A PROTEST ENTERED

Against the Bering Sea Agreement by an Aggrieved Company.

ITS FUR SEAL RIGHTS INVADED.

A -Contract With the Government That Cannot Be Set Aside

BY ENGLAND OR THE UNITED STATES WASHINGTON, June 19.-The North American Commercial Company, through its attorney, Judge N. T. Jeffries, has filed a protest with Acting Secretary Spaulding, of the Treasury Department, in which it recites that it has the right to take fur seals from the islands of St. Paul and St. George for the period of 20 years from May 1, 1890, and that it has and will continue to perform the stipulations of its lease. The company states that it was assured a quota of 60,000 sealskins during 1890, and upon such mitted until an amalgamation has been assurance submitted its bid at three times the amount paid by a former lessee. Upon the acceptance of the lease the company made a large outlay in buildings and provisions, and arranged for transporting the 60,000 sealskins to San Francisco.

The company says that it was compelled to cease taking seals on the 20th day of July, when the sealing season had not expired, and only one-third of the quota of skins had been been season. pired, and only one-third of the quota or skins had been obtained, and the company was further prohibited from taking any ad-ditional number during said year. On this account the company has sustained a loss of Protesting Against the Order. The company further represents that at the time it was compelled to stop taking seals at said islands it earnestly protested against such action by the United States and has continued to protest, and now again submits this, its formal protest, against the ac-tion of the United States in preventing it from taking the quota of sealskins it had a right to take by law and by the terms of aid contract.

The company submits that it is justly en titled to receive from the United States such sum as will compensate it for the loss it has sustained on account of the action of the United States, as aforesaid, and gives notice to the Secretary of the Treasury that it will claim to be reimbursed by the United States to the full amount of the loss it may sustain by reason or its being prohibited by the United States from taking it full quota of 60,000 sealskins during the year 1891. The company further represents that in pro-viding for the maintenance and education of the inhabitants of the islands of St. Paul and St. George it has expended the sum of $150,000, for which it has not been reim-

Interference by England Not Legal. The company respectfully invites the at-tention of the Secretary of the Treasury to the fact that the islands of St. Paul and St. George in Alaska belong to and are in the undisputed possession of the United States; that the right of this Government to dispose of the fur seals born on said islands has never been questioned. This being so, said company assumes that the right of the United States or its lessee to take fur seals on said islands, within our unquestioned jurisdiction, is beyond dispute and not sub-ject to question or interference by England

r any other foreign state. The right of this Government to take fur seals on its own territory is not one of the questions to be submitted to arbitration questions to be submitted to arbitration and has no relation to the contention be-tween the two countries. In that dispute Great Britain affirms and the United States denies the right of English and Canadian peachers to slaughter fur seals in "our part of Bering Sea; and this company re-spectfully insists that an agreement between the two Governments, set forth in the President's proclamation, in so far as it pro-hibits said company from taking its lawful quota of sealskins is in contravention of ested rights of this company and subjects it to great loss." Standing by Its Lawful Rights. If it be assumed, as England has asserted, nd this Government has denied, that the is the "high seas," the company respect-fully submits that it is not competent for Great Britain and the United States alone, or for any other two governments, to determine who shall be permitted to navigate these waters or to prohibit fishing or taking seals on the high seas.

The company respectfully points out to the Honorable Secretary of the Treasury The commencement exercises of the senior that its rights have been overlooked by said greement between the two Governments, in that it deprives the lessee from taking seals which it is authorized to take by law and by its contract with the United States, thereby inflicting a severe loss upon said company, in order to obtain the consent of England to arbitrate the question, as to the right of Canadian poachers to destroy the fur seal industry by pelagic sealing.

Over a Hundred Cases Reported by Doctors Yesterday in Wilkinsburg.

The ravages of measles in Wilkinsburg nave assumed the proportions of almost an epidemic. In one short block on South street there are a dozen cases, and throughout the borough it is estimated there are over 100. The disease has spread with customary rapidity, whole families being down with it at once. So far there have been no fatalities, although during the present hot weather there is always danger of complications that may end in death. Cholera infantum has also been very bad in the borough, physicians being in constant requisition. It is to their credit that very of the cases have ended in the death of the little sufferers. The grip has not been quite cleared out of the borough yet. The physicians report an occasional case, but

HE BUNKOED AN M. P.

And Was So Slick About It That the Victim Only Admires Him. "Although I am the youngest member of the House of Commons," said P. G. Harrison, M. P. for Tipperary, to a New York correspondent recently, "I always thought until I came to this country that I was shrewd enough to keep out of the hands of the festive bunko steerer, yet I hadn't been in New York two weeks before I fell a victim to the wiles of as spruce a young man as I should care to meet. I dislike to dwell upon that experience. It was not pleasant to have the conceit taken out of me by meeting a man who had honesty written in his face and the broth of sincerity on his tongue.

"I only lost a few pounds, not enough to cause me any inconvenience, but I should like to meet the young man again just the like to meet the young man again, just the same. His game? Well, never mind; you'd laugh at me if I told. Probably the experience I had was worth the money, and I would like to assure that young man of a fortune awaiting him in London and Dublin. He would create a sensation in either of those cities, because his kind is very rare there. There is just one consoling thought about the whole business. He said he was an Irishman, and every native of the old sod ought to be proud of the fact. He would re-flect credit on any country."

NEGROES TURNING WHITE.

The Case in Baltimore Is Nothing

Than Real Leprosy. The negro girl of Baltimore who is turning white has the true leprosy-the leprosy we read of in the Bible, says an old traveler in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. When I was first pointed out a leper in this country I was surprised and thought my informant was in error. The leprosy that rages in the East is precisely the same as the unknown disease of the Baltimore negress.

In India, where lepers are numerous, they are snow white, and their naked bodies glisten in the sun as do the scales of fish. Leprosy first shows itself on the hands. Small white spots declare themselves, and if care is not taken those spots cover the entire surface of the body. They grow whiter and scales form, and, as the Bible says, "white as a leper."

THE PLANS FOR THE AERIAL VOYAGE

PHILADELPHIA, June 19 .- To cross the Atlantic is the enterprising mission upon which a balloon will start from Germantown within the next week or two. The balloon will not carry any passengers, but it is intended to pilot the way for a monster airship that will carry at least two voyagers. The inventor of this new airship is Charles P. Fest, of 4555 Lena street, Germantown. Mr. Fest has been working on the problem of aerial navigation for the past 50 years, and is now convinced that he has solved it. He is an eminently practical business man, and works at his invention at odd hours. He has tried every scheme of aerial naviga-

The experimental machine that will be started across the Atlantic is completed, and is a great at the law of the la and is an exact model of the larger one that is expected to later carry over the inventor. The hot gas that will inflate the bag will be generated from gasoline, which is chosen on tion that has been suggested in the past decade and a half, and has reached the conclusion that all schemes of propulsion by machinery are impracticable. The air cur-

The bag is made of a preparation of paper and is rigged so that it cannot sway and come in contact with the flame. This flame will be constant, and experiments show that the ten gallons will last just 40 hours, or ten hours longer, according to Mr. Fest's calculations, than will be necessary to carry the airship across the Atlantic. The gas bag on the pioneer balloon measures 22½ feet in diameter. Underneath the oil can has been suspended a copper buoy shaped like a big top and weighted at the bottom, so that it will float in the water in an upright position. It is surmounted by an American flag and is suspended by a hook that will unfasten if it comes in con-tact with the water. This will be filled with directions to be returned, if found. This will only become detached in case of accident and in the unexpected event of the balloon falling in the water. Only Floating Power Needed. Mr. Fest declares that it has been clearly Mr. Fest declares that it has been clearly proven that there is a constant air current to the east that will waft his airship across the ocean in 40 hours at the outside, and the only problem that has prevented aeronauts from crossing the ocean before has been that of keeping a balloon up sufficiently long to make the voyage. The existence of these currents was shown by Professor Wise when he made his trip from St. Louis to New York, and he then declared that he could cross the ocean if he could only keep his airship affoat.

Mr. Fest thinks that he has solved this problem by providing a constant and uniform supply of hot gas. The size of the oil receptacle can be expanded to almost any tions that w fuel to keep affoat for a long time. Mr. Fest has already sent up over 200 small balloons made on this principle, so that his calculations are based on reliable data.

The date for sending the balloon on its transatlantic trip has not yet been fixed but will be decided on shortly. It will probably be before the Fourth of July. The gas bag will be decorated with the shield of the United States, for, although Mr. Fest was born in Germany, he is a veteran of the war and an intense American. "I want America to have the glory of solving this

THE ART OF SHEDDING TRADS arah Bernhardt Can Not Cry and She Wi Never Learn How.

Ellen Terry in New York Herald, ] I do not say that the absence of tears show a lack of feeling. For instance, the greatest of living actresses, Sarah Bernhardt, spoke upon this very subject with me at our first meeting, which was on the Lyceum stage after a performance of "Iolanthe" (King Rene's daughter). The scene was still set. It is a garden. Dear me! how she dazzled and interested me! She flitted here and there, pretending to smell the flowers-she rustled and rustled-shimmer-shimmer went her dress- and flit-flt went she. It made me think the garden was real-my own stage garden that I had been acting in.

own stage garden that I had been acting in.

She seemed to me a butterfly, and I—an elephant! I did feel heavy, dull and stupid by the side of her. It was the first time I had met her—off the stage.

She chattered away all the while in French, since she couldn't in English, and hereby showed her wit, all the time charm ing us—or me, at all events—and holding the situation most completely. I remember that evening (when she left off flitting, and that evening (when she left off flitting, and proved to me she was not really a butterfly by eating some asparagus for supper after the play) she spoke to me about my real tears in King Rene's daughter, not with surprise, but with interest and sympathy, and told me she could not cry. But I know that she felt like crying, though her tears did not come. "It is a very penurious and skeptical love which must understand before it can sympathize." Although I did not see "I heard her tears," and knew they were in her soul. No! despite all that Diderot and her soul. No! despite all that Diderot and even M. Coquelin have said to the contrary, I do not believe that an actress can really move her audience unless she is herself affected by certain passages. But to teach the art of shedding tears is as impossible as it is to teach the art of feeling.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH, 1 New York, June 19 .- Colonel Alexander McComb Mason is in New York on his way to Chicago to consult with the directors of the World's Fair on behalf of the city of Cairo, Egypt. Colonel Mason, who is known in Egypt as Mason Bey, has been in the service of the Khedive for several years, and is a Colonel in the Egyptian army. Mason Bey has done a good deal of exploring on the Upper Nile and around the Albert Lake. He told THE DISPATCH correspondent to-day that it is 14 years since he was all but at the place where Stanley camped when he saw the Mountains of the Moon. At that time Mason Bey was on a small steamer exploring the Albert Lake. He was working along the western coast in the summer of 1877, but the nature of his work was such that he made no long stops, and the conditions of the atmosphere never happened to be favorable for the appear-ance of the mountains.

It was in June, 1889, that Stanley camped almost on the western beach of the lake, and there it was that the Mountains of the Moon appeared to him to his great delight and the equally great delight and astonish-ment of his Zanzibar carriers.
