Washington, Pa., June 9.—Another game is to take place between the rival clubs of Washington

Frank Robinson's Opinion.

Frank B. Robinson, one of the owners of the New York Baseball Club, is at the Duquesne. He thinks the clubs will finish in this order, New York, Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburg. He hasn't much of an opinion of Anson's team, and says the local aggregation will yet surprise the people.

There are various rumors of changes to be made in the team, but none of these rumors are backed with official authority. But, as suggested in this paper recently, a change will be made at short as soon as possible, and it is also likely that Maul will be played regularly or given his release. The team is evidently going from head to worse, and it is useless to keep Maul merely to sit on the bench. It may be that he can be traded for a good, young in-fielder. The local team do not require him either as a pitcher or an outfielder. If an outfielder is required, either Miller or Berger, when Blerbauer recovers, can fill the gap, and also Stratton can take a turn. And without Maul there are four pitchers. An offidial of the club stated yesterday that probably a good shortstop can be secured from a Western League club in exchange for Maul. This would be a wise fining to do. Cerainly there must be a change, and it may be safe to say the change is much overdue. walked upon the field with an air which seemed to say: "Well, we are prepared for another thrashing, and are ready to take our medithat Rusie was to pitch three tons of starch

Rusie's Terrific Speed. Buckley also had an interesting time. On several occasions, when the ball came so hot that it fairly smoked, the catcher laid it tenthat it fairly smoked, the catcher into it ten-derly on the ground, and, drawing off his gloves, looked earnestly at his hands to see that no fingers were missing. Rusic usually walked to the plate and inspected the result or his speed with great interest. King, the Pittsburg pitcher, evidently lad read of the effectiveness of the smiles of Welch and Galvin, and he determined to try that style of pitching. Truth compels the statement hat he was a melancholy failure, and the 1,853 perthat he was a menancooy fature, and the 188 per-sons present are aware of the fact. A mellow, en-gaging smile accompanied every delivery of the ball, but the New Yorks did not yield to its infin-ence, and smassied the curves and inshoots right and left. It was apparent that King has not learned the Galviu-Weich plan of smiling all through a game, no matter if th: Thud of the Base Hit is heard on all sides. A look of joyous unconcern previous to the delivery of the ball, followed by an expression of full despair when a pet inshoot is his or two bases, is a plan hardly likely to succeed in or two bases, is a plan hardly likely to succeed in he modern game of baseball.

Therman made two or three unsuccessful efforts to and on the ball, and then succeeded. It was a can single to right, and then succeeded. It was a can single to right, and the crowd indulged in its rest yell. Therman then stole second, Richard-m sent the ball hostling to left and Therman scram-led for the plate, which he safely reached, Glass-ock hit the ball so hard it tore up the ground word second. Bellly got after the ball with a op, skip and jump, picked it up cleanly, touched cond base, retiring Richardson, and then com-tered a sensational double play by throwing out.

It is not generally known that William Sexton, the famous billiardist, is sole owner of the billiard parlors at Broadway and Sixth avenue, opposite Parker's. The fact is, he bought for eash five months ago the interest of the former partner, Henry Stedeker, and is now doing a fine husiness at the well-known stand. Sexton and Stedeker were partners for over five years. PRESIDENT YOUNG Issues the following bulletin: "In view of the current report that certain players a the Western Association have jumped their conracts, the National Board has unanimously agreed hat any player in any association under the National agreement, who has or may hereafter do so, hall be inchigible to play with any club under the rotection of the National agreement,"

It was arranged at Morris Park yesterday that the Moumouth Park Racing Association would begin their summer meeting at Westchester on July 4, and have four racing days at Morris Park on which to run off their important stakes, after which the Moumouth Association will use Jerome Park on alternate days for the remainder of their meeting, Morris Park to take Jerome's off days and run out the New York Jockey Club's allotted days during the summer, instead-of-having a late followed:

It is not Latham's coaching or clownish actions that are bothering the Cincinnati Reds. They will have to find a better excuse than such a schoolboy err. The St. Louis Browns won the championship four times in succession, and none of the St. Louis players advanced any such excuse. Mullane is not bothered by the coaching. The fact that Radbourn is getting more money is the cause of the trouble. Tony cannot bear to hear of a pitcher on the same team getting a better salary than he is. Mullane also has several offers in his pocket from other clubs. The long and short of the matter is, Tricky Tony is pitching for his release.—Enquirer.
