SOLVING A PROBLEM.

THE STRAUB BREWING CO. MAKING A FINE ARTICLE OF BEER

To Compete With Other Cities-People Should Patronize Home Manufacturers When They Can Get a Much Better Thing

Why people should not patronize home industry when the article produced is as good as the foreign article, is a matter the Straub Brewing Company is going to solve and that very soon. In fact the company is now prepared to begin a solution of the knotty question. There always seems to be a prejudice against home-made goods and in favor of the article broacht from another. favor of the article brought from another city or another country. This is only an-other illustration of the saving a "prophet is not without honor save in his own country." Apparently people would rather pay more for a foreign article than the home manu-factured, though the latter be just as good. The word "imported" seems to be a great when for instance the foreign is worth more, but there are domestic articles which are really better than can be produced in other n for instance the foreign is worth more, there are domestic articles which are by better than can be produced in other as Some people have it in their heads Pittsburg brewers can not produce as being made, she jumped into the arms of the searcher, squealing here as is made in one or two other. good beer as is made in one or two other cities. This is only because these cities make more beer than is produced in Pitts-burg, and on account of their reputation for quantity they get a reputation for quality. The amount sold usually is governed by the quality, but there are instances where the opposite is the case.

An Entire New Brewery.

In order to test this question the Straub Brewing Company has built an entire new plant, with all the modern improvements, and though the company has always had a reputation for the purity of its production, it now proposes to do even better than here-tofore and give a beer the equal of which cannot be produced by anybody. In the construction of the new plant not so much as a nail from the old building was used. Everything was cast aside as not good enough for the new building, and from the cellar to the roof it is the most complete brewery in the city and one of the finest in

The new brewery is located at the corner of Main street and Liberty avenue, in that section of the city known as Bloomfield. There it stands overshadowing the place where but recently stood the old plant, the only remains of which is the ice house. The building stands on a splendid site, and is a nost magnificent structure of brick. It is built with an annual capacity of 200,000 barrels, but only machinery for one-half that amount is now in. Space was left in all the departments to put in more ma-chinery, and the plant can be doubled with very little trouble. This will be done be-fore many years if the business grows as rapidly as it has in the past, and it doubt-

Pioneers in the Business.

The company is composed of practical people, whose ancestors were brewers bepeople, whose ancestors were brewers be-fore them, and therefore they possess a knowledge of the art of making a whole-some beverage that could not possibly be gleaned from books. The corporation is officered as follows: President, Herman Straub; Vice President and Superintendent, Learny Green, Theorems, Theorems Joseph Gever; Treasurer, Theodore F. Straub. The President, Herman Straub, is recognized as the pioneer brewer of the city. He is now 80 years old and takes a great pride in the magnificent business he

Ins built up.

The main building is an imposing brick structure supported by a handsome cutstone foundation and elaborated with stone ornamentations. This building has a frontornamentations. This building has a frontnge of 268 feet and is 168 feet high. A sign of glittering gold letters is prominently displayed on the front of the edifice. A commodious hellway leads into the offices of the brewers, which are roomy, light and airy and divided in such a manner as to facilitate the transaction of business and at the same time secure privacy, if desired. Adjoining the offices facing Liberty arenue. joining the offices, facing Liberty avenue, is the engine room. Here was found a mammoth engine of 140-horse power, but so scientifically constructed that it moved noiselessly. In the rear of the office is the washroom, where all packages are thoroughly cleaned before they are again refilled with the amber-colored liquid. Ascending a solid iron stairway which leads to the upper floors, the first stopping place was the storage room for malt.

Some of the Mysteries Explained.

The next floor contained an immense copper vessel found in alt well regulated breweries. The one in question, however, was simply enormous, at thas a capacity for holding 375 barrels of beer. The condenser, coaling appropriate and in meaning and the coaling appropriate and the meaning appropriate and the coaling appropriate and the meaning appropriate and the mean cooling apparatus and ice machine are lo cooling apparatus and fee machine are lo-cated on the floor above. The newly brewed beer is forced from the lower floor to the top floor over the cooling apparatus and then down again. A second iron stairway next to the elevator, but amply protected by wire screens, leads to the large storage room for the recention of ballows. for the reception of barley, malt and hops.

The company now bre's three brands of beer, "Erlanger," "Culmbacher," two dark beers, and Pilsner, a lighter colored beverage. The superior quality of the brands have brought them into popular favor and they will continue to grow in popularity until they become recognized leaders among different brands of beer. Cool, delicious and pure, they will be commended to the lovers of the beverage as the best to be had. With such beer as is brewed by the Straub

Company one can best put in the summer months without an unnatural thirst. Perhaps one of the best improvements about the building is the ice machine, by means of which the temperature in the cool-ing rooms can be kept the same all the time. In warm weather more cold air is needed and in the cooler weather the temperature can be kept the same by use of the ice

Three Artesian Wells,

One great difficulty experienced by brew ers is to get good and sufficient water. City water, all must admit, is not as pure as it might be, and, besides that, the tax is pretty heavy on brewers, because they use o much water. To obviate this difficulty, the Straub Company has drilled three ar-tesian wells deep into the bowels of the earth. From these three wells water bub-bles out clear as crystal. Though apparently it is as pure as snow, it is run through the filter and given a second purification, which is calculated to catch overwhite wiced filter and given a second purification, which is calculated to catch everything missed by the natural filter. This puts the company a step in advance of competitors who depend on the city to furnish them the water used in brewing. They thus find much more pure water and are not compelled to pay the big water rents.

In a trip over the building one finds nothing wanting. It is most complete in all its equipments, and cost was not thought of in building and fitting it up. Everything is fireproof through and through, the building being entirely of iron, brick, stone and mortar. The vessels in which the brewing beer is kept are nearly all of copper, and there is is kept are nearly all of copper, and there is $20,000 worth of that metal used in the building. Of course the depositories for the finished article are all of wood. The manufacture of beer is an interesting thing to study, and the Straub Company invites its friends to call and dig into the mysteries of the business. By a visit to the new estab-lishment one can see how the very best beer in the country is made. in the country is made.

A Talk With Mr. Straub.

President Herman Straub is very proud of the new establishment and he may well be. He said: "We have facilities unsurpassed for brewing of beer that cannot be excelled. We do not care to make brags of brewing the best beer in the United States, brewing the best beer in the United States, but we do say that we are not outrivaled. We desire the patronage of our home people. Our celebrated brands of 'Erlanger,' 'Pilsner' and 'Culmhacher' will be found to be pare and nutritious. Not only will the trade of bulk goods be given attention, but our bottled article will be found by consumers to be just what they want. Our improved apparatus and our long experienced operators give us the facilities. Good, pure beer we will guarantee, and the trade pure beer we will guarantee, and the trade that patronizes us can readily testify to the truth of this assertion."

ADVENTURE OF A HARR

Her Enemies Were Turned Into Friend

A Derbyshire correspondent of Rod and Gun reports an exciting episode. John Smedley, of Hatlock Bath, the owner of the famous Cumberland cavern, and several friends, were coursing on the heights of Massai. The hare disappeared down an old lead mine shaft which had fallen into desuctude. Sure that it was dead, he hired an old miner, who descended the shaft by means of a rope. There were footprints, and, believing the hare to have escaped miraculously, Mr. Smedley lowered a cab-bage tied to a string, the depth of the shaft measuring an actual perpendicular length of

The next day, when drawing up the The next day, when drawing up the twine, the cabbage was found to have been eaten. This seemed proof positive of the escape of the hare after its flying leap. A search party descended the shaft with lights and refreshments, and, after two hours, they found that the animal was lurking in a small heading at the bottom. They returned to the surface and continued to lower food which the hare suprecisited the affrighted hare in a smock frock and sent her up to the top, where the spectators discovered that she had only suffered an injury to one eye. Mr. Smedley took the animal home. After it had been in a stable for some time it was taken and turned loose on the estate of F. C. Arkwright, J. P., close to Willerby castle. The hare has become quite tame.

MINERS ON HORSEBACK.

Exciting Exhibition of Riding Seen in the West on a Sunday.

It was Sunday in Coloma. Suddenly there was a great noise of shouting and hurrahing away up the street, and the crowd heaving and separating upon either side, on came a dozen half-wild, bearded miners, fine, wiry, strapping fellows on foaming horses. lashing them to the utmost and giving the piercing scalp-halloo of the Comanches! They suddenly halted in front of Winter's hotel, and while the greater number dismounted and tumultuously entered the bar-room for refreshment a few of the remainder made themselves conspicuous by acts of daring horsemanship—picking up knives from the ground while at full gallop, Indian-like whirling on the sides of their steeds, then up and off like sides of their steeds, then up and off like the wind and, while apparently dashing into the surrounding crowd, suddenly rein-ing in their horses upon their haunches, and whirling them upon their hind legs, then without a stop dashing off as furiously in the opposite direction.

These few proved to be Doniphan's wild riders, who even excelled the Mexican riders, who even excelled the Mexican caballeros in their feats of horsemanship. At last, all together once more they came sweeping down the street, apparently reckless of life and limb. As they passed, the scurrying footmen cheered them on with great good nature. What Express Companies Carry Here Go by Post in Switzerland.

We had sent our baggage, as we had been advised, to the postoffice, where we at once went. The bag which we wished to post to Zermatt seemed to us very heavy, but scythes and barrels and bundles of old iron, labeled and addressed, were lying on the floor, and we supposed it must be all right, though the postmistress, as soon as we had paid our money, turned away without giv-ing us stamps or receipt, and had nothing more to do with us.

We need not have worried, for the Swiss postoffice takes anything and everything that the express companies at home would carry; and if one does not bother about his baggage, it is as certain to turn up at his journey's end as it would be to disappear in England, if one ventured to let it take care
