THE JUNIORS PARADE.

Six Thousand American Mechanics March to Martial Music.

NATIONAL COUNCIL IN SESSION.

The Plan of Councilor Collins on Immigration Is Popular.

A COMMITTEE TO WATCH LEGISLATION

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.]

CLEVELAND, June 16.—Despite the excessive heat of the morning, followed by a heavy rain this afternoon, members of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics took possession of the city, and turned out 6,000 strong in the parade. This, coupled with the entertainment in Music Hall to-night, were the chief features of the day. Delegations composed of hundreds from each point arrived early this morning from Pittsburg, Canton, Chicago and Erie. A sultry atmosphere being over the city, threatened to have a serious effect upon the members in line, but the Juniors did not come here to be beaten by the weather.

The parade was a magnificent one. There were numerous handsome banners and flags in line and nearly every council was accompanied by a band. It was such a parade as is seen in Pittsburg on Washington's Birthday, even to the miniature schoolhouse that was carried by the uniformed rank. This body of men in charge of Marshals J. Rhodes Miller and William Awl, of Pittsburg, made a fine appearance and were frequently cheered along the route.

The session of the National Council to-day was of short duration. The convention will not get down to business until to-morrow. At 9 o'clock W. A. Gordon, State Treasurer of Ohio, called the National Council together and introduced Mayor Rose, who delivered a stirring address of welcome, after metaphorically throwing open the gates of the city, so that the Juniors might all be admitted and have a good time.

Speech of Mayor Rose.

He referred to the objects of the order as follows: "You have placed in the fore-front of your order the flag of your country, and I am glad to know that with you originated the idea of placing that flag upon the school houses. I want to say to you that that flag represents something. It is sacred, because it is baptized by the blood of our forefathers. That flag represents the article in the Declaration of Independence which says that all men are equal. Another principle of your order is that you favor the preservation of the public school system of the United States. I heartily indorse that principle. Education is the foundation stone of our republican institutions. If you place a free ballot in the hands of an ignorant man, it is like placing a loaded gun in the hands of a child. Our system of common schools is the best work of American liberty."

A. L. Solomon, National Representative from Pittsburg.

The Mayor also expressed his sympathy with the principles of the order on the immigration question, and concluded with a reiteration of welcome to the visitors.

The Meaning of the Flag.

National Vice Councilor John R. Roberts, of Baltimore, responded to the Mayor's address. He said that the flag of the country flying over the school houses is a bond that the Junior Order of American Mechanics will stand by if any traitorous foe assails the system that has made America the nation she has become, and a pledge of the order's championship of the common school system. In the name of his brother members the speaker thanked the Mayor for the welcome extended by the city through him. Council then retired from the hall and a brief business session was held. The reports of the officers printed exclusively in to-day's Dispatch were read and referred to proper committees.

A matter to be taken up to-morrow that will be of special importance and which will likely be adopted, is a scheme proposed by state Councilor Collins, of Pennsylvania, through which more attention will be paid to the question of immigration than has ever been done before. Mr. Collins' plan has been formulated and the following is what will be presented to the convention in the morning.

A Committee on Legislation.

The National Council shall create a body to be known as the National Legislative Committee, to be composed as follows: The National Councilor, National Vice Councilor and National Council Secretary and the state Councilor, State Vice Councilor and Junior Past State Councilor of each State where a State Council exists and not to exceed three members from each State wherein the order is located, but which has no State Council, these last named members to be chosen by the other members of committee as they may determine.

James Cranston, the next National Vice Councilor.

In connection with the National Legislative Committee there shall be auxiliary to it State Legislative committees, consisting of the State Councilor, State Vice Councilor and Junior Past State Councilor of each State, and in addition thereto six other members, to be appointed by each of the aforesaid members of the respective State Councils, these to serve during the term of office of the board until their successors have been named.

The Duties of the Committee

It shall be the duty of the National Legislative Committee to proceed at once and by every honorable means endeavor to have legislation enacted in the National Congress and the several State Legislatures controlling, restricting or prohibiting immigration, and also such National and State legislation as will protect and promote the public school system, and prevent sectarian interference with it, and also to use every effort to have such statutes on the subject as now exist or may be enacted, properly enforced, and also to endeavor to secure the co-operation in these objects of all other American organizations.

The National Legislative Committee shall create three sub-committees, to be known as the executive, correspondence and press and finance committees respectively. The executive committee shall formulate and promulgate the plans and methods for the accomplishment of these objects and all legislation must be submitted to this executive committee for their indorsement before being approved by the National Legislative Committee or recommended to the order for action.

Further Scope of the Plan.

The duty of the correspondence and press committee shall be to collect, prepare and distribute literature bearing on the objects of the order; to collect statistics and facts concerning immigration; to correspond with certain organizations and individuals in various parts of the country and perform other duties as occasion may require. The finance committee shall be empowered to collect a fund in such manner as may be determined upon by the Legislative Committee, which shall be at the disposition of the National Executive Committee, to be used on the recommendation of the Executive Committee and under such regulations and restrictions as the National Committee may decide.

Frost J. Shuler, Past State Secretary of Illinois, now of Pittsburg.

All the representatives spoken to to-night seem to favor the adoption of the plan and there is no doubt that it will go through.

The report of the Committee on Ritual, which recommends a change in the obligation, so as to conform with the present demands and the principles of the organization, was received and adopted. The platform of principles adopted at Chicago last year was substituted for the present preamble to the objects of the order.

A Grand Entertainment Given.

A complimentary entertainment was given to-night in Music Hall to an audience of over 5,000 people. Addresses were made by several prominent members of the order. Miss Lillian Burkhart recited several selections in her characteristic style. Mrs. Bair, wife of National Representative Bair, of Braddock, sang. National Councillor Bartlett made a speech. National Councillor J. W. McCleary, of the Daughters of Liberty, was also among the speakers. His presence here is significant, owing to the fact that an effort is to be made to have his organization officially recognized in some manner as an auxiliary to the Jr. O. U. A. M.

This move is intended to check the actions of the board of officers of the National Council of the Daughters of Liberty, which has been refusing charters to new councils all over the country, on the ground, it is claimed, that the organization is only attached to the Senior order. This matter is likely to create trouble at the next annual session of the Daughters of Liberty. The members here propose to set themselves in a position to secede from the Seniors if the occasion arises and attach their entire membership to the Juniors.

A BEAUTIFUL CAVE

Was Recently Discovered by Fox Hunters in Morgan County, Kentucky.

LEXINGTON, KY., June 16.—A party of fox hunters in Morgan county were pursuing a quarry, when they suddenly came upon a high ledge. At the moment of arriving at this point the baying of the hounds was distinctly audible, the hunters not being far behind them. Suddenly, and without a moment's warning, the music of the dogs ceased. While wondering what became of the dogs a belated hound who had been unable to keep up with the pack came up, and running below the ledge, set up a howl of disappointment, and the hunters climbed down to where the dogs had stopped, only to see him disappear into the side of the mountain through a large irregular opening. Procuring torches of pine knots the hunters hastily followed the dog. They had not gone more than 300 feet until they entered a large chamber with vaulted dome. Every inch of space on the walls and roof was covered with minute crystals that sparkled like millions of diamonds when the light of the torches flashed upon them. The men hurried on, however, trying to overtake their dogs that they could hear faintly baying far within the bowels of the earth. After going about two miles through beautiful rooms and lofty arches and failing to come upon the hounds the weary hunters had to retrace their steps owing to their hastily improvised torches being nearly burned out. The dogs came home the next day.

A few days after its discovery Judge Perry visited the cave and explored it a short distance. He describes it as one of the most wonderful caves he ever saw. In one of the rooms there is a stone wall 70 yards long, 4 feet high and 4 feet thick. It is built of limestone rock of a kind not found in the cave nor anywhere near it. The Judge is at a loss to account for the presence of this wall, especially as it is cemented together with a cement as strong as the rock itself. Many people who have seen the cave and the artificial wall are inclined to think this is the famous Swift Cave, where that worthy mined and coined silver a hundred years ago. If this should prove correct the Judge will be a millionaire, as Swift's cave was known to be one of the richest silver mines ever opened.

TWO MEN MYSTERIOUSLY KILLED.

It Is Supposed They Were Bumped Off a Freight Car While Asleep.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.]

PORTSMOUTH, June 16.—There was an accident near Mahanoy Plan yesterday which resulted in the death of two men. The mangled remains of a well-dressed, middle-aged man were found on the Reading road. The body is supposed to be that of John McHan, of Shenandoah.

A little further down the road another man was discovered, who proved to be Andrew Kratowskas. The only mark on his person was a deep gash near the left ear. It is supposed that the men were sleeping in the cars, and when the cars came together they were bumped off and killed.

FIRE RECORD.

AT Buffalo yesterday morning Urban's flour mill was destroyed and adjoining buildings narrowly escaped. Loss, $50,000; insured.

AT Mondovi, Buffalo county, Wis., yesterday morning, seven buildings, comprising nearly all of the business part of the village, burned down. Loss, $35,000.

AT Danville, Ky., yesterday morning, fire destroyed the hemp hackling establishment of Cogar, Pans & Co., with 65,000 pounds of hemp and 40,000 of twine. Loss, $50,000; insurance, $34,000.

DURING the heavy thunder storm yesterday afternoon two rigs and two 100-barrel tanks belonging to the North Penn Oil Company in the Speechly district, near Oil City, were struck by lightning and destroyed, and also a rig of Wesley Chambers on the Humboldt farm, and a 100-barrel tank belonging to Tom McBurney, near Siverlyville.

AT Charleroi the large clothing store and dwelling of Casebere & Edmunds, burned about 4 o'clock yesterday morning. The inhabitants of the building had barely time to escape in their night clothes and the property was destroyed. Loss, estimated at $10,000. There are some rumors that the fire was of incendiary origin, but this has not been substantiated.

AT Cincinnati Monday midnight a panic was narrowly averted at the City Hospital, when the flames shot from basement to roof in the northwest building of the hollow square. Fortunately the fire department made a prompt response and prevented the destruction of the building, and the employes of the hospital acted with rare discretion and heroism in removing without injury the patients. A nurse, Miss Herrington, lingered so long that her escape was cut off and she had to be lowered from a window. The pecuniary loss is comparatively small.

FIRE was discovered in the foretold of the flagship Philadelphia, at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, Monday afternoon. The fire was soon put out and the hold was flooded with water. It was not known how the fire broke out. Some tar and varnish that were in the forehead poured out their fumes so that it was difficult to work. Several men were overcome by the smoke and had to be pulled out. Joseph James, the captain of the hold, was seriously burned. The foretold is situated next to the magazine and under the ammunition room. The ammunition room and magazine were also flooded with water.
