been the chief source of anxiety, shows further satisfactory improvement. The best evidence of this was the decline in gold shipments and the rise in the price of gold.

The favorable progress of the clearing liquidation also exerted a good effect, and, together with the outlook of the world's financial center, it is in a much better position in March or April, Paris and Berlin are still in somewhat straggled circumstances, but less tension is being reported there as a result of improvement in London.
