BLACK & BAIRD,

CHEATING A CHURCH

A Thief Breaks Open the Poor Box in a Sharpsburg Chapel.

GETS AWAY WITH SOME PLUNDER.

This Is Only One of Many Such Cases Which

Have Occurred There. THE MAN WELL SKILLED AT THE WORK

If Joseph Wittman had not been alone in his store on Monday afternoon some distinct clew to a series of robberies which have been perpetrated in Sharpsburg recently would have been secured; also one of the thieves. Wittman has a grocery store on a corner opposite St. Mary's Church. About 2:30 o'clock on Monday he sawa man leaving the church in so suspicious a man-ner as to convince him he must be connected with the robberies which have occurred in the church from time to time during several years. His impulse was to follow and have man arrested, and he is now regretting

"I could not leave the store," he said yesterday, "because somebody might have walked off with the goods."

But his suspicions aroused he ventured, anyhow, across to the church—not 20 yards from his door—and there he found the contribution box burst into and the content stolen. The padlock had been broken off and the iron door pried open, presumably with a screw driver which lay near.

He Left Another Lock Behind. A Tale lock of a strong pattern was also lying close by, presenting the appearance of having been forcibly removed from some-where. This lock did not belong to anything where. This lock did not belong to anything in the church, and must have been left by the thief in his hurried flight when disturbed. It was John Pettz, a well-known Sharpsburger, who interfered with the thief's further spoilation of the church. Petz said that when he entered the church the stranger was making a pretense of examining the Stations of the Cross, and he left soon after Peitz entered. He left a copy of a German morning daily of Monday's issue behind him, affording presumptive evidence of his nationality.

This is the intest of many attempts made recently upon this church and St. Joseph's. It was only last week that an ineffectual attempts the other two the was only last week that an inelection ac-tempt was made to break open the other two of the three contribution boxes. They were so damaged that Joseph Wittman had them taken down. Three weeks ago Father Grace's boxes were tampered with in a simi-lar manner, but no money was taken be-cause there wasn't any there to steal. They Stole the Sacred Vessels.

These robberies are in line with similar earlier occurrences. Two years ago, during Father Meyers' time, the tabernacle containing the sacred vessels was broken into and several stolen, others of them being mutilated for their jewels. Since then the mutilated for their jewels. Since then the altar vessels have been retained in safer quarters.

The manner in which the thief removed the strong fastenings of the box, and the lock he had with him, gives the impression that he was used to the work, and affords grounds for the suspicion that he is industriously engaged in that particular branch of robbery. How many other places he may have successfully worked can only be inferred.

DRAGGED BY THE FEET.

Horrible Position in Which Willie Wende Was Placed Yesterday.

The propensity of small boys "to fool" with dangerous objects came near ending the life of Willie Wendel; esterday morning. He and his playmates have been accustomed to amusing themselves by dropping a rope down on the Citizens' Traction cable on Penn avenue. At the upper end was fas-tened a piece of wood, old shoe or tin can. This teneda piece of wood, old shoe of the can. This would skip along the ground at the rate of the cars and it afforded the boys great fun trying to stop it. While on his way to school yesterday Willie and his companions were thus pursuing a rope and shoe. Willie succeeded in stopping it, but to the horror of all he got his feet entangled and was soon being dragged over the rough pavement at a tarreffer rate.

The lad's cries for help attracted the notice of the bystanders, but they did not seem while to help him except by running after him and crying for assistance. At Twenty second street Captain Davis, of En-gine No. 7, saw the boy and took in the situstion. Running alongside he soon severed the rope with his knife. Removing young Wendel to the engine house he had his torn clothes removed and wounds washed and dressed. His back and shoulders were severely cut and torn.

A Carload of Girls. A party of 35 young ladies going home from the Mt. Vernon Seminary at Washing-ton occupied a car on the limited last even-ing. They were in charge of E. Q. Cordner, traveling passenger agent for the Pennsyl-vania road.

Talk of an Extension. It is now claimed that the Pennsylvania Company intends to extend its line from Mansfield, O., to Martin's Ferry and Wheeling, and ultimately to the scaboard. The
