The effort to reorganize the High Scho The effort to reorganize the High School faculty has failed. At a meeting of the Central Board of Education last night those who advocated a new set of teachers were overruled and all the old re-elected. In most cases the decision in favor of the present faculty was unanimous and the election created very little discord. Mr. Phelps was the only member who made any effort toward reorganization and he found few supporters.

the only member who made any enory toward reorganization and he found few supporters.

The meeting opened with the report of the City Superintendent, showing a total enrollment of 26,472 pupils, with an average attendance of 23,352. The report of the Principal of the High School shows an enrollment of 455, with an average attendance of 455. The report of Secretary Reisfar showed that during the past month the expenditures were $40,340 91.

When James N. McMillen, the newly-elected member from the Minersville district, Thirteenth ward, entered the room he was greeted with applause. Everybody was glad the deadlock in his district had been broken. His certificate was accepted. The report of the High School Committee, recommending: the re-election of the present faculty, was read. At this point Mr. Phelps arose and said:

"In connection with this matter I wish to say that I have been grossly misrepresented by the principal of the High School and his allies. My resolution for a new faculty had nothing to do with the Nobbs case, as has been claimed, but was simply the result of my long and growing conviction that such a course would be for the benefit of the school. I still believe that if the board wishes to annihilate the school it will keep the present faculty in power. If it wants to make the institution what it should be there must be a change. The present management is incompetent."

The election of a high school faculty was then taken up and resulted in the continuance of all the old members as follows: Principal, C. B. The trustees of the Pittsburg Female College, adjoining Christ Church, will hold a meeting to decide where that institution shall go. A part of the members wish to go to Allegheny, others to East End, while the President would favor an outside location save for the fact that the number of music pupils would be lessened.

ELECTIONS TO THE STATE MEETINGS

Political Pointers Bred of the Day From All Side and Quarters.

Nothing, not even the convention, ruffled the political serenity of Allegheny county politics yesterday, Everything went throng as arranged. Republican County Conven-tion No. 1, in the Grand Opera Rouse, was a little love feast of about 20 minutes, after which the delegates generally got out of the way and let the other conventionists take their places. Attorney Josiah Cohen called it to order, and read the names of Cyrus M. Gray, W. J. McDonald, W. B. Kirker, W. M. Galbreath, William M. Johnston and John Kaylor as temporary secretaries, and all were made ment, and work proceeded at once. The secretaries gathered in the credentials in the wink of an eye, and Chairman Cohen read a statement that the candidates had complied with the preliminary require-ments. Mr. Cohen's speech acknowledging the honor given him was short and very sweet, and all went merry as a marriage bell, there being no contests.

Attorney John M. Lambie made a speech setting forth the merits of Judge J. W. Over, and in conclusion nominated him for Associate Judge of the Orphans' Court. This was seconded by R. W. Pier, Esq., with another speech of the same tenor as Mr. Lambie's, and the nomination was made by

Bradley Greeted With Cheers. Mr. Lambie next set forth the moral and business virtues of Prothonotary John Bradley, and after calling attention to the imortance of the office and the prompt execuion of its duties by Mr. Bradley, nor him for a second term, referring to his previous nomination not only of the same man but also that of his predecessor, to both of whom Mr. Lambie considered himself as a mascot. Mr. Lambie eulogized civil service reform, and placed it in the continuation of the right man in the right place. This nom ination was also made unanimous. In response to calls and clapping of hands Mr. Bradley acknowledged the honor and assured his friends from all over the county that he would be found in the old stand ready to do them all the good that lay in his power and thanking them heartily for their efforts in his behalf. Mr. Lambie next referred to the modesty of the Second ward, which seldom asked for anything and rarely got it, and ended by nominating Archibald J. Berry for Jury Commissioner. This was also made unani tor and there being no opposition his nom ination was likewise unanimous. Mr. Jones, like Mr. Lambie in the case of Bradley, urged Patterson's acceptance on the ground that he furnished a record and not a pros-

The decks were then cleared so that the Sixth and Seventh Legislative districts could go to work.

Peaceful Selection of State Delegates.

Dr. Gil Foster called the Sixth Legislative Convention to order and was made permament Chairman. John Werner and A. J. McQuilty were nominated and elected delegates to the State convention, when an adjournment was taken, the whole proceedings occupying 3 minutes and 40 seconds. Dr. William Johnston called the Seventh Legislative Convention to order, John R. Harbison and David Smith were nominated, and this nomination occupied less time than

After the motion to close and been put inate William Fox, of Millvale, but the Chair inate William Fox, of Millvale, but the Chair said he was too late, and the spring-lock sunpped. A few seconds after adjournment some irate delegates rushed up to the orchestra and said they hadn't had a chance. The Chairman informed them that it couldn't be helped now.

Subsequently the Fox party was aug-ated and there was some sharp talk. It cared they had been out in the street and e who had done the nominating told the those who had done the nominating told the absentees that they should have been attending to their business. The lie was passed, when two officers stepped forward and commanded the peace, and the fracas was lost sight of in the rush to great Andrew Jackson McQuilty and get dinner tickets. In all the other conventions in the other districts the fixed programme was carried out.

Love Feast of the Unterrified. It was 11 o'clock, an hour later than the ime set, when County Chairman W. J. Brennen called the Democratic County Con-vention to order yesterday in Old City Hall.

He got down to business at once. The convention is called for the purpose he said, "of nominating county officers and electing a Chalrman of the County Committee, it is called at a time when we are about to enter upon an important campaign, and we must see to it that the men elected to the offices which have to be filled will be non-partisan and thoroughly honest and copur men for their positions. All we have to do to-day is to meet nere in a sort of Demperatic love feast, and I take it that then will be harmony despite the newspaper war which has been in progress the past week." The Chairman's "love feast" proposition which has been in progress the past week."
The Chairman's "love feast" proposition was carried out to the letter and the proceedings were harmonious all through, Charles Anderson and E. P. Kearns were named as secretaries with Joseph Kraus, H.

assistants. The reading of the roll took up some time. Several substitutes were made,

This was received with applause and was carried unanimously. W. P. Shell, Jr., pre-

PUSHING THE AGITATION.

The Ladies' Association Are Not Daunted by the Vetoing of the Smoke Bill. An informal meeting of the Ladies' Health Protective Association was held yesterday. and Governor Pattison's vetoing of the smoke abatement bill discussed. It was decided to continue agitating the question and seek a means to influence Councils toward enforcing the power which the Governo and many lawyers of the city declare is aland many lawyers of the city declare is already invested in them to prevent nuisances. It was also decided to form ward committees and bring the question before influential citizens, by whom assistance might be rendered toward this object.

Respecting a statement printed in an afternoon paper, referring to the smoke nuisance maintained by the Duquesne traction power, and asserting that the Pittsburg Traction Company was guilty of as great a nuisance at Oakland, a member of the association stated that the body wished to say that although the Pittsburg Traction Company did use soft coal for a time, it returned to natural gas about a month ago, on being reural gas about a month ago, on being re-quested to do so by the residents in the neighborhood. The company is experiment-ing with smoke consumers, so as to cause residents no inconvenience should a return to coal be necessary.

The equipment of the road has been increased to take care of the World's Fair business, but the officials are not sure that the traffic will warrant much improvement. Mr. Harding said it looked as if the Illinois Central held the key to the situation in Chicago, and the other lines would have to dance to their music. A plan is on foot to give all the lines the same facilities. He added that the Pennsylvania was sure of getting its share of the business.

In the party are Thomas Williams, Jr., H. B. Roberts, J. R. Hutchinson, Jr., and J. M. Harding. Superintendent of Motive Power T. N. Ely came in from Altoona last evening.

NEARING THE CLOSE.

Covenanter Ministers Again Indulge in Bitter Personalities.

Conservatives Hand Down Their Ultimatum to the Young Men.

The interest in the R. P. Synod's proceedings yesterday was more intense than on any other day yet, as the critical moment was felt to be near at hand.

Rev. Mr. Samson continued his defense and came near having a little spat with Miss McConnell. Rev. Mr. Samson said Miss Mc-Connell had endeavored to convey the impression that he received money from two churches for preaching. He admitted that he had, but that when he received money from the McKeesport congregation he re-funded what he got elsewhere.

Miss McConnell wanted to question Mr. Rev. O. B. Milligan then took the stand and though he didn't talk long, he soon succeeded in making some hearers think of sheel. He intimated that he was sick and weary of the matter, and said he would have said nothing had it not been for insinuations gan flercely at the use of this word, and the latter was ruled out of order, and then ruled in again by the Moderator. Resuming Rev. Mr. Milligan stated that he had said the man who wrote the call for the Elders' Con man who was guilty of malicious misrepresen-tation, and this statement he said had been-twisted until it was alleged that he had applied the charge to all who had signed the Mr. Milligan was again ruled out of order, but he moderated and then twisted the direction of his attack in such a manner as to escape the guard, and wound up by stating that they had been treated by the Pittsburg Presbytery in a manner of which Christ would not approve.

More Ministerial Hair Pulling. Rev. J. R. Milligan made the last speech on the side of the accused. He said the ques-tion was not "Had they followed divisive courses?" The real question was, had they received justice from the Pittsburg Presby-tery? He said he had never spoken or written a word against the principles of the Church, and that the East End platform did not object to the principle of political dis-sent, but to the explanation given of it. He would not allow anyone to say to him, "You can vote for amendments, but not incor-porate." He said if the act of Synod of 1889 is rescinded, then that of 1868 will prevail and prevent the voting for amendments, and Dr. McAllister would be obliged to leave the and prevent the voting for amendments, and Dr. McAllister would be obliged to leave the Church.

Dr. McAllister replied that he had never said so.

Rev. Mr. Milligan warmed up as he went on and fairly thundered that he would conform to the principles of the church, etc., but would not take his gruel with the explanations and foot notes of Dr. McAllister, Dr. Crozier and "this man here," pointing to Dr. George. This went on until the subject of organization was reached, and Prof. Wilson was sucked into the whirl. Rev. Mr. Milligan said he would hold to an affidavit which said there was no organization.

Rev. Dr. George began his reply, but he labored under the same trouble that he did previously, evidently appreciating there was a strong feeling against his position among a considerable present not members of the court. He, however, shook himself up and got into better swing after a time. He occupied the remainder of the time until the noon recess.

New Evidence Was Admitted. In the afternoon Dr. George resumed his closing argument and proposed to read Prof. McClurkin's letter to the Synod withdrawing from the church, to show the inter pretation put upon the East End meeting and platform by the defendants, but Rev. J. S. T. Milligan objected that it was new evidence to which the defendants could not reply, and that Prof. McClurkin was present to speak for himself. Rev. Mr. Reed also protested on similar grounds and further that it did not express the views held by the defendants. The Moderator, held by the defendants. The mountain however, ruled that it might be read.

The remainder of the address was devoted The remainder of the address was devoted to a review and a summing up of all the case. He asked the relatives of some of the accused to divest themselves as far as possible of kinship feeling in voting.

Dr. David McAllister next got up to round-up, and he carefully went all around the enclosure and stopped all the holes by which the defendants might possibly escape. In quoting Rev. E. M. Milligan in one instance, the latter demanded that two of his statements relative to the basis of settlehowsky was struck In quoting Rev. E. M. Milligan in one instance, the latter demanded that two of his statements relative to the basis of settlement, and in one of which he said no authority outside the Church of Rome would demand, etc., and demanded that they be read. The stenographer was directed to look them up. Rev. J. R. Milligan stormed several points, requiring Dr. McAllister to keep his ecclesiastical off eye skinned constantly to see that all the ground chinks were in place.

As to motive Dr. McAllister held, that the As to motive, Dr. McAllister held that the defense were responsible for effect without regard to motive, just as much as would be a certain Allegheny man, who holds that he gets royally drunk three or four times a year on principle, contending that it is good for his health and therefore his duty. Should that men commit a crime while drunk? for his health and therefore his duty. Should that man commit a crime while drunt?

Rev. Mr. Reed caused a little diversion by disputing Dr. McAllister's construction of language used by the former, and the doctor called on a stenographer to read Reed's statement. Referring to the stenographer as "official" brought up Rev. James Warnock, who demanded to know by what authority Dr. McAllister used the term official. Rev. Mr. Warnock demanded to know if the Synod had employed the stenographer, and Dr. McAllister declined to say anything further. This interruption was relished by the accused and their friends to the full.

Dr. McAllister in the Ring Again. Relative to the question as to whether Rev. E. M. Milligan had said he saw the minutes of the East End meeting, Mr. Milligen arose and said he had never said to anyone that he saw those minutes. Dr. Mc Allister called on Prof. Wilson for proof, but Prof. Wilson read from his notes that Mr. Milligan had spoken of having seen Rev MrsTemple's record of the meeting. Prof. Wilson said he could not recollect that Rev. Mr. Milligan had said he saw the minutes, but was tolerably certain he had said the organization was permanent.

Rev. Mr. Milligan then said he would like to make his affidavit before the court that w had never seen the minutes, but that he ever denied what Prof. Wilson had stated. The matter was here dropped.

Dr. McAllister said that whether the Pittsburg Presbytery had erred or no in finding the accused guilty, the action was a necessity. The maintenance of the Church in its the accused guilty, the action was a necessity. The maintenance of the Church in its integrity was imperatively demanded.

During his percention Dr. McAllister became quite impassioned and Rev E. M. Milligan rose to the point that the speaker was out of order, but the doctor had passed over the center and was going down grade, and no whistling of "down brakes" had any effect.

At the conclusion of Dr. McAllister's argument, Elder Torrens, of Brooklyn, demanded to be allewed to ask some questions, and he proceeded to go all over the ground and made the prosecution answer categorically a series of interrogatories respecting the conduct of the case before the Presbytery from beginning to end. Elder Torrens convinced many present by his questions that a superb lawyer was lost when he went into the leather trade. Prof. Wilson strongly objected to some of the questions, as implying admissions that he would not allow, but Torrens carried full ballast and could not be checked. Dr. McAllister finally arose and said it was high time to put a stop to the questions, but flev. J. R. Thompson insisted that they cease educating and gave aid and comfort to Torrens, who despite all objections continued to make interrogatories and inject terse speeches into them as he went along.

went along.

Rev. Mr. Ferris, the Illinois Spartan, next propounded a series of interrogatories to Rev. Mr. McClurkin. A General Rush to the Front. About this time proceedings became in-tensely interesting drawing as many of the ace from the rear to the front of the building, and more people soon began to talk at once than occurred in all the politi-cal conventions held yesterday. Rev. Mr. Carson proved himself a holy terror in asking questions regarding the record made by the Presbytery and as to written testimony. written testimony.

Resolved, That their suspension be now removed on their acceptance of the following conditions: First, that they severally express their sorrow for the dissensions in the Church so far as they have been the occasion of the same, Second, that they disavow the East End platform as a bond of union within the Reformed Presbyterian Church, and that they withdraw from the agreement to maintain the principles set forth in that platform.

Resolved, That they engage to abide by the existing laws of the Church as to voting at civil elections and to holding office, and to carry them out in exercise of their office and engage not to propagate contrary views to the above while holding the position of ministers in the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

WHEREAS, Rev. A. W. McClurkin has denied in this court that he ever made any acknowledgment of responsibility for the East End flatform and Pittsburg Presbytery furnished no record of such statement and that Rev. E. M. Milligan has declared on the floor of the Synod that A. W. McClurkin had no part in the making of the platform, Resolved, That his complaint be sustained and his case be dismissed. Resolved, That his complaint be sustained and his case be dismissed.

Resolved, That Synod condemns the East End platform particularly in the following points:

First, We condemn article I, clause 2, which reads: "Yet the terms of communion ought to be limited to the plain requirements of the Scripture namely, Fatth in Christ and obedience to His rerealed will," as misleading and as is defined by its advocates manifestly contrary to our standard. ondown the second plank, second claus

We condemn the second plank, second clause, which reads:
"Without binding them to an explanation in matter of political dissent and other things," as nullifying and abolishing the functions of the creeds of God's house.

We condemn the third plank—"That restricted communion and not close communion is the teachings of the Bible and of our standard," as contrary to and misinterpreting the standard.

We condemn the second principle as opening up interminable controversy and strife and affording constant opportunity to distract the church and disturb her peace and bring into contempt her cherished doctrine and established principles.

M'GINNIS WAS FOOLED. The Old-Time Check Dodge Comes Into Play Once More. John McGinnis, a miner from Beach Cliff, came into Pittsburg yesterday on his way to Washington, D. C., to attend the funeral of his sister. At the Baltimore and Ohio depot

he was accosted by a well-dressed chap call-ing himself John Anderson, and claiming relationship to several people McGinnis knows at Beach Creek. Anderson spoke of having a lot of goods at the freight office awaiting payment. A few moments later another man came up who claimed to be the freight agentand told Anderson to get his goods away at once or pay storage. Anderson said he had nothing but a check for $1,200, which the alleged

The Humane Society Again Takes Actic Disfiguring Horses. The docking of horses tails came up for a limited discussion at the regular meeting of the Humane Society yesterday. Letters were read from the humane societies of ston and Cincinnati, which told of the Boston and Cincinnati, which told of the work done there in that direction. State laws on the subject were also discussed.

President Eaton was instructed to appoint agents and establish branches of the society at New Brighton, McKeesport, East Brady, Brookville, Clarion and Warren. Secretary Davidson reported that a little girl 6 weeks old was under the care of the society and they wish to find a home for. Contributions and fines were reported that amounted to $56.
