The Supreme Court Decides the Original Package Law Valid.

Not Necessary.

COMPARISON WITH THE IOWA DECISION

Washington, May 25.—The United States Supreme Court to-day decided that the original package law passed by the last Con-gress was valid and constitutional, and that

t went into effect in all States where prohibitory laws prevailed without re-enactment by the States of the laws by which they forbade the sale of intexicating liquors within their boundaries, whether imported for the States or not. Chief Justice Fuller rendered the opinion of the Court, and the bench was united in support of the conclusion to which he arrived, though Justice Gray announced that Justices Harlan, Brewer and himself did not concur in all the reasoning of the opinion.

The case upon which the decision was rendered was that of John Wilkerson, Sheriff of Shawnee county, Kan., appellant, versus Charles A. Raher, on appeal from the decis-ion of the Circuit Court of the United States for the district of Kansas, against the State.

Raher was the original package agent at Topeka, Kan., of the firm of Maynard,

Hopkins & Co., of Kansas City, and was arrested the day after the original package law went into effect. He claimed that the law was unconstitutional, and also that it could not go into operation until the State had repealed its prohibitory law.

SAD ENDING OF AN EVENING'S RIDE.

BERTHA M'CREARY'S NARROW ESCAPE

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] LATRONE, May 25 .- One of the most horrible accidents that has occurred here since the bridge disaster of two years ago—when several trainmen and others were killed— happened to-night at about 8:30 at the old happened to-night at about 8:30 at the old mill crossing. Two young women, Bertha McCreary and Millie McNaily started out driving early in the evening, with young Richard Fox. After making a tour of the steel works, they drove back to this city at the time mentioned, and were just crossing at the old mill, when the limited on the Pennsylvania road dashed down on them. Richard Fox and Moilie McNally were killed almost instantly, and Bertha McCreary was badly hurt, but will recover. Mr. Fox was aged about 26 years, and had only Fox was aged about 25 years, and had only come to this place two weeks ago, he having formerly worked in Charleroi. Miss McNally was aged 17, and both she and Fox were ter-half hour, but never spoke. How the Train Rushed Upon Them. Miss McCreary is only about 15 years of age. She says they never heard the train until it was upon them, and there was no time to even attempt to stop or turn the horse when they were struck. Both the young ladies lived not 50 feet from where they met with the awful accident, and were young ladies lived not so reet from where they met with the awful accident, and were about to exchange greetings with their people, who were waiting for them, when the limited came down on them and dragged them almost to their very doors.

The old mill crossing, where the accident occurred, is one of the most dangerous and deadly on the entire line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and within the recollection of many here, fully a dozen people have met their death there, while almost as many more have been badly injured.

It is a veritable death trap. On one side of the track is a very large mill which completely shuts off all sound and sight from that side, and the difficulty in cither seeing or hearing is still further increased by the fact that the carriage drive to the crossing is by way of a slight incline. Even if an engineer had time to whistle, which is very doubtful, it would not be heard before the unfortunate on the track would be struck, as ten feet is probably the limit of distance when the train comes into sight, to the deadly crossing. Some people in the town say they heard the train whistle, but others near the scene of the accident say there was no whistle, and no warning whatever before the train struck the ill-fated carriage.

A Dangerous Grade Crossing.

A Dangerous Grade Crossing. Another incident that makes death almost s approaching is the fact that there is quite Pennsylvania, and in order to make time remsylvania, and in order to make time, with the limited particularly, great speed must first be taken on before reaching this grade, and it has been the habit of the limited especially to pass through this place at a speed almost incalculable. This rule was observed to night, and as usual the roar of the train apprised every one in the town that the speedy limited was making a rush at the hill to the west.

An examination of the bodies indicate that Fox must have died instantly, as there are terrible cuts on his head, and his skull is crushed. Miss McNaily was also badly cut about the head, but her internal injuries only were fatal. She was a handsome girl, and but a short time ago worked in the Weldin Hotel here, but a couple of days ago returned to her parents. All the parties were well known and very well liked. Though the people are greatly distressed over the affair, and the parents of the dead girl are almost wild with grief, there is little said in condemnation of the engineer or trainmen, as they are obliged to make fast time by schedule, and it is said they invariably whistle when nearing the fatal old mill crossing, though it cannot be heard even by those close to the track. The Coroner will empanel a jury in the morning, and it is thought Coroner Wakefield himself will makea rigid investigation.

And our own Mr. Reilly committed them. Had it not been for the mistakes referred to, the gay aggregation of ball players from Boston would have signalized their first appearance here this season by being shut out. They would have been shut out just as sure as we live, if those very, very unfortunate errors of Reilly had not figured in And after all, it is useless Crying over split milk.

Reilly is a young citizen who is brimful of carnestness, and besides, the best of people oan get switched off the line now and again

True, it was painful for red-hot partisans and rooters of the local team to sit and see the active young man pile up his blunders, and also runs for the other fellows. He spre Sunday at Columbus, and besides that being the abode of the club he deserted, it is also the home of the very handsome belle he intends to marry. His mind, therefore, may not entirely have been severed from Columbus yesterday. Quite a Great Game.

But still, it was sad to lose yesterday's game, because it was one of the gilt-edged, outside of the mistakes just me There may be consolation in the fact that, though beaten, we are still in second place, and it is only left for the home sluggers to slug out revenge between now and Tirursday evening. There were 3,900 people paid for admission yesterday, and that was certainly a good nday crowd. And they saw as exciting a game as the most stoical would require. It was a pins and needles affair from beginning those Boston chaps are ball players, and it seemed yesterday as if they had been holdseemed yesterday as if they had been holding back all their good work only to unload it here. That little Beaneater, Nichols, was nothing short of a terror. Just think, the daring youth had the nerve to strike out Pete Browning four times in succession. As a result Pete was willing to die; to retire into absolute solitude in the wilds of Kentucky, in fact, anything. To-day it is likely that Pietro will argue that yesterday was only a dream and that he was not in the game at all. He ordered two dozen more bats last evening and a crayon of Nichols. The inter certainly pitched a great game, and he was tolerably well supported.

Stratton pitched his first game for the local club, and it is ueedless to say that he performed admirably in the box. His pitching was so effective that the visitors had a very poor show to score at any stage had the fielding been good. But, like his brother Kentuckian, he was a mark for Nichols.

Were Victims of Nichols.

Were Victims of Nichols. The representatives of the Sourmash sec tion were certainly not in it with the stick, as Stratton struck out three times in succes sion, nearly tying with Pete in that line, All the local fielders did well except our third baseman. Mack made three bad throws to second, but they were not costly. In speaking of the errors it is very seldom that Reilly and Miller are oth in brillian; form together. The "Mid-get" was out in gay attire yesterday, and, sure enough, his partner had one more off day.

In the first inning Miller led off by strik-In the first inning Miller led off by striking beautifully out. Beckley got his base on balls and reached second on a wild pitch. Browning knocked up an easy fly to Quinn, but Carroll came to the rescue and lined a fine single to right center, scoring Beckley. Then Bierbauer struck out.

The Bostons in their half went the home fellows one better. After Brodie was out Beilly made a somewhat excusable fumble of Lewis grounder. Then Long rapped out a single to middle and Nash's sacrifice sent the runner to second and third. Quinn followed with a single to right and the two nen scored.

They Tied the Score.

In the third inning, after Stratton had struck out. Miller made a single and stole the score. In the fifth the home players took the lead. As in the third inning Stratton struck out, and Miller made a double to center. He scored on Beckley's single. But the visitors again tied the score. For the third time Reilly allowed Lowe to reach first on a fumble. This time it was a pai-pable blunder, after one man was out, Long knocked a fly to Browning, and ought to have been the third man out. Lowe stole second, and then Nash sent him home by a long single to right.

The contest went excitingly on until the tenth inning. Long led off for the visitors and whacked out a three-bagger over Hanlon's head. Nash went out at first, and Long scored on a life hit to Miller. The score:

The power of Congress to regulate commerce among the several States when the subjects are national in their nature, it says, is also exclusive. The Constitution does not provide that inter-State commerce shall be free, but by the grant of this exclusive power to regulate it, it was left free except as Congress might undertake to regulate it. Therefore, it has been determined, Robbins vs Shelby, taxing district, that the fallure of Congress to exercise this exclusive power in any case is an expression of its will that the subject shall be free from restrictions or impositions upon it by the several States, and if a State law comes in conflict with the will of Congress, the State and Congress can't occupy the position of equal opposing sovereignties, because the Constitution declares its supremacy and that of the laws passed in pursuance thereof. That which is supreme. will likely be plenty of fun. Scores of well-known horsemen arrived in the city yesterknown horsemen arrived in the city yesterday. The track is in excellent condition and good time will be made.

The two events on the card for to-day are the 2:50 and 2:33 trots. The entries for each are good. Mr. Sibley has two or three horses in each race but he stated last evening that he will start Coquette in the 2:50 race and Legal Test in the 2:33 class.

Time, 1:10% but, nevertheless, it has been often held that laws prohibiting the manufacture and sale sarily infringe any constitutional privilege or immunity, this right being rested, as in the Mugler case, upon the acknowledged right of the States to control their purely internal affairs, and in so doing they protect the health, morals and safety of their people by regulations that do not interfere with the powers of the General Government.

The present case arises upon the theory of repugnancy between the State law and the inter-State commerce chanse of the Constitution, and involves a distinction between the commercial power and the police power, which, though quite distinguishable when they do not approach each other, are sometimes like the colors, so nearly allied as to perplex the understanding as the colors do the vision.

GENERAL BUSSEY SAYS, OF THE CHARGES MADE AGAINST HIM.

Pension Office Sensation That Didn't Pan Out—It Went to Pieces Under an Investigation-A Money-Lender's Agent Causes the Trouble. WASHINGTON, May 25 .- For some days past a rumor has been current here to the effect that certain employes in the Pension Office occupying responsible positions had been in the habit of borrowing money from their fellow clerks, and, upon payment being de-manded, they not only declined to return the money, but threatened the importunate creditors with dismissal or a reduction in salary. It was known that a man named Donohue had procured a warrant for the ar-rest of Mr. William H. Barker, Chief of the Record Division, upon a charge growing out of a money transaction. The warrant however, was never served. It was also

out of a money transaction. The warrant, however, was never served. It was also stated that money which hid been collected in the division in aid-of a widow of a clerk named Moore, who recently died, leaving his family in a destitute condition, had not been paid to the widow.

These and several other damaging stories have been afloat through the Interior Department until this morning, when General Bussey, at the request of First Assistant Secretary Chandler, undertook an investigation of the whole matter. This investigation was concluded at noon. Shortly afterward General Bussey was asked for a statement as to what his investigation had developed. He said: "I went to the Pension Office this morning, and, with Commissioner Raum, sent for every man in the bureau who was said to have information on the subject. Twenty or more witnesses were examined without finding a particle of evidence to sustain any of the charges. It was conclusively shown that Major Barker had provided for his obligations; that he had never handled a dollar of the money ($180) collected for Mrs. Moore, but that the money had been in the hands of Major Ripley and Mr. Landon, Assistant Chief of the Division, and had all been paid to Mrs. Moore, whose receipt was produced.

"The charge that Barker had visited gamand had all been paid to Mrs. Moore, whose receipt was produced.

"The charge that Barker had visited gambling houses with Green B. Raum, Jr., utterly failed. Not one witness ever saw either of the men in such a place. The evidence was conclusive that Major Barker's division, one of the most important in the bureau, which was greatly behind in its work when he took charge of it, had been managed to the entire satisfaction of the Commissioner. It developed that a certain party, not in the Government service, was in the habit of loaning money to clerks in the bureau, charging 10 per cent per month, and that Donohue, the clerk who originated the charges against Major Barker, was in the habit of indorsing the notes and then using the office to compel payment—in two using the office to compel payment—in two stances swearing out warrants for criminal proceedings on short notice. Donohue will be dismissed."

UNCLE SAM'S MORMON CHURCH. The Supreme Court Trying to Find a Way t Get Rid of the Property.

WASHINGTON, May 25 .- When the Suprem Court at its last term upheld the constitu-tionality of the Edmunds law, by which the roperty of the late corporation of the ormon Church was escheated to the United states, it found itself in a somewhat em parrassing position. The doctrine of escheat was quite unknown in this country. The Court, therefore, instead of sending its decree down, withheld it, a strong intimation being conveyed of the desire of the Court that Congress should by law direct the dispo-sition to be made of the property. Congress having falled to adopt the suggestion made, the Court, through Justice Bradley, to-day made its final order in the case and modified in some respects the decree it entered at the last term.

in some respects the decree it entered at the last term.

The modification made recites that the Mormon corporation having been dissolved, there doesn't now exist any trusts or purposes for which any part of the personal property could be used or dedicated that are not in whole or in part opposed to public policy and good morals, and that furthermore that there does not exist any person or corporation legally entitled to any of the personality as successors of the late church. The decree then says that the personal property having devolved to the United States it should be devoted to such charitable uses, lawful in character, as may most nearly correspond to its former destiny, unless in the meantime Congress shall otherwise direct, or a master shall report some scheme which shall meet the approval of the Court for the disposition of the property. The decree finally directs that the property and all accumulations remain in the custody of the receiver until otherwise ordered.

It followed as a corollary that when Cengress acted at all, the result of its action must be to operate as a restraint upon that perfect freedom which its silence insured. Congress has now spoken and declared that imported liquors shall, upon arrival in a State, fall within the category of domestic articles of a similar nature.

Continuing, the Court says: "The law of Congress did not use terms of permission to the State to act, but simply removed an impediment to the enforcement of the State laws in respect to imported packages in their original condition, created by the absence of a specific utterance on its part.

Rights of the Importer. It imparted no power to the State not then possessed, but allowed imported property to fall at once upon arrival within the local jurisdiction. The liquor arrived in Kansas jurisdiction. The liquor arrived in Kansas prior to the passage of the act of Congress, but there is no question presented of the right of an importer to withdraw the property from the State, nor is it perceived that the Congressional enactment is given a retrospective operation, by holding it applicable to a transaction occurring before it took effect. It is not the case of a law enacted in the unauthorized exercise of a power exclusively confided to Congress, but of a law which it was competent for the State to pass, but which could not operate upon articles occupying a certain situation until the passage of the act of Congress.

That act removes the obstacle, and no adequate ground is perceived for holding that a re-enactment of the State law was required before it could have the effect upon imported property which it had always had upon domestic property; not in virtue of the laws of Congress, but because that law piaced the property where jurisdiction could attach.

The decree of the lower court was therefore reversed.

WARNER MILLER'S VIEW OF IT. He Thinks the Third Party Will Soon Die, but May Do Some Mischlef. -WASHINGTON, May 25.—Ex-Senator Warner

Miller, in an interview here, was asked what he thought of the third party movement, and said: "I do not think it can last long. History "I do not think it can last long. History teaches us that no party built upon one idea can live. The Greenback party, the Grange, the Prohibition party and all the rest of like sort have failed, and I think this will also. It is so near the Presidental campaign now, however, that it would have to suffer a very sudden death not to have some influence on the election of 1892. If they put a Presidental ticket in the field, they may not carry any State, but they may get enough votes to change the result in some of the States, just as activity on the part of the Prohibition party has aided the Democrats in carrying New York. The movement may have an influence on the campaign."

He is almost wanting in that indefinite thing called magnetism. When he is most in earnest the House laughs at him, and when he is excited in earnest they fairly roar. No man is more sincere than he and yet his arguments and opinions fall on indifferent ears. McMillan is in a very similar predicament. The fact is both McMillan and Springer haye talked themselves to death in the House. The very sound of their voices makes the members tired. With all his bad temper and ungovernable passion Mills would be more acceptable than either Springer or McMillan. INSURGENTS HAVE NO STANDING. Therefore No Negotiations Are Possible With Them About the Itata. WASHINGTON, May 25 .- The fact that no word was received at the Navy Department to-day from the Charleston is taken as an indication that she has gone on down the Peruvian coast toward Callao. Respecting the ruvian coast toward Callao. Respecting the reiterated statements coming from Paris to tile effect that the insurgents have arranged to surrender the Itata to the United States naval authorities when she reaches Chile, the officials of the Navy Department stood mute. It may be stated, however, that there have been no negotiations between this Government and the Chilean insurgents upon the subject. Inasmuch as the insurgents have not been recognized by the Government of the United States as beliggerents, they have absolutely no status that would ment of the United States as beltigerents, they have absolutely no status that would admit of negotiations with them by the United States Government.

Still it is plainly evident that some kind of an understanding has been, or is expected to be reached, which will result in the easy transfer of the Itata to either Admiral McCann or admiral Brown, should she reach Chile. This of course would not take the shape of a formal agreement, but the intimation may already have been conveyed to our naval officers at Iquique by the insurgents that such a course will be pursued, and doubtless this has formed the basis of many of the cablegrams that have passed between Washington and Iquique during the last two weeks.
