THE CAUSE OF HOME MISSIONS DISCUSSED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] DETROIT, May 26.—As soon as the Presby-terian General Assembly convened to-day hasty anxiety was manifested to again at-tack the serpent question. Notwithstanding that Dr. McCook had departed for Philadel-phia the Assembly decided to have another whack at the serpent next Friday. The va-cancy supply and ministerial adjustment scheme was taken up and a resolution introduced to make the contemplated secre-tary's salary $2,500 a year. Dr. Hamilton, of Rochester, held that the whole scheme was unconstitutional, unnecessary, and that the secretary's salary would support five home missionaries, who could do much more good. The Presbyteries have machinery already established to do this very work. Eider W. W. Hunter, of Old Buffalo, Wash-Eider W. W. Hunter, of Old Buffalo, Washington county, Pa., a plainly dressed, onearmed, coloriess man, and an old soldier, made the speech of the morning. He dialmed he represented the common people, and that the proposed salary would be regarded as chormous. He did not believe in making offices for men. Eight colored ministers could be supported on the secretary salary Upon a close vote it was decided to fix the salary at $1,500 a year, although many held that a man could be got for $1,000. The whole question was referred to a committee to report on its constitutionality.

The Work of Home Missions.

The Work of Home Missions.

The cause of home missions was considered, and the immense debt of $100,000 made cred, and the immense debt of succession made a profound impression. Secretary McMillin, the active man of the corps, made an excellent address. Mr. Sinclair, of Massachusetts, advocated denominationalism. He said pions, devoted anti-Congregationalists, ministers and laymen are looking to this assembler of the said o isters and laymen are looking to this assembly for the right action on certain questions which they deem fundamental to the faith. He made an eloquent appeal for men and means to vigorously prosecute the cause of Presbyterism in New England. Missionary conventions were earnestly advocated.

The assembly declined to adopt the resolution of George Junkin, to use the word Sabbath in the report instead of Sunday. The usual recommendations were adopted. The vote to raise $1,000,000 for home missions was taken by rising. The question of having another home mission secretary was raised by a resolution, which was referred to the Home Board.

Immediately after dinner, in the presence of a small attendance, Colonel Elliott P. Shepard read his report on Sabbath observance, taking a disconsolate view of the subject, but urging special effort to close the gutes of the World's Fair on Sunday. He wanted the Chicago authorities to settle this question immediately.

To Watch Sabbath Observance.

To Watch Sabbath Observance. A large committee, consisting of Colonel Shepard, Governor Braner, Drs. Johnson, Sunderland, McPherson, Welds and others were appointed to serve as the Sabbath Observance Committee, without expense to the Assembly. Some members of the Assembly again insisted on using the words Sabbath or Lords Day instead of the word Sunday, but no action was taken. Dr. George P. Havs read a body report on the Beard of Aid for Colleges, and Secretary Case ad-dressed the Assembly as did also several others.

There was a decided sensation in the Assembly when the time came for the discussion of the special reports on the Board of Publication. Judge Hand, of Scranton, read parts of the report he had already presented and discussed its relation to the report of the other special committees. He enlogized the Philadelphia men who constituted the board, and yet even they might make mistakes but the right way to correct mistakes is through the board itself. Judge Hand explained and vindicated the report in a lengthy address. Elder Henry Slamons stood by his special report in every particular. He thought Judge Hand't committee was appointed to see whether or not the special committee lied.

Denouncing the Other Report.

Denouncing the Other Report. He proceeded in a lengthy and scathing re view of the opposition report and of the work of the board itself. It was substan-tially the address made in New York, consisting largely of statistics. Adjournment suspended the debate, and a motion to refer the whole question to the standing Committee on Publication was opposed, but not voted on. Dr. Dickey wanted the debate to go on but the impatient Assembly adjourned and the subject went over as unfinished business.

and the subject went over as unfinished business.

A popular meeting was beld in the interest of home missions with addresses by Drs. Wornster, Scovel, Baker and Hon. John M. Eaten, The Assembly was deeply moved by the announcement of the death of Ex.Moderator Van Dyke, and was led in a fervent prayer by Moderator Green. The Moderator and Stated Clerk were directed to send a lotter of condolence to Dr. Van Dyke's family, and Drs. Dickey and Nelson, both of Philadelphia, were appointed a committee to prepare a tribute on his death.

The arrival of Dr. Parkhurst from New York has revived drooping interest in the Briggs case. He at once let himself loose on the commissioners, and the anti-Briggs men welcome his presence and his work. They hope he will soon address the Assembly and would like him to repeat his sermon of last Sunday in New York.

Anti-Briggs Men Confident.

Anti-Briggs Men Confident.

The anti-Briggs men are banking on valuable aid from Drs. Schaff and Parkhurst. The busy work of these two men is making converts to the anti-Briggs party. The commissioners are beginning to feel that the veto is simply an expression of their judgment, simply as to whether they regard Prof. Briggs as suitable to teach in a Presbyterian Theological Seminary. Since the speech of President Patton last week, the subject of revision of the Confession has been fomenting until it now gives promise of looming up with increased interest.

The revisionists have been seriously offended by the address of the Princeton professor, and feel that their confidence in him has been mispiaced. His speech was understood to mean that he had no heart for any revision and he earnestly wished the Presbyteries to attach no weight to the mere sending down of the report to the Assembly, and he gave them a cordial invitation to tear the report all to pieces if they so desired. It is understood he will severely criticise the report in his own Presbytery. It looks as if the revision lines will be reformed and the church at once launched on a year of controversy.

Now Opposed to Revision. able aid from Drs. Schaff and Parkhurst,

Now Opposed to Revision. Some, however, in this Assembly once the friends of revision, say they are now opposed friends of revision, say they are now opposed to the whole movement, in the light of more recent developments. A very distinguished theological professor of the Briggs persuasion, who worked hard for revision, says he is now in favor of a movement for more liberty in subscription to the creed. He thinks that with latitude and liberality of interpretation at this point there would be no need of revising the historic Confession. Many men of the school of Dr. Briggs believe that there is already sufficient intitude in creed subscription, so that they can subare that there is already summent intitude creed subscription, so that they can subarbe without any compunction of conclence. The revision report will excite pronged discussion in all the Presbyteries, ations are likely to give the committee new employment.

Colonei Elliott F. Shepard to-day bought from Mr. M. M. Addis, of the Presbyterian Board of Publication, a complete set of the publications of the board, consisting of about 1.500 bound volumes, to be presented to the Young Men's Christian Association of Detroit. At this Assembly Mr. John A. Black rounds up 50 years of service on the board.
