More Light Thrown on the Meaning of Late Liquor Legislation

BY A-PERUSAL OF THE DOCUMENTS

Much Interest Evinced by Those Whom It So Greatly Affects.

SOME VIEWS OF LOCAL LEGAL LIGHTS

Law Librarian Digby was besieged yeste day by a large number of people. They were those interested directly and indirectly in the liquor traffic. Mr. Digby had just come into possession of a copy law regulating the business of distillers, brewers, wholesale dealers and bottlers, those interested being anxious to get a sight of the regulation which is hereafter to gov-ern more stringently the hitherto partially free class than retailers are now governed. As Judge Wilson, of Philadelphia, has already construed the new law, approved on the 8th ultimo, as applicable in a considera-ble measure to those will tely got license, and as a number of laters here and else-where are of the same opinion, a full resume of interest, and here it is:

A Salient Feature of the Law.

cetion 1 fixes the license on wholesale dealers, brewers, distillers, rectiflers, com-pounders and storekeepers in cities of the st and second classes at $1,000 a year, third class cities at $500, boroughs, $200, and townships at $100, to be paid in the State Treasury for the benefit of the Commonwealth.

Bottiers in all classes of cities to pay $100, $200 in boroughs and $100 in townships. Distillers and brewers are allowed to distribute their products within the county where their license is granted, but their delivery wagons must be marked on the sides with the name of the license and number of his license in letters and figures not less than four tracks in length.

four inches in length. Section 2 says that licenses can be granted Sention 2 says that licenses can be granted only by the Court of Quarter Sessions, for one year, the court to fix the time, at which time all persons making objections shall be heard by evidence. No rectifier, compounder distiller or manufacturer is allowed to sell in less quantity than a gallon. Whole-salers and storekeepers cannot sell spirituous or vinous liquors in less quantity than a quart, and browed or malt liquor in less quantities than 12 pint bottles. Brewers and bottlers are also similarly restrained. The liquor sold is not allowed to be drunk on the premises of the seller, nor in any pince provided by him for the purpose. Section 3 provides that petitions for license to sell must be filed with the Clerk of the Quarter Sessions Court at least three weeks before the first day of the session, and pay 8s for expenses necessary to inform the public of the would-be seller's desire, and the clerk must publish the same three times in two newspapers, giving a list of applicants, their residences and the places for which application is made. The first application must be made in less than 15 normore than 25 days prior to the time fixed by the court to hear applications.

Provisions of a Petition.

Provisions of a Petition.

tion 4 provides that the petition shall ontain the name and place of residence of he applicant; second, the particular place which the license is desired; third, place birth of the applicant and, if naturalized, the place where; fourth, name of the owner of the premises; fifth, that the place to be censed is necessary for the accommodation the public (this provision does not apply a distiller or brewer); sixth, that none of to a distiller or brewer); sixth, that none of the applicants are in any manner interested peruniarily in the profits of the business conducted at any other place in the county, but it does not prevent distillers and brewers from taking out a wholesale license; that the applicant is the only person pecuniarily interested in the place for which license is asked, and that no other shall be so interested during the continuance of the license in force; ninth, the applicant must set forth whether he had a license revoked during the portion of the year preceding this application; tenth, the applicant must have two sureties, responsible freeholders, in the county, the property of each being worth more than £,000 above incumbrances, and which would sell for that much at public sale, and must state that he is not interested in the manufacture of any of the liquors above numerated, and, hally and eleventhly, the petition must be verified by the affidavit of the applicant before the Clerk of the Court, or a magistrate or notary public or justice of the peace, and if any false statement is willfully made the applicant is to be deemed guilty of perjury, and on indictment and convertion sublect to all the mains and pene applicants are in any manner interested guilty of perjury, and on indictment and conviction subject to all the pains and pen-aities of such offense.

As to a Petitioner's Character.

ection 5 provides that at least 12 qualified electors shall certify that they have been acquainted with the applicant and have good reason to believe that the statements June 27 shows a total of 123 deaths. The principal causes of death were: Choleraic diarrhea, from which 28 died; pneumonia, 7; the petition are true, and in consequence my for the granting of the petition and that diptheria, 5; cerebro spinal fever, 6; phthisis

Section 6 provides that the Quarter Ses-sions Court shall hear petitions from resi-dents of the county in addition to that of the applicant for and against, and in all cases applicant for and against, and in all cases reduse beense whenever in the opinion of the Court—having due regard to the number and character of the petitioners for and against—as to the necessity of the breense asked for for the accommodation of the publicand as to the fitness of the applicant to fill the requirements, and if sufficient cause or proof be shown that the party holding a license has violated any aw of this Commonwealth as to the sale of disport, holding a license has violated any aw of this Commonwealth as to the sale of disport, the Court shall, on due notice being riven, revoke his license.

liquors, the Court shall, on due notice being given, revesce his license.
Section 7 says that neglect to pay to the City or County Treasurer the sum directed in sections 1 or 3 within 15 days after an application is granted must be held to work a revocation of the license. The licensee must also file with the Clerk of the Court the receipt of the Treasurer, and in default the Clerk nust mark the said application and court "Recogned."

When Liens May Be Issued. ction 8, and last, provides that license shall not issue to any person or persons until he, she or they shall have executed a bond to the Commonwealth, and a warrant of atterney to confess judgment in the penal sum of $2,000 with two sufficient sureties to be approved by the court granting such license, conditioned for the faithful performance of all the laws of this Commonwealth relating to selling or furnishing of vinous, spirituous, mait or brewed liquors, or any admixture thereof, and to pay all damages which may be recovered in any action which may be instituted against him, her or them under the provisions of any act of Assembly, and all costs, fines and penalties which may be imposed upon him, or her, or them under any indictment for violating this act, or any other act of Assembly relating to selling or furnishing liquors as aforesaid, and the said bond shall be filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court for the use and benefit of all of attorney to confess judgment in the penal of said Court for the use and benefit of all persons interested therein.

persons interested therein.

Judge Fetterman said vesterday he had no doubt that the law was operative at present and since the date of its approval in everything except the amount paid for license, which will not be operative until mother year. Judge Fetterman expressed no opinion as to the merits or demerits of the bill.

In the bill.

Lawyers generally who have been interested in the settlement of liquor-trade cases are more or less dissatisfied with the new law, but some of them are extremely chary or expressing themselves. For instance, John S. Robb looked mutterable things, which could not be caught in the visitor's phonograph, but he did finally say that the object might be, and probably was, to kill the fillegal trade of some wholeselers who persisted in doing a retail business, to the detriment of salounkeepers.

Not Quite So Conservative.

Not Quite So Conservative

C. F. McKenna was not so conservative and after premising that a lawyer could not give much of an opinion on such patch-work he went on to say that the law was very ambiguous and repugnant legislation. In the first place the court that sits on a In the first place the court that sits on a license application must be satisfied, that a louse in the locality named is for the accommodation of the public. Were the drinking community and traveling meant this would be understandable, but the public here mentioned would seem to be the people interestioned would seem to be the people interested in the retail trade, as the general public is supposed to patronize wholesale houses to but a limited extent, if they be conducted according to either the old or the new law. Further along the accommodation of the general public is a measure forbidden. according to either the old or the new law.
Further along the accommodation of the general public is in a measure forbidden, as the wholesaler is not allowed to furnish any accommodation for consumption. Again, it must be interpreted as a diversion in favor of glass manufacturers, as sales in certain cases must be in bottles, it being inferentially supposable that the same quantity sold in jugs would not be allowable. This is a discrimination not only against potters, but timeers as well. Then Mr. McKenna observes that the provision as to perjury is loosely drawn, no distinction being made between statements material and these immaterial, and a careless notary or justice of the peace may involve an innocent man, who cannot draw fine legal distinctions. As to police power exercised over the drink traffic, Mr. McKenna said there was no con-troversy, but there arises a nice question as to whether the new law does not override the inter-Sinte commerce law and thus con-flict with general government regulations. A Pincher on the Traffic.

The remains of District Attorney Richard

H. Johnston were buried yesterday from St. Peter's Episcopal Church. At 11:30 o'clock the remains were placed on the first landing in the great rotunds at the Court House. As soon as the casket was opened an immense throng gathered and commenced to file past for a last look at the most brilliant and best-liked District Attorney this county has ever had. All classes and conditions came, from stern judges and proud men of wealth down to the poor and ragged. In the countenances of all were visible sorrow and regret that the great heart and brilliant intellect of "Dick" Johnston were stilled forever.

The casket remained in the rotunds until 1:50, a constant stream of people passing. At

The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Mackey, rector of the church. At the con-clusion the body was borne to the last resting place in Allegheny Cemetery. The interment was private.

A committee of five were there to represent the bar of Armstrong county, among them Ross Reynolds and Mr. Buffington. District Attorney Curtis H. Gregg represented Westmoreland county.

A VACATION FOR CAMERAS.

Gives Photographers Rest.

"If the camera survives the graduation period it is good for the rest of the year," jocosely remarked a Pittsburg photographer yesterday. The June siege is always very severe on that important factor in our business, though I am happy to say we came through the month nicely, in spite of the fact that pretty girls in pretty gowns taxed greatly our powers of photographic endurance. Graduating classes, though, make fine pictures, and there's considerable money in them, for each one of the class wants several pictures. The negatives of brides, bridal parties, sweet graduates or graduat-

was obtained of him at the time of his elec-tion. Pictures of Detective Gilkinson, too, have been largely in demand and it seems a sadly happy coincident that he should have had a sitting just previous to his sudder death."

Mr. McKenna agrees with many other peo gible May Yet Be Evolved. Mr. McKenna agrees with many other peo-ple that the law is a pincher on the liquor trade. essy, but in the last days of the Legislature, when liquor dealers had neglected to propitate certain people, a law was thrust forward and passed to punish them for neglect to come to the center and now the question as to whether people with good records shall be allowed to go on with their business or be subjected to heavy loss is left to the discretion of the Judge, who, if he, be of prohibition proclivities, may destroy the business altogether in any given locality. Mr. Mc-Kenna agrees with Messrs. Fetterman and Robb that the law is already operative, except as to the amount to be paid for license. Andrew Bryce, the temperance worker, simply observes that "the way of the transgressor is hard," and he doesn't seem inclined to shed tears over the tribulation of the men in the business he fights.

It is said the next License Court will be held by a Judge of Coumon Pleas No. 1 as the establishment of the Common Pleas No. 1 as the establishment of the Common Pleas No. 3 makes a break in the old arrangement of holding the Quarter Sessions. Mr. Robb said he thought likely that either Judge Collier or Judge Slagle would preside at next term. A lot of gleaners are at work gathering up the skeletons of the various railway booms that have agitated Neville Island for the past ten years. It appears that something tangible may be fabricated out of the wrecks. Since rapid transit has given population an impetus eastward, the Neville Islanders have suddenly realized that they are not in it, and now the idea of an electric railway grows hotter day by day. They have never been able to agree on what they want, as a whole, and it was supposed that after getting a bridge that would enable them to over come wind, tide and ice they would rest con of the gardeners on the island have more ground than they can work with profit, and as electric and cable railways, and especially 3-cent fare, have set every lover of suburban comfort in an eastward direction toward a section was tent and never again be heard from. But most People Take a Last Look-Buried From an eastward direction toward a section pos sessing fewer natural advantages than the westerly suburbs offer, the west realizes that it must get up and hustle if it expects to collar any of the advantages of the future.

Anxiety for an Electric Road. During some weeks past a quiet canvas has been made of public sentiment on the island, and it is found that some people there are so far gone on the project that they would take some stock in an electric railway. They realize, as J. W. Brown puts it, that with the Ohio dry one-half the year, below the dam, and frozen the other half, it is an unreliable highway for people who want to use it almost daily. They also reason that all the garden stuff on the island might be hauled on electric freight cars during the night, and be put in the Diamond market house at any hour needed before daybreak; further, they know that if a bridge connected the island at the lower end with the mainland it would get much passenger traffic from there and from McKee's Rocks, unless the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railway Company got on its mettle and put on more trains, and to force this consummation would be worth considerable sacrifice. There is much complaint from patrons that the business of the road has again so increased that workmen living along the fine cannot make connections with certainty either morning or evening. A mechanic, who thought to make himself comfortable for life, bought one of the prettiest sites in Ivanhoe last season and expended a considerable sum of money in beautifying his purchase. His work is at night, and of late he finds that unless he comes to the city some time during the afternoon, hours before going on duty, he cannot hold his position, as the evening train that should reach here about 6:30 o'clock is frequently from 30 minutes to an hour late. He is now trying to sell the place, and his family are nearly heart-broken over the prospect of coming back to the city to live after having formed a strong attachment to their present surroundings.

Life Too Short for Horse Cars. has been made of public sentiment on the island, and it is found that some 150, a constant stream of people passing. At that hour the members of the bar gathered and filed across the street into St. Peter's Episcopal Church, where the family and friends had already arrived. Following the members of the bar came the Criminal Court officers in uniform. Behind them came the pallbearers carrying the remains. They were taken into the church, which was crowded to the doors, and the beautiful and impressive Episcopal funeral services were held.

Life Too Short for Horse Cars. Even from McKee's Rocks a person cannot get to the city between 7 and 9 o'clock r. M., except by horse carand payment of two fares, and through this method of conveyance though thought a great thing 25 years ago, it is though thought a great thing 25 years ago, it is more exasperating now than an ox omnibus could have been to our fathers. Life is too short now to spend riding in horse cars. The star of empire doesn't take its way westward now unless in the line of rapid transit, and the East End profits on account of the old fogyism of the West End.

The men who are agitating the building of an electric road down Neville Island are going about it very quietly so as not to excite opposition, as the eggs of all such enterprises have hitherto been added before those who would be benefited can settle down to incubation, and it is feared that unless the proposition be sprung full armed before the mossbacks get roused to opposition, that it will, as others were, be frayed like a politician's record before being put on exhibition so that it can attract capital. An argument used in its favor is that not a rod of grading would be necessary on the entire line, and that Mansfield people would be interested, as well as the Chartiers valley generally, in helping it along, as property in that direction is also under-priced for lack of better facilities to reach it. bridal parties, sweet graduates or graduating classes are always valuable.

"A negative never reaches the acme of value, though until the original has passed to the other shore. Then if the deceased is a prominent man or woman in public life, or very popular in social life, the negative becomes priceless, both to the friends of the dead and the late photographer. The late District Attorney Johnston must have been one of the most popular men in the city, judging from the enormous demand for his picture. Fortunately an excellent likeness was obtained of him at the time of his election. Pictures of Detective Glikinson, too, acilities to reach it.

Cushier. Designs and finishes not obtainable in any other stock in the city. We deal in nothing but the best grades of goods, yet our prices are lower than asked for inferior goods elsewhere. Our effects are artistle and always undertaken under guarantee. We are in a position to fit up all classes of residences, and we refer with pleasure to a majority of the finest residences in Pittsburg and Allegheny as to our ability to furnish something out of the common order at a minimum price. If you have gas fixtures too good to throw away we can alter them into electro-combination or straight electric effects, and can refinish them in any color with most pleasing results at very little cost. We are always glad to furnish special designs and special effects on application. As we deal exclusively in goods mentioned we can assure you better results than can be obtained elsewhere.
