Short or long skirts is becoming a very interesting question. It hangs in the balsince; which way will the verdict incline? There are those who say the sweeping we have done for six months with our petticonts is as nothing when weighed against the more thorough-going sweeping we shall yet do. There are also those who assert that sks are to have circles cut from about them until they show not only ankles but something more. The first opinion seems based on a pessimism born of a knowledge of the total depravity of tashion, and the second, so far as it has been investigated, is nothing more than a deduction, more or less intelligent, from the fact that white stock-

LICENSE TRANSFERS.

Only Two Granted by the Court Yesterday-Why One Was Refused and Another Held Over for a Week-Tips From the Judges. Judges Slagle and Collier yesterday heard four applications for the transfer of liquor licenses. Two were granted. They were transfers from Samuel Tate to V. Gantor, No. 58 South Twelfth street, and Henry Mackin to Fred and Philip Arch, No. 65 Federal street, Allegheny.

The application for a transfer of the li-cense of John Lanahan, 4315 and 4317 Butler street, to Amelia and William Holsinger was refused. The reason was that Lanahan's intention to go out of the business was only dependent on the court granting the transfer, which, it was maintained, was not sufficient under the rule of the court.

The matter of the transfer of the license of H. J. Meyer, No. 101 Madison avenue, to Louis Wehn was held over until next Friday. Meyer has an application on file to have another license transferred to him, and the rule of the court is that a man must intend to get out of the business entirely before the transfer of his license will be considered. DRAPING THE APT CALLEDIES yesterday that this year's art display will be the finest yet shown in this city. "We will notify exhibitors in the other departments of the space assigned them within a few days," he said, "so that there can be no excuse for anyone not being fully ready on the opening day."
