Veterans' Reunion.

MINOR NEWS FROM THE THREE STATES

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH) KITTANNING, June 11 .- The twentysixth annual convention of the Diocese of Pittsburg assembled at St. Paul's Church in this place Wednesday morning at 9 b'clock. The anticipated importance of the character of its deliberations elicited a large attendance. Roll call developed the prestuce of 80 members of the clergy, and from the roll of parishoners a representation of 175 lay delegates. Rev. E. A. Angell, of Foxburg, was chosen Secretary of the convention, and Rev. W. N. Webbe, of Pitts-burg, Assistant Secretary; Treasurer, W. J.

The afternoon session was opened by a discussion of the missionary work of the liocese. The report of the Committee on discussion of the missionary work of the discussion of the discussion on amendments suggested, in which Bishop Whitehead, Revs. White, McKay and Hodges, and Messra. Burgwin, Metcalf and others of the lay delegation took part.

Bishop Whitehead's annual address upon the condition of the discress presented a most encouraging report of its growth and work. Among the prominent features he noted the advantage of holding conventions in the smaller towns, rather than in the more populous centers, as the tendency is to create an interest in the young, who are continually drifting into the cities and having with them the germs of the early impressions that afterward ripen into active influence, thereby bring strength numerically, as well as in spiritual influence, to the work of the church.

Be spoke upon the prevailing tendency to disnutation and doubt of Biblical authority, and the so-called freedom of thought and inquiry which allows every man a right to assume the ignorance and folly of his predecessors, and to approach all religious questions as if he were the first to investigate them, and as if he had the authority, wiscom and independence of all humanity.

There are, "the learned divine remarked, poertain traths in regard to religion, history and Christianity that are no longer in decan and independence of all humanity.

There are, "the learned divine remarked, certain truths in regard to religion, history and Christianity that are no longer in describing the true that there are still premaptions minds questioning the authority of the great truths of Christianity."

The tone of the Bishop's address was one discratity toward all honest doubts and diteisms, and especially was his spirit of berality extended to other Christian decominations. "Notwithstanding," he said, the channer that the powers of evil are gainst strength, it is noteworthy that confirmations have been more numerous than ever its year in the Diocese of Pittsburg."

The Bishop remarked concerning the practal work of his labors, that he had had can corner stones, consecrated five churches er stones, consecrated five churches pened one new church. Among the il events of the year was the consecra-of St. Mark's Church, at Johnstown, Christ's Church, at Meadville, and the that there are now remaining no press-debts of any great amount upon any of church edifices in the diocese, with but the church edifices in the diocese, with but single exception.

Among the distinguished Pittsburgers present are the venerable Felix R. Brunot, the Branch will barywin, William Metcalf and a large army of lay delegations and interested friends from surrounding towns.

This morning's session was devoted mainly to reading and action upon reports and the election of officers. The evening was taken my with the subject of women's auxiliary pulssions, in the discussion of which Bishop Whitehead, Rev. Dr. Webb and Mr. Faulkner took part.
