Mayor Gourley's Effort Toward-a Meeting Between the Building Trade-Disputants

HAS A SUCCESSFUL TERMINATION.

Master Builders Met & Last Night and Accepted the Invitation to a Conference

SENT THEM BY THE STRIKE COMMITTEE.

The Outcome Eagerly Watched for by Citizens as Well as Workers.

Mayor Gonriey's friendly effortsto bring about a conference between the masters and journeymen in the building trades dispute has been thoroughly successful, for a cor ference between the Master Builders' Association and the Strikers' Committee will be held this afternoon. The Mayor in view two parties together-and he never contem-plated mixing himself up in the dispute. When the announcement appeared in yesterday's Disparch that the Mayor would write to each side and ask them to call on him with the view of trying to bring about a conference, public attention became more centered on the strike than ever. The Mayor's action was held to be justiwhat the chief official of a city who had the interest of his constituents at heart-should do, to strive to effect some semlement of a strike of seven weeks' standing to-day, which was exercis-ing a very depressing effection business in a

Effect of the Mayor's Proposition.

The announcement in The Disparch fore stalled by several hours the letters which the Mayor said he would write, and both sides quickly realized what was the best course to pursue under the circumstances. At the strikers' headquarters Mayor Gourey's action was warmly praised and received a ready response in a communication sent to the Master Builders' Association, stating that the men were willing and ready to meet the masters in conference. At the Exchange the request for a conference was discussed and turned over to the Builders' Association, to be acted upon at the latter's Association, to be acted upon at the latter's regular meeting this evening.

Early yesterday morning the Mayor sent a letter to President Barnes, of the Builders' Exchange, and one to A. M. Swartz, of the Carpenters' Union, requesting them to call at his office. Mr. Swartz came at 2 o'clock P. M., accompanied by Mr. Davis. They informed the Mayor that they had already sent word to the master carpenters to the effect that they were willing to hold a conference at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Later in the day Mr. Barnes had a long talk with the Mayor. When asked the result of his efforts Mayor Gourley said:

Both Sides Respond Promptly.

"Both sides responded promptly to my re-quest to talk with them, and each explained their side of the question. I understand from what they say that both are willing and anxious to confer on the difficulty, which I was very glad to hear. Since it is alroady apparent they will meet to-morrow afternoon, I do not feel it my duty to do anything more in the matter. It was not my intention to obtrade myself upon them, but only in the interest of themselves and the city to see whether or not some amicable agreement could be reached. This I did on the understanding that while the desire to effect a settlement was mutual, each side was backward about making the first advance, fearing the other would imarine them weakening. Now that they have agreed to a conference, I see no reason for further action on my part. Those who criticise what I have done are laboring under a misconception of my intent, but the gentlemen with whom I talked to-day understand my motives fully." How the Builders Took Action.

The Builders' Exchange did not accept the Mayor's suggestion with any degree of friendliness, and members were pretty free in expressing opinions to the effect that his Honor's "interference," as it was termed, was uncalled for. The letter was handed to the directory for action, and they deemed it advisable that Mr. Barnes should see the Mayor, as he requested.
The Master Builders' Association met last

ting to consider the request of the jour-nen for a conference. This it was de-d to grant, and an intimation to that cided to grant, and an intimation to that effect was ordered forwarded.

The statement made in yesterday's Disparsion regarding a carpenter who had been offered an advance of $10 if he would return to work, and had refused it, was angrily denied yesterday by the Exchange, which is willing to offer a reward for evidence against any member who has offered even $2 advance to any carpenter. There is strong probability that this evidence will be forthcoming.

One of the most notable changes will be the adding of two Sunday trains, one be the adding of two Sunday trains, one each way, between Cleveland and Pittsburg—something never before known in the history of the road. They will be fully equipped and make the run in four hours.

During the life of J. N. McCullough he would not permit Sunday trains to run on the road, but the new managers see the necessity for them, and have concluded to try them during the summer. Fast time can be made, as no other trains will run on that day, thus obvinting the delays caused by taking sidings, waiting orders, etc.

WORTH A SILVER SPOON.

A Swarm of Bees That Didn't Get Away Very Far-Their Former Hive Offered to Their Captor-Italian Immigrants of a Pauper Kind. This is a great country, and Pittsburg is as great in its way and as metropolitan in char-acter as the country itself. Not only are the Italians swarming hither, as a haven of work and refuge, in large numbers, but even the Italian bees have caught the idea, on the wing, as it were, and are acting accordingly. A swarm of Italian bees that settled in the rocks, near the Union depot Monday, has found that this is a land flowing with milk and honey.

It was left for a Disparch reporter, who doesn't pretend to be more than an amateur in the wisdom of bees, to trace the wanderings of that swarm and to clear up the mystery of their sudden appearance from-no one knows where.

Mr. Johnson, their captor, was right as to their nationality. They came from a well-known apiarist in Friendship, N. Y., and for a month past had been on exhibition in the groof summer garden of Harry Davis'
'Museum. There, in an observation hive, they had been industriously working. Their operations had been watched through they had been industriously working. Their operations had been watched through the glass sides of the hive by many curious and interested spectators. They had been privileged guests, and made welcome to go and come as they pleased. In the ripeness of time they decided to swarm the other day and to "seek fresh fields and pastures new." It was thus, through an open window and with no obstacles in their way, that they hied away.

Manager Carlisle, however, says that not only is Mr. Johnson entitled to his bees for his pains (although it is not reported that he only is Mr. Johnson entitled to his bees for his pains (although it is not reported that he received any stings), but that he can also have the special hive designed for their use by applying for it. This prize is offered as perhaps even more appropriate than a silver spoon, which the old rhyme has it a swarm in June is worth. The lines are doubtless

A swarm in May is worth a ton of hay; A swarm in June is worth a silver spoon; A swarm in July isn't worth a fly.

RELIEF TO BE GAINED FROM RECORDS

Eighty-six degrees was the highest point reached yesterday. A good wind was blow-ing, yet it was one of those days which would drive men to try their chances in another world, were it not for the faint hope that, somewhere within the weary waste of years to come, some method may be found by which the powers of the sun can be curbed at will. A glance over the signal service records for the past 20 years also serves to soften the present condition. On July 9, 1876, the thermometer indicated a temperature of 101 degrees, and it has done the same since, on July 18, 1878, and on July 17, 1887. The hottest day on record was July 10, 1881, when the mer cury, in its ardent worship of the sun god, lovingly kissed the marks at 103°. With such a record a mere matter of 86° is not regarded as anything. The only fear is that history will repeat itself later on. Yesterday morning there was a rainfall of .24 of an inch. Between 2 o'clock and 5 it showered continually and again between 11 and 12 o'clock another slight shower blessed the earth but disappeared almost as rapidly as it fell. At 5 o'clock vesterday morning the records showed 72°. At,8 this was in creased to 75°, and four hours later it was 77° At 4 o'clock the maximum was reached, and an hour later it had dropped one degree.

Spiced With a Dash of Rain. From that on the drop was continual. At 7:30 one of the hardest rains of the year poured down until the streets ran like rivers and nedestrians ran like mad. It did not last over three-quarters of an hour, but the over three-quarters of an hour, but the ground was thoroughly drenched and likewise everyone exposed to the rain's fury. Owing to the suddenness of the storm but few people were prepared, and men and women could be seen scurrying in all directions. People on the street cars rode away past their homes rather than get out and breast the storm. One plucky woman on a Pleasant Valley car, however, tried it at Lacock and Anderson streets. She started to run, but the rain blinded her and she fell in the middle of the street, while between the dashes of rain was presented a scene of in the middle of the street, while between the dashes of rain was presented a scene of of fluttering white and struggling arms. In the parks the avenues were filled with water, and cronething under one tree could be seen a solitary man clutching an umbrella in one hand and his lady companion with the other. Another storm followed in the half hour which preceded 11 o'clock. During this one similar scenes were presented, but no one minded them because the air had assumed a quality of coolness that was positively refreshing. reshing. At the same hour that the first storm swep

At the same hour that the first storm swept over the downtown portion of the city and Allegheny, the East End was visited by a very peculiar storm. The rain area seemed to cover the East End, leaving Soho and Hazelwood dry. In the East End the rain fell in torrents, flooding cellars and sewers, while in Soho and Hazelwood there was not a drop to moisten the earth.

Nothwithstanding the fact that only 86° was registered at the Signal Service Burcau, down on the streets the mercury was making calls among the nineties with disastrous effect to the public health. Deaths are being reported at the Bureau of Health almost as rapidly as during the grip siege. There is a remarkable death rate among the infants and aged people, and most of it is traceable to the heat. So far this month there have been 20 deaths reported, while for the entire month of June last year there were 506 deaths recorded.

Four of the number were 80 years

So far this week 90 deaths have been reported. Seven were caused by cholera infantum; pneumonia, 7; convulsions, 6; heat, 3; cholera morbus, 1, and cerebrospinal meningitis, 6.

In order to prevent any inroads against the health of the city, Superintendent Baker is making every effort to have the city in perfect order. He believes much harm is done by the open garbage wagons, especially those which drop portions of their loads along the streets. Yesterday he had four violators of the health laws arrested. They were Stephen Travis, Sol Ellis, loads along the streets. Testerday he had four violators of the health laws arrested. They were Stephen Travis, Sol Ellis, Robert Solsom and John Turner, colored drivers of garbage wagons for an East End refuse company. They have been driving wagons loaded with garbage through the streets, and the wagons being in bad condition their contents leaked out and ran over the pavements, creating a stench that was not only unhealthful but unbearable. The defendants will have a hearing before Alderman Richards.

In the milis yesterday the heat was still so great that many of the Lawrenceville and Southside factories had to close down. Over it Allegheny Mayor McLaughlin, of the Health Bureau, is taking every precaution to prevent disease. Yesterday he fined six people for maintaining nuisances. He has also ordered the residents of Butcher's Run to clean up their premises.

He was taken to a house nearby and a physician called, who pronounced his condition serious. Later in the day he recovered sufficiently to be taken to his home on Spring street, Twenty-seventh ward.

During yesterday afternoon Henry Bleechler, of East street, visited the Allegheny Delinquent Tax Collector's office. One named Greer, who presides there, was wiping the streams of sweat that sprung from that portion of his head where the hair had persistently refused to grow. In the same way the man who holds a fan in one hand and a thermometer in the other adds at least five degrees to the temperature through worry. The girls tendent Baker, of the agency. The girls were clad in cheap cotton gowns and wore red striped shawls over their shoulders, while the boys wore rough suits. They were stared at by a curious and ill-mannered crowd while waiting their train.

Mr. Baker says he has 130 children under his charge at the agency. He finds them apt to learn and they are very docile. Four female teachers assist him in the work. The number of children at Carlisle now is about 150.

TO CUT DOWN WAGES. duce the Cost of Labor.

A little cloud is creeping up on the horizon of the window glass manufacturers' future. It takes the form of a prospective struggle between the owners and workers when the yearly scale is presented next month. There is an understanding among the manufact urers that an united effort must be made this year to cut down the cost of labor by at least 10 per cent, What view the Window Glass

10 per cent, What view the Window Glass Workers' Association will take remains to be seen, but there is a strong assumption it will resist it.

The object in reducing the wages in the Western district is to place the Western manufacturers on terms of equality with their Eastern brethren, who pay 10 per cent less wages than obtains here. A reduction in the cost will also enable them to compete more successfully with the foreign glass, and incidentally give the manufacturer more profit. When the question comes up for discussion after the annual shutdown on the list prox., it will be found to require some vigorous debating before either side will yield on its point.

Stocks of glass are lower this year than during the corresponding period last year, and the prospects for the fall business are regarded as good, if no difficulty arises on the wage question.

VENOMOUS LITTLE SNAKES.

Vipers Found in England and Many Other Countries.

In England the only venomous snake is the viper, which frequents chalky districts, and is not to be found all over the country. Perhaps these vipers are the most commo and vicious of the smaller snakes, seldom growing longer than two feet. They abound not only in warm countries, where forests are thick and men are few, but also in the coldest regions of Sweden, Norway, Russia and even Siberia, where, according to the Illustrated American, a great many exist owing to a stupid superstition among the peasants that if a viper is killed a terrible misfortune will soon befall the rash slayer.

The California viper builds itself a little mud hut, just its own length, and probably half an inch thicker than its own body. It is made of earth, fine gravel and sometime leaves are mixed in the construction of this curious abode. It is lined with a soft, silky substance, finer than cotton and silkier that down. At each end there are two little doors, and when monsieur la maitre is half way in one shuts, and when all the way in the other closes, leaving the master of the house as isolated and exclusive as Robinson Crusee on his desert island. LONGEVITY AND BEER.

What Statistics Taken in Munich Establis

in Regard to Health. The annual beer product of the world is about 17,700,000,000 quarts. The amount of beer for each person in the beer-drinking countries of the world is between 42 and 43 quarts annually. In Germany, however, the allowance to every man, woman and child in the empire is more than twice that quantity. In Bavaria the allowance is 219 quarts, in Munich 565 quarts. After deducting from the city's population the children under the beer-drinking age, and the majority of the women, the result is that the allowance of every man is about 434

This astounding condition of affairs has led medical men in Germany to investigate almost constantly in recent years the effects of exceessive beer-drinking on the health. The men and women who keep beer places in Munich, as the heaviest beer consumers in the world, were the subjects of such a medical investigation last spring. The average lifetime of persons in Munich who pass the 20th year in good health is 53 years. The average lifetime is for Proprietors of beer saloons..... Proprietresses of beer saloons..... Brewers.

The significance of these figures can be better understood in view of the fact that, in Munich, men who keep wine rooms live but 49 years, and women who keep wine

TAKING OUT WHALEBONE.

The Big Blades Are Cut Loose From the Gums With Dull Spades.

Boston Herald, 1 The greatest weight of whalebone ever taken from one whale was 4,400 pounds. The whale was taken by the bark Antelope, Captain George Taber, in 1863, and the bone was a wonder. Whales are generally said to yield eight to ten pounds of bone for every barrel of oil, but there is no certainty every barrel of oil, but there is no certainty in this calculation. The whale taken by Captain Taber only yielded 140 barrels, for he was very lean and sick.

The whalebone blades are taken out by cutting through the gum around the root with whalemen's spades. Dull ones are used preferably, in order not to cut or scratch the face of the plate. The gum is white, though tough, and cuts like curd. By cutting down from six to eight inches the plate can be torn from the gristle, or the plate can be torn from the gristle, or vacular formation, which holds it, entering the end of the plate as a thin strip for a few

A MOLE IN CAPTIVITY.

It Lived for Three Days on Oatmeal in the Thumb of a Mitten.

Chambers' Journal.] An lady naturalist contradicts the general opinion that moles are entirely carnivorous, are exceeding rapacious and will die if left longer than eight or ten hours without food. HUNTING IN AUSTRALIA.

Sportsmen Run a Risk of Being Eaten Up by

Flies and Ants. One of the great drawbacks to hunting life in Australia, says Pugitis and Slavin, in a recent newspaper article, are the flies. You have to wear a veil or you will be eaten up with the nasty insects. They are lengthy discussion before their adoption, if they should be accepted. The memorandum of agreement has another clause tacked onto it this year. It runs as follows: The time in scrapping and busheling, also finishing and all other departments, shall in no case exceed nine (9) hours from the time the first heat is charged until charging shall cease. This is not to apply to boiling departments (except scrapping and busheling), also rod mills, wire mills, nut and bolt works, and other depart ments working under the eight (8) hour ant Day at McKeesport.

Practically a Nine-Hour Day. Joseph D. Weeks, in commenting on this, says that the clause practically provides for a nine-hour day in many departments of the mill. The effect of this clause will differ mill. The effect of this clause will differ greatly in different mills on different days. The atmospheric conditions may be such on a given day as to make the nine hours too short for producing the tonnage which the proprietor would have a right to expect, in view of his investment in plant. Over these conditions neither the employer nor employed has any control, but a furnace may be badly designed or constructed, and a workman may be an inferior hand. In these cases the furnace should be improved on one side and the workman on the other.

Section 3 in this year's scale has been emone side and the workman on the other.
Section 3 in this year's scale has been embodied in Section 2 of the new, and with an alteration which is regarded as leaving many loopholes forgrievances. The change consists of the following: "By the word majority is meant, a majority of the furnaces working hard iron, inferior coal, tools and scarcity of ore and scrap, or any of them, shall be considered a grievance."

Fearful of Complications. Regarding this Mr. Weeks says there are nore strikes and contests hidden in this clause than in any clause that ever was put into a scale. He asks who is to deter what is inferior coal or tools? and what is a scarcity of ore? He says that this clause is a what is inferior coal or tools? and what is a scarcity of ore? He says that this clause is a storm center.

Three hundred delegates to the convention journeyed down to McKeesport yesterday afternoon in pursuance of a hospitable invitation extended them by the McKeesport delegates. The party arrived at McKeesport at 4:30, when they formed into a procession headed by the McKeesport Second Ward Drum and Fife Corps, and marched via Fifth avenue and Market street to the rink. Mayor Tilbrook was waiting to receive the city's guests. Mr. Logan, of McKeesport, had charge of the meeting and duly introduced the Mayor to the assembly. In opening the proceedings Mayor Tilbrook said that if it was any hotter at the furnaces than it was there he didn't want to work at them. He, as representative of the citizens of McKeesport, had welcomed many delegations on previous occasions to that city, but he could safely say that never before had he had greater pleasure than in extending the hospitality of the city to the members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers. McKeesport had risen in property, and only a few months ago it was created a city of the third class. As first Mayor of the city he had very great pleasure, indeed, in welcoming to McKeesport the delegates of an Association whose members had done so much to build up the present commercial importance of the city. Without the strong arm of the iron and steel worker the city could not long continue to exist.

Response of President Weihe. President Weihe responded on behalf of the Association. The delegates would always remember, he said, with pleasure the reception accorded to them by the first Mayor of McKeesport, Messrs, McIlvay, of Youngstown, O.; Kilgallon, of Pittsburg; Garland, of Pittsburg; Doherty, of Pittsburg; Jones, of Steelton, and Doherty, of Pittsburg; Jones, of Steelton, and Carney, of Pittsburg, also spoke. They were followed by Mr. Logan, of McKeesport, who said that the best of the conference had been mainly arranged with the object of strengthening the union of McKeesport. He claimed that the trouble which existed between the National Tube and the National Rolling Companies and the association had been in a large measure due to the action of some members of the association themselves. There were plenty of good men in McKeesport who thought it was a good enough piace to make a living in, but not good enough in which to belong to a union. This, he hoped, would be altered in the coming years, and the visit of the delegates to the convention would have a most beneficial effect.

At 6 o'clock the party proceeded to Homeor the delegates to the convention would have a most beneficial effect.

At 6 o'clock the party proceeded to Homestead, where, under the guidance of Superintendent Potts, the party made a tour of the buildings, and the working of the various departments. In the evening the delegates assembled in the Homestead Opera House, where refreshments had been arranged for by the First district. Vice-President William Carney bade the visitors welcome in the name of the workers and people of Homestead, to the entertainment of the evening. John Kilgannon responded to the invitation on behalf of the delegates to the National Association. Mr. Carney, in introducing Representative D. A.

delegates to the National Association. Mr. Carney, in introducing Representative D. A. Jones, of Pennsylvania, as the first speaker, paid a high tribute to that gentleman. Mr. Jones reviewed the conditions, past and present, of the works in a very happy speech. He was followed by John F. Cox. H. Kilgannon and Jeremiah Doberty in short addresses. A motion of thanks to the Homestead district was moved by Mr. McIlvay and carried by acclamation. Mr. Coyle, of Homestead, responded. During the evening musical selections were given by various members of the convention.
