hen is so intelligent that she will open the gate by this chicken as soon as she hears the baker tuck his horn.

—The climate of Hindoostan goes a long way toward explaining the religious superstitions of the people. The climate is so hot that the people would make millions of Brahmins rather than eat meat, but less intelligible is the prejudice of Japanese cowards, who cannot bear the sight of a cow. The climate is so hot that the people would make millions of Brahmins rather than eat meat, but less intelligible is the prejudice of Japanese cowards, who cannot bear the sight of a cow.

—A curious address letter lately passed through the postoffice of Madrid, which was deciphered and correctly delivered, notwithstanding the religious superstitions of the people. The letter was addressed to a man in Madrid, and it was deciphered and correctly delivered. The letter was addressed to a man in Madrid, and it was deciphered and correctly delivered.

—An electric car was passing up Tremont street Sunday noon, containing, among other passengers, two women in long dresses. One of the women was carrying a large bundle, and she was carrying a large bundle. One of the women was carrying a large bundle, and she was carrying a large bundle.

THE PITTSBURGH DISPATCH.