Station B with 12, and the Southside with 15, do excellent work, considering the amount of territory in the outlying portions of the city which must be covered.

The receipts of the East Liberty station from the sale of stamps, envelopes, etc., money orders and postal notes footed up $53,837 31, an increase of $9,537 02; Station p. $48,440 40 an increase of $9,537 02; Station evening that he was not at liberty to name it, and Postmaster Gilleland, who was present, remarked that he did not know which one it is, and he was glad of it. The appropriation provides $100,000 for the ground and $250,000 for the building.

The property is supposed to be located in or near the Allegheny Diamond. The Inspector looked at two sites on Sandusky street and locations on East, West and North Diamond streets. Postmaster Gilleland is delighted that so much has been accomplished, and as soon as the site is ancomplished, and as soon as the site is an-nounced he will make an effort to raise money by subscription to increase the amount for the building to at least $350,000, or even $500,000. The same plan was pur-sued in Pittsburg, and more than one citi-zen subscribed liberally to make the build-best. Hence the vast increase in the use of Iron City Brewery's product. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

POSTMASTER MEEAN'S STATEMENTS

Postmaster McKean has prepared a comparative statement of the business done in the Pittsburg postoffice in the years ending March 31, 1890, and 1891. The result is gratifying to those interested in Pittsburg's progress, of which the postal business is a good indication. The net receipts for the pist year foot up $565,456 16, an increase of $56,727 90 over the previous year. In the city delivery division large increases are shown in every item. One hundred and thirty-three carriers are employed, a total of 390 deliveres and 457 collections are maded daily, an increase of 91 delivery and 118 collection trips.
